COMMITTEE SEEKING FAVORABLE VOTE ON RELIEF LEGISLATION

Final Determination of Major Problem to Be Undertaken Immediately in Two Congressional Chambers.

By RAYMOND Z. HENLEE (Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—A final determination of the major problem which led to the calling of the special session will be undertaken tomorrow when the senate and house will be asked to approve the farm relief bill decided upon by a conference committee composed of members from both branches of congress.

The committee's report embraces a single relief measure representing a compromise between the bills passed separately by the senate and house. It is expected that the bill will be passed shortly after it convenes by the chairman of its agricultural committee, Representative Haugen, Iowa.

Soon after the house approves the conference bill, which it is expected to do with little debate, the report will be sent to the senate and placed in the hands of the senate's agricultural committee, which will make immediate consideration.

Administration leaders were convinced that the relief bill, calling for an appropriation of half a billion dollars to stabilize agriculture, would ultimately be accepted by the senate and placed in the president's hands for his approval well before the middle of next week.

Presentations of the conference bill disclosed the sorting of the section relating to the revolving fund to be used by the proposed farm board. Most of the farm board's expenses will be paid by the revolving fund, which will be replenished by the treasury to the extent of $500,000,000 to be appropriated immediately. The new section reads:

"There is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $500,000,000 which shall be made available by the treasury as soon as practicable after the approval of this act and shall constitute a revolving fund to be administered by the board as provided in this act."

Compromise Section
Interest also was manifested in the compromise section respecting the fund which shall be established by the treasury, which all of the major farm organizations and many cooperatives attach importance. The section reads:

"The section relating to the fund for agricultural commodity (1) may act."

Henry Ford Borrows 2 Cents to Purchase One Thomas A. Edison Stamp

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 6.—(AP)—Henry Ford, borrowed 2 cents today to buy a stamp. The purchase was made at the farm, Thomas A. Edison commemorative stamp at the sale conducted at a special post office here.

Postmaster Alfred Perkins, was behind the counter, as Mr. Ford the first stamp to be sold here to Ford, the motor magnate searched in vain through his pockets for the 2 cents. J. F. Quinn, New York, executive secretary of the golden jubilee of light committee came to his rescue.

"Thanks," said Ford, accepting the proffered change. "I see that you get it back."

RATE EXPERT URGES NEW FREIGHT SCALE

Utah Proposes Change in Computing Cost to Carry Grain in Western States

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP)—A mileage scale for making freight rates on grain and grain products was advocated today by the interstate commerce commission by W. W. Bickett, representing the Ogden, Utah, grain exchange.

The proposed change in the commission now investigating the grain rates in states west of the Mississippi river, put into effect a mileage scale at a rate no higher than the present rates in the territory east of the Rocky mountains. Among other things he advocated the removal of the flour differential over wheat reduced rates on corn from points in Colorado, Nebraska and Wyoming to Utah, Nevada, Montana and Oregon, and joint rates between certain railroads in Utah, Idaho, Colorado, Nevada and Wyoming.

Present Statistics
Statistics were presented in an effort to show that the relative transportation conditions warrant rates in the mountain Pacific territory which are no higher than in other sections.

In the Pacific states and millions in Colorado, Utah and Idaho, G. H. Work, general traffic manager of the Great Salt Lake terminal, said that the joint rates should be ordered by the commission from producing to the consumer territory on the lowest possible level, irrespective of how such rates might affect the option markets.

He declared that conditions surrounding marketing, milling and distribution are such that the plan advocated by the large terminal markets of wheat, all of the new factors, and out of the market, not in the interest of advancing agriculture and industry.

Would Take Away Benefit
"On the contrary," he said, "this would take away from Colorado, Utah and Idaho the benefit of the present rates."

CENSUS BILL SCORES IN HOUSE FOLLOWING STORMY MANEUVERS

Party Leaders Successful in Effort to Eliminate Two Amendments and Measure Returns to Senate

By W. B. RAGSDALE (Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—The census bill was passed by the house today after a stormy session featured by successful parliamentary maneuvers of party leaders for elimination of two amendments which they feared had endangered the reappointment provisions of the legislation.

The bill goes back to the senate for agreement to minor changes made by the house. Passage of the legislation made it almost certain that house representatives would be reappointed among the various states on the basis of the 1920 census provided by the measure.

There has been no realignment of seats since 1911, although the constitution specifies that a reapportionment shall be made every 10 years.

Excludes Aliens
The first was to exclude aliens from the count upon which reapportionment is based. The second would have excluded from the count dissenting citizens, where it was aimed at Southern states where it has been contended many negroes.

Families Returning to Residences in Shadow Of Rumbling Vesuvius

NAPLES, June 6.—(AP)—Dozens of families returned tentatively to their abandoned homes in the village of Teramo and the surrounding districts this afternoon on publication of reassuring news from the Mount Vesuvius observatory that the flow of lava which the great volcano had been sending forth since Monday has decidedly diminished.

