HOUSE AMENDMENTS TO REAPPORTIONING MEASURE WIN FAVOR

Aliens and Persons Over 21 Not Permitted to Vote Would Be Excluded From Count Under New Plan

(By W. B. RAGSDALE, Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, June 4.—After tentatively accepting amendments which would exclude from the count upon which house reapportionment is to be based, aliens and persons over 21 who are not permitted to vote, the house adjourned late today without taking a final vote on the census-reapportionment bill.

Both of the amendments were opposed vigorously in debate and both are subject to another vote in the house before they are finally voted into the measure. The alien proposal would affect the number of representatives allotted to eastern and industrial states and the second proposal was considered as aimed at southern states in which it has been contended that many negroes are not permitted to vote.

Exclusion of aliens originated with the Middle Western Republicans, who have argued that aliens were barred from the count, a reapportionment would have less effect upon the reduction of representation from their states. It was opposed by members of the eastern and industrial states on the ground that such an amendment was unconstitutional.

Aliens Not to Count

"In the form in which it was approved by the house, the amendment of Representative Hoeh, Republican, Kansas, would provide that aliens should not be considered in the count, but that if any section of the measure should be declared unconstitutional, the validity of the remainder of the act should not be affected.

Previously the house had approved an amendment by Representative Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, calling for a count of the number of aliens in each country, and a determination of whether they were in the United States legally.

The amendment relating to "disfranchisement" was carried by Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, long a contender that the fourteenth amendment was not being enforced in the South. It had been defeated previously.

South and West Join

As the vote was taken, the Southern Democrats, joined by a sprinkling of Middle Western Republicans and few Eastern Republicans, passed before the tellers to oppose the proposal. Most of the Western and a group of Eastern Democrats supported the amendment.

The announcement of the result threw the house in an uproar. Punting yells arose from the Republican side of the chamber and Representative La Guardia, Republican, New York, who had supported the proposal, raced across the hall in front of the cheering throng, shaking hands with the smiling Tinkham.

VESEVIUS SPOUTING GREAT LAVA STREAM

Two Walls of Glowing Liquid Moving Toward Ancient Prey—Pompeii

NAPLES, June 4.—Two walls of molten lava, six feet high, streamed tonight from Vesuvius toward its ancient prey—Pompeii.

The inhabitants had evacuated Pompeii and part of Stabiae and fled to the hills, leaving their homes and possessions behind. The lava stream, which had been flowing for several hours, was now moving with great rapidity toward the ancient city.

BUILDS AIRPORT ALONE

BOISE, June 4.—A single-handed job of building an airport for the city of Boise has been taken up by A. A. Goodman, secretary of the chamber of commerce here, he said today when he arrived for a conference with state aeronautical officials.

Prince Henry's Collar Bone Broken By Fall in Vancouver Polo Game

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, June 4.—H. R. Prince Henry, duke of Gloucester, son of King George, suffered a fracture of the collar bone here today when his horse slipped and fell during a polo game.

The prince was attended by a physician at the field and later in his suite by two others, who issued this bulletin:

"The fall resulted in a complete fracture of the outer collar bone. The fracture is not commuted and the result will be excellent. The X-ray following reduction shows fragments to be in excellent position."

BALDWIN QUILTS POST AND KING CALLS FOR

From Sickbed Sovereign Accepts Resignation of Conservative Government

LONDON, June 4.—King George today disposed of the fears entertained by the public that the king might be necessary to create a regency to deal with a change in the government, by the execution with which his majesty accepted the resignation of the Conservative government and sent for a new Labor one.

Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of the Conservative government, resigned the king's hands at Windsor castle this morning. When his majesty accepted the resignation, and, undoubtedly on the advice of Mr. Baldwin, forthwith summoned Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the Labor party, by telephone.

Postpone Formally

It is customary for the seals of office to be exchanged in the presence of the king, but this formality probably will be postponed until next week on account of the illness of the king.

