Spanish Fliers Feted in Spain

The break between Russia and China over the Manchurian situation has become a diplomatic acuity with the German government's agreement to take charge of Russian interests in China and Chinese interests in Russia.

Formal notification of Russia's decision to cease relations with China was received at Nanking in a second note from Moscow, which carried out the warning of the first Russian note of July 13.

President Chiang Kai-Shek, summoned an emergency conference of Nationalist government leaders to consider the Manchurian question, after receipt of a telegram from Governor Chang Tsi-shan, Liang that the situation is extremely grave in view of Russian troop concentration along the frontier.

The Nationalist government had apparently not lost hope of reaching an amicable settlement with Russia. Japan was possibly prepared to intervene between Russia and China in the interest of peace in the Far East. Premier Hamaguchi and Foreign Minister Gidehara, who are not "officially" informed of developments, conferred on the situation as conveyed in press reports.

Troop movements were generally reported on both sides of the frontier, but no fighting seemed to have developed. Japanese news agencies dispatches reported martial law had been proclaimed in Harbin and newspapers censored.

FAIRGROUNDS SCENE OF GREAT ACTIVITY

Preparations For Coming County Exhibit Employ Small Army of Workmen

Builders and other workmen are playing an important part in preparation for Twin Falls county's fourteenth annual fair at the fairgrounds, beginning on Tuesday, September 23.

Construction of a concrete floor in the merchants' building that was erected last year, has just been completed. This structure, with 40 booths on 10,200 square feet of floor space, merchants and industries of the county will display their exhibits, new and sensible wares, and equipment for betterment of farm and home. The merchants' building, last year, was an outstanding center of improvements of the structure and promise of exhibits in every booth that will be at once informative and novel and artistic, the merchants' contribution to the fair seems likely to set a new high mark this year.

New Entrance.
With view to further accommodation of patrons of the fair, a new entrance in line for the afternoon speed program beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

As a measure of safety also, a 50-foot section of livestock barn north of the main entrance has been removed and placed at the north end of the barns, the 50-foot space left between the gate and the barns being closed by a woven wire fence through which a clear view of traffic outside may be had by persons leaving the fairgrounds.

Care of the broad lawns under shade trees on the grounds calls for almost constant attention with flooding of the entire grounds with irrigation water at least once each week.

With the opening day of the fair and its speed program still six weeks distant, a program of careful preparation of the half-mile race track has been launched, and every day from now until the fair is over the track will be sprinkled and dragged, in order to provide a surface through which a clear view of the sort of events that Twin Falls county fair goes demand and expect.

Los Angeles Newspaper Describes Wonders in Vicinity of Twin Falls

A write-up of the Old Oregon Trail in the vicinity of Twin Falls, appeared in the Los Angeles Times, July 14, in which the attention of motorists is called to the Twin Falls-Jerome inter-county bridge, highest in the world, the Hansen suspension bridge, highest of its kind in the world; the beauties of the canyon; and the magnificence of the Snake Falls, and the effectiveness of the fields around this city.

The paper was received yesterday by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce from Harvey Coggins, treasurer, county treasurer and later deputy county auditor of Twin Falls county.

In part the story reads:

"In the vicinity of Twin Falls in the southern end of the state are many artificial and natural wonders. Just two miles north of the city of Twin Falls is the Twin Falls-Jerome inter-county bridge, the world's highest traffic structure. It spans the rock-walled gorge of the Snake river at a height of 475 feet and is 1400 feet long. Marvelous views up and down the canyon are afforded from this bridge, which has given farmers a new outlet to shipping points for their crops.

"Twin Falls country is noted the country over for the agricultural products raised and shipped to the world market. Beans, potatoes, fruit, sugar beets, dairy products, live stock—all prosper on the Twin Falls tract.

"Just above the 'Big Bridge' as it is called, is the Hansen bridge, highest suspension bridge in the world, and beyond it, the Snake river, which is fifty feet higher than Niagara and often referred to as the 'Niagara of the West.' As night they are illuminated and upon the rays of many thousands of candle power they present a beautiful spectacle.

