America's Tennis Team Triumphs in Zone Davis Cup Finals

Hennessey and Van Ryan All but Clinch Victory in Detroit

Without Extra Uncle Sam's Pair of Johnnies Routs Cuba's Best Talent in Straight Sets in Singles

By PAUL R. MICKELSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)—DETROIT, May 30—Uncle Sam's pair of tennis Johnnies, Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, and Johnny Van Ryan, East Orange, New Jersey, went marching on in double-time today, all but clinching victory for the United States in the American zone Davis cup finals against Cuba.

Without even extending themselves under the hot sun that shivered the Detroit tennis clubs, they routed Cuba's best, Captain Ricardo Morales and Gustavo Volmer, in straight sets in the opening two singles matches. The one-sided victory in the United States team to win but one of the remaining three matches—one doubles and two singles—was so certain that Van Ryan plays tomorrow against Cuba.

Without even extending themselves under the hot sun that shivered the Detroit tennis clubs, they routed Cuba's best, Captain Ricardo Morales and Gustavo Volmer, in straight sets in the opening two singles matches. The one-sided victory in the United States team to win but one of the remaining three matches—one doubles and two singles—was so certain that Van Ryan plays tomorrow against Cuba.

Van Ryan Wins Easily
Van Ryan, vanquishing Volmer, 6-0, 6-1, but Hennessey, who decided to experiment his chop and forehand strokes when he came on the scene, was more extended, winning 6-0, 6-3, 6-4.

Handicapped by the faster American bats and a livelier court than they were accustomed to in Cuba, they had no match for the United States stars. Only 10 of the 45 games in both matches were forced to double the extra time games. Van Ryan and Hennessey won seven, bearing down with a back court game that bewildered the Cubans and caused them off their feet.

Fit Eugene Dixon, non-playing captain of the United States team, has selected Van Ryan and William Whitman to play in the doubles match tomorrow afternoon. They will be opposed by Morales and Uppman.

A Washington Bystander

By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON, May 30.—How the Johnson nomenclature in his Ohio could an old handman of politics like Simpson Press, Ohio, believe that his newspaper is an opposition of personal treatment to an Ohio constituent was merely a matter of state news without national significance.

When he wrote it and called the roll of party irregulars who had bolted administration leadership to vote for the export debenture plan, the Ohio senator gave out the letter with the idea that it would be used only in Ohio papers. Senator Fess knows differently now. His application of that "pseudo" title to the irregulars brought down their wrath upon his head without delay.

That an administration vote was particularly tough on Senator Watson of Indiana, majority leader. He was to lose his first battle in that capacity. He's a far more philosophical type than Fess, however, and on the day of the vote he appeared in the senate wrapped in the ample folds of a long-tailed black coat and with all the sartorial trappings of grandeur, including a glossy silk tie.

Guiding Your Child

These aspects of children's behavior which are inconceivable to their elders are the ones which require attention first of all. These problems which present no conflict with the adult world are likely to go unnoticed, although often they are of the greatest importance in the child's own life.

The relation of our child to other children is of primary importance to him. To give only little hints or thoughts. Beryl is a competent, wholesome little girl who has developed a dependent attachment to a dominating child of her own age. The object of her affection while possessed of a magnetic personality is arrogant and inconsiderate. She takes advantage of Beryl's obvious adoration by smothering her one day and shunning with her the next.

160,000 Fans Mass To See Keech Win Indianapolis Race

1928 race, coming here after gaining fame by setting a new world record of 207.55 miles an hour on the beach at Daytona, Florida, before he was an unassuming, small-time, dirt track driver around Philadelphia.

In winning the race today, Keech exhibited a brand of steady, consistent and nerve driving which would have done credit to the greatest names in track history. An outsider with the public, Keech was never worse off than tenth during the entire 500 miles. He took the lead at 302 miles when Meyer, who was leading at the time, was forced to the pits to replace a front tire that was torn to shreds and to replenish fuel and oil. Meyer was forced to remain in the pits 6 minutes and 45 seconds due to his inability to get his motor started again. While Meyer was frantically working over the motor, Keech shot into the lead, retaining it to the end when he got the checkered flag declaring him the winner.

Keech, driving a rear drive car was fourth at the first 50 miles, tenth at 100, seventh at 150, fifth at 200, third at 250, and second at the 300 and 350-mile marks, then he went into the lead and was never headed.

Misfortune descended on Lou Moore of Los Angeles, whose car piloted by a relief driver was forced to stop with only five miles to go and with second place apparently clinched. Moore jumped in to the car and started a mad dash on his last two laps but a connecting rod burned out on the back stretch and he was forced to quit. The top end of Moore exactly $10,000, second prize money.