The prospect of a Labor government excites nothing of the wonder and apprehension among the British public today that it did six years ago. For the first time, the man who had been vilified as a pacifist during the first world war, is to be the prime minister of England.

People today are as much interested, or more interested, in the prospects of a new ministry at Epsom Downs tomorrow, as they were in the prospects of a new ministry at Epsom Downs tomorrow.

When Mr. MacDonald sees the king tomorrow, it is presumed that he will be able to give his majesty the names of the men he is counting on to fill the principal ministerial posts, but it may be the end of the week, or even later, before the cabinet list is completed.

Oklahoman, Who Killed Man and Went Free, to Pay For Shooting Coy

OKLAHOMA, June 4.—Charles Blair killed a man and went free. He failed to kill a cow and must go to the penitentiary for a year.

Blair was sentenced to the penitentiary today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for a year.

Earlier this year he was released at preliminary hearing after pleading self-defense in connection with the slaying of Hayes Wampler. Both men lived at Duke, Oklahoma.

Lewiston Firm to Build Highways in North Idaho

CORNELL PROFESSOR POINTS WAY TOWARD CONTROL OF CANCER

Dr. James Ewing Student of Disease For Score of Years Outlines Program Before Health Officers

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 4.—New hope of controlling cancer in the United States was held out today by Dr. James Ewing, head of the pathology department of Cornell university and a student of the disease for more than 20 years.

Addressing the closing session of the annual convention of state and provincial health officers with the public health service, Dr. Ewing outlined a program of cancer control through "cancer institutions" located in all large cities, each equipped with one-half to one million dollars worth of radium treatment apparatus, a staff of surgeons and other scientific experts. He declared that such institutions would be established in a few years through state health departments, with financial assistance from philanthropists.

Delegates to the conference all advocated shutting off immigration from the Philippine Islands in order to control what was termed "the most serious outbreak of cerebro-spinal meningitis since the world war." Surgeon General Cummings, however, later vetoed the proposal.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS AT DIXIELAND REUNION

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 4.—The thirty-ninth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans opened formally here tonight under a blaze of colored music and oratory and the vaunt of efforts of thousands of gray-clad patriots to resurrect the rebel yell.

On the program tonight at the army auditorium, erected especially for the occasion, were Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi; Governor O. Max Gardner, North Carolina; Mayor George White, Charlotte, and former Mayor P. M. Reid. A concert by the United States marine band opened the first reunion program.

Paris Conference Settles 10-Year Controversy Over Reparations from Germany

Dr. Herbert Work to Quit Republican Party Helm Experts Slash $116,000,000 Total Claimed in Original Demands of Allies in 1919

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, June 4.—Ten years of controversy over the payment by Germany of reparations for damages caused during the World war to the Allies ended today in a compromise which was due largely to the patient and skilful mediation of American delegates to the reparations conference.

From a formidable total of $125,000,000,000 claimed in original Allied demands filed with the peace conference at Versailles in 1919, the new settlement agreed upon today scales down what Germany must pay to approximately $3,000,000,000.

This sum is between a third and a fourth of the $32,000,000,000 fixed by the reparations commission in 1919. The enormous reduction in the amount to be paid the reparations creditors of Germany represents changes in sentiment and evolution in ideas regarding financial and economic possibilities that have taken place since Wilson, Clemenceau, Lloyd George and

DR. BUTLER STRIKES AT HIGH-TARIFF ADVOCATES

NEW YORK, June 4.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Congress today, tonight assailed the high tariff as "nationalism gone mad." Speaking at the one hundred seventy-fifth commencement exercises of the university he attacked what he termed "the doctrine that the government must assume a profitable domestic market to every producer with political influence enough to insist upon having it provided for him."

Dr. Butler, who is recuperating from a serious illness that confined him to a hospital for several weeks, arose from his sickbed to deliver his annual address and confer degrees upon more than 4500 candidates. Immediately after the exercises he returned to his bed.