"Nature has played many pranks in Idaho but the most odddest is found here. The Snake river in this part of the state flows from east to west and from its north shore, which is a vast expanse of more feet high, many springs pour millions of gallons of sparkling, pure water into the stream. They are known as 'hot springs' and are of various number. Their source? That appears to be a mystery. Only one plausible explanation has been given. More than 100 miles to the north, the Snake and Little Lost rivers, flow along through fertile Idaho valleys but suddenly they disappear into the earth. Year after year these rivers continue to pour water into these 'sinks,' as they are known, but no one knows where it comes out to the surface.

"Maybe it emerges at Thousand Springs more than 100 miles to the southward."

OPEN SENATE SESSIONS GETS SMITH'S APPROVAL

That the abolishment of the system of executive sessions, introduced by the present session after 140 years of congressional activity would tend to make people with dark spots on their past records more conspicuous, was the subject of a discussion of merits of applicants will be open, was the opinion expressed by Congressman Addison T. Smith, of the Kansas city, luncheon at the Regency hotel at noon yesterday.

Smith's sessions are older than the constitution, he stated. The Constitutional congress which met in 1775 enacted a pledge of secrecy in regard to all matters discussed or acted upon, and branded as enemies of the country, those who would violate the pledge.

After stating briefly the work done by present congressmen, Smith returned to extra session. Mr. Smith stated that such sessions, ordinarily followed a change of administration, though were common in the past. The sessions, during the continuation of a party regime.

Mr. Smith cited the extra session called by Cleveland in 1893 to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman silver act; the session called by Wilson in 1917 to pass a law forbidding the sale of securities to meet emergency needs; the session called by Harding in 1921 to enact a law raising the tariff in instances where change of party and policy brought about such action; the session of 1917, by Wilson when war was impending, and the session of 1923 called by Hoover in accordance with the pledge given before inauguration of farm conditions were instances where conditions required or warranted the party in power calling an executive session. Mr. Smith said.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT
There are elements of practical and measurable value—and something more —in the work of students of the earth's formation, among whom is Dr. Harold T.
Stearns of the United States Geological Survey, who is engaged now in a study of the geology of the Snake river valley in Idaho.

IN dealing with drainage problems, for instance, it is desirable and well nigh essential to know what lies under the surface of the earth, and the trend of its subterranean waters.
The discovery of that information is, primarily, the purpose of Dr. Stearns' study here; but he has investigated his work with a score of vision and a background of knowledge into which a group of Twin Falls men were drawn last night.

That, perhaps, is the particular province of geologists and archaeologists and astronomers and other students of hidden, material things. Credit to them on that score may be given without detraction from the elements of greatness that are part and parcel of every-day life of ordinary men, which most of us must recognize some time or another.

It is more than merely interesting to know that geological investigation shows that Snake river, during some of time, has coursed through five different channels, each of these channels except the present gorge having been obliterated by successive flows of lava that have pushed the river farther and farther southward.

More than casual interest must be stimulated by proof in successive strata of the lava, of the existence of earlier forms of animal life, antedating even the prehistoric monsters whose bones have been uncovered on top of the most recent of the lava flows.
There is a challenge in the geologist's statement that there is no assurance that another lava flow may not some time sweep out to destroy and change this region as we now know it.

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Less than a month ago the elongated tube of the new Chinan building tower, opposite the Grand Central Terminal on Forty-second street, dominated the skyline of midtown New York.

It is almost blocked out of view, from that vantage point at the crossroads of the world, by the steel skeleton of the Lincoln bank building in front. Broadway is paved to the width of 42 feet shorter. It leaves only a corner of the Chanin building in sight from Broadway, and only by the Woolworth building is still dominant, especially by night, when its illuminated facade glows like a beamed light.

It has been asserted that a quarter-mile radius of the Grand Central station encompasses any other entire city of the country.
Yet even the Grand Central region does not encompass the entire city.

City Prisoner
Half a dozen floors above the pavement

Forty-seventh street.
His mistress has had a wooden platform built for the cage, outside her much happier than he would be on the streets, where he must be muzzled.