Meyer's time for the five century race was 5:13:49.21 and Glenn in third place, finished in 5:20:10.46. Carl Marchese, a youthful Milwaukee, Speed Gardiner, another Philadelphia driver, was fifth and Fred Winnall, also of Philadelphia, sixth. Louis Chiron, Paris, one of two foreign entries and 1928 European champion finished seventh with Billy Arnold, Chicago, eighth, Cliff Bergere, Los Angeles, was ninth, and Fred Framp, Philadelphia, was awarded tenth place. He was tagged down without finishing. Experts consider it miraculous that only one driver was killed.

POTATO CASE HELD IN SHOSHONE COURT

Judge Sutphen Declines to Grant Commissioner's Motion of Change of Venue

Trial in the $55,000 damage suit brought by Carl L. DeLong, Twin Falls potato dealer, against John S. Welch, Idaho commissioner of agriculture, and others, will not be transferred from Lincoln county to Ada county, according to ruling of District Judge D. H. Sutphen, Shoshone, received here Thursday.

Judge Sutphen's ruling denied motion of Welch and other defendants for change of venue from his court. The case previously had been transferred from Twin Falls county to Lincoln county when Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here granted defendants' motion for change of venue and when parties to the action could not agree on the place where it should be tried, designated district court in Lincoln county as place for trial.

DeLong in this action alleges conspiracy on the part of the commissioner and other defendants to injure his business.

Defendants besides Welch are George Tucker, employe of state department of agriculture; Idaho Falls Potato Growers; Fred Gustafson, Idaho Falls.

Farm Production Far Greater Than Increase in Population

FEDERAL ECONOMIST POINTS TO TREND IN AGRICULTURAL REALM

Expert Cites Facts in Supporting Belief Increase in Crop Acreage Would Not Be Proper at Present Time

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Farm production in the United States has increased a half more rapidly than population since the World War. This increase in production certainly has been more rapid than at any time since 1900, and probably more rapid than any time since 1890. Moreover, it has been accomplished despite a decrease in the number of farms and in farm population, a decrease in the number of farm animals, and a slight decrease in crop acreage. Incomplete data for the years 1927 and 1928 indicate that agricultural production is still increasing at a rate more rapid than the increase in our population. These facts, together with evidence that population growth is slowing up, are set forth in a report by Dr. O. E. Baker, economist in the United States department of agriculture, in support of his belief that the welfare of agriculture requires careful consideration of any proposals involving an increase in crop acreage. It should not be necessary, he says, "to expand the net farm area of the nation during the next decade. Nearly all the requisite increase in our crop acreage" can be obtained by cultivating the crop land that is now idle in farms. In addition to this idle crop land, farms contain more than 100,000,000 acres of plowable pasture, as well as large areas that could be cropped if cleared or drained. However, there will not be a notable increase in crop acreage in the Great Plains region, where the "wheat-belt" continues to make super-marginal hundreds of acres of semi-arid land that was formerly sub-marginal, and probably will be a continued decrease in crop acreage in the hilly or less fertile lands of the East and South. After 1940 the country will have available some 500,000,000 acres of potentially cultivable land, an area greater than the total farm land at present. Less than half of this amount would need to be added to the existing crop area in order to supply a population of 200,000,000. The acreage of the crops are likely to increase, and the increasing production of meat and milk per unit of feed consumed by farm animals is likely to continue. It may be that not more than one-fourth of the 200,000,000 acres of potential crop land will ever need to be used for crops, unless the United States should be called on to contribute increasingly to the foreign demand for food and fibers.

Fundamental Cause
Overs-expansion of the country's crop area, says Dr. Baker, is one of the fundamental causes of the present agricultural depression, but, excessive stimulation of agricultural expansion during the last half century was more or less excusable. No one, Dr. Baker remarks, could have foreseen the coming of the automobile and the tractor, which have released a large amount of land formerly reserved to feed horses and mules. The increasing production of milk and meat per unit of feed consumed by the farm animals, nor did anyone realize the influence of shifts from less productive crops per acre, and from less productive to more productive classes of farm animals. Moreover, he says, prior to the World War no adequate evidence existed of the rapid approach of a stationary population in the United States.

All this, it appears, is now changed. It is plain to everyone that new forces are afoot in the world, and Dr. Baker believes the application of science and invention to agriculture is advancing at an accelerating rate. Nevertheless, he thinks, the tendency will be as it has been in the past, to bring more land into use for crops than is needed. Unless settlement is prudent, he says, that periods of agricultural depression will recur.

