Senate Committee Upholds Mellon's Right to Hold Office

JUDICIARY GROUP IN UPPER HOUSE VOTES 8 TO 7 ON PROBLEM

Senator Borah Expresses Belief That Ownership of Stock Does Not Render Man Ineligible For Post

(By The Associated Press.)
 WASHINGTON, May 4.—The right of Andrew W. Mellon to serve as secretary of the treasury although he is a stockholder in various enterprises was upheld today by eight of the 17 members of the senate judiciary committee but a poll failed to develop a majority, and three separate reports will be submitted to the senate for its decision.
 Fifteen members of the committee were recorded tonight. They divided 8 to 7 in favor of the report of Senator Borah, Republican, Oregon, holding that Mr. Mellon's stockholdings do not violate the statute forbidding the secretary of the treasury from an interest in carrying on trade or commerce.
 Sixteen members were recorded on the notion of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, proposing an open investigation of Mr. Mellon's relations with the companies in which he is a stockholder.
 The report of Chairman Norris, Democrat, Ohio, is in the affirmative against that course.
 The report of Chairman Norris disqualifies Mr. Mellon as a stockholder who disqualifies from continuing in the post he has held for eight years, stood rejected by a vote of 11 to 4.
 Opposes Motion.—Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, indicated he would not vote on any of the reports but that he would oppose the motion to have the committee conduct hearings thus making a majority of the committee against the Walsh motion.
 Democrat, Massachusetts, is the only other unrecorded member of the committee but he has been absent from the committee discussions.
 With the reports coming before the senate, Senator McNamara, Democrat, Tennessee, the author of the resolution ordering the inquiry into the right of Mellon to hold office, announced he would bring his bill back to a decision by a motion to adopt the report of Senator Norris.
 The vote will be taken before the committee testimony of Secretary Mellon following to a visit by him to Canada in the interests of a stockholder in the Aluminum Company of America. He said he intended to put that matter before the senate. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, and Senator King, Democrat, Utah, are preparing a third report.
 The vote for the speaker report lines up as follows: For—Steiwer, Oregon; Gillett, Massachusetts; Deen, Illinois; Robinson, Washington; Cullis, Colorado; Burton, Ohio; and Hawkins, Delaware. Republican; and Overman, Democrat, North Carolina; and Gurnea, Democrat, North Carolina.
 Republican—Walsh, Caraway, Arkansas; King and Bill, Washington, Democrat.

The Weather

FORECAST FOR TODAY: Unsettled with local rains; continued cold.

"A slight decline in temperature was recorded in Twin Falls yesterday, by the weather observer, the maximum being 59 degrees, 2 degrees below the warmest period Friday. The minimum temperature was 38 degrees. There was a trace of precipitation.
 That in the ownership of stock does not of itself render a person ineligible to that office."
 "But while the ownership of stock does not of itself render the person ineligible, any activity or concern in carrying on the business in which he is a stockholder would be a violation of the law. The secretary of the treasury under the relation is compelled to divorce himself completely from any business, by consulting or directing the business."
 "I take the view now that the statute ought to be amended and made more specific and more adapted to modern business. The statute was adopted 140 years ago and it is indefinite in the light of present business methods."

Red Cross Society Send Relief Agents To Talk of States

 There has never been a time when Red Cross activities were so far-reaching as the result of many minor disasters. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928, 88 catastrophes requiring relief measures were tally by the Red Cross bureau of statistics.
 The disaster in 11 months in the period from July 1, 1928, to May 4, 1929, 110 disasters had been reported.
 "Since the close of its last fiscal year the American Red Cross has appropriated $750,000 from the national treasury to meet the emergency needs of the disaster-stricken areas. This appropriation since the first of January to care for the busy emergency period of 1929.
 If the appropriation continues at its present rate, the organization will have expended $1,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year, almost $200,000 more than the average. For the last five years the average has been $815,000.
 The Red Cross has suffered a period of 49 years in which it has been as frequent in their visitations as fires and floods combined.

NEW QUAKE INSTRUMENT RECORDS STORMS AT SEA

NEW YORK, May 4.—Records of storms at sea are being delicately and accurately recorded by a new instrument developed by S. K. Banerji of the Bombay Observatory.
 Some of these storms were 500 or more miles distant in the Bay of Bengal.
 Mr. Banerji says the instruments recorded three distinct types of ground tremors, identified as coming from the storms, probably in the pounding of waves. These were the southwest monsoon storms in the Bay of Bengal or the Arabian sea, and small disturbances.
 Banerji, in writing to the British scientific journal, Nature, predicts that this use of earthquake recording instruments will open to meteorologists a new method of forecasting storms.
 He says the vibrations appear as soon as the waves are formed and last for as long as the waves last, and continue until it has passed completely inland.

Chemist In New York Finds Vitamin Triplet

NEW YORK, May 4.—Vitamin B is not just one vitamin alone, but three vitamins, each with different properties, Dr. Walter H. Hooper of Teachers College, New York, in a report to the American academy.
 He is attempting to isolate what he calls B1, B2, and B3.
 Vitamin B1 is a pre-vitalic, for some forms of nerve irritation. Its deficiency in diet also is the so-called cause of pellagra, a fatal disease. Dr. Hooper came upon evidence of the existence of the third complex in this vitamin.

