CHICAGO GANGSTERS ENGAGE IN SECOND BRUESOME KILLING

Triple Execution-Retention for Slaying of Members of Moran Gang

Chicago Police's Theory

(By The Associated Press) HAMMOND, Ind., May 8.—Three Chicago gunmen were sentenced today to the gas chamber for the slaying of a man named Harry P. Slinn, a member of the famous Moran gang.

The victims were John Seibel, Robert Anselmi and Joseph Galante.

Police officers in the slaying of seven members of George Moran's gang by machine-guns in a North Clark street garage in St. Vincent's church and chalked up the score as three to seven.

In a lonely spot just over the Illinois state line, bodies were found, two in a heap on the back seat of an expensive ston automobile, and the other at a distance of 100 feet to the side of the road.

Chicago officials with records and photographs hurried here after Hammond police officers had notified them of the slaying.

Word went out to round up the followers of Moran whose gang was nearly wiped out on St. Vincent's day. The slaying was under investigation in connection with the killings.

Members of the Moran gang were arrested in Chicago and the Moran gang was reportedly "discovered" he was one of the gang.

Reconstruction of the killing was given by Dr. Ell B. Jones, coroner's physician, who examined the bodies.

Another bullet crashed into his jaw.

Senate Retains Debenture Plan by Vote of 47 to 44

Against Wishes of Hoover

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 8.—Despite President Hoover's emphatically expressed objection, the senate voted 47 to 44 today to retain the export debenture plan in its farm relief bill.

Thirteen Republican Independents joined an almost solid Democratic vote in defeating an attempt by administration forces to eliminate the disputed provision.

The bill already passed by the house does not provide for debentures, and inclusion of the plan in the senate measure was held by its opponents to complicate attachment of farm relief legislation.

Only two Democrats left their party line to join with administration supporters in the elimination move. They were Wagner, New York; and other Democrats, Walsh, Massachusetts, and King, Utah.

HEFLIN PLAYS JAIL OFFICIALS IN CHARGE OF HARRY SINCLAIR

Time For Those in Authority to Stop Trucking to Millionaire Criminals—Declares Senator

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 8.—The order forbidding jail officials to give any information concerning Harry P. Slinn to the press during his three month term was denounced in the senate today by Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama.

With the wealthy Alabama legislator himself to be released on Monday full day of his sentence, the Alabama senator declared it was time for those in authority to stop trucking to millionaires.

The only information forthcoming at the jail was that Sinclair's work in the drug room had not been interrupted by any unusual occurrence.

George S. Wilson, director of the board of public welfare, today declined requests for modification of his order. He declared that photographers and news gatherers had caused demoralization of public welfare officials by interrupting officials at their work.

Both Major William L. Peak, the warden, and Captain M. M. Barnard, superintendent of district penal institutions, disapproved of Wilson's move. It was indicated at the office of the district commissioner that the order might be lifted.

Senator Heflin told the senate that Sinclair was not entitled to any special privileges and described him as "this thief who stole from the government."

"The press will not be permitted to go to his cell and write about him," Heflin declared, "but a poor boy would have had a better chance of such a thing if he were a convict."

TOM MIX TO ANSWER CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Cowboy Who Rode Broncho Into Fame Indicted For Defrauding Government

LOS ANGELES, May 8.—(AP)—Tom Mix, Idaho cowboy, who rode a broncho into wealth and fame is welcome to the time by government attorneys.

With this in view the federal grand jury here today indicted Mix on charges of defrauding more than $100,000 in income tax and conspiring to defraud the government out of nearly $80,000.

Three indictments were returned against the actor. These also accuse three other persons with conspiracy in income tax and defrauding the government.

In Minneapolis, where he is appearing at a theatre, Mix today declared his innocence and said he would give attention to his tax reports, leaving it in the hands of a counselor. This counselor is one of those accused in the indictments.

One of the two conspiracy indictments, Mix, Eugene J. Ford, his wife's lawyer, and Miss Berger, are charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of $413,487. Miss Berger was indicted recently for alleged "fixing" motion pictures for other noted motion picture stars.

