GRANGE'S PROPOSAL FOR HOLDING FARMER CAUSING CONTENTION

Chairman McNary Declares President Hoover Will Veto Bill Containing Export Debuture Plan

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 23.—Both branches of congress elected themselves today to the task of passing a farm relief bill, and the disputed export debuture plan was a vehicle for the principal controversy.

In the senate, the agriculture committee's bill containing the debuture plan was reported by Chairman McNary with the statement that unless this provision was removed, President Hoover would veto the legislation. In the house, Democratic advocates of the debuture plan twisted former Republican supporters of the equalization law for dropping that proposal and contended that this was done for political expediency. Representatives from Alabama, Whig, Arkansas, Jones, Texas and Hanklin, Mississippi made these charges.

McNary's bill contained a provision that the debuture plan be similar in general scope to the house measure. Senator McNary declared he would veto the debuture section because he felt it was a subsidy and because he considered it certain that Mr. Hoover would disapprove the bill. Caraway has leading Post Senator Caraway, Arkansas, one of the Democrats who took a leading part in writing the debuture bill into the senate bill, contended that the arguments set forth by the president in opposition to the plan were similar to those which have been advanced in the past have desired "to fatten off the sweat of agriculture."

The house farm bill, which it is understood by its proponents to have the endorsement of the president, was described by Representative Egan, Democrat, Mississippi, as a "denatured substitute" for the old McNary-Haugen bill, which "even Secretary Mellon would not touch."

Representative Dickinson, Iowa, one of the Republicans, chided for dropping the equalization law from the top of the present bill contained three or four of the principal points of the McNary-Haugen bill. He contended that the people did not desire the equalization fee. Senator McNary declared that the head of the farm measure was the stabilization corporations, one of which would be set up for each crop in need of attention.

Drop Membership
The committee chairman contended that cooperative marketing had not been tried in the past because when a cooperative lost money the farmers dropped their membership. Under the present bill would underwrite temporary losses and in this way keep the cooperatives going until systematic methods might be brought prior to their operations.

Senators on the Democratic side took a vote however, that the new bill would make cooperative marketing more difficult of success than under the McNary-Haugen bill. The Democratic leader, asserted that the bill's success was predicated on the assumption that cooperatives would flourish. He contended that the measure did not provide for compulsory cooperation. Instead, he said, a farmer would become a member of a cooperative because he would receive the benefits of cooperation with out any assessment of the great risk system, had been made by the equalization fee.

They brought first definite information in regard to the accident. Heavy snowfall, Monday night covering the region to a depth of eight inches, they said, had interfered with travel and communication.

Only three men were employed at the shaft when the accident occurred at about 4 P. M. Monday, they stated. Roy R. Woods, general manager of the mining company, was at the top of the shaft operating the windlass. The trap door, approximately 6 by 10 feet, constructed of 2 by 8 inch planks, was moved at that time in order to replenish the supply of carbide for the lamps used by the men at work below. The manner in which the door was loosened to hurl down the shaft has not been explained.

Both Maxwell and Austin were rendered unconscious at the bottom of the shaft, and it was necessary for Woods to go about a quarter mile to another mine to summon help in lifting the injured men out of the shaft.

John Maxwell was graduated last year from Twin Falls high school. He had been employed for some months at the Delno-Twin Falls company's mine in which his father and a number of other Twin Falls men are financially interested.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

No one can read the address delivered by President Hoover at the annual meeting of the directors of The Associated Press without being impressed with the fundamental truth of his utterance.

But there is nothing in his remarks which differs greatly from what may be found in public office and have been saying at intervals for years past.

Of recent years we have apparently not been satisfied with the quantity of new laws passed by Congress.

One fact in the story sticks out with remarkable clearness—the President puts it this way: "Less than one sixth of these slayers are convicted and but a scandalously small percentage are adequately punished."

Can it be that a part of the trouble lies in the fact that legal penalties are so severe that juries make this fact an excuse for acquittal?

The point is worth studying. At the present time America is groping for a remedy.

TOO MUCH CREDIT

Says the latest bulletin of the National City Bank of New York, a big factor in the speculative money market.

"It is evident from the way money has acted in the past few days that the crisis has passed and the incident is a closed book."

"That there has been a most unusual expansion in credit is a fact that is generally admitted, and that the largest element in this expansion is so-called speculative loans must also be recognized."

"With this crisis past, the people of the country would be generally well advised to bear in mind the condition of the credit structure and voluntarily see to it that in their loan-accounts they maintain wider margins and lean less heavily on borrowed money."

SPIRITS AND THOUGHT WAVES: Spiritualists in England are demanding that Parliament adopt an amendment to the "witchcraft act."

them is an impostor. England has long since stopped punishing mediums as witches, but the law still stands on the books, and the spiritualists consider it a standing invitation.

Germany is wrestling with another problem, distantly related to this. Police and detectives in Prussia, it appears, have been resorting occasionally to clairvoyants and telepaths in their criminal investigations.

Such a stand seems logical enough. Many students believe that clairvoyance and telepathy are possible. They may be thought waves, comparable to radio waves, by which minds can obtain or give information at a distance.

