WILBUR ADVISES OIL BARONS OF ADVERSE MITCHELL'S OPINION

Secretary of Interior Informs Petroleum Institute Department Can Not Approve of Curtailment

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 3.—Secretary Wilbur today told the American Petroleum Institute today that under a ruling of the attorney general the federal oil conservation law had not authority to approve the institute's proposed curtailment of production for 1929 to the 1928 level, but added that the bureau was in agreement with the move to conserve natural oil resources and would be as helpful as the law permitted.

At the conclusion of the session the institute representatives indicated they would make other plans to secure legislation for approval of the curtailment.

The institute representatives indicated they were sympathetic to the conservation movement and that the "sympathetic attitude of the secretary" had been a relief to them.

It is the intention of the institute, he said, to continue the study of the program and put it into effect wherever possible through the assistance of state authorities.

C. B. Ames, general counsel of the Texas Petroleum and a representative of the institute, informed the board that the opinion of the attorney general's department is that the curtailment of production is not in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Well Within Law. "Such a ruling," Ames said, "has never occurred in any of our states and is not well within the law in our opinion and the suggestion of the attorney general is a deplorable one."

In concluding his opinion the attorney general had declared that the proposed curtailment is not in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Mr. Ames suggested that the board take the proposal of the institute and submit it to President Hoover with any recommendations it may wish to make.

Secretary Wilbur said he wished it understood that the opinion of the institute's representatives be held as a plea for an "immunity" but as an "honest effort on the part of the oil industry."

WHEAT RUST FORMS DIFFICULT PROBLEM

Government Pathologists Isolate 52 Strains of Highly Destructive Pest

WASHINGTON, April 2 (AP)—An enemy that puts soldiers into the field clad alike but each with a different mode of attack opposes scientists in their battle against stem rust, most destructive pest of wheat.

In the laboratories of government plant pathologists, the struggle to combat wheat's most voracious enemy never ends. Ten years ago, less than 30 strains were known, but now 52 have been isolated.

Each year the federal rust research project directed by Dr. H. H. Humphrey, principal pathologist in charge of cereal rust investigations, adds some more known varieties.

The constant danger lies in the fact that a variety of wheat which is rust-resistant today may fall prey tomorrow to a new strain of the blight.

The new types, known to specialists as physiologic forms, may originate through hybridization, mutation, or through some yet undiscovered process.

Uniform wheat and oat rust nurseries are maintained at 20 stations in 20 states. The nurseries contain 30 to 40 varieties of wheat and 24 to 30 varieties of oats, some of which are susceptible to certain physiologic forms of rust, but resistant to others.

Specimens of rusted wheat and oats are sent from the nurseries to University farm, St. Paul, where, under the direction of Dr. E. C. Blakman, pathologist in immediate charge of stem rust investigations, the various physiologic forms are separated and identified during the fall and winter. The work of separation is conducted in the experiment station greenhouses.

He said that both the infantry and cavalry were repulsed and that the federals took up the offensive again, turning the repulse into a rout.

The rebel forces met a detachment of 200 federals under general Benigno Serrano and Jesus Garcia who had been cut off from the main federal army the day before.

Despite the superior number of the enemy, Serrano and Garcia attacked them and, according to General Almanzan's report, took 106 prisoners among whom were General Federico Barrera and several colonels.

General Almanzan said that federal losses were "very few" and that the exact number would be announced as soon as a check had been made.

Whether the rebel army will be completely dispersed or forced to make a stand before reaching a favorable defensive location, depends on the ability of a flying column of federal cavalry to overtake it. This cavalry, accompanied by a battery of field artillery, is expected to arrive shortly before noon today.

As additional reports of the battle drifted in this evening, it became apparent that the fight was bitter and the loss of life heavy. General Almanzan claimed that the rebels' casualties would total 100, including killed, captured and dispersed.

of life, the crisis would be headed off. The league's economic committee recently declared that the crisis in the sugar industry is essentially one of lack of equilibrium between production and consumption. The committee was opposed to any action which would check the natural development of production or the increasing expansion resulting from the free play of economic forces. It believed, however, that the development of world production is partly the result of artificial measures for which states are mainly responsible.