The first of the three indictments, all of which were prepared in Washington and sent here for disposition, charged Mix with failure to pay a required tax throughout the three years involved and accused him of stamping to defraud and evade payment.

FOUR SINCLAIR

It is a far cry from the traditional bread and water of prison fare to the menu of Harry C. Sinclair's first breakfast in the Washington jail. Sinclair is serving a three-month sentence for refusal to answer questions put to him during his trial on a charge of swindling the government through fraudulent oil leases. He was not convicted on the original charge as his guilt was apparent to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Apparently for no other reason than because of his wealth he is to have a more comfortable existence than falls to the lot of the ordinary inmate. He is also to be well fed, although not more so than his fellow convicts. This for breakfast on the first day of his incarceration the menu consisted of cereal and eggs, corn muffins and coffee. Lunch and dinner are on a similar scale. Probably it is all right. At least the practice is followed by custom. But there isn't anything very terrible in the sentence of this kind. The only thing Sinclair will miss is his liberty and it is very unlikely that he will serve his entire three months sentence without at least one occasional trip beyond the walls on an "urgent business" excuse.

Nor is there any particular disgrace attaching to such a sentence, at least to the man of the Sinclair type. There will be regular hours and regular meals and a certain amount of recreation. He will be able to see his family and friends and when he gets out, in his own particular circle of acquaintances the joke will be on him. Fear of the law will hardly be strengthened by his "experience" either in his own mind or that of others. It is hard to see where there is anything of punishment about it, although under the law it is probably all that could be done for him.

ONE FORM OF RELIEF

In connection with pending legislation in the interests of farm relief one method calculated to contribute to this increase is to grant the proposed tariff increase on foreign sugar.

It is a fact generally known that only sixteen per cent of the sugar consumed in America is a product of the cane and beet fields of America. All the rest is imported and because of the low cost of foreign production this percentage of import will probably increase unless relief of some sort is provided. The chief purpose of tariff protection is to foster and develop home production and manufacture, sugar would look like a good place at which to concentrate. Apart altogether from the advantage of the sugar beet crop to the farmer, it is conceivable that if foreign sugar had to be sold at a higher price a part at least of the benefits to American sugar manufacturers would go to the man who grows the beets and the cane. The response of the proposition is even more favorable. If the price paid for beets should drop to a point below which beet growing would be no longer profitable something like six hundred thousand acres of land now in sugar beets and cane would automatically go into the production of other crops in many of which an annual surplus has already been reached.

There isn't much in the way of agricultural relief in any one form except the beets in the case seem to stress such a possibility. Sugar production needs the tariff increase asked for. This is pretty well established in the single fact that of all the sugar consumed in the country, so small a part is home manufactured.

There is one thing to be said very surely about trees—I have just come from a long walk among them and I am looking out on them a whole new attitude clothed with trees right up to the very summit. There is one thing surely to be said of them and that is that they bring a lesson and that the more intimately one becomes acquainted with the great family, the more one appreciates their worth.

Who knows and loves the wind in the tree. The sigh and the turf on the strand. Or the breeze as it blows through the like rain on a thirsty land. There is, to be sure, the dendrology.

Federal Court's Jury Acquits Congressman Of Liquor Smuggling

KEY WEST, Fla., May 8 (AP)—Congressman M. Alfred Armstrong of the seventh Florida district, in federal court here, late tonight, of charges of prohibition law violation by smuggling and transporting liquor into this country from Cuba in baggage.

Armstrong refused to say, when he returned to England, after some thirty years spent in China, that all Englishmen were the same, whereas the same could never be said of the Chinese. Western peoples, naturally and wholeheartedly, reverse the situation. And so it is with the trees. Even the man having a good average acquaintance with the family finds, as his acquaintance becomes all more intimate, that for years he has been mistaking his brother and sister, in the most light-hearted and confident manner possible. Of course all this applies only to the inevitable average man. To the man who has made no special study of the question, who is glad and grateful to take trees as he finds them.