DETECTIVES FIRST-AID

New York's energetic police commissioner has now equipped all the homicide bureaus of the department with a handy-kit to be used as a first aid in detecting crime—a complete case-finder's equipment.

Each kit is a box twenty-two inches long and one foot high. An instructive handbook goes with it. The contents of the box include rubber gloves, a complete fingerprint outfit, a huge magnifying glass, a searchlight capable of burning seven hours.

BURLEY, April 23 (Special to The News)—With the setting of dates for the Jerome county fair, a schedule for the principal southern Idaho fair has been completed that will permit an interlocking circuit of exhibition stock, races and amusements. From the office of L. H. Sweetser, secretary of the Idaho Fair association, the schedule has been given out as follows:

Blaine county fair, W. H. Stanfield, director, Ganantux, August 26 and 27; Twin Falls county fair, H. W. Graves, acting secretary, Filer, September 3, 4, 5 and 6; Cassia county free fair, L. H. Sweetser, manager, Burley, September 11, 12 and 13; Lincoln county fair, L. J. Mott, director, Shoshone, September 19, 20 and 21; Jerome county fair, E. F. Kennedy, secretary, Jerome, September 26, 27 and 28; Eastern Idaho district fair, Carl E. Johnson, president, Blackfoot, September 30, October 1, 2 and 3.

The Eastern Idaho district fair will be followed by the Utah state fair, E. S. Holmes, secretary, Salt Lake City, October 5 to 12. At the Pezattello meeting of fair officials, Mr. Holmes suggested that the Boise Valley fair dates be set to follow the Utah state fair. This would place the Boise fair between the Utah show and the Pacific International at Portland, thereby affording patrons of the Boise fair an opportunity to see the outstanding show herds on the circuit from Salt Lake City to Portland.

Norma Talmadge Stars In New Show at Idaho

In one of the scenes in Norma Talmadge's latest picture, "The Woman Disputed," starting today at the Idaho theatre, Miss Talmadge is asked by Gustav Von Seyffertitz, who plays the part of an Austrian banker, to sacrifice herself for the sake of his young daughter. He offers her money which she refuses. As is usual in pictures, the scene was taken a number of times.

Miss Talmadge, who has a sense of humor, whispered to Henry King, her director, "Tell the cameraman to take this scene without any film—I'm going to give Mr. Von Seyffertitz a shock."

Von Seyffertitz pleaded, "Save my daughter—my innocent child—here, take this money."

Instead of the scornful "No," by which Miss Talmadge signifies her determination, the astonished actor heard, "All right, give it to me"—and Miss Talmadge put out her hand for the money. Von Seyffertitz's expression not only made Miss Talmadge laugh but also upset the director and the cameramen. A specially prepared sound accompaniment is a feature of the presentation of "The Woman Disputed." The musical score and sound effects personally devised by Hugo Blaesfeld, celebrated composer and conductor, formerly musical director for the Criterion, Rialto and Rivoli theatres in New York City, are given by the Blaesfeld orchestra.

THE GOODNESS

of old-time cooking . . . in an easy, modern way

WHEN housewives of Colonial days laden their tables with savory, steaming Dutch-oven dishes, they set traditions of good cooking that only the Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Oven can equal. For this most modern of electric ovens cooks by the same method that produced the crackling brown roast turkeys, fragrant gingerbread, rich baked beans and spicy puddings of long ago. It first browns the food to perfection, then cooks it to wonderful tenderness, without any watching or tending during the cooking process.

You can put the entire evening meal in the cold oven when you are clearing up after lunch—or during the morning, if you want most of the day free from household duties. Then you set the clock and adjust the thermostat on the oven door. The current comes on automatically at just the right time. At just the right temperature, it is automatically shut off. Cooking continues by stored heat until everything is done to a turn. Delicious results are certain because every step in the cooking process is controlled with scientific precision. And you can always duplicate your best results every time you cook.

CANAL MANAGER HAS CHARGE OF DETAILS

Statement by J. E. Hayes Explains System of Management in Operation

That division of assignments among the several members of the board of directors of the Twin Falls Canal company at the meeting of the canal board January 9, did not mean that each commissioner should take personal charge of the details of matters pertaining to his department, and that details must be taken up with the general manager, or the office force at headquarters is announced in a statement issued yesterday by J. E. Hayes, manager.

After quoting the resolution adopted at the January meeting and setting forth the duties assigned each member of the board, the announcement says: "During the period January to March, when there was no general manager, the members of the board divided the responsibilities and each commissioner carried forward portions of the work indicated by his department."

"It was not the purpose of the board members to continue to carry on with the details after a manager was designated. It was not their intent that any one part of the company business should be delegated to one particular board member, they believe that all members must bear equal responsibility for matters relating to the company and the project.

For that reason they feel that all matters of detail pertaining to the company shall be taken up directly with the force employed for that purpose."

"The board members will be pleased to give the stockholders every aid in the solution of problems relating to the company affairs, but for all matters relating to the maintenance operation, drainage, or problems relating to the physical system, they suggest that direct contact with the management and contracting force will get quicker results."