At the meeting of experts tomorrow Cuba will be represented by Luis Marino Perez, commercial attaché at Washington. Other experts include E. J. Schuchman, Germany; Lucien Bessin, Belgium; M. Hecuber, France; and J. H. Hartman, Czechoslovakia.

as utterances from the White House.

"The president can speak for himself," the secretary had concluded.

After the secretary had concluded his remarks before the house committee, Representative Aswell, Louisiana, the senior Democratic member, said that as far as he himself was concerned, he proposed to go the whole limit to support you and President Hoover in carrying out the farm program you have so ably presented."

Would Utilize Organizations

Before the senate committee, Mr. Hyde contended that the proposed farm board ought to use existing farm organizations as much as possible.

"We want to build up the farmers themselves to control their produce, not to build up bureaucracy," he said. He was questioned closely by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, to what should take the place of the equalization fee. The secretary replied that he knew of no substitute.

The cost of taking away surplus and maintaining a higher and more constant price level, he held, should be borne by the government, although he said the details of this problem was the work of congress to decide.

ASKED how the proposed marketing surplus should be solved, the secretary replied that this was for the farm board to figure out.

The motor he will install will be a Wright J-6 of 225 horse power capable of pushing the monoplane at a flying speed of nearly 150 miles per hour. "This, he believes, will cut his actual flying time down to 24 or 25 hours and leave him a safety cruise margin of 1000 miles."

GOOD POSSIBILITIES

Use of some acreage in the Twin Falls country for production of small fruits and vegetables may be depended upon to enhance the value of the lands very materially and to contribute handsomely to the annual income of the region.

Such an observation would be worse than useless unless there were provided at the same time incentives for preservation of the product, such as canneries, evaporating plants and cold storage warehouses.

POWERFUL TRUSTS

This is the institution known as "investment trust," using the word "investment" in the same sense as the investment holders of money to operate in the investment market.

A Washington Bystander

WASHINGTON, April 3 (AP)—President Hoover's nation that General Dawes would make a very interesting ambassador in London has interesting possibilities.

Dawes is one of the most colorful figures in American public life. He is and always has been a fighter. Aside from his disappointment at failing to achieve the presidential nomination of his party, his greatest assault on the general long-winded filibustering habit is about his only failure as a go-getter in recent times.

Should General Dawes accept the London post, it is to be expected that he would do so only after catching sight of some definite diplomatic accomplishment that was reasonably high in degree to achieve.

It would not be in keeping with his usual policy to accept the London post for routine ambassadorial duties; the job he might derive from diplomatic social contacts in London and the pleasure of suburban congression it is given at court functions, a custom established by the late Colonel George Harvey. It is doubtful anyhow just how he would come to the Dawes' style of beauty short pants would be.

STOP THE FAT AND GET THIN

It is the only diet in the world that produces slenderness in the grass, but the Nova Scotia estuaries are rocky and largely free from silt.

Another thing that impressed me, so far as the city of Twin Falls is concerned is the fact that it is far enough from Boise, Pocatello and Salt Lake City, so that it will become the trading center of a great section, without entering into competition with the other cities."

Basketball Champions of Idaho Remain in National Contests by Victory Over Maryland Champs

CHICAGO, April 3.—Granite high basketball team of Fall Lake City went down to defeat before the fast Classen high of Oklahoma City in a tussle that carried into double overtime tonight. The score was 26-23.

By ORLO L. ROBERTSON Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO, April 3.—Writing history may not be the profession of the former folk from Jules, Colorado. Five boys from the Granite high school hooped on the fringe of the Rocky mountains wrote a chapter in the national high school basketball tournament annals today.

The quintet, making up the regular personnel of the Colorado state champions, qualified for the second round of play in the national tournament at the University of Chicago. It was not so much the victory as the honor in which the five youths from the farm accomplished the feat that stamped them as history writers. Delaware, Ohio champions, was Joe's opponent, but the Easterner might as well have been sitting on the bench as having the fast Colorado boys was concerned. The fact that it was their first big time game and that basketball was unknown to Jules less than two years ago. But to the five boys who walked 30 miles that they might catch a train to Chicago and compete in national high school basketball honors.

