BUILDINGS SWAY AS EARTHQUAKE SHAKES CALIFORNIA CITIES

Tembler Causes Injury of Four Persons at Santa Fe Spring and Damage of $50,000 at East Whittier

Los Angeles, July 8.—A slight earth movement of several seconds' duration shook Los Angeles and suburbs within a radius of 30 miles at 8:45 A. M. today, injuring four persons at Santa Fe Springs, all town, and doing property damage to the extent of $50,000 at East Whittier, a suburb of this city.

Although large buildings in Los Angeles swayed inches, during the tremor and the towers of the city hall were reported to have moved back and forth some 12 inches, no damage was done here. The reports require the attention of residents in the southwest section of the city.

Long Beach, Calif., Tuesday.—Coast line communities, including Long Beach, Hermosa Beach and Santa Monica felt the tremor motion did the inland towns of Pasadena and Glendale. At Long Beach considerable excitement was caused, as it was the first quake since the 1907 one that could be recalled there.

School Wall Quakes in a portion of the East Whittier school wall cracked. In other schools, the windows were wrecked by falling chimneys. A glass window in Whittier store was cracked.

Within an hour after the first shock a lesser tremor was felt in Los Angeles. The Los Angeles city hall is of "quake proof" construction. It was built so that it would stand 18 inches in each cardinal direction is provided for.

WHY ACCEPT A "MILEAGE GUARANTEE" When GOODYEARS are Guaranteed for LIFE?

When you are tempted to buy a tire because it is "guaranteed for so many miles" just remember this:

It will cost you no more to buy a Goodyear Tire and Goodyear Tires are guaranteed for life!

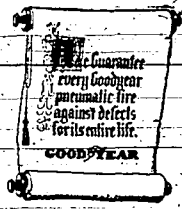

Remember this, too: no guarantee is worth any more than the tire itself. And Goodyear Tires are so good, so satisfactory, that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind. That fact proves what other tires can only claim.

Right here in your neighborhood we are ready to demonstrate for you the things that make Goodyear Tires the choice of experienced car owners everywhere. These points are

- (1) The All-Weather Tread (2) The Supertwist Carcass

Goodyear's superiorities in both of these features can be demonstrated right before your eyes. Come in any time.

And if you are looking for a guarantee—read the guarantee that Goodyear offers. Why be satisfied with anything less?

A Washington Bystander

By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—It still seems unreasonable to talk of Washington for the sprouting of Democratic candidates for the 1932 presidential election. The new party set-up, headed by Joseph Shouse, Kansas, got going in the capital—a regular high-hush campaign against candidates has been in progress since Shouse founded that note in his Jefferson-dinner speech—incidentally that turned out to be considerably of a love feast despite dark rumors of anti-Smith, anti-Raskob cleavages.

Since the dinner some half-million copies of the Shouse speech have been sent out at government expense—kindness of Senator Tydings of Maryland. He put it in the Congressional Record, which gave it the freedom of the mails.

The Warning
 It is notable in this morning that the speech Shouse remarks declaring the new Washington organization of the party "will refuse absolutely to have any concern" with anybody's candidacy is particularly significant. You do not even have to open the envelope containing the speech to get that message. An excerpt is printed on the outside which the reading eye cannot miss it. He would not need phrases, the type is so large, unless his eyesight was exceptionally good.

Yet despite all this effort to avoid for the present, premature erection of presidential nomination lightning rods, already in existence the Democratic stalwart will have to be reckoned with in that respect. That is Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas. He is any undercurrent of feeling among his party colleagues that the defeat of the Smith-Robinson ticket has already suggested when, without exception, his inquiries were received with courteous attention.

His opinion of New York and its people underwent a sudden and lasting transformation. He is a booster now for New York.

The national metropolis has a lot of favorable opinion that can be acquired in this manner. It has a considerable handicap to overcome. The country at large does not think well of New York. "The sidewalks of New York," used in and out of season during the last campaign, was a greater load than a candidate of pleasing personality could carry through to his goal. It is now accepted as one of the major factors contributing to the landslide that swept his opponent into the presidency.

