CLEVELAND EDITORIAL

WRITERS SERVE TIME

Denunciation of Race Track Betting Brings Contempt of Court Charge For Two

CLEVELAND, July 17.—Sentenced to serve 30 days and pay fines of $500 each for an editorial denunciation of common pleas Judge Frederick P. Walther, Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press, and Carlton K. Mason, chief editorial writer, were by liberty tonight pending an appeal. After spending an hour at the county jail, Judge Walther pronounced the sentences today at the conclusion of his hearing of his own charges, filed against the two newspapermen after adjudging them in contempt of court. Nathan D. Baker, former secretary of the court who conducted the defense, filed an appeal and obtained a stay of execution from Appellate Judge Willis Vickery.

Released Under Bond Seltzer and Mason were released under $1000 bond pending outcome of their appeal.

The contempt proceedings were started by Judge Walther after the Press editorially commented on his issuance of an injunction restraining Sheriff Hanratty from interfering with operation of the "thundershow race track" system of betting "if the same be not in violation of the law."

The editorial characterized the injunction either "monstrous," or "ridiculous," and intimated that Judge Walther himself made the victim of race track interests.

Reasons for Contempt

Judge Walther held the criticism contemptuous. He set forth three reasons: that the case was still pending before the court; that the time of the editorial was such that even had the case not been pending, the court has a perfect right to punish for contempt, and that the charge was intended to determine the character of actions punishable by contempt and that such acts only have to be construed as obstructing justice.

Seltzer and Mason were pronounced guilty after Judge Walther overruled a motion for judgment of acquittal. The judge then sentenced the men and ordered their taken to the county jail at once.

In a written statement, Seltzer and Mason declared that the jail sentence was a "small price" to pay "in fighting for a principle."

Moscow Officials Declare Amicable Efforts Exhausted

The note placed the entire responsibility for all consequences on the Chinese government. It announced also that all Soviet diplomatic and consular officials and all government commercial representatives would be recalled at once from China.

The Russian action in breaking off diplomatic relations with China came at the expiration of time set in an ultimatum which the Soviet Union dispatched to the Chinese republic on July 13.

That ultimatum gave the national government at Nanking three days in which to reach its action in seizing the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria.

It also demanded restoration to office of the Russian officials who had been deposed from their offices in the railway and the liberation of all Russian nationals who had been imprisoned. By the terms of the ultimatum the closing of Russian institutions in Manchuria, such as banks, railway unions and business agencies also was to be rescinded.

While the three days specified in the ultimatum would have expired Tuesday, yet the Soviet government learned that there had been a delay of at least 24 hours in transmitting and transmitting the note to Nanking. With this time added, the ultimatum expired at midnight Wednesday, which was almost the exact hour at which announcement of the break was made.

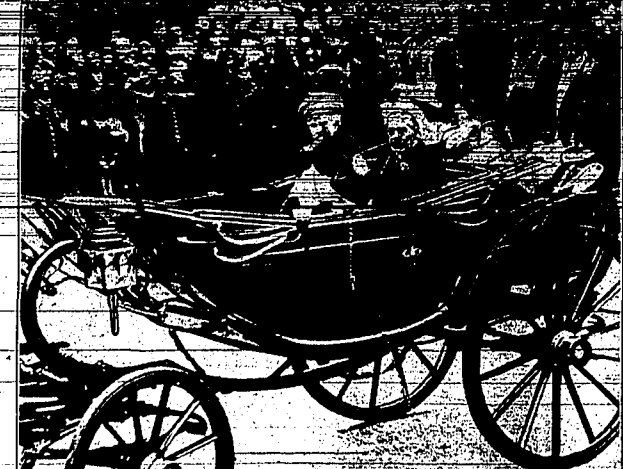

Nanking had sent a reply which the Tass Agency, official Russian news distributor, described as a "conciliatory communication."

While Tass described this note as "conciliatory," an official estimation was echoed from Tokyo, the popular opinion of it was reflected by mob attacks on the Chinese consulate in Moscow. These were especially violent on Tuesday night.

30 Arrests in Gem State During Month For Game And Fish Law Violations

BOISE, July 17.—Thirty arrests during June marked the best month for the sporting game in Idaho but left the state richer by $25 and the sporting world wiser, the monthly report of the state game department revealed today.

Most of the violations on the calendar were strictly seasonal, such as fishing without license, fishing in closed streams, fishing in certain sections out of season, fishing in such a way that trout under six inches were caught, and fishing too close below dams. Judges in the various sections were disposed to dampen the ardor of over-enthusiastic fishermen in token of victory, the 23 being for this amount. One youngster got caught catching frogs out of season and was scolded. For killing deer, only one person was received a jail sentence while another was fined $25 for having an unlicensed gun in his possession without a license.

SKY ROCKET PIERCES UPPER STRATA OF AIR

Flaming Meteor Experiment Brings Out Ambulances in Massachusetts Town

WORCESTER, Mass., July 17.—(AP) A rocket designed by Professor Robert H. Goddard of Clark university, in its experiments to explore the upper strata was sent through the air in an isolated part of Worcester this afternoon.