Inhabitants believe that Saint Gerardo, patron of Naples, intervened to stop it.

Bartholomew accompanied the volcano explosions this morning but soon died down. Investigation then showed that the lava flows were rapidly consolidating.

Troops still are maintained at all strategic points in the belief that the activity of the volcano is fickle and unreliable.

A tabulation of the damage caused by the eruption showed that 80 houses were destroyed, occupied by 78 families.

WIFE SENDS EX-CONVICT SPOUSE BACK TO PRISON

SACRAMENTO, June 6.—(AP)—Reversing the sentiment of the "prisoners' song," Alex. Patton, 30, flew back to Folsom penitentiary today, where he surrendered after four years of liberty in a fugitive because his conscience and his wife, he said, forced him to do so.

Patton was sentenced in Los Angeles in 1924 to four years for theft. In 1925 he escaped from a convict road camp in Kern county. He returned to Long Beach in 1928 and went to work under an assumed name. He wooed and won a bride. His wife became jealous of his mother, Patton said, and having learned he was a convict, threatened to "turn him in," unless he gave up his mother or turned over to his wife all his property.

After talking it over with his mother and his lawyer Patton decided to go back to prison. He flew from Los Angeles to Oakland and from Oakland to Sacramento. At Sacramento he hired a tugboat to go to the prison.

LUMBER COMPANIES OF WEST TO ANSWER FEDERAL COMPLAINT

38 Great Western Firms With Misrepresentation in Sale of Yellow Pine

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Complaints against 38 lumber companies of Western states have been issued by the federal trade commission charging them with misrepresentation in the sale of western yellow pine as white pine.

"These companies," the commission charged, have been selling annually more than a billion feet of "pinus ponderosa" or Western yellow pine, under the name of white pine, a lumber recognized for its superior qualities.

This output, the complaint said, was about equal to the total production in the United States of "pinus strobus" and "pinus lambertiana," two varieties of white pine.

The companies cited, which include some of the largest lumber producers of the Pacific slope, conduct their operations in California, Oregon, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada.

The complaint pointed out that several years ago a movement was started among lumber manufacturers to give Western yellow pine a trade name, which would distinguish it from the superior white pine on the one hand, and angrier timber, south yellow pine, on the other.

The annual output was placed at more than a billion and a half feet, did make this charge, while the commission said it was not.

Dwindling Host of Confederate Army Finishes Business and Names Leader

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 6.—(AP)—The dwindling hosts that were the gray uniforms of the Confederate soldiers remembered their dead, elected their leader for another year and wound up the formal meeting of the Confederate council of the United Confederate Veterans.

But though the formalities all were ended, the reunion was not over. For an hour and a half the veterans, who were not too tired from the frolicking of the previous two days, flocked to the annual meeting of the council.

The veterans today voted unanimously to meet next year close to the home place of the late president of the council, Jefferson Davis, Biloxi, Mississippi, was accorded the honor of entertaining the veterans when Washington, D. C., was the site of the annual convention.

At Biloxi the veterans will be enough to "Beverly" home of Davis to pay a visit to the shrine being erected to the memory of the late president.

PRESIDENT ACTS TO UNIFY FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY

Congressional Leaders Move Swiftly to Carry Out Recommendations Submitted in Brief Special Message

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Hoover today took the second step in carrying out his law enforcement observance program by recommending to congress the appointment of a joint committee of the house and senate to frame legislation transferring the law enforcement activities of prohibition enforcement from treasury to the justice department.

Coincidentally his "recently created" national law enforcement commission in its first hearing a secret session heard Secretary Mellon, upon whom the major responsibility for the enforcement of the Volstead and other "dry" laws now rests.

A demand for open hearings by the commission was made in the senate by Senator Hayes, Democrat, Missouri, who asserted that secret hearings will defeat the object of the commission and will result in a loss of the thoroughness of its work or the impartiality of its conclusions.

Leaders Move Swiftly
Congressional leaders moved swiftly to carry out the recommendation of the president submitted in a brief special message which disclosed a comprehensive program for unification of federal agencies dealing with enforcement of the laws. Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, a leader of the "dry" effort, introduced a resolution to create a joint committee of seven, three to be appointed by Vice President Curtis and four by Speaker Clegg.

The resolution was referred to the judiciary committee and Chairman Norris said it would be considered at a regular session of the senate. An early favorable report on the resolution is expected.

Administration officials, explaining the president's recommendation, said that the program was a long time in the making and that the program could be made ready for consideration by congress early in the regular session, which begins December 2.

Committee At Work
An inter-committee conference has been making a preliminary survey of this question under the direction of James M. Duggan, prohibition committee chairman, and in cooperation with the congressional committee as well the national law enforcement commission, which, in the course of its work, will be consulted.

