POSTAL DEPARTMENT TO BE REORGANIZED BY CABINET OFFICER

Postmaster General Brown Determined to Bring Department Nearer Paying Basis and Better Service

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 1.—The post office department is on the verge of a general reorganization which will include a large part of the administrative branches and extend on down through the entire post office.

Postmaster General Brown has determined not only to bring the post office nearer a paying basis but also to raise the standard of character and ability in the tremendous personnel of the postal service.

If the present plans of Mr. Brown are carried out and it is understood that he had submitted them to President Hoover and received from him the promise of hearty support, the only assistant postmaster general to remain will be W. Irving Glover, now second assistant in charge of air mail.

Will Eliminate Office First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett is to be replaced and the duties of that office so remodeled that instead of spending time settling personal disputes and studying postoffice sites the chief assistant postmaster general will be in the formation of policies and their execution. No one has been selected to succeed Mr. Bartlett.

The third assistant, Robert S. Regar, is to be replaced by a certified public accountant if one can be found who has what Mr. Brown terms "a knowledge of the broader phases of business." Mr. Regar under the present plans will be retained in the department in another capacity.

Mr. Brown completes his official family he intends to turn his office over to a group of men who will use scientific methods in the department, both in dealing with postal employees and in relations with the public.

When Mr. Brown completes his official family he intends to turn his office over to a group of men who will use scientific methods in the department, both in dealing with postal employees and in relations with the public.

CREDIT STRINGENCY SENDS PRICES DOWN

Call Money Rate Soars on Wall Street and Stocks Undergo Drastic Slumps

NEW YORK, April 1.—Call money went up and stock prices went down today as a fresh wave of hysteria swept through Wall street as a result of unfavorable credit developments over the three-day stock exchange holiday.

Search For Two Missing Children Under Way In Schools of South Idaho

BOISE, April 1.—A search of all schools in southern Idaho was launched today by the state superintendent of public instruction for two children, Griffith Payton, 7, and Grace (Tiny) Payton, 5, whose parents lost trace of them last fall while they were on their way to Idaho from Colorado Springs.

Request that the search be instituted was made by Elias S. Woodruff, president of the western states mission of the Latter Day Saints church in Colorado Springs. In his letter asking assistance, Mr. Woodruff said the children set their parents in Colorado Springs to travel with friends to Laramie, Wyoming, where they were to wait for their parents to pick them up and continue the journey.

The parents found it impossible to make the trip and when they sent to get the children they had disappeared. They were later heard of in a Wyoming lumber-camp, and are now believed to be attending school in southern Idaho, cared for by some family.

France Takes Death of American Ambassador Herrick as Own Loss and Will Pay High Tribute

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, April 1.—France has taken the death of American Ambassador Herrick as her own loss and will pay his body the same honors she pays to those of her own distinguished sons.

The ambassador's last home-going will be aboard the French liner, the pride of the French navy, the new swift cruiser Tourville, the premier of France, will pronounce the only oration over the dead and the French army will render the same honors accorded generals and marshals of France.

These honors spring from the sentiment of French people of all classes who had unbounded faith in Ambassador Herrick and loved him not only for his friendship to France but also for himself.

Funerals Will Pay Tribute The funeral services will begin Thursday morning it was decided today after Mrs. Farnley Herrick had talked with her husband in New York by wireless telephone. # Crack Hoopsters of 33 States go Through Final Workouts

Many Spectators at Practice Sessions In Huge Gymnasium

Six-Foot-Plus Giants of Texas Mingle With Little Players From Dakota to Form Strange Contrast

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, April 1.—Basketball sharpshooters from 33 states smacked balls against the backboard at Bartlett gymnasium for hours today in their final drill for the University of Chicago's eleventh annual national interscholastic tournament.

Although the championship struggle does not start until tomorrow morning, when Baton, New Mexico and Portsmouth, New Hampshire, meet, the gymnasium was almost packed with spectators desiring to see the teams practice.