They passed, dribbled and shot with the coolness and precision of a professional team until the end of the first half. Pocatello registered another victory over Cumberland, Maryland, 34 to 30, while the South counted two more wins in College Grove, Tennessee, 20 to 19 defeat of Moorhead, Minnesota, and Wheeling, West Virginia, 41 to 35 victory over Dear, Alabama.

Fate in the drawings that placed the two great Southwest teams—Athens, Texas, and Central Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, together in the second round resulted in Athens going into the third round, winning 24 to 16. Naugatuck, Connecticut, alone remained of the Eastern entries. Bristol, Connecticut, fell before the tight defense of Yankton, South Dakota, 25 to 14, while Naugatuck came through in its game with Newport News, Virginia, 38 to 32.

Chicago's last hope of winning a national event clinching as Crown Point, Ind. Warren, Arkansas, 30 to 30. The middleweight found a little better than the first day, scored a comfortable margin, into the second round after the Michigan champions had defeated Columbia, South Carolina, 27 to 24, in an exciting game.

Maloney Receives Hand at Sacramento

"Mike" Maloney, redoubtable member of the Pacific League Twin Falls Bruins for two seasons, was pelted with abuse by members of the California state legislature upon his appearance in Sacramento on Tuesday last week as second baseman on the Hollywood team.

Here is the story as it was sent over the wire from Sacramento to the San Francisco Chronicle.

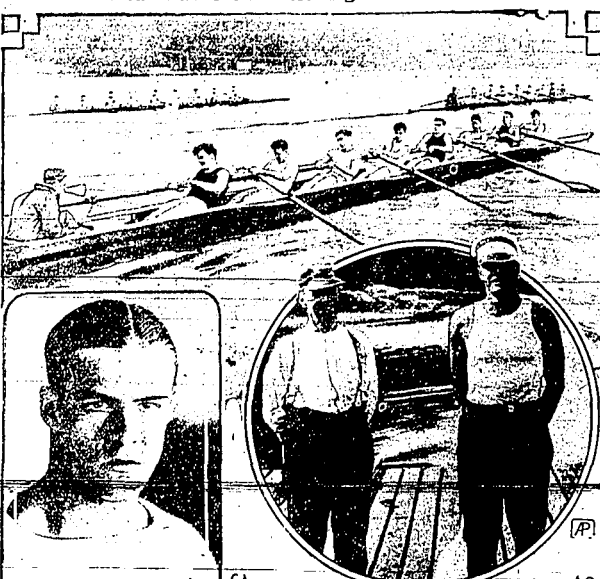

It was Maloney's day at the Sacramento baseball park, as far as the members of the state legislature were concerned this afternoon. "Mike" Maloney, San Francisco, brother of Senator Tommy Maloney, one of the most popular of the lawmakers, made his debut as second baseman on the Hollywood team, and although Sacramento won the opening contest, little "Mike" won all the applause from the legislators.

Prior to the game Maloney was pelted with two new hats and a couple by Charles Brennan on behalf of the San Francisco legislators, and members of the third house.

While Senator Talbot, Tubbs, and Lieutenant Governor Carnahan led the senatorial and assembly chieftains, little "Mike" responded by hitting out a single. He got another hit later on in the game and the lawmakers gave him another hit later on.

Corporal Pete Maloney of the San Francisco police department was on hand to Brother Tommy and his legislative colleagues in giving little "Mike" a good start.

Governor Young had his batting eye for the feature incident to the session's opening and set an example by hitting sharply at his one time at the bat. He also cheered a bit for the Maloneys.

SPORT SLANTS BY ALAN J. GOULD Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 3.—Any stray suspicion that May has existed over the history of professional baseball, they said last October, was wiped away by the second successive clean sweep by the New York Yankees in the world's series by the New York Yankees. It represented a great gain in prestige, but a substantial loss in fame receipts.

None it should be noted, the world's championships, so called, in professional hockey and basketball, also have been decided in the same abrupt fashion, at the consequent expense of the box office. The Bruins of Boston, won all five of the playoff games necessary to become the National Hockey League champion and American rivals on the ice. The Cleveland Ro-senblums of the American Basketball league, likewise polished off Fort Wayne in the championship series in four straight games.