Blue in Vitaphone at Idaho Showhouse Now

Monte Blue comes to the Idaho theatre today in his second Vitaphone picture, Warner Brothers' "The Greyhound Limited," in which he plays the part of a railroad engineer.

The engineer roams and boards with the mother of his friend. Both men are in a way intrigued by the hard-swing at the quick lunch counter along the tracks. The friend's mother begs Monte to alienate the girl from her son. He does so reluctantly and the enraged fireman takes to drink, later being framed by a gang of thugs, as the murderer of the saloonkeeper in whose place he hangs out.

The movie is about to claim the lad when through thrilling adventures with a gang of outlaws, the girl in hills and thickets, Monte finally finds the real culprit and frees the youth. The girl goes her own way and the old friend's mother is restored between the two men who form the crew of the "Greyhound Limited."

Vitaphone is terrifically effective with voices of players, and with sounds that mark the progress of the lightning-speed melodrama, as well as in sympathetic accompaniment.

The cast includes Edna Murphy, Grant Withers, Lucy Beaumont, Ernie Shields and Lew Harvey. Albert Hovon did the story, Anthony Goldeman the scenario and Howard Bretherton directed.

Monte Blue, son of an engineer, and an ex-railroad agent, gives a magnificent portrayal of the unpretentious hero of "The Greyhound Limited."

Vitaphone Brings Another Beauty to Orpheum Screen

The First National organization and Vitaphone seems determined to bring to the screen all the famous beauties of history, literature and art.

Next on the list is Lady Hamilton, England's most celebrated beauty, who by her charm and wit and diplomacy had decided influence upon international affairs of her day.

Portrayed by the beautiful Corinne Griffith, Lady Hamilton will be seen on the screen in "The Divine Lady," the first National production, which comes to the Orpheum today for four days.

COOL WEATHER AIDS GRAIN IN IDAHO AREA

Conditions Not Favorable to General Progress of Crops, Report Indicates

DOISE, June 6.—Cool and cloudy weather in Southwest Idaho during the week ending June 4 was beneficial to grains, although weather conditions for other crops were not as favorable as during the previous week, according to the weather and crop summary issued by district meteorologist, in cooperation of the department of agriculture weather bureau.

The summary includes the following statement of conditions:

SOUTHWEST IDAHO—Weather conditions were not as favorable for general crop progress as those that obtained the previous week, but the cool, clear, and cloudy. Light frosts occurred in some localities and cold, drying winds were general. However, the cool, cloudy weather was beneficial to grains and these crops did well. Alfalfa looks good, but the first cutting will be later than usual due to the backward season. Potatoes are about finished in the Twin Falls country and beet thinning is making good progress. Sugar beets stands are very green. The frosts and cold winds have had no serious effect on fruit. Prospects continue excellent. Pastures are improving, range feed is generally adequate; livestock are doing well in most localities.

SOUTHEAST IDAHO—The first of the week was warm and good local showers occurred. This was followed by cold weather, with rain and snow-furries and heavy frosts. All crops were benefited by the showers. Spring wheat and oats are starting well. Winter wheat is good—beets are making good growth and thinning is in progress. Potatoes are in good condition. Fruit crops are in good condition and sheep are doing fairly well.

Field notes include the following:

BOISE—Fairly warm weather; many days cloudy; planting of late potatoes and beans under way; fields mostly irrigated; stands of sugar beets uneven on account of dry spring; wheat and alfalfa improving; clover backward.

TWIN FALLS—High winds delayed application of calyx spray; frost Saturday and Sunday night damaged early potatoes, beans and some apples; too early to ascertain amount of damage, but it is believed to be light; bean and potato planting nearing completion.

COSTLY TO AL—Daring writers estimate that Al Singer dropped around $100,000 by losing on a knockout to Ignacio Fernandez-Sinor, Benny Leonard's choice as the next lightweight king, was set for two or three any door fights this season.

A spool of thread was unknown 125 years ago.

Mystery of Shaking of Earth's Crust Comes Under Probe

NEW SEISMOGRAPHS TO RECORD TREMORS TO AID SCIENTISTS

Super-Sensitive Instruments Will Play Important Part in Solution of Natural Phenomena

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEY Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, June 6.—The mystery of the constant shaking of the earth's crust in the United States in winter is discussed in a report of the Seismological Society of America, eastern section.

New, super-sensitive seismographs, recently installed from the Mississippi river to New England, reveal these tremors. The instruments show them as long undulations requiring about 15 seconds to pass a fixed point.

In summer they almost disappear, except for occasional outliers. But in winter they record an almost continuous wave, much of the time very slight, but now and then swinging the recording needles at a lively pace.

Father Joseph John, S. J., director of the St. Louis university station, describes one that began about 2 A. M. January 26 and lasted until the morning of January 28. It registered equally at St. Louis and through the east.