Caution Hospitality
An insurance company's finding that the summer attire of a city man weighs four times as much as that of his wife or his girl friend is doubtless accurate, but there seems nothing the males can do about it.
The better restaurants forbid men from removing their coats at the table.

much happier than he would be on the streets, where he must be muzzled.

By Kirke L. Simpson
WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—Of course it is only a coincidence, without particular significance, that it was less than a week ago that the only two men who have the right to have their portraits publicly displayed in the huge old State Department building were the two men who were building a new law firm. They are John D. Rockefeller and Henry L. Stimson, both of whom appear in the portrait gallery of ex-war secretaries and high officials of the State Department. At the same time, the plans were also made for the annual Idaho conference to be held in Twin Falls the first week in September.

Tommy Loughran Decisively Outpoints Jimmy Braddock

Light Heavyweight Champ Triumphs in One-Sided Contest

Young Jersey Challenger Receives Boxing Lesson From Holder of Title Over Last Eight Rounds

(By The Associated Press) YANKEE STADIUM, New York, July 18.—Tommy Loughran, in a masterful exhibition, successfully defended his world's light heavyweight championship tonight by decisively outpointing Jimmy Braddock, young Jersey challenger, in 15 rounds. The champion won the unanimous decision.

After a somewhat shaky start during which he sustained and cut around the eyes and forehead, Loughran came back to give Braddock a boxing lesson in a bout that was decided throughout the last eight rounds. The champion appeared strong at 174 pounds, four pounds more than Braddock and was in complete command of the fight nearly all the way.

Loughran-Braddock Fight Round By Round

ROUND ONE—Loughran led with his left jab and handled the challenger easily in a clinch. The champion came out of the mix-up with a nasty wash over his left eye. Blood streamed from the cut. It seemed to spur the champion into action and the fight began at a fast clip. Braddock smashed a hard right to Tommy's head but missed two swings. Loughran kept jabbing with his left, but was unable to keep the challenger from coming in close with a body attack. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND TWO—They swapped punches in the center of the ring and clinched. The champion fought carefully, showing a healthy respect for Braddock's right. Tommy slipped and only a clinch saved him from slipping to the floor as he dodged Jimmy's charge. The challenger was landing the fight but missing as often as he landed. Braddock forced an overhand right to the head as he forced the champion into a corner. Loughran went back on his heels from a solid left to the head just before the gong sounded.

ROUND THREE—Loughran boxed and jabbed as he sought to stop Braddock's doggedly persistent rushes. The challenger started a fresh flow of blood from the cut over Tommy's eye and gave the champion both fists in a lively mix-up. Loughran's defensive tactics slowed up the fight. Loughran hooked up against the ropes. Loughran chose to fight and smashed Braddock solidly about the head. One of the champion's jabs opened a cut on Braddock's nose just before the end of the round.

ROUND FOUR—After a succession of clinches, Braddock drove the champion back with a right to the head and a left hook to the stomach. The champion kept striking his left into Jimmy's face and had the Irishman swinging wildly. There was a cut now under Loughran's right eye. Braddock stalked his rival with rights and posed but seldom found a target as Loughran shifted and boxed cleverly. Jimmy took a stiff left to the nose just before the bell.

ROUND FIVE—Braddock drove a right hook to the ribs and repeated with an uppercut that landed under Tommy's heart. They spent a lot of time clinching at close quarters. The champion clearly outgeneraled the young Jersey man. Loughran smashed a series of rights to the jaw and took a light left to the body as he sidestepped Braddock's counter attack. Tommy's left seemed to puzzle the challenger, but he connected to the champion's jaw with a hard overhand right. Loughran hooked his left to the body as the round ended.