The opponents of Percy Williams probably have realized it in a general way for some time, but it is now a matter of official record that the young Canadian holder of the Olympic record, from a previous summer, is a facility of accelerating his speed within three seconds from the start. His maximum speed, Dr. H. Best, London, has found as a result of tests, is 24 1/4 miles an hour.

Hank Russell, General Olympic star, the only other sprinter tested who attained a higher maximum speed than Williams, according to Dr. Best, but Russell's acceleration was not so rapid.

This comparison is not altogether satisfactory, Dr. Best explains, "since for the tests Russell was on an outdoor track and Williams, on an indoor track wearing short spikes, but the natural force of Williams' muscles is less than in any other prominent athlete tested."

There may be the basis of a lively argument as to whether the best of the professionals is so soft, tennis, football and soccer sports, but all bets are off when it comes to speed swimming. Just to prove it, Johnny Weismuller, now a professional, jumped into the pool at the New York Athletic club and swam the 100-yard race in 50 1/5 seconds. This is not only faster than the world record set by him last year, but 1 1/3 seconds better than the mark of the Amateur Athletic union 100 yard champion, Walter Lindner.

Jelly is still an enemy by himself in freestyle crawling, no matter what his status otherwise. But he seems to prefer freestyle swimming, and he is, in fact, the suggestion has been made that he may apply for re-instatement in the Amateur Athletic union. Which may be treated as good or bad news, according to the point of view.

The Detroit Tigers need not be completely discouraged by their inability to beat the Chicago Cubs. They were unable to do that even when they were winning pennants back in the old regime of Hughie Jennings. One tie game and one victory represented the accurate compensation for the Tigers in successive world's series battles in 1907 and 1908 with the Cubs of Frank Chance's era.

Grid Coach Shines In Berkeley Golf

Clinton W. Evans, Berkeley, assistant football coach at the University of California, and former director of athletics at Twin-Falls high school, is winning distinction as a golfer, according to this story in last Sunday's issue of the San Francisco Chronicle: When Clifty W. Evans, 740 Alameda-Berkeley, stepped up to the ninth tee of the Berkeley Country club Tuesday he elected to play the shot with a spoon. An easy swing and he watched the little ball sail down the fairway, bounce on the green a few feet from the pin, roll gracefully along and drop into the hole, 175 yards away. He at once became eligible for The Chronicle's Hole-in-One Club.

Playing with Evans at the time of his "hole" were "Buck" Mitchell, former man coach of the University of California; Bill Monahan, graduate athletic manager of the University of California, and Hal Swarton, director of the Berkeley Country club. Evans himself is assistant football coach at the university, and is champion of the Berkeley Country club. Other members of the club take Evans' feat with an air of resignation. "With four such athletes playing together, someone ought to hole out in one," mumbled one disgruntled member after missing a two foot putt.

Behind a silver medal given by The Chronicle, Evans will receive the following prizes from San Francisco merchants: A golf club, a series of golf tees, a cocktail shirt, a dinner for four—a year's membership—with dues paid and a dinner at the clubhouse when the Belle Mont Country club, a local party from the Embassy theatre, privilege of using the Chutes golf course and premiums from automobile dealer and a tire dealer.

Old Gold wins at Princeton in a test of the 4 leading cigarettes. PRINCETONIAN. The Daily Princetonian was asked by the P. Lorillard Company, makers of OLD GOLD cigarettes, to conduct a test at Princeton to determine which of the four widest-selling cigarettes had the greatest taste appeal. For the purposes of the test the four leading cigarettes were "masked" to conceal the brand names. Undergraduates were asked to smoke the four brands without knowing their identity. The cigarettes were numbered, and the men merely chose, by number, the one that appealed to them most. The test was made at eleven Princeton upper-class clubs and at the Freshman common room on January 11th to 16th. In all, 503 students smoked and compared the four cigarettes. The test was conducted in a perfectly fair and impartial manner. The results show that "Cigarette W" won 75 first choices; "Cigarette X" won 74; "Cigarette Y" won 36; and "Cigarette Z" (which was OLD GOLD) won 118. The preference for OLD GOLD was 57% greater than that for the next highest brand.