Watson and Hoover Confer On Measure For Aiding Farmer

 With Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, both members of the agriculture committee, have taken a leading part in the debate, his bill has made it known that the measure would not be dropped should it fail to be included in the farm bill.
 In the house, Representative Garner, Democrat, Ohio, has indicated that he pressed the opinion that very nearly all support of the measure is in the hands of the farmers.
 In the house of reaching a vote on the debenture section Monday, a Saturday session was called to give several members who desired to be heard, the opportunity to speak. Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, said he had faith in the measure, and he advocated its elimination.
 "I don't doubt the wisdom," he said, "of paying even an inflated subsidy from the treasury for the production of food which is dumped into an already over-crowded world market. Why not instead try to meet the quality market right at our doors in a more efficient way than we have been doing."
 Some division appeared as to whether fruits and vegetables should be excluded from the operations of the bill. Senator McNamara made it a condition to vote on the amendment excluding these perishable commodities immediately after the debenture vote is taken.

Cooking Speeding Up By "Radiant" Method

NEW YORK, May 4.—Development of a method of broiling meats by radiant heat, claimed to speed cooking 25 per cent, is announced by the research committee of the American Gas Association.
 Radiant heat is the kind felt on the hand when it is held in sunlight, as contrasted with the heat from warmed air. It is reflected heat.
 The effect is obtained by burning gas projected through minute perforations in a specially designed aluminum reflector.
 Gas ordinarily has very little radiant heat. The tiny openings of the reflector, however, turn red hot, and develop a surface heat which the committee says measures more than 2000 degrees Fahrenheit.
 This heat is largely radiant; that is,

Snake River, From Minidoka Dam to Elmore County, First Open to Nimrods

BOISE, May 4.—Great fishing such as it is at this time of year will be permitted along the Snake river, the main Snake river channel only, and not on any of the tributaries rising in these two points. With the opening of the trout season in practically all streams next week, however, the fishing will be on. The opening date is May 16. Probably of chief interest will be the fishing in the vicinity of American Falls reservoir and Herby Lake where some enormous trout were taken late last fall. When the fish are ready for the open season, Sturgeon have been cutting up yards of clothes line tackle in that stretch of the river and some good fish have been taken out. No 100-pounders have been reported.

Crack United States Army Pilots Learning to Fly "Blind"

NOTED TRANSPACIFIC AVIATOR INSTRUCTOR OF CLASSES IN SKIES

Lieutenant Albert F. Hegenberger, Hero of Flight Across Ocean, Laboring With Aviation Students

(By The Associated Press) DAYTON, Ohio.—The important part played by the aerial navigator in the transoceanic flights is being made manifest to the army air corps by the establishment of a navigation school for its crack pilots. Working in a flying classroom above the clouds, the aviators are learning to fly "blind" from a past master of the art, Lieutenant Albert F. Hegenberger.

The Hawaiian flight of Lieutenant Lester J. Mallard and Lieutenant Hegenberger, together with the records of other transoceanic fliers, brought him to air corps officials the need of trained navigators as well as pilots.

Must-Have Navigators Huge passenger planes flying long distances through all kinds of weather, must have pilots trained in the art of navigation if they are to fly successfully through heavy fog or storms. Almost every pilot has faced blinding fogs in which he wished he knew more about instrument flying.

Lieutenant Hegenberger, principal instructor of the new school, knows what it means to navigate a plane across vast stretches of water without the ordinary means of checking their course. He has studied the plan of direction to the slightest degree on the Hawaiian flight. It might have meant disaster.

They are Lieutenants Phillips McVie, Edmund G. Langness, Edmund C. Lynch, Guy H. Gale, Frank B. Duffell and Francis B. Valentine. When they complete their course they will be fit to act as instructors to other groups in the country.

Their instruction flights have carried them from Dayton through Illinois, Texas, along the Gulf of Mexico to Florida, north to Boston, and west to their home station at Buffalo, N. Y. They have flown by radio beacon, which is expected to play an increasingly important part in long flights over land and water. They have estimated their position with the aid of the stars alone, and have directed a plane in flight without sight of the ground and water below or the heavens above.

Lieutenant Albert F. Hegenberger (inset), aviator for the first flight to Hawaii is "principal" of the army air corps' new navigation school. Lieutenant F. B. Tyndall is flying a sextant from the roof of a flying classroom, while Lieutenant E. G. Langness (rear) is operating the plane's radio beacon course.