The noise was such that scores of residents called police headquarters saying that an airplane was shooting alone. Two police ambulances and an airplane scoured the section looking for victims.

The rocket which the sent aloft today was about nine feet long and about 18 inches in girth. It was of metal, powered in such a manner that successive charges of explosive were designed to keep the rocket shooting at even pace through ether.

A statement Professor Goddard issued tonight said that he was experimenting today with an entirely new propulsion and that the experiment was thoroughly satisfactory.

LABOR DISPUTE GETS PLAY IN CONFERENCE

General Counsel For American Civil Liberties Union Sends in Letter

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 17.—An attempt was made today to focus the attention of the executive committee of the Southern textile mills.

Arthur Garfield Hays, as general counsel for the American Civil Liberties Union addressed to the conference a letter in which he criticized the reception given last week by Governor John G. Richards, South Carolina, to a protest from union leaders against the expulsion of union organizers from Ware Shoals, South Carolina.

He urged the governors "to consider attentively what measures and policies may be desirable for the protection of the rights of organized labor in those States. Industrial conditions where civil authorities neglect the maintenance of law in order to protect the interests of employers."

Ray letter, addressed to Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, received no discussion, but will be dealt with tomorrow by the executive committee.

Charge Falsehood

Gov. George characterized Hays' charge that the union organizers were forcibly expelled from Ware Shoals as a statement based on an utter falsehood.

Taxation and aviation chiefly occupied the attention of the governors today. The principal addresses of the day were by Governor Harry P. Byrd, Virginia, Governor George F. Shafter, North Dakota, and Tax Commissioner William H. Time Was When Office Clerk of Northwest Had to be Good Gunman

By CLEVELAND WILLIAMS Associated Press Staff Writer SPOKANE, July 17.—Time was when office clerks in the Northwest were not to be kept out of order to keep a goose-quill splattering, and his reputation intact.

The arrival of the Hudson's Bay company in the fur trade was the Northwest "company" formed by a group of men who had been hunting for furs in the mountains of the West.

When the Indians were discovered the next day they were fighting hand-to-hand and did not have enough time left to tie a pair of gloves for a fight.

Later the tables were turned except for the Indians. They got drunk both times and lost their furs both times, but not to the same party.

Another favorite pastime as the trade developed was to rob Indian hunters of their furs. At one time one of the companies was known as the Northwest Indian hunters returning with pelts.

The operation was nearby, and equally nearby, and the Indians were thrown out while the men of one company were imbibing freely of liquor and dancing.

When the Indians were discovered the next day they were fighting hand-to-hand and did not have enough time left to tie a pair of gloves for a fight.

Later the tables were turned except for the Indians. They got drunk both times and lost their furs both times, but not to the same party.

Legends of Villa's Exploits Still Thrill Romantic Mexican Citizens

PARRAL, Chihuahua, Mexico, July 17.—(AP) Legends of Robin Hood and Arthurian days have their modern counterparts in Mexico's hero worship of Pancho Villa, the dashing, elusive bandit leader who made 475,000 Mexicans his admirers.

Although he has been in his grave less than 10 years, the very mention of Villa's name still elicits plaudits from those who would oppose him were he alive today. To Mexicans he had the equivalent of the legend of Robin Hood.

However much they deplored Villa's cruelty, natives admit that Pancho was "my hero," which is to say, very much of a man. His followers, in fact, no matter how low their estate, still are idolized. A husky grinning peasant, his sombrero fastened and his hair twisted, commands admiring gazes from passersby as he shuffles down a street because he once rode with Villa.

Here in Parral, where the rascally revolutionist was buried, tourists visit his unmarked grave. Some go to his ranch, but the chief attraction is the corner of that noisy, adobe-ringed main plaza where Villa was killed.

One can hear as many versions of his assassination as he has patience to seek out. A story that Villa coveted a neighbor's field, and consequently was shot by the young farmer's cohorts, has gained wide credence. A senator from this district, however, frankly admitted responsibility for the shooting, although many disbelieve his account.

Mexico is rife with legendary accounts of Villa's bravery, his cruelty and marksmanship, his cunning, his love affairs and his responsibility—a quality which, apparently has made him all the more admired. He is the hero of songs as well as of story.

Many such legends have been printed in Spanish, but no complete English anthology has appeared. An El Paso newspaper man now is winnowing out material for a biography of Villa from an immense collection of pictures and data that he collected after the rebel's death.

Distance Favors Braddock in Battle With Loughran

Jersey Pugilist's Chance of Tapping Champ's Chin Good

Title Holder Will Enter Arena in New York City With Odds of Six to Five But Will Need to Be Fast

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Staff Editor)
NEW YORK, July 17.—Jersey Jimmy Braddock, to whom not so long ago a crossing of the Hudson river was as much of an event as crossing of the Atlantic to a seasoned globe-trotter, will carry over in style tomorrow night to fight the Irishman, Tommy Loughran, for the light-heavy world championship of the world.