TWO SUSPECTS FACE WOOL THEFT CHARGE

Guy Tibbets, 23, and A. B. Larry, 43, Intercepted On Highway With Property

Accused of theft of two racks of wool valued at $100 from the Walter Carter farm, eight miles east of Twin Falls, on the night of last March 29, Guy Tibbets, 23, and Alfred B. Larry, 43, were arraigned in probate court here yesterday on grand larceny charges. They pleaded not guilty and were admitted to bond in the sum of $500 each to secure their appearance at preliminary hearing at 2 P. M. today. Bond was not furnished.

Grocers and Shippers of Perishable Products Receive Benefits of Law

Copies of the text of the produce agency law which became effective July 1, 1927, has been received here by a number of grocers and shippers of fruit and vegetables for whose protection it was enacted.

The produce agency act makes it a misdemeanor for a commission merchant or other agent, who receives perishable farm products in interstate commerce, on agreement to be sold for the account of the shipper, to fail to render a correct accounting for the sale of the produce or to make a false statement to the shipper regarding the handling of the consignment, knowingly and with intent to defraud, or to dump any of the produce without good and sufficient cause. Any grocer or shipper who has reason to believe that he has been defrauded in the return received for his consignment, in interstate commerce, may report the facts to the bureau of agricultural economics, department of agriculture, Washington, whereupon the bureau will investigate the complaint and take such steps as the facts warrant.

Solomon's Judgment Ends Sheep Dispute

SAINT-CIRGUES-DE-PRADES, France, April 4 (AP)—A new judgment of Solomon has reunited a sheep dispute over ownership of the animal. There is a community pasture here and the flocks of many herders often mingle. One herder, short of having his flock, accused another of having his flock. To settle the dispute, they went to the mayor, who ordered the two flocks brought to the pasture. The captured lamb was placed in plain sight and the disputed sheep ran to it and nursed it, the display of maternal instinct proving the contention of the first herder that the sheep was his.

New Dual Purpose Cow On Nevada Dairy Farm

RENO, Nev., April 4 (AP)—A new kind of dual purpose cow is appearing on the dairy farms of western Nevada. It is one that milks heavily, produces herself in one or two years, and at the same time paying a steady and prolific flow of milk to take her place. When, when just in her prime, she can be sold at a good price to dairymen who want rugged, high producing cows to be forced to even higher production for city milk supply. California has been such a good market for such cows that western Nevada has been unable to increase its daily population.

CASSIA SCHOOL TRUSTEES ESTABLISH ORGANIZATION

BURLEY, April 3 (Special to The News)—Rural school trustees of Cassia county, meeting here Saturday, formed the Cassia County School Trustees' organization. There were 12 districts represented, and sessions were held morning and afternoon. The purpose of the trustees' organization is to aid in school efficiency and in formulating school policies. The benefits of cooperative buying will also be important from a poultryman's standpoint. The organization is to be a permanent affair, and one or more regular meetings will be held each year. Officers elected were: Duane W. Cranney, Oakley, president, and the following four vice presidents from different districts: George Neddo, Malta; E. M. Anderson, Views; Ray McIntosh, Bush, and John Schoeder, Yale. Mrs. Marguerite M. Buchanan, county superintendent, is to act as secretary and treasurer.

Artichoke Found Source Of Both Paper and Sugar

PARIS, April 4 (AP)—The artichoke now is rated as a potential source of both paper and sugar. Dr. David J. Fennes, biologist, reported to the French Academy of Sciences that the stalk contains elements suitable for making pulp for high grades of paper. The sugar making possibilities recently were announced in the United States where laboratory experiments are under way to find whether the process is commercially feasible.

1928 PROFITS GUIDE FARMERS THIS YEAR

Report Indicates Increase in Corn, Oats, Barley, Rye, Sugar Beets and Beans

BOISE, April 3 (Special to The News)—Idaho farmers evidently intend to increase the acreage of those crops which proved money-makers last season, and reduce the acreage of those which showed up in the red last year. This information was furnished by over 700 farmers who reported the acreage harvested last year and the acreage they intended to plant this spring, according to the bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture, district of crop and livestock estimates. Further information compiled by the department follows: The feed grains, corn, oats, barley and rye—probably will go in an acreage increase than last year. The intended increase in acreage is as follows: corn, 30 per cent; oats, 10 per cent; barley, 25 per cent, and rye, 10 per cent. Spring wheat acreage may be reduced 10 per cent, which means it will be back to about normal. Considerable spring wheat was planted in the spring of 1928 because of the difficulty in planting winter wheat in the fall of 1927.