JEROME GLEE CLUB STAGES COMIC OPERA

High School Students Triumph in Big Production Before Large Audience

JEROME, May 4.—Heartless House, a comic opera in three acts, was given by the high school glee club, directed by Mrs. W. A. Peters, Thursday night. The solo parts were well taken by Bernice Burt, as the wanted fugitive of a woman's club experience, financial difficulties; Phyllis Robinson, as "Cant-wright," an authoress with "16 or 17" unpublished books to her credit; M. Lassie Hamilton and Ruth Robinson, who took the parts of twin sisters. A chorus of 19 girls, as members of the Society of Student Women, made up the cast. Twenty-one musical numbers, including solo, duets, trios, a quartet and ensemble numbers, featured the production. The girls were charming in modern dress in the first and third acts, while their old time costumes and coiffures in the second act were both interesting and amusing. Between acts, Jack Dwight gave two flute solos, and Donald Johnson sang the chorus of one of the orchestra numbers. Mrs. Fred Leech and children left Thursday for New York City. Shows they will join Mrs. Leech, who is an out-fitter, with the New York Glens of the National League.

Inexpensive System Will Afford Farm Homes Hot And Cold Water

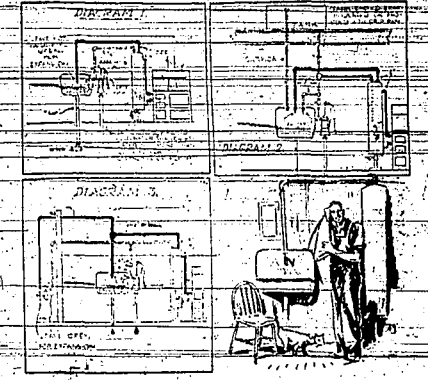

Diagram shows how the hot water pipes of a running water system. Iowa State college says may be installed in a farm home for as little as $40 to $50. Drawing 2 shows extension of pipes. Drawing 3 illustrates use of an overhead tank.

AMES, Iowa, May 2. (AP)—Farmers now may have hot and cold water systems at low cost. It is a simple process of putting pipes together so they do not leak. A. W. Clyde, extension agricultural engineer of Iowa state college, says that if the kitchen is equipped with a sink and drain the system can be installed for as little as $40 to $50, including the cost of a force pump, range boiler, water front and the usual plumbing. To arrange the system for a kitchen a 1 1/2-inch pipe is extended from a window well or cistern, where the water level is not more than 20 feet lower than the cylinder of the pump, to the force pump at the kitchen sink. The range boiler is installed at the side of the range, and the water front, consisting of pipes running through the firebox, is connected. A faucet is attached to the pump and a pipe is extended up and over to the top of the range boiler. The pipe extends down into the tank, but not lower than the level of the water in the firebox. A globe valve is fixed in the pipe just above the pump spout. The hot water pipe extends from the top of the tank over to the sink with the faucet closed and the globe valve open, the pump is worked and

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE IN STRAIGHT DRAMA

English Comedienne Quits Musical Stage For Role in Speaking Productions

NEW YORK, May 4 (AP)—Gertrude Lawrence, the English comedienne who has become an American star in musical comedy and intimate revues since she first was seen on this side of the Atlantic in 1924, is quitting the musical stage for the drama. She will become a full-fledged actress next fall, in the leading role of the high comedy, "By Candlelight," which Gilbert Miller is bringing to Broadway.

Most musical comedy stars hope some day to become great players on the speaking stage, and to leave singing, dancing and clowning behind.

Some of them have done it—Marie Bonaparte, Jeanne Eagans, and Edie Ferguson. Billie Burke and Ina Claire in more recent seasons.

If Miss Lawrence succeeds as a comedienne in spoken plays she never will return, she says, to song-and-dance roles.

Ollbert Miller, who has helped to produce the new batch of Miss O'Clare and Miss Burke, says a graduate of musical shows makes a better actress than one without such training.

"You'll see what I mean," he says, "and you'll see what I mean, and not only do they have athletic and artistic training, but they come from such experience. Revue roles are excellent dramatic apprenticeship for a star-appears in a succession of brief and different parts."

"She does not have a whole evening in which to create a role, as does a dramatic actress. She must be character as she is playing, and convince the audience of her authenticity the moment the curtains part upon her, and five minutes later she must be just as convincingly somebody else."

A comedienne's task is more difficult than that of an emotional actress. Many an untrained player can use pathos in an emotional role, but the same technique to be funny, and to make an audience laugh.

Save for two performances of "Ice Cream" which she played in London, while she was starring there in the musical comedy, "Oh, Kay," Miss Lawrence has no experience in dramatic roles since childhood.

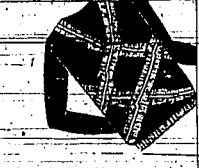

"She came to the United States in 1924 in "Charlotte's Revue," an English importation in which both she and Beatrice Lillie were discovered by American audiences. Since then she has been featured in "Oh, Kay" and "Treasure Girl."

DANCE SHOE STYLES CHANGING RADICALLY

Flexible Soles Built in Segments Latest Offering of Parisian Designer

By BIANCA BEAUFORT (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS, May 4.—Dance slippers with flexible soles that are built in segments are an important shoe designer's latest offering.

"Somebody who found she could wriggle her toes without pain in the segment-soled sandals pronounced them as 'flexible as a caterpillar.' The name 'Mick' and now caterpillar sandals is the name by which the new dance slippers are known."