Airman Plunges to Death

OAKLAND, June 4.—David Jennings Baird, Jr., 23, was burned to death tonight when his airplane went into a nosedive, crashed and caught fire the western end of the Oakland airport. Baird was flying alone. All efforts to rescue him from the burning wreckage were futile.

Cigarette Dropped From Airplane Cause of Fire in West Nevada Timber

RENO, June 4.—A cigarette dropped from an airplane started a fire in a timber tract owned by the United States government in the West Nevada timber.

Attorney Suing Famous Prospector For $100,000

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—George Campbell, Carson, former prospector, who recently settled with several copper companies and retired mining companies after years of litigation over their alleged infringement of patent of his was sued today by Attorney Blanton Paro, one of his attorneys, for $100,000.

Paro asserted that much was due him for services rendered to Campbell in obtaining patents for the inventions which caused the suits against the copper companies. Settlements by the companies were said to run into the millions. The exact total was never disclosed.

Swedish Aviators Will Retrace Viking Course

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 4.—Plans are now complete for the Swedish transatlantic expedition, which will be led by Captain Albin Ahlberg, Swedish civilian aviator; Leif Ericson, a famous explorer; and Robert Lindbergh, radio operator.

Six Men Will Answer For Wives Who Poured Scalding Oil On Choir

THIRANA, Albania, June 4.—Six men were arrested today because their wives were alleged to have poured scalding oil on the heads of a choir at Delvine, southern Albania, while singing a solemn high-mass for the first time in Albanian language instead of the Greek. An independent national church of Albania was recently created.

Since wives are immune from prosecution the six husbands will be tried by a special court for political offenses.

STOCK SPECULATION UNDER SENATE FIRE

Federal Reserve Board Singled Out Especially For Attacks By Two Senators

WASHINGTON, June 4.—A general outbreak of stock speculation in the stock market today in the senate with many critics prescribing almost as many different remedies for the situation.

The federal reserve board was singled out especially for attacks by President Hoover, Calvin Coolidge and various stock market officials who came to the condemnation.

Investigations, a tax on stock market speculation, the reduction of the rate and amendment of the federal reserve act were advanced as means of checking the flow of billions of dollars through the market.

Senator Coughlin, Republican, Michigan and Clegg, Democrat, Virginia, were the most outspoken. They insisted the stock market had attracted an excessive amount of capital at the expense of legitimate business.

Senator Coughlin announced he would propose an amendment to the pending bill to 5 percent tax on stock transactions, and that he would demand 60 days. He announced he would demand of the provision in the federal reserve act allowing loans on United States bonds.

Senator Coughlin also demanded a raising of the rediscount rate by the federal reserve board would have served to check the flow of money into the stock market. Senator Clegg, however, opposed the raising of the rediscount rate.

Senator Coughlin declared it was time for the government officials who asked "how long the sun will burn" to be asked, so that money would be liberated for industry to come forward now and urge that money be taken out of the market and put into the hands of the people.

Senator Coughlin, Democrat, Utah, said he would demand a 5 percent tax on stock transactions, and that he would demand 60 days. He announced he would demand of the provision in the federal reserve act allowing loans on United States bonds.

CONVALESCENT GRAIN MARKET GETS NEW LEASE ON LIFE

CHICAGO, June 4.—The convalescent grain market received another dose of good medicine today and evinced a new interest in life.

Congressmen have introduced a bill to stabilize the price of grain. The bill would provide for a maximum price of 10 cents for wheat and 12 cents for corn. The bill would also provide for a minimum price of 10 cents for wheat and 12 cents for corn.

CONGRESS MOVES TO STABILIZE MARKETS FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Leaders Support Recommendation to Make $500,000,000 Available at Once to Benefit Agriculture

(By Raymond Z. Henle, Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, June 4.—Assurance was given by responsible leaders in congress today that they would support a recommendation to make a half billion dollars available for the stabilization of agriculture as soon as the farm relief bill, which would authorize the proposed farm board to spend that amount, is enacted into law.