More Sugar Beets Likely

It is gratifying to note the proposed substantial increase in sugar beet acreage of 25 per cent over 1928. Some very excellent yields were secured in eastern Idaho last year, and with available information as to how to secure such high yields, there is no reason why Idaho should not lead all States in here yields as she did in 1928.

Warning to Bean Growers

The intensify survey indicates a possible increase of 50 per cent in the Idaho bean acreage. This would be equivalent to 123,000 acres. No one knows how the season will turn out, but if the yield this year equals the last five years average of 20 bushels per acre, a production of 2,460,000 bushels would result. This would exceed the previous highest production (1927) by 154,000 bushels. States competing with Idaho are planning to increase their acreage 25 per cent to 40 per cent.

Propose Potato Decrease

Idaho growers have steadily increased their potato acreage the last five years. In 1924 it was 65,000 acres and in 1928 102,000 acres were harvested. The proposed decrease of 25 per cent indicates 76,500 acres for 1929. This season may be better or worse than 1928, but if it equals the average for the past five years, a yield of 185 bushels per acre can be expected. This would produce 14,152,500 bushels, or about the same as 1926 of 10,188,000 bushels, which was the largest crop produced up to that year.

Jewish Holidays Cause Poultry Market Demand

NEW YORK, April 2 (AP)—Prices of live, heavy hens, weighing four pounds or more, have averaged highest on the New York City market during the month of March over a 16-year period. The Jewish holiday demand is the principal influencing factor, 85 per cent of the city's annual live poultry receipts being consumed by the Jewish kosher trade. Extra fancy quality birds, well fleshed and absolutely clear of all blemishes, are demanded. Jewish holidays in 1929, which are important from a poultryman's standpoint, are Purim, March 26; Passover, April 25-May 2; New Year, October 5; Fast of Gedaliah, October 9; Day of Atonement, October 14; Feast of Tabernacles, October 19-26, and Rejoicing of Law, October 27.

Poultrymen who get their stock on the market three or four days before each holiday date command the best prices.

RUTLEDGE OFFERS CATTLEMEN ADVICE

Business Methods and Not Principles of Old West, Must Guide Big Industry

SALT LAKE CITY, April 3.—Business principles and not the romantic methods of the old West, must be the guiding standard of the cattle industry if it is to show a balance on the right side of the ledger. H. H. Rutledge, Ogden, chief forester of the Intermountain district of the United States forest service, told Utah cattlemen here today.

Speaking before the annual convention of the Utah Cattle and Horse Growers' association, Mr. Rutledge warned his hearers that beef prices have noticeably risen as high as they can get without reducing consumption, and that more efficient operations must be depended upon to turn a loss into a profit. There was a time when we were harvesting the forage which nature through ages had been building up when with little expense or care we could gather from the ranges a product which came to an almost as easily as we had found it," he said. "That time is past, and we are living in an age when every business must stand or fall on the basis of the banker's practice of balancing the ledger. No one can long remain in business, for reasons of sentiment, or adventure alone.

"I believe the cattlemen are too inclined to hesitate at expense and care in their business. Costs are always relative, and those expenditures which give relatively greater returns are justified. I feel that the men in the cattle business need to follow the example of those in other industries, analyze each phase of production and marketing, in order that the business may be placed upon a more sound, economic footing.

"The fact of the matter is that you cannot separate production and selling. The profit in the business at any time is going to depend upon a production cost that is lower than the selling price for the product. Prices have now taken an upward trend and are probably as high as they can be expected to go. In fact, if they go much higher, people are going to let down on eating beef. Maintaining a profit in the cattle business is going to depend on more economical production, not necessarily increased production but more efficient production."