3,000,000 Japanese Children Send Gift to Boys and Girls of Gem State

DELICATE ORIENTAL DOLL STANDS AMONG EXHIBITS IN MUSEUM

Governor Baldrige Acknowledges Receipt of Tiny Ambassador and Expresses Deep Appreciation

(By The Associated Press.) BOISE, May 8.—A delicately modeled Japanese doll, garbed in the richest of silk kimonos, stands serenely in the state museum in the capitol among the snakes, Indian relics, and wagon wheels, shielded from her coarseness by a thin glass partition.

The doll, christened "Miss Nara" was donated to the children of Idaho by the united efforts of nearly three million Japanese children who found time between tornadoes and volcano explosions to fashion such a doll for each of the 49 states of the Union in addition to several of the larger cities of the land.

Moreover, the little body is richly equipped with a set of doll furniture made of inlaid silver and gold trimmings that would be the envy of a princess. Included in the list are several trunks and traveling wardrobes as well as dressing tables and a complete tea service.

Two Pairs of Sandals The here are the last two pair of finely embroidered sandals, a high pair for street wear and a low pair for house wear. In addition, there comes a promise with the doll that every five years the children of Japan will send it a complete new wardrobe.

In caring for the display, Mrs. Ella Reed, caretaker of the museum, found it impossible to give the doll and its equipment the space which it merited but, by pasting in the glass case, assures that it will be seen by scores of youngsters as well as grown-ups.

Unfortunately, in her travels around the country before she was finally assigned to Idaho, the little lady received a diff on the tip of her nearly tinted nose that cost her some of the costume. However, she seems not at all perturbed about it.

Named After Prefecture Miss Nara was named after the prefecture of Nara in Japan from whence she came. As a mark of gratitude, Governor H. C. Baldrige sent a letter to the governor of the prefecture, the Honorable Bunaku Kudara.

"For the state of Idaho," the governor of Nara replied in the most gracious and complimentary of terms, "I am glad to know that you have received the gift of the Japanese ambassador, Miss Nara, with her accessories, all of which are the product of great interest and pleasure to the citizens of our state who have the opportunity to see them in our state museum."

"Please convey to the good children of Japan our sincere gratitude for this token of their kindly feeling. Assure them that Miss Nara will be carefully preserved in the historical department of the state of Idaho, ever effectively expressing the good will of the children of Japan for those of America."

The State We Live In
BY BYRON DEFENBACH
HIGH LIGHTS OF OUR PAST
The Treaty of 1846 ended the 40-year quarrel between the merchants and the British on the fur question and in the same year the territory of Oregon was formed by "tucking" all of our country west of the Rocky mountains between parallels 42 and 49.

In 1859, Washington territory was created to include Idaho and parts of Montana and Wyoming. In 1863 Idaho territory was made out of parts of Washington, Nebraska and Dakota. It had four counties, Shoshone, Nez Perce and Idaho in the north, and Boise county south of the Salmon.

The next counties in their order were Owyhee, Oneida, Alturas, Latah, Kootenai, Ada, Lemhi, Bear Lake, Cassia, Washington, Outlet, Blaine, Blaine and Logan. These counties were in existence when the state was admitted in 1890. Five of them were north of the Salmon River and 13 south.

Relatives Search for Children in Ruins of School

SEARCHING PARTIES dug through ruins of the Rye Cove, Virginia, school, seeking missing relatives. Fourteen students and one teacher were killed, and two score injured when a tornado struck the school.

Fifteen Killed When Tornado Demolishes Schoolhouse

FOURTEEN STUDENTS and one teacher were killed when a tornado levelled the schoolhouse at Rye Cove, Virginia. More than two score were injured, including the principal, who was hurled into the water in front of the building.

War was in 1877. The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows was organized in 1883. The first Idaho man to become governor of the territory was Edward A. Stevenson, who was elected in 1890. In 1890 a law passed to annex North Idaho to Washington territory, but was not signed by President Cleveland, and so failed to become a law. It is said that the act was defeated by the influence of the governor through this relative, the vice president.

