Terrific Explosion Snuffs Out 21 Workmen's Lives In Pennsylvania Coal Mine

(By The Associated Press) PARNASSA, Pa., March 21—Twenty burned bodies tonight had been removed from the Kinloch mine, where an explosion occurred today. O. F. Taylor said he did not definitely know if all the 10 men still were in the mine or whether some of them had escaped. The 20 other men, he said, were rescued by way of an old entry five miles from the pit mouth. Some were badly gassed. The quiet of a summer-like day in the mining village of Kinloch, near here, was shattered shortly after the day shift of almost 300 men went to work. The coal conveyors were in motion while a cage carrier was taking men down the shaft. A faint rumble was heard work on the tippie. Many of the wives of miners, taking advantage of the fine weather, were busy hanging clothes in their back yards. Without warning came the deadly explosion. A rumble shook the earth over a wide radius. Then a street of flames came tipping up the shaft, setting fire to the tippie and wrecking the fan building. ZION CITY AUDITOR REFUSES TO RESIGN

Handwriting Expert Finds Kedington's Signature On "Pink Slip" Genuine

SALT LAKE CITY, March 21—A handwriting expert today declared the signature of Alvin Kedington, city auditor, on a "pink slip" for $4000, found in the recent attack on the city treasurer, was genuine. Kedington had held it was a forgery. Kedington declined to resign and the city commission instructed City Attorney Shirley P. Jones to confer with County Attorney John D. Rice in drawing up charges of misconduct against the auditor. The "disputed pink slip" figure prominently in the investigation of short-rent revealed shortly before Beavers today was found in the possession of Ernest J. Colvin, city dog tax collector. Beavers was murdered a corner's jury decision.

Admits Personal Loan

Kedington admitted to Mayor Bowman that he had made a "personal loan" from Beavers for $400. When told of the $4000 loan, Kedington said it must have been raised and when he saw it he branded it a forgery. District Judges today ordered a grand jury investigation of the debt and the shortage, which special auditors estimate at $100,000 or more. Beavers' body was discovered in a chair in Colvin's apartment soon after the city officials had been informed that auditors had found an $18,000 shortage in Beavers' account. An inquest revealed that he had been in company with Colvin and R. N. Young, former city treasurer and secretary of the Beavers Lumber community chest. McLarnin-Miller Battle Will Lure 21,000 Fans to Garden

Wast Throng Turns Interest to Fight In New York Arena

Odds Favor Celt in Return Match Because of Weight Advantage Over Chicago's Confident Ring Warrior

By EDWARD J. NEIL. (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, March 21.—The thrills and dramatic possibilities hidden in the little frames of two youthful punchers, the Celtic Jimmy McLarnin and blonde Ray Miller, will lure close to 21,000 of the fight faithful to Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for a thorough testing of the ancient theory of a deadening left hook versus an eye-leveling right hand.

There is nothing new in the situation of the youngsters themselves. They debated the matter once before in Detroit. But there was a shock for ring fans when the curly-haired hooker from Chicago battered McLarnin so badly that "baby face" could not answer the bell for the eighth round.

McLarnin believes that he can whip Miller. The boy who knocked out Ed Terry, Phil McGraw, and Joe Chick in a round, says he will win all with just his left hand. Jimmy is more careful with his language, but thinks he should do much better tomorrow night if he avoids such a punch as the left that ripped a deep gash under his eye at the start of their previous tussle.

So skeptical of repetition is fight fandom that odds on McLarnin in the evening have actually lengthened from 6-5 to 7-5. The weight element had had something to do with that for McLarnin, at 140 pounds or better, will have an advantage of from six to eight pounds.

The possibility of two accurate and deadly hitters staining an even bloodier and more spectacular renewal of their first engagement has brought out a record demand for seats at a light-weight show.

Rain Adds Hazard To England's Race

Downpour Makes Course at Aintree More Difficult For Horses From America

AINTRIE, England, March 21 (AP)—Rain pouring all day long from leaden skies added a new and difficult hazard for Billy Barton and half a dozen other American-owned horses due to start in tomorrow's steeplechase events, the fog added to the discomforts of the crowds.

The weather materially affects American entries. Billy Barton still rules the race, but several hundred loyal Americans in Liverpool tonight, and would continue to carry their hopes and their money even if Aintree should be deluged. The judgment of some of the leading British racing experts, however, is that the heavy going favors neither Howard Bruce's horse nor J. H. Whitney's Eastern Hero.