Mr. Rutledge declared that there is a great deal of room for increased efficiency in range cattle production in Utah and said "a great deal of it has to do with the range end of the game." He pointed out that call crop in Utah do not average better than 50 to 60 per cent, and suggested more range conditions, overstocking and insufficient range feed among the main causes of the low call crop. "The remedy to this is that 'conservative stocking pays,'" he said. "That means that the range should be moderately grazed and kept up in good condition all of the time. It is better to let a little feed go to waste in the average or better than average year so that there will be plenty of food the year around."

Poisonous plants are another cause of loss in Utah, the speaker added, and recommended that cattle be heeded off poisonous areas at the dangerous period. Further information as to the management of the ranges also is needed, he declared, and mentioned ranch organization, costs of livestock production, most satisfactory type and age of animals to produce, productive value of range lands and interrelationships between range lands and farm lands as some of the matters demanding investigation.

Announcing one of the most impressive casts that has been assembled in any Pathe picture, Renee Adoree is to portray the featured feminine role in "The Spicler," a story of carnival life, with music and dialogue which will be on view at the Orpheum theatre today. Alvin Hale, Clyde Cook and Fred Kohler also featured.

One of the outstanding personalities of the screen, Renee Adoree achieved sensational popularity through her portrayal of Melinda in "The Big Parade." "The Spicler" is an original story by Hal Conklin. It is said to be most dramatic and the suspense is heightened as being exceptionally fine in the new era of sound in pictures.

GENERAL SAYS BLISS WOULD CONTINUE WAR

French Soldier Author of Book Called "The Truth About the Armistice"

By G. LANGEAAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, April 3 (AP)—One general only on the side of the Allies was against signing the Armistice which ended the World war, and that was General Bliss, says General Mordacq, who was attached to M. Clemenceau's staff, in a book which he has just published. It is called "The Truth About the Armistice."

"General Bliss was of the opinion," states the French military writer, "that in spite of the state of exhaustion of the British and French armies, one could and ought to continue the struggle. Because the German army was even more exhausted and further, the American army, quite fresh, only asked to be allowed to fight on."

General Mordacq declares that while Clemenceau was afraid of headline news in the war has produced complete paralysis, the great French leaders, such as Joffre, Foch and Pétain, and the American army, quite fresh, only asked to be allowed to fight on.

General Mordacq declares that while Clemenceau was afraid of headline news in the war has produced complete paralysis, the great French leaders, such as Joffre, Foch and Pétain, and the American army, quite fresh, only asked to be allowed to fight on.

He has therefore left it incumbent on him to write the present work, the first of a series. In it he sets out to refute the assertion that the armistice was concluded because the better terms could have been obtained and that it was the only means of negotiating what understood only notice that of soldiers who understood all about war.

Germans Find in Nature Cure for Modern City Ills

By MARY HAINBRIDGE HAYDEN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BERLIN, April 3.—Doubt that the cold terms of modern city life has created a universal need for nature and natural surroundings is held here by a number of members of the Association of Architects and Engineers.

An increasing demand for gardens is declared at a recent public meeting of the Association, moved that the hurried business life and crowded living conditions of today are producing an inevitable reaction in a craving for more direct contact with the quiet and beauty of nature.

German city dwellers, long famous for their favorite pastime of making "Aussflüge" or excursions for long tramps into the country, now show a general tendency to develop gardens that will bring something of the outdoors into the city.

More and more people, living in both private homes and apartment houses, are insisting on having individual plots to be landscaped and planted with flowers or shrubs. Not only this, but architects are prescribing increasing demands that the surroundings and atmosphere of buildings be landscaped and planted, so that modern men may break the monotony of city life.

"This is regarded by some as an evidence that in the midst of the abnormal life of today there is an unconscious realization that some return to more normal surroundings must be found as a counter-balance if people are to maintain their health and vigor and avoid a sort of universal nervous overstrain."

Gaudy Casino Costing Frank Gould Huge Sum

NICE, France, April 3.—Frank Jay Gould's new "Casino de Méditerranée" is averaging a loss of $400 daily and reliable reports indicate that he is considering withdrawal from the enterprise. The loss is registered despite the fact that the gambling rooms show daily profits of around $200.

It has been stated that at a recent meeting of the directors Mr. Gould threatened to close the place entirely unless the overhead expense was reduced. He told the managers that they must make the place pay.