Among those who expressed the hope that President Hoover would send congress an estimate for the full amount was Senator McNary, Oregon, chairman of the senate agricultural committee. He said he thought it advisable to give the board every opportunity to take the fullest advantage of the relief legislation, which is nearing enactment.

Considerable interest was manifested in the report on the impact of this information on the Chicago grain market, where wheat closed buoyant at 1.13 to 1.14 cents, and corn at 61.8 to 61.9 cents per bushel higher than yesterday's finish.

Bill Being Adjusted

The farm bill now in the process of final adjustment by the conference committee composed of senators and house members, "authorities" an appropriation of $500,000,000, but does not authorize the use of the money for regulation to be so worded and under its enactment the "White House sends up an estimate of how much ought to be available."

It had been thought that the department of agriculture would place an estimate of the amount of money needed to stabilize the market for farm products in the hands of the board of farm products, which are held to be in need of early attention.

Urges Immediate Action

Many leaders have been watching the wheat crop with some concern and feel the board should direct its attention to its situation without delay. If the board were to buy up the surplus of wheat, it would be a considerable amount of money.

Senator Coughlin, Democrat, Utah, said he would demand a 5 percent tax on stock transactions, and that he would demand 60 days. He announced he would demand of the provision in the federal reserve act allowing loans on United States bonds.

Senator Coughlin declared it was time for the government officials who asked "how long the sun will burn" to be asked, so that money would be liberated for industry to come forward now and urge that money be taken out of the market and put into the hands of the people.

plete Course of Study

Following the eight o'clock Mass Monday morning, diplomas were given in St. Edward's church to the following eighth grade graduates—Francis Buchanan, Robert Smith, Eileen Van Court, Mary Ellen Jarvis, Lucille Wallace, Annabelle Oee, Helen Assendrup and Ann Marie Drumming. Another member of the class, Mary E. Walters, being absent through sickness, will receive her diploma later.

Father Keyzer, in an address commended the class on its motto "Seek the Honorable" and advised the members to be loyal to the end to the principles of honesty, religion and truth. He also commended them for the choice of the motto as a flower, symbolizing modesty and their class colors of white signifying purity and blue signifying truth.

Immediately after the exercises, the class enjoyed a breakfast at the home of their pastor. Delightful toasts were offered to Father Keyzer, their pastor and host, the teachers of the school, and to St. Edward's school. Francis Buchanan proved an able toastmaster. The class leaves the school with an exemplary scholastic record. Its members—Francis Buchanan, Mary Ellen Jarvis, Mary Elizabeth Waters and Lucille Wallace—enjoy the honor of being charter members having started their school life when the school first opened and finished their grammar school education at St. Edward's.

A further honor has been bestowed on Francis Buchanan who, having the highest average in his class studies as well as the best record in school citizenship and class spirit, received a prize of $5 from the Catholic Women's League. In the last number of the St. Edward's Star, school paper, they very ably prophesied their future and made their will, supplying high entertainment to the entire school and former graduates who assembled in the school hall last Friday.

"A Night of It!" Gerald Garmham was standing with unnatural steadiness, a black overcoat upon his arm, a gold-mounted Malacca cane in his other hand, his silk hat a little on the back of his head. Not even the exigencies of a presumably convivial evening had, however, disturbed the "familiar" arrangement of his tie or the set of his perfectly cut shirt. He was very pale, even then, but his eyes were brilliant, although, without depth. From the threshold, the attendant and the secretary were watching him, whispering together.

"Spending my uncle's money, eh? Barnes?" he observed, a little truculently.

"At the present moment," he replied, "I am spending my own."

The newcomer, for some reason or other, was indisposed to argue the fact.