The caterpillars are the modern version of Greek sandals, with high heels and flexible soles. Most of them are mere heel and sole with just enough dainty, jeweled or embroidered straps to keep them in place.

Much gold and silver, with richly colored silks, is used on the sandals.

The edges of the caterpillar soles, which are made up of three segments, are finished with metal bands which match the coloring of the heel.

Without caterpillar soles, but with the high heels and rich ornamentation, sandals promise to be the smart dance and evening slippers of the future.

"Formal afternoon costumes," particularly the wear indoors, imply high shoes with embroidered straps or lame incrustations, almost as elaborate as evening models. The new slippers to match such shoes. Similar shape and be ensembles are suitable for wear with the restaurant or informal dinner costume.

One of the new satin shoes for afternoon wear is a flat-heeled model with white satin trim and silk ties. It is designed for wear with a black and white satin suit, a combination that will be much seen in Paris this summer.

SUNSHADES MAKE AS BEYON

PARIS, May 4.—Disappearing sunshades of Victorian proportions are part of the stock in trade of accessory designers for the coming season.

"The newest model folds up into a hollow-handle, shaped and ornamented like the baton of a marshal of France. The folding ribs and silk cover are pulled out of the handle by a long silk lassel and screw into one end of the baton, which then forms the handle of the shade."

Another form of shade is joined like a fishing rod and folds away in the top of its extra large envelope handles.

COOLIDGE'S FIANCEE OFFERING COMMENT

Florence Trumbull Says Miss Morrow Has Protection From Newspapermen

By SUE McNAMARA (Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Florence Trumbull, fiancée of John Coolidge, thinks Anne Morrow is getting off easy for her dealings with newspaper reporters.

Dawn Morrow and Anne Morrow, who projects his daughter from would-be interviewers, "I don't know how the governor of Connecticut just might and let her face the glare of the limelight."

"Lincoln's fiancée has protection," says the future Mrs. Coolidge with mild contempt and amusement.

"The father makes me take care of myself and says, 'You will have to manage this yourself, Florence,' when reporters or photographers get after me."

Miss Trumbull seems able to "manage" by this time. She has dealt with newspapermen since she was a child, since her engagement to John Coolidge was announced. She thinks there has been "a bit too much of it." But she laughs about it.

"She is gracious and agreeable, willing to answer questions. And when she thinks the interview has become longer she turns away with a polite 'Excuse me, please,' pretending that something else very important needs her attention."

But she says it prettily and with a friendly smile over her shoulder. One day her father told her that the governor of Connecticut is a wise man.

Miss Trumbull says she does not intend pursuing a journalistic career or hobby after her marriage.

"I'm just going to keep house," she says.

When she was in Washington last spring Miss Trumbull was a guest at the White House. She talks about the time she spent in the White House with the daughters of the American Revolution which she did both last year and this at the annual congress, "lots of fun."

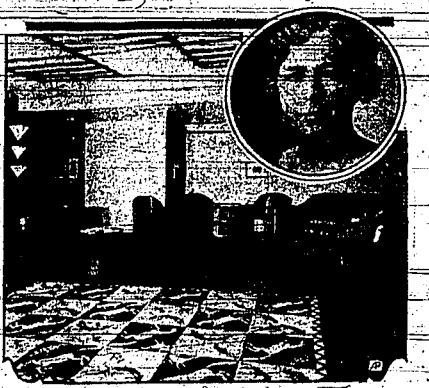

Ask some of the other girl visitors who make these annual trips to Washington what they think of Florence Trumbull, and you get practically the same answer but with variations.

"I don't know one type of girl," says one of them.

"I don't know one type of girl," says another.

Art of Being Good Wife to Be Taught by Gotham Body

NEW YORK, May 4.—Women of 15 to 25 are to be taught the art of being good wives in a series of domestic arts courses. The home-making center is keeping step with present day methods. All exhibits are arranged from the latest types of labor-saving devices and decorations by the State Federation of Women's clubs and classes in cooking, decoration, budgeting and other sciences of domesticity will be conducted.

Two experts on domestic problems will be in charge of the center, which is under the direct supervision of Mrs. Charles J. Reeder, president of the state federation.

Mrs. Reeder plans to make the center a national institution and to that end has opened the classes and exhibits to all women visiting New York.

"Women are growing away from the 'old-fashioned' home," Mrs. Reeder said. "Our purpose is to help them to make the most of their new surroundings."

The home-making center is open every day but Sunday and several thousand women are said to avail themselves weekly of its advantages.

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—Mrs. Elmer Washington Howard, the last living person born in Mount Vernon, goes about to club meetings and dances, and she is well in the seventies.

"It was impressed upon us that simplicity was a true trait of the Washington family, and that if we wanted to be like George Washington we never must be vain or arrogant."