Billy Barton and Eastern Hero admittedly are among the finest steeplechasers ever seen in this old horse racing country, and today's turn of the weather will handicap either in as much as it will the American stars.

CHIEFTAIN OF REBEL FORCES BRANDS GIL CALLES' ASSISTANT

Chief Executive Unable Even to Name Doorman Without Consent of Secretary of War, Says Poe

(By The Associated Press)
JUAZREZ, Chihuahua, March 21 (AP)—The revolutionary chieftain came within a stone's throw of the regime of President Portes Gil was the policy enunciated today by General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commander-in-chief of Mexico's rebellious movement.

In a special train under guard of 200 soldiers, the revolutionary chieftain came within a stone's throw of the Rio Grande to the rebel stronghold of Juarez.

President Portes Gil is a mere clerk, he declared, in the hands of Calles. The president, General Escobar said, was unable to name even a single doorman without the approval of the former president, who as secretary of war is the generalissimo of the government's main army waging the campaign to conquer the rebellion.

"We will not expect to make peace with the Calles government and will attempt to make any of the rebel commander announced.

MEXICO CITY, March 21 (AP)—The government today announced that 6000 troops were being detached at once to move against the rebel threat in the north.

The announcement implied that the government considers the latest rebel activity serious.

"Rebels" (the so-called religious rebels) are numerous in the state of Jalisco around Guadalupe. Destruction of track and bridges on the Sonora-Pacific-of-Mexico west of Guadalupe might delay troop movements indefinitely.

General Jesus M. Aguirre, principal rebel leader in the now crushed Vera Cruz uprising, was executed at 7:00 A. M. today after court martial at Llaneros, near where he was captured yesterday.

General Manuel M. Acosta, the federal commander who had relentlessly hunted him down for two weeks through the mountains and jungle, informed the capital today that the rebel leader had paid with his life. The body of the once trusted and courageous general will be sent to his wife here.

Twenty women started with supplying rifles and ammunition to "rebels" in Jalisco will be sent to the La Trinitaria penal colony on the islands of the west coast of Bayarrit, exile of political and confirmed criminals, the department of the interior announced.

REBEL TROOPS MOVE

NOGALES, Ariz., March 21 (AP)—The rebel army under General Faustino Topete, preparing to attack the federal border city of Naco, Sonora, this afternoon was at Del Rio, approximately 25 miles south of the objective, according to a statement made by General Francisco Borquez, commander of rebel troops at Nogales, Sonora.

From Naco came word that there was no sign of the threatening rebel attack nor the 2000 revolutionary troops which were supposed to be advancing on the city.

Dispatches from the revolutionary headquarters of General Francisco Manzo at El Potrero, Sinaloa, indicated the rebel troops would not reach the outskirts of Mazatlan before late today.

Earlier advice from Mexico City had indicated that the Mazatlan battle had already started.

First admissions of scarcity of arms and ammunition in the revolutionary camps came today with El Potrero reports that the further extension of the rebel cause had been stopped there.

RECEIVES OVATION

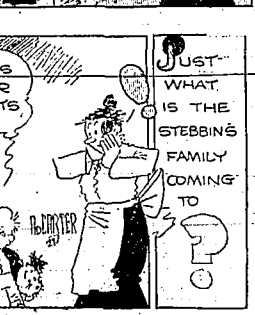

JUAZREZ, Chihuahua, March 21 (AP)—General J. Gonzalo Escobar, commander-in-chief of the Mexican revolutionists tonight received an ovation from a crowd of more than 1000 persons who paraded the streets of Juarez, shouting "viva" and singing the Mexican national anthem to the accompaniment of a band which led the parade.

General Escobar has refused to announce the time of his departure to Juarez, where his troops are gathered.

"There are some federal sympathizers about," the general remarked with a smile. "It is just as well they do not know my exact movements."

REBEL TROOPS HALTED

NACO, Sonora, March 21 (AP)—Rebel troops which have begun a movement to attack federal soldiers entrenched here, tonight were reported to have been halted at Santa Cruz 70 miles to the south, by the necessity of repairing a burned railway bridge. The location of the rebels, and of another attacking force, at Canatlan, 40 miles south of Naco, was fixed by soldiers in a federal scouting airplane.

TELEPHONE LINE DOWN

NACO, Sonora, March 21 (AP)—The only telephone line between here and Canatlan, running from here and southern railroad terminals in this sector, was reported "out of order" this afternoon. Telephone officials believed rebel troops now reported between the two cities, had cut the wires.