"Introduce me," he begged, looking hard at Rose—to the young ladies, I mean—not your friend. I don't like your friend, I don't like your friend Percy Quilland with distaste.

"The Honorable Gerald waited him back."

"Speak to you presently, my man," he said, "and then to me to the secretary, Barnes. Made a fuss about letting me in. Happened to see you here. I am, Walker, bring another chair."

The waiter made no movement. The secretary crossed the floor, approached Gerald, and then to Martin.

"This gentleman will enter my name," the Honorable Gerald said.

"The gentleman is not a member," the secretary objected. "It is here in the book. I am sorry, sir, but I must ask you to leave."

"Mean to say I can't sit down with my friends and have a drink?" Gerald demanded.

"Look—agreed—young man—turned to Martin."

"Look here!" he exclaimed. "What about this?"

"I think," Martin advised, "if you will start the conversation, Mr. Garmham, you had better go home."

"Go home? Why?"

"Because you are drunk."

"Quicker thing," he replied, "you're the third that's said that to me to-day. I'm not wrong, too, Walter, bring that chair."

"He's inside," Martin replied. "We ought to go home."

The clutch of Martin's hand upon his companion's arm became more insistent. The commissionaire hurried past them and held open the door of a taxicab. Before he was quite sure now it happened the Honorable Gerald inside and Martin seated next to him.

"The Honorable Gerald, who had shown signs of becoming truculent when he had been put up with his feet on the opposite seat."

"Now I've got you," he exclaimed. "You don't know, I shan't tell you. You might as well go home."

He produced a cigarette case and made clumsy attempt to light a cigarette. A card fluttered to the floor. Martin picked it up and glanced at it. "Palmer's Chambers," he told the man.

"The Honorable Gerald was annoyed. No right to look at that," he complained, as the taxi started. "If you put up documents, you must have another person—shouldn't look at it. No gentleman would. But I forgot, you're not a gentleman."

"No, I suppose not," Martin acquiesced.

"Don't know what you're coming home for. I don't want you. I don't particularly want to come. Still, I suppose some one must."

"I don't suppose so," he said, the other crumpled. "I should have been dancing in that poisonous now. Nice little girl, that. Suppose you pick her up all right with the uncle's money. Wonder you had the face to keep it when he didn't die."

Martin made no reply. His companion became somewhat. At Daltry Chambers he had to shake him. "Get me out of here," he complained unreasonably. After fumbling in his pocket, he produced a large document. "Here, take it," he said, handing it to the driver. "I've got the money."

"Everything is on the sidewalk, sir," he announced.

WENDEL CIVIC CLUB HEARS TWO REPORTS

President and Delegate of Organization Tell of District Federation Meeting

WENDEL, June 4.—Mrs. J. H. Wendell, president, and Mrs. Robert Moore, delegate, reported the district federation sessions at a meeting of the Civic club, Wednesday afternoon. The program at the meeting included two plans, members by Mrs. Everett Simpson. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Lillian Dever.

Mrs. Myrtle Chaplin and George Reese, Wendell, were married in the city, June 4. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Chaplin, Wendell, and is a graduate of Wendell high school.

Mrs. Frank Orleser, president of the Wendell Business and Professional Women's club, and Mrs. B. E. Dyer, delegate, have returned from the convention at Blackfoot.

Mrs. M. B. McCoy and Mrs. M. G. Kappel entertained at luncheon the last week at the home of Mrs. Kappel. Mrs. Austin Schouwerler and Mrs. Gordon MacQuay were high scores at bridge. The day and night of Mrs. J. J. Williams of the Wendell Catholic church left Saturday on a six weeks' visit with friends at East Cambridge, Massachusetts and other points in the East.

Mrs. Henry Barton and mother, Mrs. George Barton, left for a month's visit in Detroit and Denver, Monday.