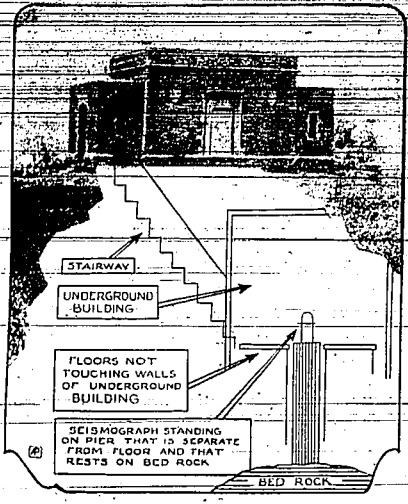

He says it possibly was due to an area of low barometric air pressure passing across part of the United States at that time. Air pressure, although not noticeable to a person, exerts a tremendous weight on the earth, and changes frequently.

Father J. W. Tynan, S. J., director of Fordham university station, says he has observed the tremors in connection with snowstorms. They occur anytime from 24 hours before the snow until just after it is over, and seem invariably companions.

Some seismologists hold that slight puffs of air on the instruments themselves may account for these "micro-tremors." However, they think that the evidence is against that possibility, for the tremors are heretofore settled in chambers deep underground, in rooms of almost unchanging temperature.

Possibility that they came from disturbances such as traffic and trains has long been investigated and discounted. Dr. Julius B. MacEwan, S. J., of St. Louis university, president of the society, tells of observations indicating tilting of buildings due to expansion and contraction.

Father Tynan says that tilting of the

KOSTER HOME AT CLOVER SCENE OF SOCIAL EVENT

CLOVER, June 6.—A group of residents of this district met yesterday at a social affair held at the John Koster home Sunday. A dinner was served at noon, and supper was served at 6 P. M.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Mathiesen, Mr. and Mrs. Engel, Sherwood, Oregon; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Ehlers, Edinburg, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Mathiesen, Mr. and Mrs. John Koster, Mr. and Mrs. John Lerman, Mr. and Mrs. A. List, G. Westerman, E. Mueller, Fred, Arthur, and Herman Ketter, Thomas Becher, and Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Dammert.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mathiesen, Sherwood, Oregon, are the guests at the Peter Mathiesen home. They plan to return to Oregon Friday.

Mrs. W. F. Dammert and daughter, Melba and Martha, left for Fort Wayne, Indiana, last week to visit at the home of Mrs. Dammert's parents.

Mrs. Clara Engel, Sherwood, Oregon, left May 29 for Colorado after visiting friends here and in Twin Falls.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ehrhardt Lerman is ill.

Mrs. A. Elding and daughter, Dora, are visiting in Twin Falls.

Perkins instruments, New York city, have been secured since they were installed in a new station some distance away from all buildings. It suggests that the former tilts may have been due to the push of expansion through the earth from a building close to the station.

DISEASE IN ALFALFA SUBJECT OF SURVEY

Experts Make Preliminary Study of Wilt From Twin Falls to Canyon County

MOSCOW, June 6.—(Special to The News)—A preliminary survey of the lower Snake river valley, extending from Twin Falls county to Canyon county, has just been completed by Dr. C. W. Hungerford of the department of plant pathology of the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station to ascertain the extent and importance of the bacterial wilt of alfalfa.

The survey was made by Dr. F. R. Jones of the office of forage crops of the United States department of agriculture in company with Professor Hungerford. Although it has been known that this disease has been present in Idaho for some time, this survey revealed the fact that it is much more widespread and serious than previous reports would indicate. Dr. Hungerford said.

Menace to Industry
Doctor Jones said that the bacterial wilt is present in practically all the alfalfa growing sections of the United States and is a serious menace to the alfalfa industry. The disease is caused by minute bacteria which attack plants only through wounds and when once they gain entrance to the growing plant they multiply rapidly, invade the water conducting vessels and may under favorable circumstances cause wilting and death of a large proportion of plants in a field.

The Idaho agricultural experiment station is planning to conduct experiments looking toward the control of the disease. Special emphasis is being placed upon the testing of varieties and strains of alfalfa for resistance to the disease.

LOW COLLECTIONS SERIOUS FACTOR IN MONEY'S SITUATION

"In No Case Are Reports On Receipts Good," Declares Roger W. Babson, Noted Bay State Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON
BOSTON, June 6.—Collection statistics show that in no case are reports on receipts good. In the United States and Canada, no case are collections in these cities reported as "good." In 22 cities they are reported as "fair" and in 20 cities they are reported as "slow" or "poor." Moreover, my study of other smaller cities shows about the same situation. The habit of slow paying has grown steadily until it has become a serious factor in the money situation as well as in the profits of individual business concerns.