Writing No Index To Character Or Nature Of Scholars And Captains Of Industry In Realm Of England

Manuscripts in Great Museums of London Relate Various Stories of Eminent Leaders in Politics, Warfare, Literature and Church Affairs of Great Britain During Earlier Centuries

By P. L. LIPSEY, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 4.—While British scholars and captains of industry are singing the virtues of good handwriting to the youth of England, a study of historical relics of penmanship conclusively proves—nothing!

Bad writing is bad manners and even bad morals, the schoolmasters are shouting as they watch the desks before bewildered pupils.

Good handwriting, merchant princes are telling, inspiring, admonishing and purpling clerks in neatly machine-typed memoranda, is a first principle for success in business.

The great museums of London for some reason do not display the ancient bills of lading of mighty traders in centuries past. But they do contain many pen products of eminent leaders in politics, warfare, literature and the church. And these manuscripts relate a various story.

Richard's Script Fine

Richard III and Henry VIII are the two most famous of the fourteenth and sixteenth centuries, and each exhibits on opposite sides of the question. Richard's script is fine, clean and beautiful, easily legible despite its smallness and its angles, and his lines flow as level as a quiet river. But they deposited Richard, and he died in prison.

The fields Henry was a much better hand for pretty ladies than he was for pretty writing. His pen set uneasy in the royal hand, spluttering out childish scribbles which few children could read.

The great Lord Chatham was ample with his pen. His words are found here and there with long cuticles as evidence of his love of display, luxuriated insolently in a vast white space splashing out in every direction. The same characteristics marked the "hand" of his famous son, William Pitt.

Gladstone covered his manuscript thrifty with stoutly formed words of simple and businesslike aspect; his easy legibility was marked by lack of distinction between the "a" and the "n." Gladstone's great rival, the Tory aristocrat, was more than a match for him with his white space than with his liberal opponent. The distinguished Jew's writing was a careless scribble, feebly and incompletely formed in letters, but not too hard to read.

"We do not seek a yard of German soil," said David Lloyd George in his ringing "Victory speech" of November 9, 1918, no less than the words on his penciled notes. The war premier's scribble is that of a neat-handed schoolboy. And symbolic of his present struggle to regain national leadership, his lines just wobble away, they climb up and up as they move to the right.

Baldwin's Letters Wobbly

The children of Stanley Baldwin's ink pen are as sturdy as the prime minister's own "Join Our" figure, and his letters wobble about within the word, like raw recruits in an awkward squad. His lines are not beautiful, but

Among world-famed military strategists, the manuscript of George Washington is perhaps the finest model for the imitation of youthful writers. In the first American handwriting words, single characters and lines are regular and unshaken, level and adorned. They are seen in a letter to the Earl of Bute which reads:

"I believe it is the interest of the United America to live nothing to do with the political intrigues or the squabbles of European nations. Thackeray's letters were written in a delightful, lady-like, vivid hand, Carlyle was laborious but sturdy legible. Woodcraft was rugged and casual with his pen. Burns' script was typically bold, generous, and democratic, easy to read.

"The fondness of monarchs argued

Scotchman Urges Home Rule Plans in Election Talk

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 4.—John MacCormick, candidate for the British parliament on the platform of "Scottish Nationalism," demands a Scottish parliament and a Scottish state bank for the bonnie land north of Tweed. He also advocates state control of sports.

Calling for full control by Scotland of all money raised by taxation in Scotland, Mr. MacCormick and his Irish Rulers also propose reconstruction of rural Scotland, much of which is in the jungle state.

"The Nationalist party," he said in a speech here, "if Scottish parliament is granted, would advocate the assumption by Scotland of its share of the British national debt."

"We also seek the immediate construction of a new Forth and Clyde canal. This is essential for obtaining supplies of cheap coal and attracting fresh shipping as an offset to the loss to Scottish industry if a French-English channel tunnel should be built.

"The state should have the right to restrict excessive sporting activities where such activities are found to be detrimental to the agricultural and national interests."

Motor, Hearse Excites Turkish Toll Officers

STAMBOUL, Turkey, May 4.—The advent of Turkey's first motor hearse three toll collectors of the famed Galata bridge into a quarry.

The hearse was held up for hours during its first attempt to cross the bridge, while collectors debated as to what toll it should pay. Five cents in speech here, "if Scottish parliament is granted, would advocate the assumption by Scotland of its share of the British national debt."

"We also seek the immediate construction of a new Forth and Clyde canal. This is essential for obtaining supplies of cheap coal and attracting fresh

No Meat On Monday Kite For Brazilians

SAO PAULO, Brazil, May 4.—Mopless Mondays have long been accepted as unavoidable by the Brazilian housewife, the reason being that in the past there have been no facilities for refrigeration of food-stuffs. Most municipalities have ordinances requiring that meat must be sold within 24 hours after the animal is killed.

However, with the recent entrance of large American meat packers in Sao Paulo, there is a limited supply of chilled meat available on Monday mornings, but the demand is small as a lifetime custom is hard to break.

BURST OF TEMPER WORSE ON HEALTH THAN POISON

LONDON, May 4.—Nursing nurses the digestion of others than the hanger, according to Dr. Bernard Hollander. "One is just as likely to have dyspepsia from the anger of a wife or husband as from gastric ulcer," Dr. Hollander told the South Place Ethical society here.