Facts relating to the trend of production, the trend of consumption and the trend of population growth form the basis of Dr. Baker's analysis of the long-time agricultural outlook. From an average acre of crops, the United States has produced practically five times as much as in the five-year period, 1922-1926, and 124 percent greater than in the five-year period, 1917-1921. In production per capita of the population the increase was about 5 percent. More than two-thirds of the gain is attributed by Dr. Baker to animal products, and the remainder to plant products. The use of automobiles and tractors in agriculture in the period from January ing property and in 1928, when the birth rate was larger than the average for the United States. The birth rate is lower in other parts of the country. The birth rate in the United States was 20.6 per cent in 1928, based on the basis of the data available. It is, however, still an increase that is not to be taken for granted, especially in view of the fact that a condition is now being witnessed in the United States that our population is being caused by the long period of peace.

West Texas Oil Men Free Wells of Sulphur Water
SAN ANGELO, TEXAS, May 30.—West Texas operators have solved the perennial oil field problem of eliminating salt water and sulphur water from oil wells.
Large holes, 150 to 400 feet deep, have been drilled to shallow dry sands which frequently act as reservoirs. Water then is forced into them.
Experiments are under way to determine whether this water is seeping through the earth to fresh water sands and polluting them. Some geologists believe this will result when the dry sands are saturated.

COUNCIL WOULD PRESERVE MIDDLE-WESTERN MOUNDS

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Steps to preserve scientific study of the mounds erected in the Middle West by prehistoric peoples were taken here at a conference called by the national research council of Washington.
Earthen mounds, built by an ancient civilization and from which the mounds are unraveled a picture of the past, are being exploited by tourists, dealers in relics and by farmers who take the sites to till the land, it is said.
"In one county of Illinois, it is pointed out, there are 655 mounds, of which all but 50 have been looted. Contents have been scattered and valuable historical material lost."
Relics become mere junk when removed unsystematically, according to the council, and efforts will be made to acquaint the public with the necessity of leaving the material for expert interpretation.
The council is interested not only in preserving the sites for scientific study, but in making the material available for instruction in the states in which it lies. The mounds are abundant throughout the Mississippi valley. Efforts to

Alaskan Scientists to Study Aurora Borealis

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, May 30.—A scientific study of the aurora borealis and associated phenomena will be made this year from a station to be established in the Alaskan Agricultural College and school of mines.
The work will be under the direction of the American Geophysical Union in cooperation of a similar study being made at the University of Colorado, by Dr. Carl Strommer for the Rockefeller international education board.
Earthquakes Frequent In Eskimo's Homeland
NEW YORK, May 30.—"Earthquakes are getting less and less exclusive—probably because more instruments for detecting them are improving. At any rate, the Seismological Society of America, eastern section, reports that the Arctic regions have them now."
"Noel Odette, head of the Canadian geodetic survey," says a report of the society, "revealed that the land of long nights is not free from tremors and showed locations of several earthquakes within the Arctic circle."

1, 1920, to January 1, 1925, released from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 acres of crop land previously required to feed horses and mules. In the decade from 1918 to 1928 the amount of crop land thus released probably amounted to at least 15,000,000 acres, and perhaps 20,000,000 acres, or from one-fifth to one-fourth of all the land required in 1919 for that purpose. This land is now largely used to feed meat and milk animals or to grow wheat.
Turning to consumption, Dr. Baker finds additional evidence that caution should be exercised in increasing the area of land in cultivation. At present the per capita consumption of bread and veal taken together, and also of eggs, is about the same as at the beginning of the century. Per capita consumption of mutton and lamb, and also of chicken, is much less. Consumption of pork per capita is about 10 per cent greater, and of milk about 12 per cent greater. Continuation of the indicated trend toward a greater per capita consumption of milk and pork, and lessened consumption of mutton and lamb and beef, would reduce the amount of land required to feed a given population, for the hog and the dairy cow produce more human food per unit of feed consumed than do other farm animals. Since the war the consumption of animal foodstuffs has increased, and the expense of the consumption of plant foodstuffs. Any change in this tendency would decrease the amount of crop land required, for animal foodstuffs need much more land to produce than do human foodstuffs.
Consumption of farm products depends, of course, on the aggregate of the population as well as upon its per capita requirements. It was formerly taken practically for granted that growth of population in the United States would eventually press upon the limitations of the land supply. In recent years, however, statisticians have shown that the United States, and also the countries of northwestern Europe, are approaching a stationary population.