DENIES RUMOR

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—A report that Puebla in the state of that name and Guanajuato, both near Mexico City, had fallen into the hands of the Mexican rebels was denied tonight by Ambassador Underwood, in a telephone conversation with Under-Secretary J. Reuben Clark.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT ACTS

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—The treasury department has authorized customs officials at principal ports of entry on the Mexican border to examine all incoming individuals to determine whether they are carrying gold and silver—and to notify the Mexican government if any is found.

The treasury issued the order upon representation by the state department which is understood to have been asked to intervene by the Mexican embassy.

The United States government was informed that exportation of gold and silver is illegal by Mexican law and while there is no prohibition to the importation of such commodities in this country, the American customs officials have been instructed to do what they can to support the Mexican provision.

BIG AUDIENCE HEARS BURLEY-STAKE CHOIR

Presentation of Cantata, "The Messiah," Receives Tribute of Music Lovers

An appreciative audience of more than 600 persons listened with intense pleasure (freely expressed in applause to the splendid presentation of the wonderful cantata, "The Messiah," in the Easter oratorio, "The Lord of Life," by the Burley Stake choir of 80 voices at the Latter Day Saints recreation hall here last evening.

The soloists, Mrs. Viola Haycock and Mrs. Sue H. Christensen, soprano, Clovis Ferrin, bass and A. L. Hanks, tenor, and the pianist, Miss Evelyn Ferrin, were highly complimented by lovers of music, who joined this commendation with appreciative words for the splendid choir work displayed throughout the presentation.

Supernumerary W. W. Christianson of the Burley Stake, who explained the text of the parts in a final word of appreciation for the large attendance and for the pleasure manifested, took occasion to say that more than to any other individual thanks were due by the people of Burley to D. E. Johnson for the merit of undirring work spent in organizing the choir and bringing it to perfection; an honor, however, in which the pianist, Miss Ferrin, must largely share.

Nine Numbers
The first part of the cantata consisted of nine numbers, comprising the opening chorus, "Praise Ye Jehovah," Mrs. Blanche Pratt and choir; "Come Unto Me," Mrs. George Morris, Mrs. Pratt and choir; "He Came Into His Own," male quartette, recitative by Mr. Ferrin; "Now is the Judgment of the World," soprano recitative, Mrs. Haycock; "Behold Your King," choir; "When the King of Kings Came," Mr. Ferrin and choir; "Take Up Thy Cross," Mrs. Hanks and choir; "And When They Were Come," Mr. Hanks and male quartette.

The second part was composed of the following: "O Perfect-Life of Love," ladies three-part chorus; "And When Day First Dawned," Mr. Ferrin; "Pray Not Ye," choir; "He is Risen," Mrs. Pratt, Mrs. Ferrin and choir; "And As They Went," Mr. Ferrin; "Rise Gloriously."

He is one of the best men who ever occupied the position. I received his resignation yesterday. The board will meet some time next week at which time his resignation will be acted upon and accepted."

BORAH COMMENTS ON "WETS" OVERSIGHT

Idaho Senior Solon Points to Defect in Form of Constitutional Amendment

WASHINGTON, March 21 (AP)—Chucking at what he considers was an oversight by the Senate, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, "dry" leader, today pointed out a defect in the form of the Eighteenth amendment, which he believed might one time have been used to advantage in an attack upon the constitutionality of that amendment.

Senator Borah disclosed 10 years after the amendment has become operative, that he believed the provision in the amendment limiting the constitutionality of the amendment might have been seriously questioned because it attempted to lay down a rule not expressed by the constitution for the ratification.

Too Late Now
Borah contented with a smile, however, that it is too late for the "wets" to raise this point. He said it was about the only point that has not been raised by the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment and, in his opinion, the only one which ever had a chance of success. The supreme court has overruled all other attacks upon the "dry" law.

The discussion was raised today as a result of an argument in the Rhode Island legislature that the Eighteenth amendment was unconstitutional, because it was not submitted to the vote of the people in constitutional conventions. Senator Borah and other constitutional lawyers in the senate take little stock in that contention. Borah said it is "legally unsound."

Terrific Blast-Blast Snuffs Out 21 Workmen's Lives in Pennsylvania

As if by the hands of an unseen giant and windows through the village were shattered.