"Often it is not real misfortune which disturbs the health, but the trifling nothings, the pin-pricks of life which cause emotional reactions and have constant repetition produce nervous exhaustion.

Anxiety envenoms its victims; faith, hope and courage assist in strengthening the body.

"The man of violent temper gives himself a dose of poison just as if he had been stung by a snake. The anger provoked by fear, acting on the brain and sympathetic system, is one of the most powerful poisons introduced into the blood."

FRANCE FINDS MANY JOBS FOR WORKMEN

Placing Hundreds of Thousands of Jobless Persons One of Republic's Tasks

PARIS, May 4.—Finding jobs for her people is one of the best things the French republic does. More than a quarter of a million workers are placed each year by the Seine department, which is Paris and its suburbs. Similar results are reported from all over the country.

One person in 16, on the average, gets a job through city or departmental employment bureaus each year. The process is rather slow, usually requiring four visits to the office by an applicant. This is largely because change of employment is rather a serious matter in France. Most employers require references and investigate them. They regard with suspicion anyone who changes employment often, and once a year is considered often in any of the trades.

Nearly as many women as men are placed by the bureaus. The largest category is restaurant and cafe employees, and next are barbers and hairdressers assistants.

Roger W. Babson, Business Authority, Declares Aviation Offers Field Of Many Opportunities In United States

Statistician Explains How New Industry Will Enjoy Continued Progress and Growth Throughout Land

By ROGER W. BABSON
 BABSON PARK, Mass., May 2.—The rapid growth of aviation opens wonderful opportunities for the future in a brief span of three years, according to a statistician in the United States has advanced from the realm of experiment to an established industry. Today there are only seven states in the Union not traversed by one or another of the airlines for commercial routes. A year from now every state will not only be covered by an air route, but will have air terminal facilities, and within five years road facilities. In 1928 the 60 recognized airplane manufacturing companies turned out 5,000 planes, and should see at least double that number produced. In the three-year period from 1925 to 1928 the number of miles flown on regular schedules by regular air routes advanced from 2,531,000 to 10,472,000. The amount of air mail carried advanced from 42,500 pounds to 3,022,000 pounds. Obviously, commercial aviation is here to stay and to grow.

Opportunities Appear.
 What opportunities does this new industry offer to investors, men, labor and inventors? No one can foresee at this early date the full possibilities of this great industry, but certain opportunities and advantages appear to be plainly offered:

1. In the speeding up of business transactions.
2. In the actual manufacture of airplanes and motors.
3. In the development of airplane accessory business.
4. In the establishment of air service stations.
5. In the growth of rural and suburban real estate values.
6. In the aircraft export trade.
7. Through the proper selection and holding of aviation securities.

Speed Should Help.
 Both through the transportation of business men or conferences at distant points in minimum time, and through more rapid clearance of business mail, checks and drafts, means that the whole business mechanism is sure to be speeded up. Sales will be more quickly consummated. Every important project in business that is preceded by conferences of the executives before it can be launched. Speed in getting widely scattered executives together should be a factor in increasing the total volume of business in a given period of time.

Probably the Greatest Profit.
 The immediate future should be in connection with the manufacture and sale of airplanes. Although many of the recently formed companies will pass out of the picture, yet those surviving should be a good deal of money. Demand for airplanes is due to increase rapidly, and the companies which get the most business should make a large amount of money. Of course, we must remember that of some 750 distinctly separate automobile manufacturing companies less than 50 of them made any money. For this reason, I expect the larger airplane producing concerns who are already well established to be the most successful in the future, although some of the smaller ones will come through successfully. As the industry grows labor will find interesting opportunities for employment. This is particularly fortunate inasmuch as many mechanics and other workmen are being displaced by the increasing "quickness" which is certainly being installed in other industries.

Accessory Business to Grow.
 Just as the huge automobile accessory business has grown up around the manufacturing of automobiles, so will a considerable accessory business grow up around the airplane industry. When we consider that the estimated sales of the automobile accessory trade in 1928 amounted to $1,400,000,000 or 18 per cent of all automobiles and automotive parts, we can see that the great future that lies before a similar industry for the airplanes.

One of the largest airplane companies has been enterprising enough to establish a chain of service stations for planes. Twenty-five service stations are already being placed throughout the country and equipped to take care of engines, and to carry a complete line of accessories. As air travel through service agencies, as air travel should boom over the next few years, the importance of well equipped service stations and service stations and fields will grow accordingly. Remember that 30 per cent of the money spent on an automobile and automotive production goes for gasoline and lubricants dispensed through filling stations, 10 per cent for repair parts and supplies sold by garage and service stations, and 6 per cent for other accessories. Air service stations, therefore, should also develop into a very prosperous industry.