New York needs to cultivate a good will to overcome the general dislike as well as to improve its own frame-up. It is a matter largely of individual responsibility.

As deeply implanted in the popular mind as the idea of the indifference of great cities, is the tradition of Western hospitality. That tradition is one of the major assets of this region. Oneboorish, indifferent, careless Westerner can injure it with a word or action that may have tremendous consequences, and offset all that has been gained by great expenditure of money and effort to bring new people here. On the other hand, a courteous word, or a simple act of hospitality may do more toward confirming a good opinion of this region than ten years of propaganda and hours of talk thumping.

It is a matter of individual responsibility.

LAW REFORM
 The Supreme Court has practically caught up with its docket. When it adjourns on June 30, it has disposed of eight hundred twenty-five cases of the nine hundred sixty-eight cases with which the term began. When a case once gets to the Supreme Court, promptness is assured. This unfortunately is an unusual thing to say of any American court, not always, however, through the judges' fault.

This rapid work is in part due to a law which limits the number of cases that may go to the Supreme Court. But part is due to the Court's own initiative.

During the past term two litigants were fined one hundred fifty dollars and two hundred dollars respectively for bringing in cases so frivolous that the judges merely wanted the time of the judges and of the other side. This is an action that the layman would like to see widely copied. Perhaps other courts lack the power, but undoubtedly much of our legal delay could be avoided if judges were willing to have it so.

THE SAVIOR OF FRANCE
 Marshal Pétain, commander of the French army in the last two years of the war, has just been elected to the French Academy to succeed the late Marshal Foch. This makes one more recognition of the solid and dependable general, who we know now more than any other made Foch's final victories possible.

When Pétain took charge, a series of ill-planned attacks had bludgeoned the French army, while, and mutinies were breaking out all about the line. By whom some patience Pétain restored morale, and remade his forces into an efficient fighting machine. Without him this war might well have been lost in nineteen hundred seventeen. Pétain deserves every honor or his country can bestow.

Heydier May Act to Avert Civil War in National League

Chief Executive of Big Circuit Ready To Avoid Outbreak

Latest Developments Involve Conference Between President and Manager of Cincinnati Red Team

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 8.—The feud that has apparently sprung up between the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, as a result of incidents on and off the playing field, may wind up in President Heydier of the National League "holding court" on the whole situation. The league's chief executive, at least, is prepared to take whatever action is needed to avoid further outbreaks of the sort that led up to the fine and suspension of Hack Wilson, Chicago outfielder.

The latest developments today involved a conference between President Heydier and Manager Jack Hendricks of the Reds, who left voluntarily of the league chief in company with Pete Donohue, the Cincinnati pitcher attacked by Wilson in a radio address at Chicago last week after episodes of violence earlier in the day upon the field.

The incident involved a special strap upon what characterized as Wilson "unprovoked" attack upon Donohue, an incident which the league president had been obliged to ignore previously because it happened off the field.

Urges Hearing

In pressing his charges, Hendricks requested that Mr. Heydier call a hearing, but under the league constitution written demand for this must first come from the club.

Hendricks indicated that the Reds were aroused since by the run-in between Riggs Stephenson, Cub outfielder, and Hughie Critz, star Cincinnati second baseman, than by Wilson's actions. Stephenson, in an attempt to block a double play, cut Critz, who was temporarily without the services of their chief infielder.

So far, the suspension of Wilson for three days, a term that expires tomorrow, is the only discipline connected by President Heydier in connection with the flare-up between the two clubs. It is understood, however, that the league chief also warned Ray Kulp, Cincinnati pitcher, against "ridiculing" opposing players from the dugout. Kulp's tactics as a "jockey" are familiar throughout the National League circuit and it was because of his alleged taunts that Wilson left first base to invade the hostile ranks of the Reds at Chicago.

Patsy Ruth Miller in "Marriage By Contract"

Patsy Ruth Miller's marvellous acting and the powerful dramatic punch in "Marriage by Contract" make this John M. Stahl special production now showing at the Orpheum theatre a sensation.