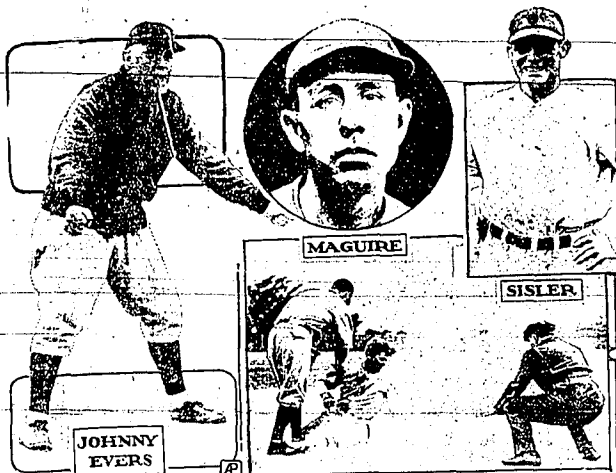

Big teams, like the Athens, Texas, outfit with six-foot-plus giants, mingled with tiny squads such as Valley City, North Dakota, a team that averages 145 pounds and has a 126-pound star forward. It was a setting of strange contrast.

Nevadans Cause Furore
Winnemucca, Nevada, caused somewhat of a furore today by demanding a police escort for protection from the station to the gymnasium. It was granted to the players, who arrived with their cowboy outfits and sombreros. Tomorrow's first round schedule calls for games every hour until 10 P. M. The opening game starts at 10 A. M. The other games in order, tomorrow are:

Wheeler, Mississippi, vs. Winnemucca, Nevada; Wheatland, Wyoming, vs. Jena, Miller City, Montana, vs. Newport News, Virginia; Granite, East Lake City, vs. Breckton, Massachusetts.

Pocatello's fast team, winner of the Idaho championship, is preparing to meet the powerful Cumberland, Kentucky, team Wednesday at 11 A. M.

40 Vandal Football Men Begin Practice

MOSCOW, April 1.—The spring football campaign began today at University of Idaho. Leo W. Callahan, new coach, who arrived Sunday from the University of Southern California, led the candidates for football honors to the field for a workout. Forty candidates reported.

Supplied with new equipment the men listened to a brief talk by the new mentor in which he outlined plans for spring training. Vandal gridlers will be given a month's work on the field this spring, Callahan said, to prepare them for the fall season.

Sportsmen Lay Cement In New Fish Hatchery

Members of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association finished cement work on the new hatchery Sunday. Plans for putting on the roof will be considered at a meeting tonight at the office of the president, Rex Thomas. Eggs for the trout in the old hatchery are expected this week.

The meeting this evening will be final plans for the presentation of the film of eight reels which will be shown Thursday night at the Latter Day Saints' recreation hall, at the corner of Fourth avenue and Second street south, illustrating the habits of fish and game in Idaho. This picture is said to be highly educational. It is presented free and all interested are invited to attend. R. E. Thomas, state game warden, will be present and explain the scenes. Several members of the local club will speak during brief intermissions.

SPORT SLANTS

BY ALAN J. GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 1.—Sufficient results are already in hand to make these points clear, so far as the advance verdict of the baseball experts is concerned:

1.—The Yankees will be favored to win the fourth straight flag by a landslide vote.

2.—The Cubs and Giants will be neck and neck for National league favorite with the chances that the six-man entry will be named by a slight plurality when the full returns are in.

Any early fears that the chances of the Yankees would be regarded with lukewarm enthusiasm have been entirely dissipated by the rush to pick the world's champion. The Athletics, after a brief early threat in the returns, being snuffed out. The Mackmen will be second choice but not without a threat from the votes of those who like the chances of the St. Louis Browns.

The early verdict, as indicated by the writer's selections, seems to be that the Cubs and Giants will have the National league race pretty much to themselves. The Cardinals and Pirates, picked as the other first division clubs, have lost a lot of their 1928 support.