Dr. Baker, that the population of the United States will ever attain the high ratio to agricultural resources that exists in Europe. In fact, he says, it is calculated that within a few decades the United States will probably be dependent upon immigration for its increase in population, and that a stationary population will be attained in from 10 to 15 years at some time between 175,000,000 and 200,000,000.

What's in a name? You have heard this question asked. Possibly you have thoughtlessly said "nothing," but you didn't mean it. Or second thought you would have said, "Everything." That's true, too. Every name stands for something, good or bad. Some decidedly, extraordinarily good and reputable, others equally, but not disputable. Some firm names are synonyms of fairness, honesty and dependability; others of trickery, dishonesty and undependability.

Stars Displace Sun as Science Betters Time Measurement

EXHIBITS IN MUSEUM TRACE INSTRUMENTS FROM EARLIEST TIME

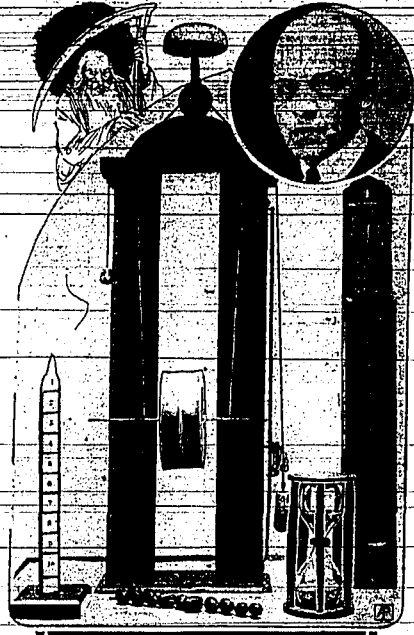

Globe Now Great Master Clock On Which All Time Pieces Depend Upon For Adjustment and Accuracy

By OSCAR LEIDING
Associated Press—Science Editor—
WASHINGTON, May 30.—The sun, man's first ally in the measurement of time, has been deserted for fixed stars as science has stepped in for standard recording.

That fact is brought out in the national museum in an exhibit, newly completed by Dr. Carl Mitman, which traces time-measuring devices from the days when a shadow cast by an upright stick in the ground was the first gauge.

The globe now is the great master clock by which all time pieces are adjusted. Standard time sent out by the United States naval observatory is reckoned from frequent observations of fixed stars through a six-inch telescope.

The telescope swings past the same fixed star every time the earth rotates. The period of rotation is called a sidereal day, and is a little less than four minutes shorter than an ordinary mensural day, because of the apparent motion of the sun among the stars.

Dr. Carl W. Mitman (Inset) has assembled early time measuring devices. Shown from left to right are King Al Fred's candle, a string of candle nuts (on the first mechanical escapement).

Three Advantages

Observations of stars, rather than the sun, have three advantages. There are eight fixed stars available. The nearness of the sun to the earth causes a distortion of position because of the atmosphere clinging about the world. Moreover, the sun is too lame. Its center cannot be seen clearly. It stays as like pin points in the sky.

The history of timepieces is a tale of man's effort to become less dependent directly on the sun. Sun dials were of no use in the dark and during the day, which measured hours during the night brought progress in a new direction.

An early form was the sinking dial, dating back to 4000 B. C. A bowl with a tiny hole in the bottom was floated in a pool of water. As it became full it sank and a son was warned by the noise to denote that another unit of time had passed.

The water clock followed in which running liquid actuated a mechanism and registered the fractions of time. Such a device, called a clepsydra, was used by Caesar during the Roman invasion of Gaul. He was frustrated one morning to arise and find his clock had stopped. The water had frozen.

Cold Weather Obstacle

To overcome the difficulty of liquid that froze in cold weather and evaporated in torrid countries the sand glass was devised.

The regular burning of a candle, rope or stick of compressed wood also was a popular form of time piece. Candle nuts, made of palm wood, were burned evenly because of their waxy composition.

Present day watches and clocks found their beginning early in the fourteenth century. The mechanical escapement did not come into use until 1364 and the pendulum after 1601. Early wood parts gave way to metal.

Engineer Urges Shops He Scientific Schools

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 30.—Recruiting more of the nation's higher technical personnel from among workers in industry is urged in a report to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers by W. E. Wickenden, New York.

He says the American system of technical education has developed in a one-sided manner. There should be schools parallel to the university system, to which students are admitted gratuitously, on evidence of their capability and interest, rather than formal scholastic credentials. The teaching should be based on direct instruction and experience.

Youth Problem Before Young Lutheran Group

DULUTH, Minn., May 30.—Church leaders seeking to chart and forecast tomorrow's religious trends may be given helpful signs when the Young People's Lutheran League of America meets here June 1 to 5 to discuss youth's reaction to present-day religious and social problems.