Harold Barrett, Wendell, and Miss Madeline Hays, Jerome, were married at the Wendell home Wednesday. The couple is now in Boise and later will return to reside on Mr. Barrett's farm near Wendell.

A. D. Brooks, former resident in the Wendell district, died at his home in the city, June 4. He was 74 years of age.

BULLETIN DESCRIBES IDAHO ROAD-BUILDING

Station at University Reports on Highway Construction in Gem State

MOSCOW, June 4 (Special to The News).—Idaho's contribution to the field of oil-paved gravel and crushed rock highways is set forth in a bulletin entitled "Construction of Surface-Mixed Oil Road Surfaces in Idaho," recently published by the engineering department of the University of Idaho college of engineering. The bulletin was published in cooperation with the Idaho department of public works.

Oil treating of gravel roads was first adopted extensively in Idaho in 1927 when 74 miles of this intermediate surface highway were constructed.

The bulletin discusses the methods of application and costs. Numerous illustrations show different stages of the oiling cycle.

Authors of the bulletin have been sent to other states where attention is being directed to oil-treated highways. All parties of highway engineers have visited Idaho to study the oil-treated roads in this state and the procedure by which they were obtained.

Authors of the bulletin were J. D. Wood, commissioner of the department of public works; Raymond Harsch, materials engineer; and C. Humphrey, construction engineer. Dean Frank Crawford of the university college of engineering is director of the engineering department.

GENERAL BULLARD ON TOUR OF STATE WILL STOP IN TWIN FALLS

American Legion Post Arranging for Luncheon and Reception Following Dedication of New Airport

Major General Robert Lee Bullard, one of the outstanding commanders of America's troops in the World War, is to visit Twin Falls this month after dedicating Memorial hall at the University of Idaho next Sunday. He will be welcomed in Twin Falls on Thursday, June 13, according to advices received here yesterday.

During his visit here General Bullard will dedicate Twin Falls new airport five miles south of town on which construction was begun last Monday.

Arrangements for a luncheon and reception at which veterans of the World War will be given an opportunity to meet General Bullard have been placed by Twin Falls American Legion post in the hands of a committee composed of Ralph E. Leighton, Hugh Boone and W. M. Roberts.

Guest of Auxiliary
Mrs. Bullard will be invited to be the guest of the American Legion Women's Auxiliary at luncheon.

General Bullard and his party, according to the itinerary announced yesterday, will arrive in Twin Falls on the train at 10:30 A. M. June 13, and will remain here until evening.

Dedication of the new airport is to take place just before noon. General Bullard is to enter the state today by automobile over Lookout pass in the mountains east of Wallace. During the trip before the dedication he will be shown points of interest and scenic attractions in northern Idaho, and will be entertained on Saturday at Lewiston.

Leaving Moscow on Monday morning, General Bullard will have lunch at Orangeville and will spend the night at Payette Lake. On the next day the general and his party will visit Weiser and Payette. Stops will be made at Caldwell and Nampa on June 12 and the general will arrive in Boise that afternoon.

Scouts to Hold Honor Court And First Aid Contest at Gymnasium

There will be a boy scout court or honor court at the gymnasium, Thursday night, June 6, and a first aid boy scout contest at the same place Friday at the same hour. It was announced yesterday by W. E. Nixon, scout commissioner of the Twin Falls district.

At least four troops, No. 5, No. 9, No. 10 and No. 11, will take part in the first aid contest Friday evening, under the direction of Dr. W. P. Passer and the members of the American Legion first aid squad as judges. Other teams, than those named, may take part in the contest, Mr. Nixon said.

MORGAN MUST SERVE MAXIMUM SENTENCE

Two to Five-Year Prison Term and Payment of Fine and Costs Penalty

Orville H. Morgan alias Robert B. Stone, convicted of polygamy, must serve two to five years in Idaho state prison and $500 fine and costs of prosecution, under sentence imposed by Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here Tuesday.