Companionate marriage is the theme of this original story by Edward Clark and it attacks this modern idea vigorously, startlingly and entertainingly. It shows how one marriage contract, that went on the rocks sooner than more marriages, favored the regard in which the woman to the contract was held by her men friends. But the man let no one and became the husband of another girl by the good, old-fashioned bonds of wedlock.

Patsy Ruth Miller has never had such an opportunity and she grasps it eagerly and handles it with understanding and finesse. Lawrence Gray, Robert Edwards, Ralph Emerson, Duke Martin and Raymond Keane portray various lovers and husbands and each is a distinctive characterization. Ruby Lafayette, the Falls, Texas; A. W. Donnie Bush Thinks Speedy Pirates May Still Win National League Flag

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports-Writer)

NEW YORK, July 8.—Donnie Bush, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates thinks the fastest possible business may win the National League pennant if the lively ball does not kill or maim some of his best players.

"The Pirates pilot was asked if the ball is as closely related to a rabbit as has been alleged by some indignant players."

"It's not a ball, it's a bullet," said Donnie. "Somebody's going to get killed if they don't watch out. A pitcher who has to put the ball over hasn't a chance. All he can do is to pitch and duck."

However, if the Pirates do not forget to duck, the manager thinks he has a real chance to win another pennant.

"We will have to keep our feet up all the way for this is going to be a fight right down to the finish," said Bush. "The Cubs and the Giants will take a lot of beating. The Cards have not been getting the catching and won't hit a slugging. They don't know what to do with you are strong enough to make other arrangements. That's what happened to us last year."

BUILDERS AT WORK ON MOON STORE NEW HOME

Granby was broken Monday for the new home of E. A. Moon's piano and glass store, a brick structure, 50 by 125 feet. This is to be completed at an estimated cost of $15,000 at the corner of Ninth avenue and Third street west.

The new building is to occupy the site on which Mr. Moon has had his business headquarters for nearly 15 years. It was purchased from Twin Falls Townsite company by Fred A. Voigt, who built a small frame building on it. Later it was owned by W. A. Moon, the time owner of large land holdings on the Salmon River project, who sold it to James Wood from whom it was purchased by Mr. Moon in 1913.

In the course of 10 years business, Mr. Moon built seven additions to the frame building, most of which has been razed to make way for the new structure.

WITH all her strength, Christine struggled for calmness. But her thoughts were in chaos—her heart was icy cold—Gina was the sweetest dream of love which her marriage to Relio had brought her since that other woman, Nina, had come into their home.

His "sister," Relio had called the proud, dark beauty. But she was a stranger. Relio seemed to change. He worked late in his study and often there clung to him the odor of lilacs—Nina's perfume.

"You needn't lie to me, Christine once told him sadly. "I know you love Nina—but you needed money. So you married me, a blind girl, and brought Nina here as your 'sister'—thinking to hide from me the truth."

"But you are imagining things," Relio had cried.

"Wait, Relio. The hurt to my heart doesn't—"

Apple Production Keeps up Despite Decrease in Trees

UNUSUAL SITUATION PREVAILING-DESPITE REDUCING-PROCESS

Concentration in Favorable Sections and Elimination of Unproductive Orchards Accounts For Conditions

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 8.—The unusual situation of apple production being maintained in the country, in the face of the destruction of millions of trees, is noted in a report issued by the department of agriculture.

While the number of apple trees in the United States decreased nearly 40 per cent from 1910 to 1925, increased production per tree has largely offset the decline, it was explained.

The reason, according to M. K. Cooper, senior economist in the bureau of agricultural economics, may be laid to the concentration of trees in favorable sections, reduction of unprofitable orchards and growth of fewer varieties.

In addition, there has been a more thorough adoption of cultural and fertilization practices, interplanting of varieties, and other changes found by state and federal experiments to be the best.

A forecast of the 1929 crop reveals that apple production for the entire country will likely average 10 per cent less than that of last year, but still substantially larger than the light crop of 1927.