Our first state governor was George L. Shoup, first congressman, William J. McConnell, Senator Borah's father-in-law, Burton L. French was first elected to congress in 1902, Senator Borah in 1907 and Addison A. Smith in 1912. Dr. S. Dietrich was appointed a federal judge in 1908. Governor Steuneger was assassinated in December, 1905.

The great seal of the state of Idaho was designed by Miss Emma Edwards. The first extensive irrigation system was the New York canal in Ada county. Idaho adopted woman suffrage in 1896 and was the third state in the Union to do so. The direct primary and local option laws were passed in 1909. The bone-dry prohibition law passed in 1915. In 1917 the legislature petitioned congress to admit a prohibition amendment to the federal constitution and in 1919 the Eighteenth amendment was ratified by Idaho.

Old Iron Fountain, Last Of Former Statehouse's Vestiges, Leaves Grounds

BOISE, May 8.—Probably the last vestige of the old statehouse has been removed from the present capitol grounds with the digging up of the old iron fountain which played part of the old statehouse's desert stretch of land.

The fountain, a heavy iron affair, was one of the several many years ago. It was a tall, slender column of cast iron, topped with a globe. It was surrounded by a low wall and a path. It was a popular spot for children to play in.

Another sign of the advancement of the times is seen in the cleared appearance of the lawn surrounding the statehouse. A new irrigation system—authorized by the last legislature, has been installed and in time will result in greatly improving the appearance of the grass. At present however the grounds present the appearance of a major work in progress, with a clear view of trenches where the pipe was laid.

EXPERIMENT STATION BUSY TESTING WHEAT

Principal Object of Work Determination of Best Variety For Idaho Soils

BOISE, May 8.—A large row of wheat extending 15 miles over hill and dale would be the picture presented if all of the rows of wheat in the cereal experiment station being conducted by the University of Idaho experiment station were placed end to end. Thirty-five varieties of wheat would be in the row. The principal object of the experiment is to determine the two varieties best adapted to the conditions of various parts of the state. Yield value is considered along with market demand. So far only winter wheat has been used in the experiment. These varieties are scattered widely over the state in order to determine the effect of different climate, rainfall and other conditions. The ground was divided into small plots by local farmers.

Leading varieties of wheat already being produced in each section are planted in these small plots along with other varieties with which to make comparisons. Three red-length rows are planted. The middle row is harvested, the yield from which is used in determining the yearly average. Work of planting and harvesting is done by the experiment station.

The nurseries are continued for five years to obtain reliable information. Some of them are already three years old. Nearly every county in the state has some of the nurseries.

Indian Tribes of Great Northwest Adept at Artistic Facial Make-Up

BY FLOYD W. LAMBORN. (Associated Press Staff Writer) SPOKANE, May 8.—The Northwest Indian boy or maiden who wished to acquire "it" in the eyes of a fellow tribesman went out and found a lot of paint. But instead of making for the lops of the medicine man, who served the same purpose then as the carrier of stragat does now, the beauty-seeker found a few colored berries, some red and yellow clay and burned a few sticks of charcoal. With this equipment he proceeded to do his own make-up in a matter of time. Then, as an added touch, the remainder of the coloring, if any, would be used to brighten up the clothes. The Chinooks were adept at imitating tattooing, which, it appears, was not practiced freely at that time. They used charcoal made into a paste with salmon grease, colored clay and the red, purple or yellow juices of berries. After every viable portion of the skin had been spotted they often would insert long strings of colored beads in the cartilage of their noses.

The Yakimas, Elkins and Nez Perces believed that-pain had charms. The Nez Perces frequently striped their bodies with white mud, giving an effect not unlike an evening with the Chinooks varied the plan and used red and black pigments. The latter, however, confined this type of decoration to their bodies. Many other tribes covered their bodies, first with a thick coating of grease, and then with a layer of paint. At the annual Bay View Republican club's dinner, Charles E. Mohrman, who admits he is a Democrat and is proud of it, planted himself in the audience. Then he began to hum a familiar tune. Within a few moments the entire gathering was singing "The Sidewalks of New York."