The casino cost $2,000,000 to erect and needs average net profits of around $1000 daily to give a reasonable return on this investment. It employs 500 men, including 52 cooks, the wage and salary lists being not the least item of the heavy operating expenses.

CONTROL SCALE and BLISTER MITE

Insure better "pack-outs"

Your best assurance of profitable "pack-outs" is to spray scientifically with S-W Dry Lime Sulfur—the improved spray to control San Jose Scale, Oyster Shell Scale and Blister Mite. It will keep your apple, pear, peach and prune trees clean.

It is prepared in convenient powdered form from a 33° Baumé test liquid with a stabilizer added. Our recommendations for solutions are proved safe, reliable and economical—by both scientific and practical tests.

There is as much logic in buying salt brine instead of dry salt as there is in buying liquid instead of Dry Lime Sulfur. We guarantee it to dissolve, or refund your money. It eliminates heavy trucking charges, waste, heavy handling, and returning empties. Spray the modern way!

For a dormant oil spray use S-W Free Mulson

(A high viscosity, highly refined, safe, dormant oil spray)

Scale, Red Spider (Brown Mite), European Red Mite) Aphis and other pests of this type can be effectively controlled with S-W Free Mulson, also. It is recommended for particularly heavy infestation.

Mr. Clyde Nell of Yakima, Washington, says—"I have used the Sherwin-Williams Free Mulson for my dormant sprays for two consecutive seasons and in addition to the satisfactory results (my orchards packing out free of both San Jose Scale and Aphis), I find it mixes readily with water and is absolutely free from the curdling so objectionable in many oil sprays."

Consult your nearest Sherwin-Williams dealer.

COUNT LUCKNER THE Sea Devil by LOWELL THOMAS Copyright by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

The steamer had a big fat captain who had his eye pulled down over one eye. His voice, even when he whistled, was a deep basso. You should have heard it through the megaphone. The steamer drew near. The fat captain raised his megaphone.

"What the hell's the matter with you?" His voice boomed across like the rumble of a cannon. "Get out of the smoke and flame. It looked as if we had fought our fire successfully. Schmidt, the captain's beautiful wife, tripped along the deck with coquettish movements of shoulders and hips. The officers on the steamer's bridge eyed the fair vision and exchanged glances that said 'what a beauty.' Schmidt, now was the fat captain insensible to feminine charms. He rolled his eyes and grinned with the expression of a shipper who can easily 'cut his officers out.'

"Look at the wireless, Lieutemann," I said, "and the five-inch gun."

"Knock the wireless over," he replied, "and let's have it out with the five-inch gun."

"Clear the deck for action," I roared. Instantly, the beautiful Schmidt threw off his silken dress, and in the uniform of a German nurse kicked his blonde wig around the deck. The British crew and the German fire crew, our riflemen arose from behind the rail, ready to attack anyone who dared to handle the five-inch gun. The German fire crew, our riflemen arose from behind the rail, ready to attack anyone who dared to handle the five-inch gun.

"What fellows, by Joe," he roared, "No torpedoes? That was a joke!"

"By Joe, Captain, don't report that," I said.

"I promised him I would not report it, and I don't mean to break that."

"I don't mean to break that," he said, "I don't mean to break that."

"I don't mean to break that," he said, "I don't mean to break that."

"I don't mean to break that," he said, "I don't mean to break that."

NOW - TOM - OLD KID BUCK UP! COME OUT OF YOUR TRENCH - FORGET YOUR DOLDRUMS - YOU'RE GOING OUT WHERE THE WEST BEGINS - AND YOUR TROUBLES END - SHOW 'EM THAT YOU'RE NOT A FLAT WHEEL IN THE CARR FAMILY -

anything white was waved. The cook frantically waved his apron. "Lay to," I shouted, "or we discharge our torpedoes."

There was a further sound. The fat captain was licked, licked by the terror of the torpedo inspired in every one who sailed on ships. He made no further protest. He could not have done anything with his men now, but I don't think he liked torpedoes either. He sat down on a deck chair, curving and wiping the sweat-off his face.

"I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said.

"I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said. "I should to him," I said.