Officials rushed about, gathering volunteer rescue crews. Men, women and children gathered at the drift pile stock in confusion. Others came and starting with wide eyes at the black pit, behind which their men folk were seen toiling desperately. From nearby towns rushed to the scene and trained their hoses on the flaming pit. State troopers and highway police established lines several hundred feet back from the shaft mouth.

Experts Take Command
The work of rescue was started when state mine inspectors and experts of the United States bureau of mines, Pittsburgh, arrived with the special trucks. George McCann, bureau safety expert, took command, and within a very short time had crews of men ready to go down.

An emergency hospital was established near the mouth of the workings. Here, Red Cross nurses and doctors set up beds and prepared to care for any bleeding first aid.

In another building the Salvation Army set up a canteen and served sandwiches and hot cocoa to rescue workers.

REPAIRMENT EXPERTS CONTINUE PROGRESS

New Plan Sets Irreducible Minimum Acceptable to Germany's Creditors

PARIS, March 21 (AP)—One billion seven hundred and fifty million marks approximately, $320,000,000, is the minimum that Germany's creditors will accept as her first installment under any new reparations plan, it was announced today.

Experts representing the Allied nations today reached this definite point in the long negotiations leading up to the final settlement of the reparations problem, which was first formed Dr. Schacht, chief of the German delegation.

Tonight Dr. Schacht left for Berlin with a reduction of 700,000,000 to 800,000,000 gold marks over present amount as an inducement to the German government and German financiers to come quickly to terms with their Allied creditors.

There were other conditions, notably reduction of the amounts payable in subsequent years and the number of payments.

Dr. Schacht has received nothing resembling an ultimatum, but his associates of the Allied countries, who always have found him open to fine discussion of every aspect of the reparations problem, have made it plain that Germany's creditors have gone to the limit of their patience, relatively convenient terms of payment.

Dr. Schacht will consult with members of his government, heads of banks and important industrialists, and will return here for the plenary session of the second Dawes committee Monday afternoon.

BERLIN, March 21 (AP)—Vladimir Shvachik, former conductor of the San Francisco and Syracuse, New York orchestras, has assumed charge of the Berlin symphony orchestra.

Shvachik is the first American to head the Berlin symphony.

They believed the explosion was caused by a runaway car being dropped into the mine. The car got away, they said, and they believed the opening created a spark and set off a big packet of gas.

Many women, hatless, and in many instances without coats, stood in the rain tonight watching the pit mouth and hoping against hope that the rescuers would find their loved ones safe.

First Royal Wedding in Oslo in 340 Years Unites Two Reigning Families

CROWN PRINCE OLOF OF NORWAY MARRIES SWEDISH PRINCESS

Bishop in Special Sermon Declares in Many Ways Future of Two Countries Rests Upon Young Couple

(By The Associated Press) OSLO, March 21—The first royal wedding here in 340 years today united the reigning families of Norway and Sweden, neighbors of the Scandinavian peninsula who have shared the same king in the past. Crown Prince Olof of Norway, took as his bride Princess Marthe of Sweden, amid festival gaiety of throngs of their future subjects.

The couple entrained tonight for their honeymoon.

The old church of Our Holy Saviour was "filled to its utmost capacity" for the comparatively simple service. The bright uniforms and decorations of officers and chaplains and the processions of ladies brightened the austerity of the edifice.

Prince Olof wore the uniform of a lieutenant and he and the Duke of York, his best man, who was in naval dress, wore the highest Norwegian and Swedish decorations.

Wears Gown of Silver

The princess wore a gown of silver with a long train and on her head was a new diamond given by the city of Stockholm. Before the bishop of Oslo, Johan Lunde, began the Lutheran ritual, a chorus of Swedish students sang a farewell to their princess.

Handsome Prince Carl, in the light blue uniform of a cavalry general, when he led his daughter to the right hand of the bridegroom held her hand a moment, and then kissed it while tears streamed down his face.

The bishop in his special sermon declared that in many ways the future of both lands rested upon the young couple.

"When storms and sorrow come they have their purpose in every home, but they will be slough when the love is at home," said the churchman, perhaps in appreciation of the notable part played by his daughter in this state wedding. He thrust their hands in wedlock "until death separates you."

The recessional moved amid the shouts of a hail-like chorus, which was caught up by the crowd of spectators outside the church.

Theatre

"The Lawless Legion" Will Show at Orpheum

Natural scenery and backgrounds for making Western pictures abound in California. There are vast tracts of land on which trees, mesquite brush, stretches of desert and long, rolling hills, are to be found. It is the ideal place for the making of these pictures.