This represents almost a complete switch of opinion, which last spring made the Pirates hot favorites with the Cards as the runner-up choice.

If spring training form counts for anything and it, seemingly, has, the Cubs and Giants will have the National league race pretty much to themselves. The Cardinals and Pirates, picked as the other first division clubs, have lost a lot of their 1928 support.

The bidder for a bout of 45 rounds (count 'em) between Mickey Walker and Tommy Loughran at Tijuana may not appreciate that the boys barely are able to get any action in 10 rounds nowadays.

In fact, exactly 30 rounds in three star bouts in Miami, New York and Chicago in the last few weeks have been less exciting than any one of several bouts fought in the days when 45 rounds—more was the thing. The only way the modern boxers might be persuaded to go on to 11, is that there would be a three-minute rest period between one-minute rounds.

EDEN, April 1.—Special to The News) Plans for the annual track and field meet participated in by the various grade schools of the First Segregation were made at a meeting held by the principals here at Eden last Thursday evening. The date selected for this annual event is May 4. The plans for holding the meet was not decided, but it is supposed that it will be held this year at Eden as the Hazelton school entertained the teams last year. In its choice of "The King of Kings" for the opening of the Orpheum theatre with synchronized sound and motion pictures on Easter day, Twin Falls amusement company made a decidedly popular move and launched the Orpheum well on its career in its new field.

With orchestra music and choral numbers which at once enhance the grandeur of a marvelous motion picture and are in themselves superb as they were presented through the new Cinescope equipment, "The King of Kings" makes a real hit event in the history of drama in Twin Falls. And the people of this region are manifesting their appreciation of the offering with audiences that fill the theatre at each performance.

The pictures and the music bring to the audience the story of the Savior's life, his tragic death and glorious resurrection. It is exceptionally told in a manner that commands the approval of every sect and creed.

The presentation here is to close Wednesday evening.

The State We Live In

By BYRON DEFENHACH

OUR FIRST 50 YEARS
The growth and development of a country is not a steady continuous process; it proceeds rather by a series of waves or impulses. These modest articles necessarily confine themselves to what slang calls the "high spots." The papers who are publishing them would not accept a medal of merit, for the very good reason that you would not read it. But every citizen of Idaho should have pride enough in his own country to carry in his mind at least a skeleton of the geography and history of the state.

The geographical high lights of Idaho are the five great rivers that flow from its high eastern borders to the land of the sunset. And as the physical structure of the state rests upon these five basic features, so is its history an elaboration of the geographical forms of progress. The first of these was discovered. Lewis and Clark went across the state's middle in 1805. In the next seven years Thompson had traversed the North, and Hunt the South.

Exploitation follows discovery; the newcomer takes off the cream. The fur-trade of Idaho was but a thin stratum of the country's resources, but it was the most obvious, the most easily possessed and converted. Our first fifty years, the second period of our development, were the years of the trapper and the hunter. Nor was this last form of our wealth, while perhaps comparatively small, by any means negligible. There must have been an enormous profusion of fur-bearing life in our country a hundred years ago. It is true that for some unknown reason the buffalo west of the divide were growing rapidly less before white men came; it is also true that deer and similar forms of game were less plentiful than now. But the furry folk, from beaver down, must have swarmed. Trappers swarmed too; at least a third of them died violently, or from exposure.

There was little of permanent growth. The Spaldings located at Lapwai; Father De Smet built his mission on the Coeur d'Alenes; the Mormon people came to the Lemhi; Fort Hall and Fort Boise were built only to be abandoned. The Oregon Trail echoed one day with the song of the emigrant, and the BURLEY, April 1 (Special to The News)—A good road from Strevell to the borders of the Mindoka tract is reported by C. A. Miller, of Strevell. From the Idaho line to a distance of about 12 miles into Utah, the highway has been graded and gravelled, and Miller says it is proposed to continue grading and surfacing this highway through to Snowville at once. He states that three layers of gravel were spread on the Utah stretch of new highway last fall, and that each layer was rolled.