To Help Rural Lands.
 There are no limitations on the airplane as to its routes of travel or the places where it can go. Unlike trains or steamships it can penetrate into remote sections. Vast undeveloped territories will become accessible, with consequent enhancement of land values. Also suburban and rural towns, with well developed air-ports, have prospects of becoming populous business centers. Likewise we can vision the time when every town will be a world port. It will no longer be necessary to locate in the water front for transportation connector with Europe or other foreign countries. The airplane knows no such limitations, and as it develops greater carrying capacity every town in the United States becomes a potential foreign trade port of the world.

Plane Exports Should Grow.
 Our automobile export trade has been hindered by the lack of good roads in many foreign countries. This limitation does not apply to the airplane. It needs no roads. Because the greatest demand for automobiles has been domestic, most people believe that the same fact will be true of airplanes. This is a mistake. China, India, and other densely populated countries, not to mention Canada, South America and Mexico, could not buy automobiles in great volume because of their land ways. China alone could give enough business to pay large dividends to any exporting company handling American planes.

There are certain aviation securities today which can be bought and put away with firm assurance that they will prove most profitable over the next 10 years. Investors should capitalize this new era which we are approaching. It is very possible that within the next decade all of the first-class mail and a large percentage of the passenger business will be carried by air transportation. As in every new industry, however, the utmost discrimination should be used before purchasing aviation stocks. Certain tests should be applied in their selection. (1) Who are the financial sponsors of the security? Are they well-established and reliable? (2) What is the management of the company? Preference should be given to companies with the longest and most successful experience in the aviation industry itself. (3) Make sure that the capital structure is not inflated. Many companies would be good for investment purposes if they did not have such a large number of shares outstanding. They must grow in earnings compared to their present capitalization before their securities become attractive. Other things being equal, companies having flying fields of their own will be the best able to survive. However, the greatest profits in the next few years probably will be in the sale of planes and other aviation equipment, rather than in connection with mere transportation.

Business by the Babsonchart is now 6 per cent above normal compared with 7 per cent above a year ago.

Claremont-Grange Will Probe Price of Potato

BERLIN, May 4 (Special to The News)—Low prices for potatoes the last season has impelled members of Claremont-Grange to start an investigation of prospects for some form of relief for fields and cheap potatoes. At Claremont-Grange meeting Wednesday evening, Roy D. LaRue, a visitor from West Bend, N.C., started discussion which resulted in passing a resolution to have all phases of the disposal of cheap potatoes investigated. It is hoped that assistance can be gotten from the federal government to help solve the problem.

Claremont put on degree team work for the benefit of West Bend visitors, raising two candidates to the third and fourth degrees. Verna Coleman is drill master of the team.

THE NEW VICO

Specially made for the New, High Compression MOTORS

... will give any motor BETTER LUBRICATION

Today's New Oil

The New Vico is the finished result of intensive scientific study and experiment. Our lubrication engineers brought to bear all the available scientific knowledge of today, to produce an oil that will meet today's motoring conditions.

These engineers had the advantage of using highest grade 100% paraffin base oil to begin with... the finest crude oil for motor lubricants ever discovered. And they had the additional advantage of the most modern refinery facilities known to science... the plant of the Utah Oil Refining Company.

The New Vico is the product of 20 years of Utah Oil Refining Company experience. Now... more positively than ever before... your money cannot buy a better oil than this. Try it for your next 1000 miles.

HERE is a great new oil—the New Vico—the best money can buy, now further improved to provide even greater protection to the high-speed, high-compression motors of today!

Modern motors put a terrific strain on oil. They are built for almost unbelievable engine speeds... as many as 25 power impulses per second in each cylinder! This means 100-piston-strokes every second. And every fourth stroke is accompanied by a scorching, blistering flame of exploding gas!

Super-resistance to Heat

You can scarcely imagine the heat to which oil is subjected in such motors. Only an oil with high heat-resisting qualities can protect the motor from ruin.

That is the new condition modern motors have imposed on oil. Speed... more speed; heat... more heat... inside the cylinders! Old oils that worked all right in motors of a former day, won't do today. A new oil is required.

Traffic Count Cuts Costly Mistakes in Highway Planning

SCIENTIFIC PROGRAM SAVING NATION MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Bureau of Public Roads Develops Technique for Interpreting Census to Eliminate Economic Errors

By WILLIAM E. BERCHTOLD (Associated Press Automobile Editor) WASHINGTON, May 26.—Scientific planning of state and federal highway improvements upon the basis of detailed traffic analyses is estimated to save millions of dollars each year.

The bureau of public roads has developed a technique for interpretation of each highway traffic census to eliminate possible economic and engineering errors.

Whether an existing low type road should be paved or oilled, or whether a travel road has reached the peak of its economic usefulness whether supplementary to a certain road would be economically feasible, a highway should be built for light or heavy traffic and dozens of similar problems confronting the highway engineer now are answered by the traffic analysis.

In all but two of the 48 states at least one traffic census of some kind has been taken. More than half of the countries have been completely while others have been more or less ineffectual, in the opinion of highway economists.

L. E. Peabody, bureau of public roads, economist, says that the census in at least seven states has been valueless because of improper methods of checking stations, failure to classify traffic, or other omissions.