One of the latest to be there is "The Lawless Legion," starring Ken Maynard, which comes to the Orpheum theatre today.

This picture was made on three different ranches, with the majority of the scenes on the vast La Agona place. Others were the old Laake ranch, near the First National studio, in Burbank. On the latter, one may find any kind of scenic background for outdoor pictures desired. The country is wild and natural—yet easily accessible.

"The Lawless Legion" is an original story by Bennett Cohen, and tells the tale of the great drought in Texas in the '20s and the cattle thieves.

The supporting cast includes Nora Lane, Paul Hurst, J. P. Mcowan and Frank Rice.

greeted a mystery play here, than was given the talking picture which Warner brothers, introducers of talking pictures to the world, consider their greatest.

Viaphone is used for absolutely all words spoken in the piece. There is, of course, the symphonic accompaniment and in addition every sound that goes with the shivery, panting course of the play is reproduced with astonishing vividness—rain, wind, whisper, shriek, crackle of flames, and a host of other sounds.

"The Terror" is a Harvey Gates adaptation of Edgar Wallace's great London stage hit. It was directed by Roy Del Ruth. The cast includes May McAvoy, Louise Fazenda, Edward Everett-Holt, Alec B. Francis, Mathew Betz, Holmes Herbert, Otto Hoffman, Joseph W. Girard, John Miljan and Frank Austin.

"The Terror" is one of the cleverest mystery comedies ever concocted. It has to do with the pursuit of a band of bank robbers. The action centers in a world old English manor house and the prime actor is the hooded monster known as the Terror. If you are looking for your daily thrill you'll get it—with a thousand more for good measure—and as many laughs!

Unsatisfactory market prices is given as the reason for holding the beef cattle longer than usual.

The Line Rider Hopeful Bill Dare

By B. M. BOWER

It's getting along toward spring, and I don't need any calendar to tell me so. There's a different feeling in the air when I poke my head out of the camp ear mornings, and I find my thoughts running to things that I had thought much about before. The squirrels are out of their winter nests, chasing each other up and down the brown tree trunks and sitting on their tails at the end of some high limb making faces at me down below and saying things I wouldn't stand for a minute if they were my size.

The snow is going off the ground so fast that every little hollow is a puddle of clear, still water that reflects the treetops and the clouds and blue sky like pieces of a mirror some giant broke and threw away. There's one round pool lying out in the open by itself, that looks like a magnificent dewdrop left there ages ago when things were created on a grand scale. Or as if winter had dropped a tear on this high bush when he said goodbye.

The pine trees are alive with the busiest bluejays I ever saw in my life, and when I scatter biscuit crumbs in the open they come in flocks and take as much as they can carry off together in a flash. Kind of catatonia style, the way they eat. Grab it and go. You know what I mean.

I wonder why I'm staying on here. All I've been waiting for is a clear road to the highway, and now the snow is melting and the mud is getting dry and hard under the sun. Wouldn't take me more than twenty minutes to pack up and fill the radiator and drift off north- or south- to the way-er open. . . .

Of course, I'll go. I'm bound to, sooner or later. I never yet have settled down in one spot very long, though I've often thought I was going to, and planned a quiet life for myself with the days running along like beads on a string, and the work all smooth and well rounded and shiny, with nothing much to get excited over. But darn it, something always breaks the string.

When I stop to think it over I know that it's impossible to stand stillably still. You've heard it a million times, and the words have maybe lost all their meaning, but it's a fact that we have to go forward or back, and the man who tries to stand still is slipping backwards. I know I've got to go. Nature made me a drifter, I guess, and I can't be satisfied in one place very long. I want to see what people are doing and thinking farther along on the road. I'm always prospecting for friendships—and finding them, too, thank God.

"New friends" I make some new friends that I kinda like to part with. I've got a clump of feathery young pines over here a few rods that I'm going to miss like the dew on a spring. And that's one wide old bluejay with the shiniest shoulders I ever saw on a bird, that comes and sits around camp and talks about his neighbors something scandalous. And the squirrels—well, go ahead if you want to and say that the squirrels' nuts are the best I ever met!