Would Relieve Strain

With all the anxiety now prevalent over high rates for money affect business prosperity, one of the most helpful things that business men and the general public can do is to pay their bills promptly. If checks were mailed today for only one half of the unpaid bills over ten days old the volume of credit related would at once reflect the money situation. If we want to keep a healthy, strong business situation then we must do what we can to keep money circulating. Apparently, however, business men or the public at large do not value this fact. If collections are slowed down 30 per cent, the effect is just the same as sending one-third of our money and credit out of the country or burning it in a boiler.

Circulation Important

There is always about so much money in the country in good times and in bad. The amount of money in circulation fluctuates relatively little. The great difference between brisk business conditions and dull business conditions is the rate at which money circulates. Circulation of money has the same effect on business as the circulation of blood has on human health. Stagnant circulation in either case is very damaging. Money that is in rapid motion will support a far greater volume of business without strain or high rates. Hence one definite way which everyone can help to alleviate the present conditions is to make a practice of paying bills promptly when due.

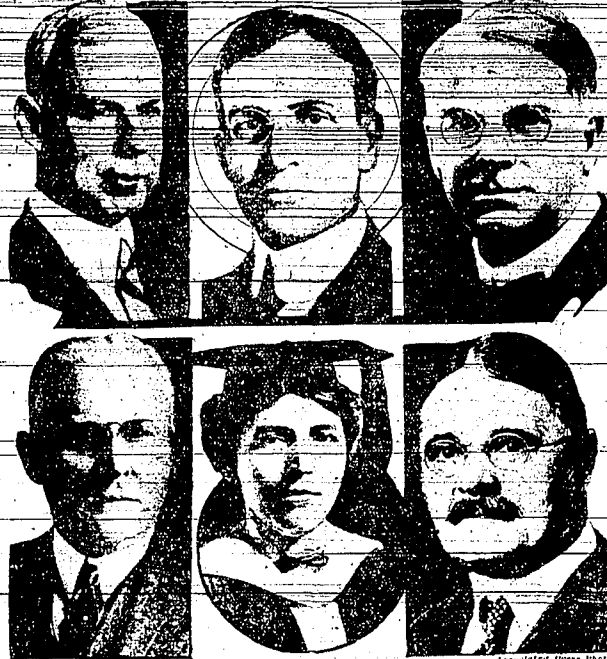

Collection Influence Costs
It often happens that the purchasing power of the American people is greater today than ever before. There is no disputing this fact. Why then do we have a condition of poor collections widespread in extent, and difficult to cure? I believe it is due to a habit of laxity which is gradually being acquired by the public and by business. To what extent "easy payment" offers are being made is a responsibility for this harmful debt psychology remains a question, but doubtless many people have been led to overbuy by these inducements. Many incomes are mortgaged far in advance. If they are not paid promptly, a sickening business and employment a very serious condition could easily occur. That why it is so essential to prevent unemployment by every possible means and to keep wages at high level. Because so few of us pay our bills promptly, retail collections are slow. Hence the wholesaler has to wait for his money, because wholesale collections are slow. The wholesaler must wait for his money. But the manufacturer has to meet his payroll and other expenses in cash and so borrows money from the bank. This causes a tremendous loss to business in unnecessary interest charges. In one way or another the public pays these costs in higher prices. Hence slow collections mean higher cost of living, whether the people realize it or not.

Laxity Cause
Most merchants will tell you that the great majority of the overdue accounts are perfectly good some day. But that they are merely slow. That seems to be the general situation. It isn't that business men and people generally are not earning enough money to pay their bills, but that they have fallen into a habit of laxity which is almost as serious from the standpoint of credit and business as they could not pay at all. The difficulty is that everyone is waiting for somebody else to pay up and consequently collections are slow. Why not let each individual start a campaign of paying up bills of his own even if he has to borrow the money to do it. This spread of collection would soon make borrowing unnecessary. By paying accounts quickly and asking the ones we are paying to pass the favor along, better business, better money conditions, and more prosperity would result.

Slow Collections Widespread
If this wave of slow payment were found only in some particular industry or locality its effect would not be so damaging. However, a general condition and until it is corrected no amount of advertising or sales effort can offset its effect. Economists have figured out how much the national postal service would increase the efficiency of money. There is undoubtedly a great saving here. But most business men today would be satisfied with a check by regular return mail.

Moreover, this habit of slow payment is not confined solely to the man on the street; many business concerns that are paying their bills promptly do not do so when the lifeblood of business, are clogged. The stock market is held largely by responsible men who have high money and high rates. At least one thing can be said for the stock market, namely, that it has been a very important factor in creating credit shortage and high rates; but while general business is waging for this situation to be corrected it could do much to alleviate the

BOY SCOUTS VISIT WIND CAVES WEST OF BURLEY

BURLEY, June 6 (Special to The News).—Some mysteries of the curious Wind caves on the Minidoka project west of Burley have been cleared up by a party of Boy Scouts escorted by Scoutmaster H. E. Cleveland. After fully preparing themselves for an arduous journey, they let themselves down into the mouth of the uncharted arch.