IRRIGATION ENGINEER REPORTS ON FINDINGS IN STUDY OF METHODS

E. H. Neal Advises Eliminate Shortage of Supply On Unusual Years

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, May 8.—Scientific use of water will tend to eliminate many of the hazards of short water years in irrigation farming, E. H. Neal, irrigation engineer in charge of Idaho, said today following a study of farming methods over southern Idaho.

Neal said the need of a knowledge of the water demands of different crops is apparent among many groups of farmers. Many were watering sandy soils far in excess of the amount the soil could hold, while in other sections the water quickly percolated down below where the roots of the growing plants could reach it. This water was being lost to the ditch being over saturated where the roots of the growing plants could reach it. This water was being lost to the ditch being over saturated where the roots of the growing plants could reach it.

Sandy soils need watering more often but not in such great quantities as heavier soils, crop demands being equal, he said.

Corrugations Too Long

Another waste he found in the practice of using too long corrugations, or water channels, through which to course the water to the crops. This resulted in the sections of the row close to the ditch being over saturated with water during the time the parts near the end of the row were getting the water. All water in the row was lost the roots of the plants near the ditch was lost. Use of shorter corrugations would have resulted in this water being saved for other purposes.

Along this line he also advocated use of larger streams of water for shorter periods rather than smaller streams for longer periods. This would result in larger streams of water for shorter periods rather than smaller streams for longer periods. This would result in larger streams of water for shorter periods rather than smaller streams for longer periods.

FARMERS WORKING TO MAKE UP LOST TIME

Growers Plant Potatoes, Beans and Beets in Big Acreage in Gem State

BOISE, May 8.—Farmers are working hard to make up for the backward season and nature will take care of its share by about June 1, W. H. Wickes, chief field inspector of the department of agriculture, said today on his return from a tour of southern Idaho.

Wickes said the growers were planting potatoes, beans and beets in considerable quantities though he was unable to make an estimate of the total acreage of any of the crops.

The potatoes, which were planted with the upturn in price of potatoes which was placing some needed money in the pockets of those who had previously been unable to market their potatoes at a fair price.

The growers were continuing to put on the dormant spray for scale and other bark infestations, the buds not having come out sufficiently to be damaged by the solution. The Calyx spray was expected to be used in some sections, notably the Hagerman valley. In the near future as the warm weather was bringing the buds out.

The irrigation season is opening on the North Side this week. Many farmers have started irrigation of alfalfa, while others are preparing to water. WALLACE, May 8 (AP)—Seven mining companies operating in the Shoshone country made net profits of $4,625,688 in 1928, statements filed with W. H. Herrick, county auditor, have revealed.

The Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentrating company, one of the largest lead-zinc producers in the world, headed the list with $2,213,081. The net value of the ore extracted during the year was $2,777,000, more than the total net profit of the seven mining companies. Operating expenses, however, were $4,425,012.

Earnings of the Federal Mining and Smelting company, which operates the Morning Mine at Mullan, were $1,894,227. Of this amount, the Morning mine contributed $1,854,224, the Page mine, near Kellogg, $102,443; the Frisco mine, $21,413, and the Blackhawk mine $14,040.

The Hecla Mining company which is classified among the newer properties of the region, earned $310,386, with a gross yield of $482,000. This comparison was $373,320.

The Gold Hunter Mines operated at a profit of $99,320 and the Jack Wall's Consolidated Mining company earned $10,156. The Cathlamet Lead-zinc company lost $23,302 in the operation of the Gatemine and the constitution mining company reported a deficit of $1,664.

The Golconda Lead Mines company was kept in the red because of heavy expense incurred through construction of its mill.

BALTIMORE, May 8 (AP)—A federal jury ruled that a veteran paraplegic injured in navy service and here in immigrant children whose interest he proposed in a flag contest, has been denied citizenship by the court of honor of the United States flag association.

For eight years the veteran, Walter J. Koldziejewski, has laid on his bed in his humble little home in the heart of an industrial section populated by immigrants from most of the nations of the earth.

Pravles Veterans

The contest, requiring essays on "Old Glory—Greatest Glory," was seized by him as another way to serve the flag. "I love the flag," he wrote, "and I desire to enter the contest. Almost unaided he organized and directed the contest in his vicinity.