ROUND SIX—Braddock came out of his corner with head lowered to open a determined charge. He forced the champion about the ring but found difficulty in connecting. Loughran sidestepped and jabbed to upset the challenger's rushes. Repeatedly he threw Jimmy off balance and punished the challenger about the head with close range. Braddock was buffeted around but kept up the pursuit. One of Loughran's right fists opened a cut at the side of Braddock's right eye. The champion had his young rival in a bad way at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN—They came out for action and each with patched-up eyes. The champion drove several hard lefts and rights to Braddock's head and blocked the challenger's counter. Loughran had Braddock backing away from his two-fisted drive. Just when Loughran appeared to have Jimmy in distress, another severe cut was opened by a glancing blow to the champion's forehead. In a twinkling Tommy's face was a mass of blood. Loughran backed away and appeared half blinded by the stream, but he had a smile left as he came to his corner at the end of the round.

ROUND EIGHT—Loughran came out to set a fast pace. His first was fighting with a succession of sharp clouds to the challenger's head and the crowd was in an uproar. The champion had Braddock missing badly. They clinched after exchanging lefts to the body. Tommy took a left smash to the head, but cuffed Jimmy around the ring. The champion handled his young rival as master would his pupil. Braddock was taking a scientific boxing lesson at the bell.

ROUND NINE—Loughran lost no time poking his efficient left hand into the challenger's face. Jimmy did not seem discouraged, but apparently realized that his main chance was to connect with his right, providing he could find the target. Loughran out-smarted the challenger at every turn, but Jimmy kept boring in. One of Braddock's blows started the blood flowing again slightly from the champion's cut head. The challenger absorbed two stiff lefts to the head and had his counter blows picked out of the air. Braddock missed an overhand right by a foot and the crowd groaned as the round ended.

ROUND TEN—Jimmy came out with determination written all over his face. The challenger worked with both fists to the body, forcing the champion into a clinch. Loughran brought his defensive tactics into play to check Braddock's lunges. He brought Jimmy up short once and then again with right uppercuts. Loughran picked off most of Braddock's blows and put the challenger repeatedly off balance by clever use of his left. They were sparring at the bell.

ROUND ELEVEN—Braddock plunged right back in where he left off, still hunting for Loughran's chin. Instead, his own was clipped by a right uppercut. Jimmy was smiling after taking several light blows to the face. After being handled easily in a series of clinches, Braddock gestured to the champion to come on and fight. Loughran responded with a pair of stiff wallows to the head. Jimmy forced the champion into the ropes but took enough time out to answer several loud-voiced ringside critics. They broke from a clinch at the bell.

ROUND TWELVE—Braddock stalked the champion about the ring without getting much satisfaction. The champion, realizing the big margin he had piled up on points, took no chances and stayed strictly on the defensive. The crowd clapped for action and got clinches. Tommy danced in and out of his rival's reach, meanwhile massaging the challenger's with his left. The champion fired both hands to the Jersey boy's head and ducked a vicious left just as the bell sounded.

ROUND THIRTEEN—Braddock leaped back into a flurry of blows. The crowd yelled as the champion speared Jimmy with his left and skipped out of the challenger's reach. Tommy was content to spar and clinch, but Tom took one to the face. The champion waded in for a moment with both hands punishing Braddock about the body, but there was comparatively little ac-

Ciara Bow to Wed Stage Star

CLARA BOW, moving picture star, and Harry Richman, Broadway musical comedy star and night club entertainer, have announced their engagement. They will marry in the near future.

Loughran was in complete command of the situation and stood Jimmy off easily with well directed jabs as the round ended.

ROUND FOURTEEN—Braddock plunged in with a body attack and drove the champion to the ropes. Tommy gestured to Braddock to step-in-and-fight. The challenger let both fists fly and clipped the titleholder on the jaw. Both appeared to be exchanging remarks that were anything but complimentary. Tommy in derision, and Jimmy in some desperation. Meanwhile Braddock connected with an overhand right to the head, but took punishment at close range. Loughran smacked his right to the face and took a straight left to the jaw. The challenger missed a half dozen other swings just as the round ended.

ROUND FIFTEEN—Braddock charged in, taking another series of baffling pokes from Tommy's talented left. Loughran tied up the challenger easily—but was forced into a corner by Jimmy's impetuous rush. Loughran landed his right to the head and avoided another of Jimmy's wild plunges. They were tied up most of the time in clinches, but Loughran took a few light blows to the head in a corner. They were sparring at the bell.