There will be 2000 official delegates from the United States and Canada, mission workers from South Africa, Madagascar and China, and thousands of laymen.

Dr. Martin Heeselder of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minnesota, is president. Governor Christianson of Minnesota will address the society, and a concert will be given by the Lutheran choral union of 1000 voices.

IDAHO UNIVERSITY PROGRAM COMPLETE

Three Major Events Included in Year's Commencement Plans at Moscow

MOSCOW, May 30.—(Special to The News)—The thirty-fourth annual commencement program of the University of Idaho will begin Saturday morning, June 8, with Alumni day, according to the program announced this week by Irving W. Jenks, assistant president of the university and chairman of the public events committee.

Three major events are included on this year's commencement program. It opens with Alumni day, followed by baccalaureate services and dedication of the memorial primary-gymnasium on Sunday, and graduation ceremonies Monday morning.

Two class reunions are planned for Alumni day, according to Earl David, president of the Alumni association. Breakfasts are scheduled for the classes of 1909 and 1919 for Saturday morning. Other alumni business will be taken care of during the day, and in the afternoon it is planned to hold an alumni golf tournament at the Moscow Country club. Letters have been received from members of the two classes, indicating that many are planning to attend the commencement program.

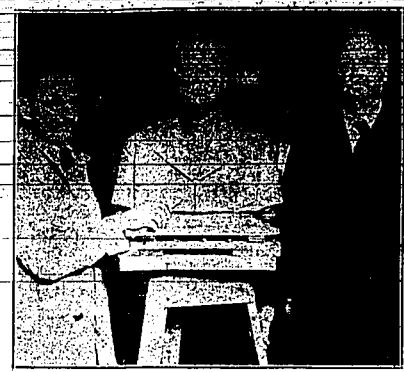

Approximately 350 bachelors' and masters' degrees will be granted June 10 at the graduation exercises. Of this number 304 will be bachelors' degrees and 48 masters' degrees. This will be the largest graduation since the history of the institution. Dr. M. Lyle Spencer, president of the University of Washington, will deliver the commencement address. The Rt. Rev. Middleton S. Barnwell, D. D., Boise, Episcopal bishop of the state of Idaho, will give the baccalaureate sermon. The other outstanding speaker on the three-day program will be Major General Robert Lee Bullard, Washington, who will give the dedicatory address at the dedication of memorial gymnasium.

Declo Man Charged With Forgery Waives Hearing

BURLEY, May 30.—(Special to The News)—H. C. Bebb, Declo, waived preliminary hearing before Justice A. C. Dunn, Wednesday, and was held to answer to a charge of forgery at the next term of district court. Bail was set at $200, which Bebb was unable to furnish. The defendant is charged with passing a check for $18 drawn by A. D. Kellogg—Declo, payable to E. A. Hanson. Kellogg's and Hanson's names were both forged. It is charged.

Several checks drawn and indorsed in a similar manner are in the hands of the Burley-Rupert Credit association, and it is claimed that they are the work of Bebb. The peculiar method of drawing and endorsing these checks made it difficult for merchants to remember and identify the man who passed them, and they accumulated for some time before Bebb was apprehended.

DAIRY DISPLAYS PROMOTE INTEREST PALMER AVERS

BURLEY, May 30.—(Special to The News)—Spring dairy shows held in Cassia and Minidoka counties have served well their purpose in arousing and maintaining interest in dairy cattle, according to W. W. Palmer, extension agent of Cassia county.

Shows and such exercises as judging and fitting, demonstrations and talks by dairy specialists, were given at Burley, Oakley and Malta in Cassia county, and at Rupert in Minidoka county. Cassia county showed 200 head of cattle, including a good representation at Rupert. The largest, as well as the most representative attendance, was at Oakley, where 400 people directly interested in dairy stock attended the Black and White show.

Palmer states that there is an increased interest displayed each year in the dairy shows, and that the class of stock is materially improving from year to year. He says that all indications point to a favorable future for the extension of dairying in this district.

At meetings held during or after these spring meetings, it was decided to continue the shows for another year. And at Burley the decision reached was to make an effort to extend the spring dairy show into a general dairy congress to be continued for two days and to conclude with an auction of dairy cattle.

“Wet” gasoline

Down the cylinder walls into your oil

OUT OF THE CRANKCASE, when you drain it, comes a thin black fluid—not the rich oil you bought five hundred or a thousand miles back.

