GERMANY REFUSES TROTSKY ENTRANCE

Cabinet Decides One Time Soviet War Commissar Not Desirable Resident

BERLIN, April 11 (AP)—The German cabinet, after considering the matter since the middle of February, decided today that Leon Trotsky, former Soviet war commissar, would not be a desirable resident within the republic, even in the status of an invalid as he had described himself. It therefore decided to refuse his request for a visa which would permit him to seek the advice of German physicians.

Soon after Trotsky emerged from his isolation in Thuleheim and became an exile in Constantinople he sought admission to Germany. The matter dragged on with frequent pleadings from the exile and protests from those who feared trouble from his presence. France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia let it be known rather informally that they were not eager to receive the former Soviet leader. A more liberal attitude was said to await him in Switzerland.

Trotsky had been relieved of confinement in the Soviet legation in Constantinople and now is living in a private home.

A Washington Bystander By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—The "great men" of American political life are almost a fixed presence now for new cabinet officers to retain the secretary and immediate personal assistants of their predecessors.

Retained Aides: Most of the Hoover cabinetiers who are new newcomers to the circle found it expedient to retain the key men they found in their immediate offices.

Mr. Walter Guin was hostess to Association Episcopal Guild Thursday afternoon at her home on Eighth Avenue.

Mr. Mary K. Nelson, the president, was in the chair during the business session, during which additional plans were made for a dinner to be given at the Parish hall on Saturday, April twentieth.

Mr. Frank South entertained the Addison Avenue Social Club Wednesday afternoon at her home on Sixth Avenue East.

JOY RIDING DESCRIBED AS HAZARDOUS VENTURE

JOY RIDING is an extremely hazardous venture, Ralph E. Erickson, Twin Falls police chief, commented last evening when two reports of stolen automobiles were received at police headquarters within an hour.

When Lanning's attention. Secretary Lansing's attention. When Lanning's attention. Secretary Colby retained this efficient youngster as secretary. Under Secretary Hughes, Beck soon rose to assistant to the secretary to be passed along to Secretary Kellogg, even as he now has been handed on to Secretary Silberman by Kellogg.

Wise Move: Martyn came to the war department with Secretary Weeks, whose secretary he had been while that Republican statesman was in the seat. Secretary Baker's assistant, Ralph Hayes, had posed out to rather striking success in private life, which created the success Martyn held on with Dwight Davis and now with Secretary Jim Good.

It is to be noted that Mr. Good himself was aware that his acting in keeping Martyn at his side would find quick approval. He made a point of announcing the fact at his first press conference.

A spokesman for the press representatives promptly congratulated the new secretary on his action. As a matter of fact, nobody in the whole government scheme of things can do more to aid in the business of keeping the country intelligently informed on governmental affairs than these non-political assistants or secretaries to the cabinet officers.

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—For the winter holidays that beguile them as they ride to work and home again, New York's ferry riders have Joseph Lapin to thank.

A Wandering Minstrel: From the time he was a lad of 6 in his native Italy, Joseph Lapin has been a musician. He played a violin in the streets there, and when he was 16 he went to Paris where he struck musicianship better.

Five years later he brought his violin to the United States, and he has been a ferry boat improviser for 30 years.

HIS CLOSET: The man will take just as good care of his clothing as did the boy—just as good and not one bit better. The boy who comes in from school, flings his cap on the table and drops his overcoat in a heap, will do the same when, as a man, he comes home from work.

One way of training a boy to neatness is to make neatness convenient. Telling him to pick up his things tends only to curdle the atmosphere of the home by reminders that degenerate into nagging.

We must begin as early as possible to make the care of his clothing easy and pleasant. A properly arranged closet will be a great help. The pole should be lowered to a height which he can reach with ease. Hooks for dressing gown and pajamas also should be placed well within his reach.

Once he plays Neapolitan folk songs and ballads for his schoolmates, he should be allowed to turn over to him all the coins that fall into their hats.

LOCAL ORCHARDISTS FAVOR BUILDING OF COLD STORAGE PLANT

Representative of Oakland Firm Outlines Tentative Plan and Will Present Definite Proposition Soon

Expressions in favor of a cold storage plant for Twin Falls were voiced last night by a majority of about 20 fruit growers who met at the chamber of commerce headquarters on the call of T. H. Edwards, chairman of the committee, to consider a tentative proposition relative to the construction of a cold storage plant here explained by H. May, Oakland, vice president of the Edwards Ice Machine and Supply Company, Oakland, and general manager for the company in the California district, which includes Idaho.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. May said that he had discussed the situation with 15 or 20 growers at the meeting and that as a result of the sentiments in favor of the erection of a cold storage plant, he would return to Oakland today and return in 10 to 15 days with definite figures based on box capacity and a contract to present to growers here.