Speculators Profit On Davis Cup Games

Prizes For Tickets Soar On Eve of Play Between Americans and Germans

BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—On the eve of the opening of the Davis cup matches between America and Germany, speculators had no difficulty getting three, four and five times the ordinary price for seats around the red and white club court, where the inter-zone finals start tomorrow afternoon.

Members of the two teams were satisfied with light workouts today. Frank Hunter, of the American delegation, decided not to take any exercise. Bill Tilden had a short practice session in the morning and the energetic doubles team of Wimmer Altman and John Van Ryn banded the ball back and forth this afternoon for two hours.

In the opening singles matches tomorrow afternoon, Altman opposes Moldenhauer and Hunter meets Penn. On Saturday the American veterans will have a chance to rest while their young countrymen, with Van Ryn and Altman, tackle Penn and Moldenhauer in the doubles.

Four Youths Reach Tennis Semi-Finals

Two Pacific Coast Stars Attain Important Round in Tourney at Chicago

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP)—Four members of the younger set in American tennis, two from the Pacific coast, and one each from the South and Middle West, tonight were safely located in the semi-finals of the men's singles of the western tennis championship.

Elsworth Vines, young Pasadena, California star, and Clifford Sutter, New Orleans, furnished the sensational features of today's rounds. Vines eliminated Kirk Field, Cleveland veteran, who was favored in his bracket, 6-2, 7-5. Sutter's victory over LeRoy West, former state titleholder, was not expected. After a shaky start which lost him the first set, 4-6, Sutter steamed and quickly took the next two at 6-1, 6-3.

Emmett Pare, defending champion, continued to blast his way along the road to the finals, with an easy straight set triumph over Jack Wicks, also of Chicago. The scores were 6-4, 6-3. The other coast representative, Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, found stiffer opposition today, but finished brilliantly to defeat George Jennings, Chicago, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Four Golf Stars Tie For Low at Tourney

SEATTLE, July 18 (AP)—Three professionals and one amateur were tied for low score at the end of the first day's play in the Pacific Northwest open golf tournament over the Inglewood course today.

Each scored 149 for the 36 holes or three above par. Thirty-six more holes will be played tomorrow with the first 36 players competing.

Four other golfers were tied for second low with 151 each. They were Frank Minch, Sacramento professional; Jimmy Johnston, Seattle amateur; Harold Sampson, Burlingame, Calif., professional, and Johnny Jones, Seattle professional.

They were tied for third with 152 while Walter Putney, Seattle professional, was fourth with 155.

New Commercial Air Route Links North America and Asia

ROUND TRIP FLIGHT REVEALS IMPORTANT TRADE POSSIBILITIES

Plane Travels Over Snow and Ice-Covered World Carrying Food and Cargo of Furs Worth $150,000

NEW YORK, July 18.—The snow and ice route, nemesis of many transatlantic liners, has revealed important commercial possibilities on the other side of the world.

The first round trip flight has been completed between North America and Asia.

The flight linked Fairbanks, Alaska, and Cape North, Siberia. A load of food was taken to Cape North on the westward flight. Returning, the plane brought back a cargo of Siberian furs worth $150,000.

The success of the venture was reported in detail to the National Aeronautical association from its Fairbanks chapter. It is understood here that similar and more extended trade flights are being planned.

By pushing the terminals of the route further into Siberia and southward from Fairbanks to Seattle, sponsors for the flight predict that the vast fur producing regions of Asiatic Russia can be brought within a few days of the American market.

Weather is an obstacle. Pioneering flights for the present over the barren trail must be undertaken with out benefit of regular weather reports.

Travel 2300 Miles.—The men who made the first trip were Sten Wren, president of the Wren Airways, and a mechanic. The round trip totaled 2300 miles and the flying time was less than 20 hours.

The trip took off with a half ton of food supplies and flew to Nome. They refueled and proceeded to Cape North where a Norwegian vessel waited fast in the ice.

On the return flight, in temperature of 40 degrees below zero, the plane passed over Bering strait, the Bering peninsula, and landed at Nome. Between Nome and Fairbanks one stop was made at Upernivik.