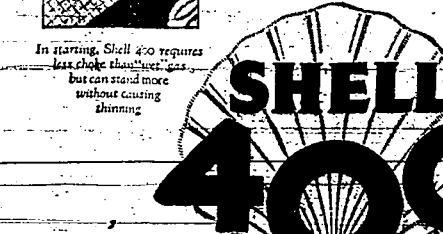

Full of gasoline you bought for power, for mileage. “Wet” gasoline that didn't explode, that trickled down the cylinder walls—worse than wasted for it has ruined your oil!

Yet lubrication men say they are finding many crankcases in which the oil is surprisingly free from dilution!

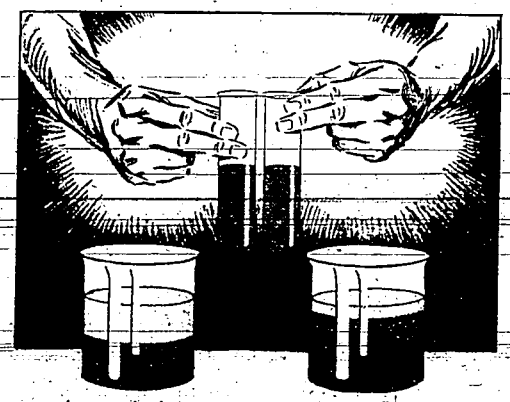

Connect that fact with this:

More and more drivers are careful to buy only Shell 400. Refined to an exact point, Shell 400 goes completely vaporized into the motor—a “dry” gas. It explodes cleanly, swiftly, leaving no “wet” particles, no waste. And so the words “more mileage,” “more power,” have at last taken on a real meaning!

Fill with Shell 400 today. Use it exclusively. It costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

In starting, Shell 400 requires less choke than wet gas, but can stand more without causing stalling.

An example of what a thousand miles of ordinary driving with ordinary gasoline can do—oil on the cylinder walls—thinning caused by incomplete explosion of “wet” gas.

Shell 400, the “dry” gas reduces oil thinning to a minimum. Notice this example—only one in a thousand miles of ordinary driving.

The “DRY” GAS

Shell Motor Oil, a new lubricant that forms less carbon, safe carbon, is the ideal running mate for Shell 400. Don't offset the good effects of Shell 400 by using an oil less fine than improved Shell Motor Oil.

CROPS GROW RAPIDLY IN SOUTHWEST IDAHO

Weather Bureau's Summary Shows Favorable Conditions in Irrigated Areas

BOISE, May 30 (Special to The News) - Favorable weather conditions with rapid development of crops in the irrigated districts of southwest Idaho is reported in the summary of weather and crop conditions for the week ending May 28 issued by Clifton E. Merges, meteorologist of the United States department of agriculture weather bureau.

The summary contains the following statements: Southwest Idaho - Weather conditions were exceptionally favorable during the week ending May 28. Sunshine abundant and afternoon temperatures were the highest of the season to date. In the irrigated sections all crops made rapid headway. However, near the close of the week there was a sharp change to colder with a great deal of wind driving rain. This slowed the growth of vegetation. The wind carried away much soil moisture and light frost occurred in a few localities but no damage resulted. Pasture and range feed is improving and livestock are doing well. The shipment of early lambs has begun.

Southwest Idaho - The first of the week was warm and dry. The last few days were decidedly colder. Some frost occurred but did no damage. Some late snow fell and this was very beneficial to crops especially on dry farms. Seeding has been practically completed in southern sections and is being pushed in the north. Winter wheat is starting well, although there was some winter killing. Spring wheat and oats are growing well. Sugar beets are getting a good start, although there was some winter killing. The range-aver crop is being helped by the rainfall of the last few days. Cattle and sheep are doing well on the ranges.

Field notes: Outlook - Irrigated crops doing fine; stock and range good; apples immature; grain and alfalfa prospects good; winter plant beans this week; some potatoes planted.

Weather - Crops doing fine; high winds last few days; have dried soil rapidly; great water shortage.

Gooding - Crops are still behind; due to late spring, but are looking good; alfalfa adequate; had a touch of winter Sunday morning when snow fell to a depth of about two inches; melted rapidly.

ARCHEOLOGISTS SPEED UP STUDIES OF INDIAN TOWNS

LAS VEGAS, May 30 (AP) - Archeologists are speeding their excavations along the Colorado river in an effort to find more evidence about the region's prehistoric inhabitants before all traces left by them are submerged in the giant reservoir to be created by Boulder dam. Dr. Mark Harrington has found ruins of two ancient Indian villages near where the Virgin river flows into the Colorado. One gives evidence of having been occupied by a "single people," according to him.