Anyway, I'm going to be missed, and I don't suppose there's a soul in the country that could or would come in here and do my place. You can't tell me these things are just trees and animals and birds that don't know or care anything about human companionship. We need the sun, the sunlight, the same air to breathe, the same water to drink. Since all life revolves itself into the life of man, and the sun, the fire, water, earth, if you thing I don't know, we're all pretty closely related after all. And

LOANS WAR TROPHIES

University of Idaho Gets Collection of Articles
For Memorial Gymnasium

MOSCOW, March 21 (Special to The News)—Ninety-three valuable World War trophies and other souvenirs of historic interest collected by Colonel L. V. Patch of Payette, Idaho, department commander of the American Legion, have been loaned to the University of Idaho for the trophy room of the new memorial gymnasium, erected to the memory of Idaho's military dead. Included in the trophies is the personal equipment used by Colonel Patch during the World War.

In expressing appreciation to the Idaho commander of the Legion in behalf of the university, President Frederick J. Kelly said: "These trophies will do much to perpetuate the spirit that we hope will permeate the memorial gymnasium. The sacrifice which was made in the war by those in whose name the memorial gymnasium is dedicated is difficult to keep alive in the minds of this busy generation, but such a trophy room will help to keep alive the memory of those who paid the sacrifice for the goal of many pilgrimages for those who cherish those memories."

German Bread Included
In addition to the colonel's personal equipment the collection contains rifle and machine guns acquired from the enemy. Colonel Patch has a loaf of bread which he found in a German officer's dugout after the occupants had been driven out. The Germans were about to partake of their meal of bread and coffee when the Americans entered. The bread is well preserved and illustrates a principal food of the German forces.

A French candlestick, wine decanter and blue vase, came from the ruins of the Ancienne chateau, oldest chateau in France. Colonel Patch acquired these trophies a few moments after the chateau had been leveled by German artillery fire. They are over 100 years old and bear the coat of arms of one of the royal families of France.

German trophies include saw-tooth bayonets, machine guns, an aviator's gas mask, taken from a fallen enemy by Colonel Patch, and a neck chain used to lead prisoners.

Supplementing the World War collection are numerous trophies acquired during Colonel Patch's participation in the Mexican war and in travels over Europe. Many are interesting relics from Italy, one a spoon from the ruins of Pompeii.

co-favorites to win the major league flags, but on the face of early returns, there is a distant tendency among the newspaper critics "swing-over to the Athletics in the forthcoming American league chase.

This drift may not last, nor may it be considered just yet as entirely representative, but it is so pronounced now to be overlooked.

Predictions that bloom in the spring some times wither by autumn.

As long as the natural Yankee power is on the field, apt to bust loose at any moment, the champions will, as the saying goes, "take a lot of beating."

There has not been any substantial shift in Wall Street views of the baseball race on the American league and four-club scramble in the National is anticipated by the "wise money."

Here's how the clubs are quoted:

The word from Paris is that neither boxer actually made this limit for the fight in which Plandner scored a 41-second knockout over Frankie Green, New York. Plandner, says the French critics, will fight hereafter on a bantam. Regardless of his weight, however, he retains a mighty wallop.

Roger W. Babson Emphasizes Great Need of Vocational Training Among Workers to Decrease Unemployment

BY ROGER W. BABSON
 BABSON PARK, Fla., March 21.—During the past few months I have repeatedly mentioned the fact that increasing rapid displacement of workers by improved machinery and labor-saving devices will eventually create a serious unemployment situation. That we are not now in such a situation is due to the recent sharp advance in almost all lines of industrial activity which has mostly absorbed the surplus workers for the present. When, however, business slackens its pace, even to a moderate degree, the problem will have to be met. Furthermore, the use of labor saving machinery will increase rather than diminish our future needs. This is more so because the foundation upon which good business and strong security markets now rests is the higher purchasing power of the workers. If we are organized effort to train and adjust men to new jobs when they lose their old ones through machinery, we are jeopardizing this purchasing power and inviting future business depression. The question is: Are we prepared to adjust the increasing number of "machine-made" jobless men into new jobs, mostly in new industries, with our present limited equipment of vocational schools and employment agencies?

Adult Education Essential.
 Most of the public vocational training aid and guidance work now being done is limited to the younger men and women, principally in high-school and other secondary schools. So far as it goes that is a splendid thing. Our boys and girls should be trained for some special line of work best fitted to them and offering the best opportunities. However, the time has come when our business training must consider the older men and women. It has often been said that "you can't teach an old dog new tricks." As machinery continues to throw more and more out of employment, however, the older men must either learn new trades or starve. Adult education both of vocational and general nature has received practically no attention from our public schools. In many communities courses are offered on a variety of subjects. But there is no standardization of instruction and no uniformity in its quality. For instance, there are numerous schools advertising to teach aviation, but only a few of them are considered really good. How many of them who want to enter aviation, either in the airplane factories or as a pilot, able to tell the good schools from the worthless ones? The federal and state governments should at least prepare and distribute recommended lists of training schools for this great new industry.