Wind issues from the natural shaft that leads down into this cave, at times with force enough to blow one's hat "down the road." The entrance is rough and narrow. In places so small as to force the explorer to worm his way along on his back or stomach. The boys were equipped with flashlights, tape lines and compasses. Measurements were taken of the main channel, distances estimated and a chart was drawn. It was found that many side passages opened from the main channel, and some of these were explored and charted.

In places, the main gallery opened up into large room-like hollows. At times it narrowed to where it could hardly be crawled through, and there were several steep drops.

The boys estimated that they descended to a point some 50 feet under the surface. After progressing nearly 100 feet along the main passage, the hole became so small that further advance was impossible. Half way to the end of this tunnel, which had been gradually dying down, seemed to stop entirely. Its places of entrance had not been discovered. The largest hollow measured about 20 by 40 feet, and was 20 feet in height. Two others were nearly as large. The rock seemed to be of two types of limestone. Evidence of the action of underground water was noticed. No animals were encountered, except bats.

The boys who accompanied Mr. Cleveland were Fred John and Joe Clevy, John and Morrell Enlish and George Steidman.

At Queen Victoria's birth there were persons between her and the throne.

Southern Idaho Editors To Assemble at Burley

BURLEY, June 6 (Special to The News).—Editors of Southern Idaho will meet in Burley Saturday. An informal organization of newspaper men of this district was formed over a year ago and meetings have been held at irregular intervals since then. The last meeting was in Jerome in April.

There are no officers of the association. The "get-together" meetings are held for the purpose of becoming better acquainted, and for talking shop. Editors of the local papers send out notices of meetings, and arrange for accommodations. At this session, the publishers are asked to come early and be prepared to enjoy such country club features as golfing, boating, tennis and the like. In the evening, while a business confab is being held, visiting ladies will be entertained at a theatre party.

STUMBLING AROUND

There are all kinds of grocery stores, just as there are all kinds of farmers, plumbers, mechanics, auto drivers, etc. Each is governed greatly by hereditary tendencies, environment, poor training and habit. Habit, they say, is the greatest influence in every individual's life, and this may account for the way in which most grocery stores scatter their foods all over the floor and up to the ceiling, making it necessary for prospective buyers to stumble over various baskets of apples, onions, potatoes, etc., in entering or walking around the average grocery store. One grocer does it because others do and grocery stores of today, generally speaking, are about as they were 20 years ago.

WARNING COVERS USE OF CHLORATE SPRAYS

Agronomist Advises Great Care in Floating Weed Patches With Chemicals

Moscow, June 6 (Special to The News).—Farmers who plan to treat their water with chemicals this summer rather than have the work handled by a supervisor now available in most of the organized weed control districts are warned of the dangers involved in the handling of chlorates by J. D. Remberg, Jr., field agronomist and state seed commissioner with the University of Idaho college of agriculture extension division.

The Idaho experiment station has found that the chlorates of sodium and calcium are most effective in the control of wild morning glory, Canada thistle, Russian knapweed and quack grass. Finely divided particles of chlorate, however, are extremely combustible, especially when in contact with dried vegetable matter, explains the field agronomist. Of the two, sodium chlorate is far more combustible and should be handled with extreme care. Calcium chlorate absorbs and retains a considerable quantity of moisture and is much less inflammable under ordinary conditions. The fire hazard is not eliminated entirely with the use of calcium chlorate but is so reduced that simple precautions will suffice in the prevention of serious accidents.

Extreme Care Necessary

Men should not work alone in using this chemical. In case two or more men are present, one should have the responsibility of another in case of accident. A bucket or container filled with water should be kept within reach at all times. A timely dash of water may save a life, an implement of a building.

Containers of sodium chlorate should not be opened under ordinary conditions. Crystals might fall upon the floor, be swept pulverized and mingled with dust. Such a mixture might easily become ignitable, especially when in contact with wooden boards or hay slips. Should be fireproofed with water thoroughly following contact with sodium chlorate.

Care must be exercised in the use of the machine utilized in applying sodium chlorate. The fire hazard encountered with machines in which lime sulphur was used previously is extremely rare unless all traces of sulphur have been removed. Sodium chlorate in combination with sulphur becomes more dangerously combustible than when alone. Machines should be washed within and without when operation with either of the chlorates have been completed.

Clothing which has been saturated or even moistened with a solution of sodium chlorate should be immediately removed to the safety of the operator. While the clothing is damp there is little danger that when dry a fire spark or slight friction may cause the cloth to burst into flames. Rubber boots should be worn during the operation and they should be thoroughly cleaned with clean water after the operation. Never should clothes saturated with sodium chlorate be allowed to dry upon the body.