Peabody says that the setting up of a plan of improvement, adjusted to the states financial resources, which ultimately will meet traffic requirements is wholly dependent for its success upon a scientific study of conditions.

Weight Stations
Weight stations must be established at strategic points along heavily traveled roads to determine the character and width of pavement necessary to care for heavy truck traffic. Recording stations to count the number, character and home state of motor vehicles should be placed not more than 20 or 25 miles apart.

Peabody says that traffic counts on a few days each year, such as July 4 and two or three regular business days, are valueless. Each traffic survey must be detailed and complete.

He says, "If the highway administrator is to work out a satisfactory program, both day and night checks must be made, weather, holidays and detours which might influence traffic, must be considered, and each road checked for its particular needs."

L. E. Peabody (inset), highway economist, estimated that millions of dollars are saved through scientific highway planning on the basis of traffic censuses. A loaded truck is being weighed with a portable loadometer in Illinois, while pit scales have been installed (above) at a Connecticut census station.

Lupe Veloz Plays Role In 'Lady of Pavements'

Lupe Veloz, because of her radiance as a dancer, her distinctive beauty is admirably cast. In the opening sequence of "Lady of the Pavements" she appears, at the Grand Theatre today, Monday and Tuesday, as a girl of the cabarets and does a soft dance which is one of the most captivating sights this reviewer has seen on the screen. The dynamic energy and vivacity which she puts into her dancing is a force of her work are clear displayed with greater ease and assurance.

In "Lady of the Pavements" there is dramatic talking sequence, produced under the most modern conditions. Lupe Veloz sings the Irving Berlin theme

The girl had gone out that the "most beautiful girls in the picture industry" must be chosen for the parts.

The girl who had the honor of being the first chosen for a supporting part was Adrienne Dore, who was chosen in Los Angeles in the Atlantic City Bathing Beauty contest three years ago.

Miss Dore is a native daughter of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and is probably one of the "hottest potatoes" to ever come from that state, to use the words of Jack Oakie, screen-actor, who also has a part in "The Wild Party."

Stop and Think... "WHY do millions more people ride on Goodyear Tires?"

Car owners have absolute freedom in their choice of tires. Any of the many different makes are easily obtained.

Yet MILLIONS MORE PEOPLE REGULARLY BUY GOODYEAR TIRES AND WILL HAVE NO OTHER KIND! Why?

Is it because Goodyear advertises more frankly, more convincingly? Many people have been persuaded by advertising to TRY Goodyear tires. But everyone knows that this is all that advertising can do. Further purchases depend solely upon the superior performance of the product.

No, the real reason why millions more people ride on Goodyear tires is this: MORE TIRE EXPERIENCE PROVES GOODYEAR TO BE THE BEST TIRES IN THE WORLD.

Most car owners have been driving for years. They have experimented with many kinds of tires. By the costly process of comparison they have learned the truth about tires—AND THEY NOW ALWAYS BUY GOODYEAR.

Why is Goodyear able to make the best tires and yet charge no more for them?

First, Goodyear—for 14 years now—has been the largest manufacturer of tires in the world. Producing many millions more tires than any other company lowers cost.

Second, Goodyear—with its tremendously greater resources—has created, patented and controls many ways for producing the finest tires at the cost of ordinary quality.

You get our watchful, helpful year 'round service and you pay no more—free tires less—for a Goodyear, which will carry you thousands of extra trouble-free miles. There's a genuine Goodyear at any price you care to pay, from the new improved Pathfinder Trend type in standard and heavy duty. All Goodyear tires and that "tire of tires"—the Double Eagle.

To save yourself the bother and cost of re-discovering a fact which many many millions of other car owners have already proved beyond all doubt—

Before anyone "talks" you into accepting something else, STOP AND THINK... "Why do MILLIONS MORE PEOPLE ride on Goodyear tires?"

STOP AND THINK... "Why do MILLIONS MORE PEOPLE ride on Goodyear tires?"

With its many vital Betterments PLYMOUTH becomes an Even More Remarkable CAR

Features of vital importance added by Chrysler engineers to Plymouth's modern high-compression engine enable this great power plant to attain a new degree of operating efficiency, with still greater smoothness, silence and flexibility.

Lengthened piston stroke, larger crankshaft with bigger bearings, larger connecting rods and camshaft bearings, full-pressure lubrication of new design, an advanced system of manifold and improved crankcase ventilation assure added excellence in performance with an increase in economy.

Not have improvements in Plymouth been confined solely to the power plant, Plymouth now offers self-conforming cushions that insure a "easy-chair" repose. A refinement made in the steering mechanism creates an even more sensitive response to the driver's will.

1929 Plymouth—product of Chrysler engineering and craftsmanship—has been so improved by its new features and added strength, ruggedness and freedom from vibration so accurately that it is the most American of cars.

Add to these such other costly features as aluminum alloy pistons, rubber engine mountings, and a scientifically engineered chassis with 4-wheel hydraulic brakes, of the famous Chrysler weatherproof, internal-expanding type.