There is no indication of other generations having built new houses on the sites of the old, but the ruins with prehistoric hollers. Dr. Harrington, head of the department of research of the Southwest museum, said.

An old salt mine which supplied both Indians and early American explorers also lies within the site of the reservoir. Within two miles of the dam, a new back canyon road, near the route surveyed for the branch railroad to the dam site, Dr. Harrington found an ancient turquoise mine. He found stone hammers which had been used by the Indians in chopping down through solid rock until a depth of 15 feet had been reached.

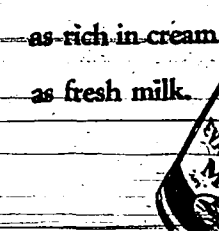

Dr. Harrington expects to resume his work next fall before the actual construction of the dam is under way. The intense heat makes it impractical to work in the field during the summer.

X-RAY EXAMINATIONS FOR CHILDREN, DOCTOR'S URGE

ATLANTIC CITY, May 30 (AP) - Use of the X-ray as the only method of discovering certain types of tuberculosis in children and young adults was urged today by Dr. F. Maurice Meacham, chairman of the University of Pennsylvania.

"Tuberculosis in childhood," he said, "is characterized first by a latent period following infection which may vary in length from two or three weeks to several years. If untreated during this period, this type of childhood tuberculosis may develop into an acute, rapidly developing disease or into one of the drawn out chronic character."

Long before any physical symptoms appear in the patient, he said a skillful physician using the X-ray can find the disease and thereby more easily save the patient.

Dr. Walter L. Rathbun of Cascadara, New York, said that innocent and apparently healthy spreaders of tuberculosis in the home frequently are discovered through diagnosis of childhood tuberculosis.

"Our examination of school children," he said, "disclosed the fact that a small percentage of the entire school population has childhood tuberculosis, but this small group supplies one-half of those who have true pulmonary tuberculosis, the type that kills before the age of 20."

If you or any relative or friend are worried or suffer because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald-Oil from any first-class druggist and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins, rubbing gently upward and towards the heart as the blood in the veins flows that way. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued and a bandage worn until the veins are of normal size. Russian Government Outlines Plans For Improved Conditions in Budget

By J. EDWARD ANGLY (Associated Press Staff Writer). MOSCOW, May 30 - If Russia's paper money will be on a grander scale this year, production in the past. Wages will be higher, hours will be shorter, and the government will be richer, old folk and cripples will get better care, food will be more plentiful and prices will be cheaper.

Every autumn the government prepares its budget and announces the program for the coming year. The many details are to be spent on this year, how much on that, including the exact percentage of increased work everyone is going to accomplish.

It usually doesn't pan out as planned but here is the plan for this year, for what it is worth, as given by official sources.

Increase in Crops

The area sown in crops is going to increase by 7 per cent. Co-operative farms will get twice as much money from the government as they did last year - 100,000,000 rubles instead of 49,000,000.

Production is going to increase 11.2 per cent and wages in general will go up by 7.1 per cent, but the sales cost of commodities will drop 10 per cent, so wages will really be higher than they seem.

The seven-hour work day will replace the eight-hour day among 16 per cent of the proletarian workers. Brain workers will be put on a six-hour day, with time out for tea.

The unemployed - and there are more than 1,000,000 of them registered - will get 125,000,000 rubles in doles, and cripples 17,000,000. About 250,000,000 will go for social insurance.

Higher Wages

The government says the average wage of the individual worker next year will be 7 rubles (less a 10 per cent) or 27 per cent more than he got in 1928.

For the visitor or any white-collar natives who remain, life would not be possible in Russia on such a low salary, the cost of living being far higher than in even the most expensive sections of the United States.

But the worker pays only a few dollars next fall before the actual cost gets his food through his cooperative at reduced rates, his trade union provides him theater and movie tickets at cut prices or for nothing, and he doesn't

Gooding College Class To Hold Senior Chapel

GOODING, May 30 (Special to The News) - With President C. W. Tenney as speaker and Mrs. Nellie Ostrom of the conservatory furnishing the music.

The Gooding College seniors will observe their senior chapel on June 4 at 10 A. M. This will mark the first appearance of the class of 1929 in caps and gowns, and the program is being arranged and prepared especially for them.

Their sponsors, Miss R. M. Cunderson of the department of English, and Rev. H. J. McCullister of the department of Bible and public speaking, will also appear on the program. Mrs. Ostrom will sing "Do You Know My Garden?" and "Will of the Wisp."