Weather-Resistant Chemical

Areas which have been treated with sodium chlorate remain inflammable until sufficient rainfall has occurred. Drizzling machinery or even walking through a freshly treated area may result in a fire. Avoid the area as much as possible.

Mrs. Nellie Ostrom, who for the last two years has been head of the department of music in Glasgow college, will leave this year for Europe where she will spend the year as the student of Richard Strauss. STONE AGE MINUS

RODEZ, France (AP)—A riddle has been solved by the discovery of a prehistoric sepulchre at the Pic d'Ambou, near here. DUKE READY TO COP

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Duke University, playing its first season as a member of the southern conference, is the only undefeated nine and with South practically over, seems well on its way to the championship.

A Salary Increase of $2000 has been refused by the Rt. Rev. C. L. Slattery, Episcopal bishop of Missouri.

He explains that the additional money is not needed.

As possible, advised Seed Commission—Remberg.

Do not cut or burn the weed growth until the following year. Such a procedure may interfere with the action of the chlorate upon the roots of the weed.

While the dangers encountered in the use of calcium chlorate are reduced to a minimum the foregoing precautions apply in part to the use of this chlorate, particularly with reference to apparatus and clothing. Mr. Remberg explains, although several accidents occurred during the past season in handling of chlorates, most of those reported resulted from carelessness on the part of the operator or failure to observe certain of the precautions.

If proper precautions are observed fumes are not perceptibly secure in handling either of the chlorates and should not allow the hazard to deter them from proceeding with the most recent and successful of weed control methods, concludes Mr. Remberg.

There was perhaps no time for definite reflection as Martin, his eyes glued to the road with the tense concentration of the beginner, drove his car northward through the sloping country on the following morning. On the other hand, with every milestone he passed with his back to the city he seemed to be breathing an atmosphere, spiritually as well as actually, cleaner and more invigorating. The Great North road, in its earlier stages, seemed to be breathing an atmosphere, spiritually as well as actually, cleaner and more invigorating. The Great North road, in its earlier stages, seemed to be breathing an atmosphere, spiritually as well as actually, cleaner and more invigorating.

"Will you just give her a good looking over," he begged. "I've never driven her alone before, and I'd like to know what she's all right."

He wandered into the hotel, found an unexpected, amiable, strolled through the town and purchased some necessities, and with his sense of adventure increasing all the time, returned to the car. "A beautiful car, sir," the man told him. "Running perfectly. I should imagine. I've filled her up and looked her over. She's all right."

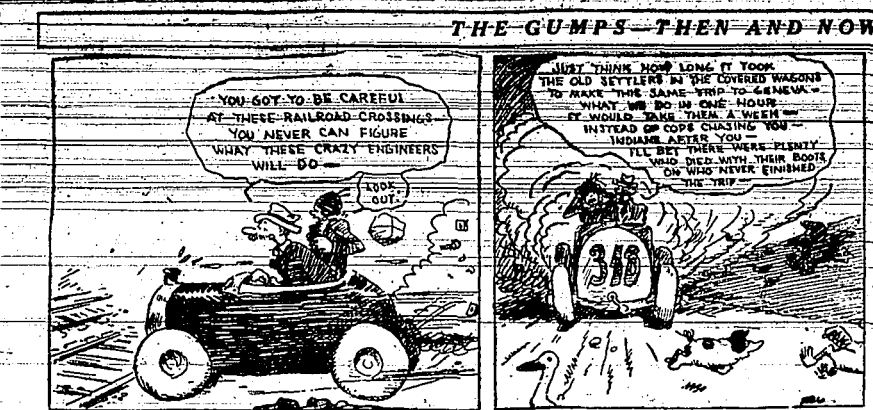

"Martin thanked him and drove away, into a country now of a different character. The road was a great deal, started with bushes of yellow roses, there were dark patches in the bushes and the singing and twittering of innumerable birds. He pulled up by the roadside, once upon the sole purpose of realising in inaction the joy of his liberty. He sat there, bareheaded, sleeping in content. The joy of the morning was in his veins. A lark was singing overhead; the sunshine warmed him. When again he looked to the road he found himself looking at a familiar scene. Popular songs and musical comedies. He felt ridiculously yet completely ill at ease. He felt that he had reached the slightest premonition of any possible change in his spirit. It was not until he was approaching the hotel that he was aware of the change.