The entire length of the highway through Box Elder county is well graded and exceptionally wide, he says, and with its surfacing through to Snowville there will be an excellent travelled highway opening up communication between southern Idaho and northern Utah that will be kept in good condition for travel at all seasons. The road is now in good traveling condition between Declo and Utah points except for three miles of sloppy road at Blue creek, he asserts.

Powerful Situations in New Griffith Sound Film

There was nothing left in life for her—her home was broken up—the world had been unfaithful—and so she tattered nearer and nearer to the roof's edge—only an act of Providence could save her.

This is one of the most dramatic situations in D. W. Griffith's "The Battle of the Sexes," which comes to the Idaho theatre this afternoon.

Portraying the role of a deserted mother, Belle Bennett has one of the most powerful roles of her career. As Judson, the head of a family, Jean Herschell gives a striking character portrait of a middle-aged man who becomes enmeshed in the toils of a modern vampire—the vampire being played by Phyllis Haver. Sally O'Neil and Don Alvarado are members of the all-featured cast of "The Battle of the Sexes," which was photographed at the United Artists Studios.

A specially prepared sound accompaniment is a feature of the presentation of "The Battle of the Sexes" at the Idaho theatre. The musical score and sound effects personally devised by Hugo Rosenfeld, celebrated composer and conductor, formerly musical director for the Criterion, Rialto and Rivoli theatres in New York City, are given by the Rosenfeld orchestra. Perfect synchronization between action and sound is achieved throughout the entire exhibition.

18 Star Players Appear in "King of Kings" Cast

It is believed by most directors that they have the makings of a picture when they have obtained the cooperation of three first-rate players, but Cecil De Mille, in filming "The King of Kings," was obliged to look for at least sixteen players of stellar quality, so varied in character and treatment are the scenes and so many figures in turn become important in the story. Here are the 18 leading roles:

Jesus, H. B. Warner; Madonna, Dorothy Cumming; Magdalene, Jacqueline Logan; Caiaphas, Leopold Schildkraut; Judas, Joseph Schildkraut; Peter Ernt; Torrence; Pontius Pilate, Victor Varconi; Barabbas, George Siegmann; Simon, William Boyd; Little Mark, Mickey Moore; Pharisee, Sam De Grasse; Malchus, Theodore Kosloff; John, Joseph Striker; Matthew, Robert Edison; Lazarus, Kenneth Thomson; Martha, Julia Fayer; Procula, Majel Coleman; Mary of Bethany, Florence Verity.

It may be urged that two or three of the above are only "bit" players, but that is not the case. Each of them has a role of vital importance. Thus Kenneth Thomson in the raising of Lazarus scene, Theodore Kosloff in the arrest of Jesus, Victor Varconi as Judas, George Siegmann as Barabbas, William Boyd as the bearer of the Cross, become absolutely essential to the climaxes. In other scenes they are just as important as players like the Schildkrauts, Torrence, the Misses Cumming, Logan and others who are active in practically the entire continuity.

"The King of Kings" will be shown at the Opticum theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday. You can't afford to miss this, the greatest screen production ever made.

PROTECT YOURSELF NOW AGAINST A RISING RUBBER MARKET

General's reputation for never tampering with quality has stood the test of every rise in the price of crude rubber. Car owners will remember even when rubber prices soared to their highest levels General came out publicly against the widespread use of reclaimed rubber in tires. Today the industry again faces a rising rubber market and again the temptation grows for the reclaimed rubber users to increase their percent of reclaimed in an effort to beat the rising cost of crude rubber.

When even a tire of cheapened quality will cost much more than the General Tire costs today.

The big saving to General, the outstanding sales gains each year, is convincing evidence of the confidence car owners throughout the country have in General's policy of Top-Quality manufacture.