Science Forms Strong Weapon Against Crime

"New methods continually are being devised and used," Dr. Mathews points out, "and many of these methods are so new that they are not generally known even to those who have responsibility for investigation of crime."

"This is particularly true of identification of criminals who use firearms. There are only two or three experts in the United States who are familiar with this special technique - a technique which gives very positive identification."

"The chemist, bacteriologist, botanist, bacteriologist, pathologist, psychiatrist, psychologist, metallurgist, gun expert, textile expert and fingerprint expert all are making modern detective methods scientific."

Of drama there is plenty. The roles of Margarita Fichera as Eliza, George Slogman as Simon, Lezra James, Lora as Uncle Tom, Virginia Grey as Little Eva, Arthur Edmund Carew as George Harris and other experienced players are portrayed with an amazing realism and fidelity to the characters of the novel.

The comedy touches which are painted in with deft strokes of a masterly brush are capably handled by Mona Ray, Tony, Lucie, Thelma, as Law Marks and Allen Manning as Aunt Ophelia.

The big scenes are splendidly done. The death of Judge-Edwin Crockett, the classical handling of the auction and river scenes, the marvelous realism in the scene in which the plantation in the Shelby, St. Clair and Legree plantations, all are beyond reproach.

To no player falls the responsibility for the improvement of the production. It is obvious that this production in the making was not handled merely as the manufacturing of a motion picture. The earnestness, sincerity and earnestness of purpose of the cast was a labor of love indeed.

THE GUMPS-TWO BIRDS WITH ONE STONE

The Fortunate Wayfarer

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

Martin looked around him without understanding. The room was smaller even than his own bed-sitting room...

"You are my whole world," she said. "On the other side of the hall is my bedroom—oh, isn't it? Some day I must show you my bathroom. It's quite a gem."

"I am pausing to shake vigorously the silver receptacle she was holding and filled three foaming glasses. Martin was uncertain for a moment as he raised to his lips whether to indulge in any of the forms of salutation which he was accustomed. His companion solved his difficulty.

"Here's our respects to you, dear honest," said "Do I detect a faint odor of substance?"

"I don't know," she answered. "To Martin it seemed the most delicious of aromas. He sipped it and looked around him in amazement. A Duke's daughter! What a world! She surprised him by her directness...

"And how are you going to spend this week-end?" she asked. "Are you going to start another of Bacon's novels?"

"I bought quite a lot of books this afternoon," he confessed. "I shall pack them and look into them on Tuesday."

"Moderate!" she exclaimed. "I don't know what to ask for in modern books."

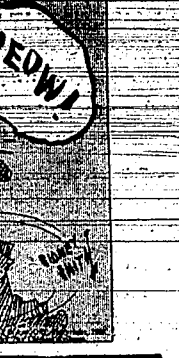

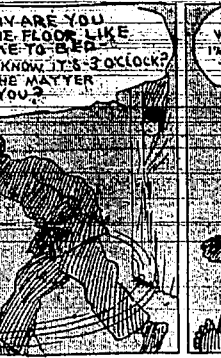

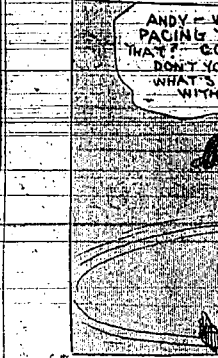

"What a pity our hands—the time," she regretted. "You'll only look to be a man ever with these unredempted efforts at culture. You do badly need a sponsor."

"I don't know," he answered a little sheepishly. "I know what I like to read and what I don't. One can alter external, of course, but one can't change one's tastes."

"I detected a faint tone of resentment in his tone and abandoned the subject for a moment, stretching her hands behind her head, she seemed to forget his guest."

"Gerald," she murmured, "sympathize with me. I have to dine in family and go with mother to that terrible musical woman's. I wouldn't mind if it was the right sort of music, but it won't be. I'm having a little supper somewhere and a dance—she inquired."

"What the devil is there to do?" she demanded. "The club, I suppose. I'll dance, and Glavering is having a supper-party to those new American young men. I may go. I don't know. What's the use?"

Tuberculosis Death Rate Reaches New Low Figure

ATLANTIC CITY, May 30 (AP)—The lowest death rate on record from tuberculosis was in the year 1928, said Dr. Luis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, today to the National Tuberculosis association.

"In a single year," he said, "140,000 persons will survive who would have died from tuberculosis had the rates been maintained." The rapid decline has resulted largely from the direct intervention of all the agencies of government and of social service interested in the health and well-being of the people. Improved industrial and economic conditions likewise have played an important part.

RADIO TAX VARIES