It is the maximum penalty for polygamy under the Idaho law. Morgan was convicted of marrying his last January while still the husband of a former wife in Wilson, Wyoming. He told on the witness stand of having previously married in Indiana. He pleaded insanity as a defense.

Twin Falls Real Estate board, at a luncheon meeting at the Rogerson hotel yesterday went on record unanimously as favoring the issuance of $25,000 for the construction of a gymnasium at the high school location for which bid Friday afternoon. Other business of routine character was transacted.

So far little public interest has been manifested in the election. Fourteen absent voter ballots had been cast up to last evening at the office of Superintendent W. B. Smith, at the high school, where Miss Mayne Swan is acting clerk. It is stated.

In reply to the argument that the construction of the gymnasium would shut out light and ventilation, friends of the bond issue declare that the plan always suggested has involved bringing windows before midday so that the windows will be closed or interfered with and tapering upward toward a dome in the center, and that there could be no interference with either light or ventilation.

BUILDING READY FOR WHITE-FLY FIGHTERS

Government Accepts Structure Provided For Office and Laboratory Laborers

Situated on a tract of five acres on Blue Lake boulevard, a mile north of Twin Falls, a two-story office and laboratory building constructed for use of entomologists and other specialists of the United States department of agriculture engaged in study of the sugar beet leaf hopper or white fly, has been completed and accepted from the contractor, W. C. Swenson, superintendent for the Amalgamated Sugar company, stated last evening.

As will be recalled within the next few days by Dr. Walter Carter, entomologist, and the specialists associated with him in the study.

The tract on which the building is situated is to be used in various experiments to be made by specialists in their effort to work out methods for eradication and control of the leaf hopper.

Grounds about the building are being graded and planted to grass. Further improvements will include planting of shrubs and building of walks and driveways.

Condition of sugar beets throughout the district was pronounced satisfactory by Mr. Swenson.

RESERVOIR DISTRICT LEVY WILL DROP 3 PER CENT

The total annual levy against the lands within the American Falls Reservoir district this year will be about $600 less than the levy last year, it was stated at a meeting of the district board of directors here yesterday. The levy for the district this year was about $100,000, while this year the levy will be in the neighborhood of $94,000. This means a reduction of approximately three per cent of the amount levied. The levy will not be made until August but conditions are such that an accurate forecast can be made, it is stated.

Some small patches of land were admitted into the district, difficult points. Bills were allowed and routine business was transacted.

PRINCIPAL PART WITH THE OOD FELLOWS lodge in holding memorial services at Twin Falls cemetery Sunday at 3 P. M. was reached at a meeting of Primrose Rebekah lodge last night. Rev. P. Temple Stanley of the Baptist church, it was announced, will speak at the service.

During the meeting a short service was held in tribute to the late Mary George Oray, Halley, past president of the Idaho Rebekah assembly.

In contents arranged by Mrs. W. J. Hollenbeck for last night's meeting, Mrs. P. L. Cogswell won first honors, and Mrs. Antonette Ross, consolation.

MUNICIPAL BAND WILL GIVE CONCERT IN PARK

The first open air concert of the season by the Twin Falls municipal band, under direction of Dr. Orrin A. Fuller, will be given at the park tomorrow at 8 P. M. Similar concerts will be held every Thursday evening during the next three months, should weather permit. The concerts are provided for by a tax levy voted by the citizens of Twin Falls.

An effort is made to arrange each program so that it will suit different tastes.

The program for the first concert follows: March, "Invincible Eagle"; Sousa; Overture, "The Italian in Algiers"; Rossini; waltz, "Over the Waves"; Roosa; patrol, "American"; Mecham. After a brief intermission will follow: selection, "The Voice of McConnel"; Cohan; Gavotte, "Savannah"; Herzberg; popular numbers, "The Winding of the Painted Doll"; "Avon Town"; march, "Eighty-Ninth Division"; Castle; "Star Spangled Banner."