Company Takes Mortgage The plan is for the growers to form a non-profit corporation and subscribe for space in the plant, in lieu of buying stock. They purchase the site for the plant at some place suitable for the purpose along a railroad spur or where one can be extended, and in addition pay one-fourth of the price of the completed plant. The Edwards company takes a mortgage on the plant, which it has designed and constructed complete, for the other three-fourths of the total cost. This constitutes a loan, which runs for a period of 10 years or for a shorter period, according to the agreement reached.

Mr. May stated that he could not figure definitely on cost until he knew how much space would be taken and had gone over the matter with estimators relative to cost in this location. It would probably cost complete something like $1.25 per box space. That is, in the event that a storage plant holding 200,000 should be constructed the cost would not unlikely be something like $250,000 although he emphasized the fact that he was not giving final figures until his return. On the above assumed cost the growers would buy the site and subscribe for about $50,000 to $75,000 in space.

Explains Details Mr. May gave many details concerning the machinery to be installed and the operation of the plant. He stated that he was surprised at the fact that the delicious apples which had been in storage here all winter were still green instead of being yellow, indicating the unusual qualities of apples on the Twin Falls project for keeping without deterioration when properly handled. He said that there is ample devoted to onions, potatoes and fruits here in use nearly all the year and through which several crops would go greatly reducing overhead. Sheds and equipment were described at length. Buhl is also figuring on cold storage, but his plant would not conflict with a Twin Falls plant, as there are products enough grown for both. A plant 125 by 200 feet and two stories high would care for about 200,000 boxes of fruit or furnish corresponding amount of space for other products. When the corporation would be non-profit this would not prevent any grower who might not have enough products of his own to fill the space subscribed for from leasing it and in fact he would be encouraged to do so. The space is pooled; that is no subscriber is allotted any particular space since apples, onions and potatoes do not keep well together and the superintendent must have authority to designate where the space must be used for the product stored.

SEASON TWO WEEKS LATE, REPORT SHOWS

Tardy Spring Marks Conditions Found in Southwestern Part of Idaho

BOISE, April 11 (Special to The News)—Summary of weather conditions in Idaho for the week ending April 9, compiled and issued by Clinton E. Norquest, meteorologist, United States department of agriculture, weather bureau, follows:

North Idaho: The weather was cloudy and unseasonably cool throughout the week. Snow, to an unusual depth for April, fell over this district last Friday. The depth ranged from one-half inch on the benches around Lewiston to several inches on the higher prairies where drifting snow interfered materially with travel over highways and side roads. Flooding, seeping, and other farm work proceeded with but little interruption. Blustery days delayed the finishing of dormant spray treatments.

The season is two weeks behind the average. Pastures are improving slowly and livestock are in fair shape. Southeast Idaho: The season is at least two weeks late. Pasture, meadow, and range grasses are very slow in starting, due to much cloudiness and lack of adequate warmth. Heavy frosts and freezing temperatures are of almost nightly occurrence and there has been a dearth of bright sunshine. Cattle and sheep are still on the feed lots in many localities. Farm work has been pushed as rapidly as unwarmed weather conditions permit and much wheat and corn has been fitted for spring seeding and planting. Much wheat is already sown. Soil has worked up in fine shape, having been greatly benefited by deep freezing of last winter. Orchard spraying has been considerably hampered by blustery weather and frequent showers and squalls.

Southeast Idaho: The first of the week was warm and favorable for farm work. Considerable plowing was done. The latter half of the week was cold with moderate to heavy snowfall which stopped all plowing. About 80 per cent of cattle and sheep are still on feed. Winter wheat is generally well protected. Roads are improving.

Field Notes
Twin Falls County: Plowing under quite general and some seeding already done; farmers striving to get their ground in shape for planting; much tractor work in evidence; very little orchard spraying done on account of weather conditions, but buds swelling fast. First three days of the week were warm and calm and farm work advanced rapidly; beets, wheat, and barley were sown and some orchard spraying was done; during the latter part of the week rain, snow, and cold put a check on farm work; no damage is reported as a result of the cold.