In the beginning there was, nothing at all, remarkable about the incident which he was to remember all his life. He was driving along, he was gazing with some curiosity, while still over a mile away, turned out as he drew nearer to be two men standing in the middle of the road. One of the men was a young fellow in a suit, the other a man in a suit. The fact in itself was not extraordinary, but the men were. There were two men standing in the middle of the road. He entered it and later on, a city of unrealities. He passed the hotel bus a crazy vehicle in which he had so often traveled to and from the station. The driver half recognized him in his superlatively handsome car and simply started. It seemed impossible of realization that he should so often have occupied that corner seat with a really packed case of samples upon the roof, discussing business prospects perhaps with a rival or maintaining a mysterious silence. He passed one of the factories, outside which he had often waited so anxiously, and an acquaintance, and late arrival, loitering there, caught through the window a glimpse of the manufacturer himself without a word. He changed his mind about going to the hotel where he had been accustomed to stay. The idea of mixing with his old associates was suddenly repulsive. He turned and instead through the arched gateway of the old-fashioned tourist hotel of the place. He entered his mind, ordered a room and strolled out presently to see the city from a new point of view.

He was no longer the young ambusher of commerce; absorbed in the success or non-success of his efforts to make money. He entered his mind, ordered a room and strolled out presently to see the city from a new point of view.

GOODING COLLEGE WILL HOLD ANNUAL RECEPTION

GOODING, June 6 (Special to The News).—The reception given by President and Mrs. C. W. Tenney, Gooding, for the class of 1920, trustees, faculty, alumni and students is an event of June 8, from 4 to 6 P. M. It will be held at the first time in the newly acquired home of the president, located just a short distance from the campus. This estate was the former home of the late Senator and Mrs. Frank R. Gooding who died so much for Gooding college. The college was named for the late senator and he gave the land which is now the campus. Over 15 years ago when the Methodists of southern Idaho were contemplating the establishment of a college, Frank R. Gooding was the moving spirit who caused it to be located at Gooding. The president's home is to be the recent headquarters for the summer and it will provide a place for the celebration of all college functions.

SOIL SURVEY READY FOR MINIDOKA AREA

Department of Agriculture With Aid of Experiment Station Issues Report

MOSCOW, June 6.—Special to The News.—A report of the soil survey of the Minidoka area, Idaho, conducted by the United States department of agriculture, in cooperation with the University of Idaho agriculture experiment station, has recently been published and is available for distribution.

The area studied includes the Minidoka reclamation project and a proposed extension. Prior to the opening of that part of Idaho was confining to a few stock ranches along Snake river and Goose and Marsh creeks, and the Snake river plain was an unbroken extent of sage brush.

Rapid Development

Within 17 years the population has increased to over 16,000. There were 2451 farms and somewhat more than 99,000 acres of land planted to crops. This rapid development was made possible by the construction of a storage dam across Snake river and an extensive system of irrigation canals by the bureau of reclamation.

About one-third of the planted area is devoted to alfalfa and clover hay, clover seed, oats, barley, corn and potatoes are important crops. Considerable numbers of range cattle and sheep are fed on the irrigated farms during the winter. Land prices range from about $75 to $300 an acre, depending upon location, improvement, and kind of soil. The soils are generally well adapted to the growing of crops under irrigation, although in some districts seepage and accumulation of alkali salts greatly reduce crop yields.

Detailed Report

six illustrations, and a large colored map showing the location and extent of the soil. The soils are described in considerable detail as to their characteristics, distribution and use. Separate chapters are given to the discussion of the surface conditions of the area, climate, agriculture, irrigation and drainage.

This report is of particular interest to residents within the area and is of value to prospective settlers. A copy may be obtained free upon request to the United States department of agriculture, Washington.

GOODYEAR All-Weather Treads GRIP AND HOLD

Trade your tires that s-l-i-p for tires that G-R-I-P! Good brakes plus tires that slip equal NO brakes!

Look at Your Treads NOW!

If worn smooth—or if they have nothing but ribs ("sleeper-runners") DOWN THE CENTER—consider this: Can you name a single SURE-FOOTED animal—any animal that can get away quick, or stop quick, or cover bad ground without danger—that has smooth paws or "sleeper-runners" paws? No! They all have paws with four or five deep-cut pads to GRIP and to HOLD where they contact with the ground. Nature knows!

The All-Weather Tread is like an Animal's Paw. This same principle gives the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread its SURE-FOOTED grip on slippery roads. DOWN THE CENTER, where they contact with the road, are deep-cut, sharp-pointed, sharp-edged blocks or "pads" of tough rubber.

That is why the Goodyear All-Weather, for more than 20 years, has been recognized as the world's safest and best non-skid tire tread. UP THE SIDES, too, these blocks or "pads" also extend—to prevent skids on turns—to hold in ruts—to pull out when deeply mired. The world's greatest winter tread—yet it costs you no more!

More than 20 years have proved the Goodyear All-Weather to be the world's safest and best non-skid tread

Sell Us The Miles in Your Slippery Tires

We'll allow you full value for the miles left in your slippery tires, toward the price of safe new Goodyears.

Goodyears are now priced lower than in the 31 years past—their quality is highest in tire history, and they carry a guarantee for life against any and all defects—the guarantee of the world's largest rubber company.