In the Western group of states, the Pacific coast and mountain region, the survey revealed an enormous increase in production during the last 15 years. An annual crop of 19,000,000 bushels between 1909 and 1913 has increased to more than 54,000,000 bushels for each year of the period 1925-28.

Wisconsin leads all other varieties in number of trees. More than 800 varieties, each raised to a greater or less extent, are grown in the country.

York alone reports 241 kinds. The profusion, causing difficulties in marketing, has been a factor in the recent reduction in the number of trees.

Tendency now, Cooper pointed out, is toward the concentration of production in fewer varieties.

Texas Farmers Profit By Mexican Egg Market

PEARLING, Texas, July 8.—Farmers of the Ito Grande valley are to add to their bankroll by shipping a carload of eggs daily into Mexico.

A demand from Mexican markets which have been receiving cold storage from the middle west, has caused the valley egg association to open accounts in the southern republic. Premium prices are received by valley hatcheries.

To meet the new demand, a central exchange will be built to provide machinery for candling, and feed supplies. Cooperative marketing will be followed by the many farmers who raise chickens as a sideline to citrus fruit.

Removal of vast quantities of apple trees has failed to reduce the country's annual crop, according to M. K. Cooper (inset), department of agriculture economist. The harvest in orchards (above), for 1929 is forecast as being promising.

One Time Swamp Delta of California Yielding Huge Crop of Choice Asparagus

Mechanical cultivation in the asparagus industry (below) are expected to bring about the maximum utilization of the resources of California's great delta region. Harvesting the crop is shown (left), while a mechanical contrivance (right), is used for bundling and trimming.

(By The Associated Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—The delta region of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers, once the swampy home of ducks and muskrats, has become the greatest source of asparagus in the country.

A forecast of the 1929 yield, made by the California department of agriculture, indicates that a total of 56,372 acres in the region may produce one of the heaviest harvests in the history of the industry.

Asparagus production has been speeded up by mechanical cultivation to multiply much of the former hand work. This year, the larger companies are going a step farther and making asparagus farming practically horseless.

Both two-row bed-making and two-row cultivation have been developed this year. Each tractor operation replaces 12 to 15 horses and six Oriental laborers.

There is little fluctuation in the acreage of asparagus because the plant, being a perennial, prohibits heavy rotations to other commodities, at the bulk of the crop. The amount produced has shown a gradual increase, however, with maximum utilization of resources. Besides being the largest producer of asparagus in the United States, California also produces more asparagus for fresh shipment than any other state the department says.

The acreage in New Jersey, the production of which is used entirely for fresh consumption, amounted to 10,609 acres in 1928, 50 acres in excess of the estimate for California. However, the average yield an acre in New Jersey was 78 crates, while California land yielded 127 crates an acre.

Georgia and South Carolina are possibly California's greatest competitors, according to the department, because shipments from these states originate at the time when the movement from California is heaviest. Much of the asparagus in the eastern states goes by express and motor truck, rather than by carlot shipments.

Management Reports Clearly Show Increases In Farmers' Prosperity

AMES, Iowa, July 8.—Farmers of the Middle West fared better financially in 1928 than in 1927, the farm management loss was $900. In 1927 the high records of 461 Iowa farmers indicated a loss of $1,000,000. The average management return for 1928 was $458, or $018 higher than in 1927, when the records showed a loss of $160 per farm.

The management return is figured by deducting all operating expenses, interest on invested capital, and wages of $10 a month—equivalent to wages and board for a hired man—from the total gross income.

The average net farm income was $2,400 in 1928 as compared with $1,920 in 1927. The net cash income, however, which does not allow for products used on the farm as in the net farm income, was only $1,829 in 1928, as against $1,610 the year before.

A survey made in Illinois indicates that farms on which records were kept $175 in the east central meat district, had an income averaging $1,000 more. The cash grain district was valued than farms whose records were kept, at $150 while the dairy district placed The high farm showed a management return of $620 while the low farm showed a management loss of $400. The average return of the high one-fourth of the farms was $2084, while on the low one-fourth the average management loss was $900. In 1927 the high records of 461 Iowa farmers indicated a loss of $1,000,000. The average management return for 1928 was $458, or $018 higher than in 1927, when the records showed a loss of $160 per farm.