His essay was brought to the attention of the flag association, which voted him the cross-similar to the award of "Greatest Glory" by the association's commander, Richard E. Dyer. James A. Moss, director general of the association, himself the veteran of three wars and now retired, made the award.

Pravles Veterans

In placing the medal on the breast of the "veteran," Colonel Moss said: "Walter J. Koldziejewski, in my life I have seen men perform many heroic deeds, but never have I seen a man whose life presents a nobler or more unselfish example to his fellow Americans than yours.

The citation says that the cross was given in recognition of exceptionally valuable and meritorious service rendered the flag. The citation is signed by Calvin Coolidge, as honorary president of the association; Ellihu Root, president; and others.

COUNT LUCKNER THE Sea Devil by LOWELL THOMAS

Copyright by Doubleday, Doran & Co. "By Joe, what a fine motor boat," exclaimed when I saw it.

You couldn't blame the authorities for knowing what the remainder of the Sea Devil's crew was, and were worried about a possible raid to liberate us.

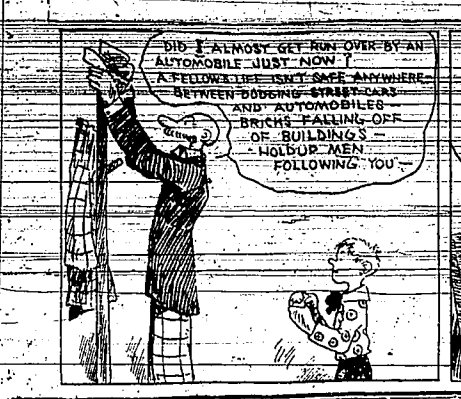

One had contrived to fill and hide away a number of tools. Another had found a derelict floating mine and taken the fuses from it and made a large quantity of dynamite.

First it was necessary to quiet the prisoners. The camp doctor was a German, apparently expected me to break into one of his camp breathing fire from my nostrils.

Nearly everybody in the camp suffered severely from rheumatism. A was one of the worst cases. The camp commander was making a raft from the motor boat in order to conserve the fuel.

One midnight a guard happened to notice three of my men building a work. He was making a rifle from a tin can. Another was making a red pistol holder.

HEIR TO FORTUNE

ALTHOUGH there were scuffles all over the camp, it could have been put off for some days of outfitting them. We would have to slow the boat with a large amount of caulk.

Burley Advances Toward Water Right of Airport

DUREX, May 8 (Special to The News)—The water right for the new airport at Burley was given Tuesday by the Burley Irrigation district board to the city council Monday evening. The irrigation district would accept and dispose of the water right now appropriated to the airport lands.

Burley Advances Toward Water Right of Airport

An effort has been made by the city of Burley to purchase this water right for municipal uses. The step could not be legally taken, however, as the city is not within the irrigation district. A bill was then prepared to be introduced in congress, to segregate the airport water right from the lands, and to allow the Burley district to sell and transfer the water right to lands within the district that are without water right. The bill has been approved by the reclamation department and action is expected to be taken there at the next session of congress.

BURLEY WILL INSTALL NEW CAST IRON WATER MAINS

BURLEY, May 8 (Special to The News)—Officials of Burley are planning to take up the old wooden water pipes on the state highway where it runs through town, to replace them with heavy 12-inch and 10-inch cast iron mains. It is proposed to bury this work so as to have it finished in time for the spring progress to be instituted this year.

On the state highway, the wooden pipes will be re-laid along the gutter and all wooden mains under other streets will be allowed to remain in place. It is being planned to use the old system for a low pressure installation for irrigating lawns and gardens. The old system will be supplied from six low wells and will be under but 10 to 15 pounds pressure. The new mains will be under high pressure, furnished from the city's 1100-foot well of soft water.

This year's program for new mains will cost about $8000 and is in advance of the customary installation of one carload of new mains each year. There will be three carloads of heavy pipes used this year, the first one being now in transit from Birmingham, Alabama.