Should Train Old and Young.
 Furthermore, I see no reason why public schools and colleges, either general or vocational, should be limited to teaching young people. It may have been true in the old days that the main business of education was to prepare the young for their life work. Now, however, we face the problem of teaching many older men and women new and strange lines of work, owing to the changes that are being wrought in industry. Also, if we could see the greatest progress in these new industries, such as aviation and television, we must properly train for them. This can be done through public vocational training and guidance; through training schools established by the industry; through evening and night training systems in which labor, business and the government cooperate; through evening or night school under federal state and private control. Why should the public school be devoted entirely to young people when the needs of the older men are so great?

Consider for a moment the cases of two men whom we will call John and Joseph. John has dependents, and is forced to leave school after the grammar grades. He works steadily in a trade for 15 years. Let us suppose that he is a railroad employee. Suddenly he finds himself without a job because of improved labor saving equipment and efficiency which has characterized the railroads in the past 10 years. He has learned nothing but railroading, and he finds it extremely difficult to fit into another line of work because he is untrained for it. In other words, you cannot overnight make an old railroad employee into an efficient automobile mechanic or radio engineer, and yet figures show that during the past five years the railroads of this country have released 102,264 employees. There should be a public school for adults, either evening classes or special part time apprentice training schools under government control and supervision to train such men as John properly for some new line of work. The public school is the logical place to do this.

Specialized Training Needed.
 On the other hand, let us consider the case of Joseph. He has no dependents, and, therefore, is able to continue through high school and the state college. It costs the state and city $173 each each man as John properly for some new line of work. The public school is the logical place to do this.

sided that he ought to be considered, and that inquiry should be made in regard to him. This is what came of it.

It chanced one day as I walked in the forest, being much cast down, of a sudden I heard at a great distance the voice of one singing.

This caused me no little wonder, for indeed I knew of no man who dwelt therein and of few that ever came to this place, save myself only.

And so I passed that, to be sure.

And, as I listened, a strange thing happened: for whereas the who sang made but little of it and was but a sorry master, yet did his song fall upon my ears as the gentle rain in a desert place.

And so I made haste to draw nigh.

II

The way was not easy, for it took me some distance from the accustomed path and was much overgrown; but, all the time, the voice continued, and brought me no little comfort.

At length, I came to where there was an open space, and there in the middle of it, sitting on a fallen tree, was a man, here nor to there, but within, and all tenderly washing the face of a dog from a pool at his feet, and he was singing.

He looked up as I came near and stopped; but, I, being eager that he should not, begged him to continue. "Sir," said I, "I know not what you sing, nor whether it be good music or bad, but this I know, that it brings me great comfort, and lifts a burden from my heart."

"Why, sir," he made answer, "this is strange; for indeed a little while ago I too was sick at heart and sore troubled. For a long time, sorrow has been coming upon me until it would appear as though all the waves of the Master must have passed over my head, and I was much forsaken."

"At length, I had nothing left to comfort me save only this little dog, and, that night he too made as though he would leave me, for a beast of the forest fell upon him and left him for dead."

"All night I watched by him, and this morning as the day was breaking, there was—ah I reckoned the matter—no more breath left in him. So I arose, and came out from my shelter yonder to this place, and stood and wailed."

"And as I wailed, of a sudden, I heard a voice behind me which said: 'Awake! Look up! for the kingdom is neither in here nor to there, but within, and all glorious; no tears are there, neither sorrow nor crying, for the former things are passed away.'"

"And as I stood, being sore amazed, a great warmth came in around my heart, and I decided to sing."

"I had never sung before, but that seemed to matter not at all, for the songs came. And, as I sang, behold the birds began to descend from the trees and to come towards me, and the conies came out from the rocks, and all the world made as though it would give ear."

"At last, my little dog came also. And his heart was healed, and his step was bounding as before, and my heart was lifted up, and I rejoiced greatly!"

III

At a certain point, I left him, and went my way. But whereas before my step had been heavy, now it was light, where my heart had been cast down, now it was lifted up; whereas before the valleys had been empty, now they stood so thick with corn that they laughed and sang.