One factor resulting in a larger income in 1928 was higher crop yields, the downward trend in feed-cattle prices, however, reduced profits on the beef farms. Livestock, generally, remained about the same as in 1927. The average number of cows milked decreased from eight to seven, but was accompanied with an increase in dairy receipts from $98 to $191 per cow. The poultry income rose from $2.65 per hen to $3.16. Land was valued according to the owner's estimate. The average for the state was $146 an acre. The price varied from $104 in the southern district to $175 in the east central meat district. The cash grain district was valued at $150 while the dairy district placed a value of $128 an acre. The difference was explained on the basis of percentage of land which can be put in crops, and the average yield.

SEED POTATO SWINDLE ACCUSATION DISMISSED

A swindling charge against Herbert McIntyre was dismissed Monday on motion of C. V. Larson, prosecuting attorney, after McIntyre's attorney explained he would show at trial that McIntyre's customer had declined to accept seed potatoes tendered under contract.

McIntyre, resident of St. Anthony, Idaho, was arrested and brought here from Portland last week to answer felony-charge of obtaining money under false pretense.

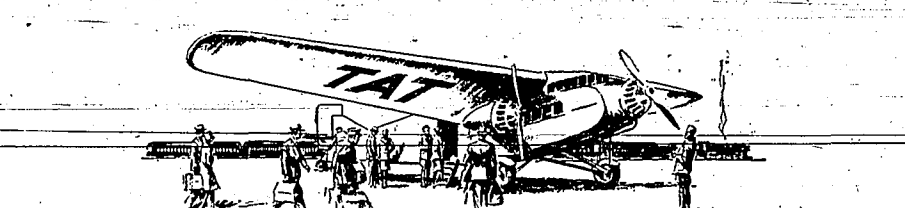

It was alleged he had accepted money from growers here for seed potatoes that he did not own and never delivered. He had not been arraigned when the charge was dismissed.

PENNZOIL

Transcontinental Air Transport—linking East and West by 48-hour air-rail service—specifies Pennzoil exclusively for entire air fleet.

The technical committee of Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., comprises some of the Nation's most famous aeronautical engineers, with COLONEL CHARLES A. LINDBERGH as its chairman. Consequently, T. A. T.'s decision to use Pennzoil—with the entire field of lubrication to choose from—is significant not only to those engaged in aviation but to everyone who drives a car!

All America thrills to the romance of T. A. T.'s great new enterprise, perfected after months of painstaking preparation, through courageous leadership and the investment of millions.

The ideal of T. A. T. is fast, safe, comfortable air travel, with absolute dependability. T. A. T. officials, with unlimited resources at their command, specified the best of everything. Luxurious planes and complete facilities feature this new air-rail service that cuts coast-to-coast train time in half.

That Pennzoil was chosen to furnish Safe Lubrication for the Pratt & Whitney engines of T. A. T.'s 10 all-motored, Ford planes is an impressive tribute to its supreme quality.

But even more impressive is this fact: the oil that met T. A. T.'s rigid requirements was regular everyday Pennzoil—the same Pennzoil that a million oil-wise motorists buy from dealers who display the Pennzoil sign.

Whenever your car needs oil, remember the choice of T. A. T. There is no finer lubricant than Pennzoil! Sold by 12,000 leading independent dealers in the West. Ask for it by name.

Mexican Rebel General Dies Acclaimed By Federal Foe

LEADER RACES OUT OF HACIENDA INTO DEADLY ARMY GUNS

Knowing Fate, Commander of Religious Rebels in State of Jalisco Goes to Death in Own Manner

By C. P. NUTTER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—Knowing he must perish, General Enrique Gorostieta, commander of the "Cristeros," religious rebels in the state of Jalisco and fiercest of the fighters who rallied to "Viva Cristo Rey," chose his own manner of meeting death and went with a gesture that aroused admiration throughout Mexico, near among those who were not in sympathy with his cause.