It seems just a short while ago that youthful Jimmy's handlers in big induced circles of central New York found the exercise of his potent right hand to the battling arms of New York and Jersey City. But another new fist world opened up. Braddock stopped the wild charge of Turfy Griffin, highly touted Westerner at Madison Square Garden, then knocked out Jimmy Slattery and projected himself quickly into the spotlight. By more than a few critics, the 23-year-old Jersey man will be conceded a good chance to tap the elusive chin of Dan Barry tomorrow evening and lift the crown.

The distance favors Braddock. The fight is for 15 rounds to a decision. The distance should favor Braddock, who is a natural light-heavy weight and not handicapped, as is Loughran, by the effort of training down to the 145-pound limit. Although he probably will enter the ring a slight favorite at odds of six to five, the champion will need his boxing skill and speed to effect the attack of the rugged, hard hitting youngster from Arizona. The distance has not improved rapidly within the last year, under-elves handling—while Loughran has demonstrated consistently that he is no longer at his best at the lightweight limit.

If Loughran should lose the title, it will not be surprising to see him immediately enter the quest for the heavy-weight championship relinquished by Max Baer. Philadelphia has indicated that Loughran is often likened to fighting style and temperament. So long as he is in the ring, he will be active among the full-fledged heavies. Both fighters packed up their training logs today, leaving tonight for New York—Braddock from White Sulphur Springs and Loughran from his camp at the Truckee Park Hotel in California tomorrow at 2 P. M. The fight is scheduled for 7 P. M. Mountain Standard time.

During the next two years he was employed by the Bureau of Oceanographic Research of Harvard university 18 months of that being spent in European countries. The results of his work with the bureau are embodied in his book which was published last spring by Macmillan and Company of New York. The volume is a treatise on international law with special reference to fishing and contains a great deal of hitherto unpublished material concerning legal points involved in the possession, straggling and run running cases. Some of the cases he quotes date back to 1078 in English records, and 1775 in American records.

Wickersham's Assistant

Dr. Masterson became interested in this phase of law several years ago when he was assistant under George W. Wickersham who was working with other noted jurists for the League of Nations on a code of international law on the subject, made important in the United States by the passage of the Eighteenth amendment.

Wickersham's assistant

Dr. Masterson has been at the university for two years. During the year he has been a source of inspiration to students and faculty members. His high standards of scholarship and pleasant personality have gathered for him respect and admiration all over the campus. He came to Idaho with strong endorsement from Mr. Wickersham and Dean Hoscoe Pound of the Harvard law school.

Dr. Masterson and his wife are spending their vacation in California. The appointment becomes effective September 1st, but it is believed that the new dean will arrive on the campus several weeks before that time.

Dean Davis has declined to accept the deanship of the law school at the University of Kansas. He was made head of the law school at Idaho in 1923, and under his administration the law college has gained high standing among the recognized law schools in the country.

Bathers Flocking In Considerable Numbers To Snake River's Beaches

BURLEY, July 17.—Bathers are flocking in considerable numbers to the various river beaches near Burley, and are also making frequent use of the backwater above the checks in the big canals.

The most popular beach seems to be at the sloping gravel shore north of the Heyburn bridge. Here bathers are gathered in numbers that give the appearance of a lakeside bathing resort. A ladder has been nailed to one of the bridge piles, and the more expert use this bridge for jumpy diving.

Afternoons, some of the new bathing suits are in evidence that permit the sun's rays to have a rasher free play on the skin of shoulders and back. People come from miles, already garbed in swimmers' suits, step out of their motor cars, walk down the grassy slope to the water's edge, discard bright colored robes and plunge into water that is just cool enough to be comfortable.

The largest crowds are in the later afternoon, especially on Sundays and holidays. A host of Burley business men visit this beach before office hours, mornings. And some, seeking to avoid the bright sun in a little crowd just before dusk. On Sundays, there is not an hour in the day without a crowd of bathers in the Heyburn beach.

CLIMB HILLS

with a COOL ENGINE all Summer long

EXTRA power for the hills—and anti-knock to keep the engine cool! That's what you get with Conoco Ethyl Gasoline.

Conoco Ethyl is the one fuel for high-compression motors. But it's more than that. It puts new life into old motors, too. It converts the carbon-coated veterans into fiery colts—just "rarin" to go.

Fill your tank with Conoco Ethyl—then pick out the steepest hill you can find and hold tight while Conoco Ethyl releases a flood of power. Up you go—and you reach the summit behind a cool, quiet engine. That's real motoring—and that's the extra satisfaction you get from using Conoco Ethyl Gasoline.

Of course, Conoco Ethyl costs a trifle more than ordinary gasoline, but it saves many times its extra cost by reducing wear and tear and by delivering all the power your motor was designed to develop.

Try Conoco Ethyl on your weekend trip. Then you'll understand.

Conoco Ethyl is a proper admixture of Conoco, the extra-miles motor fuel, and Ethyl Fluid, developed by General Motors. All Ethyl Gasoline is not Conoco Ethyl. To be sure you are getting Conoco Ethyl, fill only at those pumps which display the Conoco Ethyl sign.