Castro County: Rain and sleet during early days of week kept the temperature low; there were only two clear days; ground is in fine condition; wheat and beets were sown.

Richfield, Lincoln County: Week mostly cold with some precipitation; ground is in excellent condition for spring planting; some grain sown, but seeding is not yet in full swing; pastures poor on account of cold weather.

Kuna, Ada County: Much cloudiness;

LOS ANGELES, April 11 (Special to The News)—College students are taking favor with the well dressed college man. That is the observation of college fashion experts in the Daily Bruin, student newspaper of the Los Angeles branch of the University of California. What the well dressed college man will wear is forecast as follows: Darker colors in suits, sweaters, ties and socks. Shirts are conservative; no "loud" colors or "dramatic" collars. Extreme pointed coats are passing. Suspenders for comfort, not fashion. Colors in hats, which have high crowns and narrow brims. "Quick" ties. Long, narrow shoes.

-THE- Sea Devil

by LOWELL THOMAS

Copyright by Doubleday, Doran & Co.

Von Spee was a sailor's admiral. He was a seaman by temperament, open, honest, and jovial, uncomforthable on land and only himself when on the bridge of his flagship. Too many of our professional fighting men, I regret to say, were more enamored of their uniforms than of their own flesh and blood. They were good at wearing gold lace and that is about all. But Von Spee, he was a different kind of admiral. When a storm, a still can see him, reaching back and forth with his bushy brows and piercing blue eyes.

The day after he said adieu to his men and set off for the Orient, there to relieve the officers and men on board the cruisers of the small Pacific squadron at Taling Tao. What was to happen? Von Spee's former overseas command as commodore, quiet routine, and ended under the salvos of British guns off the Falkland Islands.

Von Spee's plan, when he was caught him 15,000 miles from German waters, was to harass the allies in the Pacific and then try to slip back through the Horn Sea to Kiel and back to Germany. Von Spee's plan was to give him the information that Craddock was waiting for the arrival of the big but old battle ship.

Without the Canopus, Craddock's forces were weaker than Von Spee's, and Von Spee instantly dashed to the attack and to engage Craddock before the Canopus came up. Craddock and his men met their fate like the British sailor's. Craddock and the British sailors continued to fire until they sank. Only one, a small boat, got away. But their conquerors' days were numbered.

Von Spee now began his long race toward Kiel. Only two routes were possible, one by Cape Horn and the other by the Cape of Good Hope. Of course, he knew the British were laying for him at both places. He knew also that they would be after his big gunners and more powerful ships than his own. His one chance was to beat them to Cape Horn, lose himself in the Atlantic, make a run for it, and probably break his way through the blockade.

By now he was short of both munitions and coal. A wireless from Germany brought the good news that a supply ship had slipped through the blockade and was now on its way to him. What a tremendous voyage he might have made! What a hair-raising dash at the stalled blockade line he might have made! But he never got it.

As he rounded the Horn of Plenty, Von Spee was tempted, him, and he made what must be a fatal error. He ordered a British collier and took all her coal. This delayed him for three days. Meanwhile, a fleet of British's mightiest battleships had rounded Cape Horn and the Falklands. Thus he stumbled into that nest of battle cruisers. He tried to run, but they caught and sank him. They destroyed the wreck of the ship and the Falklands. Thus he stumbled into that nest of battle cruisers. He tried to run, but they caught and sank him.

Thousands of War Time Shoes Go to Prisoners

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—Thousands of pairs of hob nailed shoes originally intended for pounding over dirt roads in France to the tune of war songs soon will be doing the 'lock step' in federal prisons.

A part of the surplus shoes will be transferred from the quartermaster's department to the department of justice which has federal prisons under its supervision.

Surplus property sales for the quarterly period ending March 31 ran far in excess of any similar period for years past.

Besides the outright sales, $224,000 of surplus property has been transferred to other departments. That included 348,562 cotton drawers and 57,397 undershirts which were given to the navy.

Lamb, Rosemary McElwain, Mary Sabala, Catherine Wakefield, Irene Kohles, Robert Macaulay, Anna Marie Drumme, Philip McElwain, Billie Wyke, Francis Buchanan.

High school department—Violin Wyke, Louise St. Marie, Loretta Sirefua, Hilta Sweninger.