The story of the death of General Gorostieta, which dealt a severe blow to the irregular rebellion, has just reached Mexico City. Disheartened by the constant reverses his army suffered in their engagements with the augmented federal forces sent against him after suppression of the Frezear-revolt, Gorostieta gathered his few remaining men in the town of Ibarra in Jalisco, preliminary to abandoning them.

Death in Camp

There was death in the camp, however, and Gorostieta's headquarters were revealed before his plans were consummated. He awoke the next morning to find his tent surrounded by 3000 federal troops. He was trapped behind thick walls, with escape impossible.

Calling his men around him, Gorostieta told them to surrender inasmuch as they likely would escape the consequences of their refusal because of the leader's rank, but that he realized he must pay with his life for his leadership and bloody campaign against the government.

After hearing mass, he ordered his horse saddled and brought to the patio of the hacienda. There he mounted, a shot in either hand.

Two Pistols Blare

The gates of the hacienda were thrown open and the doomed leader, once a trusted federal general and rated as one of the finest artillery officers in Mexico, raced forth, lying low on the neck of his horse, with his revolvers blazing at the enemy.

He managed to get some 50 yards outside the hacienda before a sharpshoot, the federal soldier got the range and knocked him from the saddle. He was dead when he dropped, but he had died in a manner that had stirred the quick admiration of even his enemies.

Gorostieta's 40 officers obediently surrendered and were used as peace emissaries by the federal army. Gorostieta's body was embalmed and sent to his family in Mexico City, where it was given a private burial in one of the city's oldest cemeteries.

INDUSTRIES INSURING EXECUTIVES' BRAINS

DETROIT, July 8 (AP)—Brain insurance has been inaugurated by several of the country's greatest industrial firms to guard against depletion of their supply of executive talent.

This has taken the form of huge bonuses awarded to the upper tier of executives. Standard Oil of New Jersey and the Chrysler Motor company have followed the lead of General Motors and others in making their executives so contented that they will resist offers of higher salaries from competitors.

The trend toward brain insurance is the industrial world's recognition of the fact that the development of executive brains has fallen behind the supply.

The Standard Oil of New Jersey said Chrysler will receive blocks of stock substantially under the market price. The Standard Oil of New Jersey will pay $100,000 a year for a period of five years.

The theory of all such provisions is that a hard, permanent nucleus of capable executives has become the surest guarantee of successful operations and that this reservoir of personality should be safeguarded with the same care as the physical assets of the company.

LINDBERGH HOAXED ONCE IN PHOTOGRAPHERS' ROW

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Colonel Charles Lindbergh, once brought into the public eye by his flight to Europe, was the innocent victim of a rivalry between photographers on opposing papers.

Lindbergh's employer refused to pay him the full amount of the contract and the flight. In the office several hours, arguing his claim, he finally compromised for a part of the stipulation.

A few weeks before the Murphyboro (tornado) news camera men at Sand Cave, Kentucky, agreed that one man should enter the cave, make pictures of the sun-torned Floyd Collins, and each paper and syndicate have a piece.

The photographer, however, gave his rival in the morning field an unexposed plate. The hoaxed camera man bided his time and at Murphyboro came his opportunity. Lindbergh, then a contract pilot, flew to the Illinois city to pick up plates from a photographer who had "cutured" Collins' cave.

The hoax victim heard Lindbergh calling the photographer's name, as he handed him a box of new plates and bid him to hurry them back to Chicago. Lindbergh dashed back to the city with what he thought were the first pictures of the disaster. The dark room revealed the hoax.

Psychology Big Factor in Reparation Accord

NEW YORK, July 9 (AP)—Second thoughts on the reparations settlement has convinced some leading bankers that a sharp line must be drawn between economic and psychological results of the Paris agreement.

The economic benefits they say will accrue from the establishment of an international bank to stabilize exchange rates and from probable flotation of $200,000,000 in reparations bonds this fall or early next year.

On the other hand, they believe that the psychological effects can begin operating immediately. The world can go confidently ahead with the building of ships, roads, factories, bridges, planes, airplanes and motor cars without fear of an economic imbroglio.