The Open Window

By Hugh A. Studdert Kennedy

The other evening, as I was sitting by my open window "in between lights," watching a thin column of smoke from some burning leaves curl up into an amethyst sky, there fluted into my thought from nowhere this sentence: "The man who decided to sing." Ever since I entered upon this strange work of writing—now many years ago—it has been a source of wonder to me where ideas come from, and I have learned never to dismiss an idea out of hand. And so, on this occasion, although at first I was inclined to think that "The man who decided to sing" was there simply because of the rhythm of the sentence, in the end, as he still persisted I decided to write.

Relief From Constipation Of Conscience

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Oxidules has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Biop suffering from constipation, chew a Rexall Oxidule at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Wiley Drug Co.—adv.

MARKET FOR STOCKS STILL FLOUNDERING

Bulls Make Strenuous Effort to Retain Control But Nervousness Prevails

NEW YORK, March 21 (AP)—The stock market floundered again in extreme confusion today, as the bulls made strenuous efforts to retain control of the market, but were unable to overcome widespread nervousness over the outcome of the New York federal reserve district directors' meeting after the close.

The fact that no change was made in the rediscunt rate of 5 per cent was in line with expectations, as the Bank of England announced no change in its rate in the morning, but the reserve officials had a bitter pill for speculative Wall street to swallow in an announcement of an increase of 100,000,000 in the amount of the New York federal reserve district directors' meeting after the close.

Call Money at 8 Call money held at 9 per cent all day, having reached 10 yesterday, although New York banks were said to have withdrawn from $30,000,000 to $30,000,000.

General Motors, American Can and United States Steel were brought forward market leaders. Motors was bid up about 4 points to a new top at 31 1/2.

ANOMALY SEEN The confusion in the copper market caused by the violent upturn in the red metal prices inspired heavy profit-taking in copper shares.

THE GUMPS—HERE COMES THE BRIDE

COUNT LUCKNER THE Sea Devil

by LOWELL THOMAS Copyright by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

I thought now that, under cover of storm, we might shorten our voyage to the Atlantic by cutting through the channel between the Orkney Islands and the Shetlands. It was about to order the helm changed when the hurricane came down abruptly from the west to southeast. The change came so suddenly that the twisting winds nearly ripped our masts out by the roots...

It is in readiness for an event every day. He is supposedly looking forward with anticipation. And should hold memories when a woman sits over bygone years.

MARY GOLD dressed in ivory colored satin trimmed with gold lace. Her hair is styled in the latest fashion. Her gown is a masterpiece of design.

ANDY GUMP dressed in the latest with the best appetite and the best opinion of himself with best wishes.

more natural. Schmidt, get into your finery. Remember, from now on you are the shy 'Josefina' (Josephine), the captain's wife. If they put a prize crew aboard, we will capture the prize crew. If they suspect we are an auxiliary cruiser, bombs fore, midship, and aft, and we blow up the ship!

But that smell by Joe! The unexpected always happens to mar the best-laid plans—and help the worst. We had been running our motor full open. Because of the cargo of wood that sealed the deck, there had not been enough ventilation to get rid of the fumes. The characteristic reek of crude oil burning in a diesel engine seeped up through the deck's entrance—placed in my cabin, and everything smelled of it.

CULTURE TAKING BEGINS AMONG STUDENTS HERE

Taking of cultures of students in the junior high school, in order to isolate meningitis germ carriers should any be found, will begin today and will be completed Monday. It was announced yesterday by W. S. Smith, superintendent of Twin Falls schools, who stated that this would be followed by the taking of cultures of students in the high school. It was emphasized that this action is only part of the county-wide movement, and that no factors known there are no carriers of meningitis and no cases among the students of either the Twin Falls high or junior high schools.

"The fact that the test is being made to discover carriers of meningitis, should not be misunderstood," said Superintendent Smith. "We know of no case in either the high school or the junior high. The tests are being made in all the schools of the county at this time with the cooperation of the state can be secured."

"It has already been done in the Lincoln school here and in the Bull school. There is no cause whatever for alarm."

Prospects Not Good For Improved Potato Market

BURLEY, March 21 (Special to The News)—Prospects for much improvement in the potato market are not very good, local dealers say. At present, selected Russets are worth 75 to 85 cents on cars here, and though the market is extremely sluggish on white, the price may be quoted as around 50 cents. Estimates here vary as to the amount of potatoes left in the main potato growing districts of Idaho. The general belief seems to be that there are fully 5000 carloads left in the state.

Seed potatoes, according to information from the county agent's office, are being sold by local farmers at around $1.25 per hundred for certified Russets, low price.