Logical Route.—J. O. Roberts, secretary of the Fairbank Aeronautical association branch, in his report to the New York headquarters, says:

"To our mind the flight proves conclusively that the logical route between the United States and Asia lies north from Seattle to Fairbanks, thence to Nome, and from there, across the strait northerly or southerly to Siberia and southern Asiatic countries."

In conjunction with the flight of the Swedish plane Sverige via Greenland and Iceland, the fanciful suggestion has been advanced in aviation circles that air transport may bring fulfillment of the dream of a northwestern route to India, several centuries after Hendrik Hudson.

Radishes, Then Cotton, Get Trials in Arkansas

MARKED TREE, Ark., July 18 (AP)—Many farmers near Marked Tree have found what is to them a new means for getting a double crop from their land each season.

This year they grew radishes which brought a profit of $20 to $25 an acre. Eleven cars of radishes were shipped from the district.

As that crop was harvested, cotton was planted and grew nicely. Some of the experimenters reported that they were finding an increased production on "trials" planted previously in radishes, hence the double crop appears not to be lowering productivity of soil.

Demonstrators who sponsored the plan have announced they will continue the method throughout nearby counties next year.

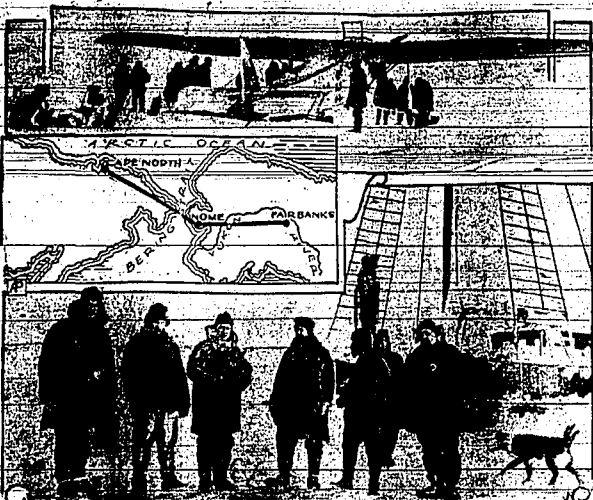

You'd have to guess about flavoring rice pudding for people

But you can deliciously flavor a rice pudding for three—And although millions of pounds of Hills Bros. Coffee are sold every year, it is never regarded in bulk. Only a few pounds at a time by the continuous process—Controlled Roasting. As a result a matchless, uniform flavor is produced such as no other coffee has.

Jury Finds Hailey Man Not Guilty of Charge

HAILEY, July 18 (Special to The News)—In the case of Jerry Riley, who was charged with stealing money, a ring and a car from Frank Gable, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. According to evidence the two men had been drinking together in Fairfield and they drove off in the car. POTATO PROBLEMS BRING TWO VISITORS TO BURLEY

BURLEY, July 18 (Special to The News)—Two men interested in solving the problem of controlling potato acreage, and other potato growing problems, have been spending a short time in Burley. One is W. L. Harvey, secretary of the Central Western Shipping board and the other is O. J. Carlson—potato grower of the Idaho Falls vicinity.

These men were soliciting memberships in the Idaho Potato bureau of the National Potato Institute, a concern which has been operating in Utah and part of Montana. They addressed members of the Rotary club and held a meeting with the potato committee of the Burley chamber of commerce. The chamber joined the institute and decided to promote the interests of the association.

Bull Market at End, Statistician Thinks

CLEVELAND, July 18 (AP)—The five-year bull market in securities may be at an end, thinks Colonel Leonard F. Ayer, Cleveland banker, and prominent statistician.

"I do not deem probable that the combination of such business and rapid expansion of credit use will continue, and unless it does the bulls are through," said Ayer.

"Real credit stringency exists and it already has held the effect of sharply reducing new bond flotations, checking our loans abroad, reducing the amount of new building construction and bringing a reduction in export trade. It has resulted in the federal reserve board taking steps to check further expansion of credit use."

"Business conditions are good, but it is far from certain that they can remain sufficiently good to overcome the handicap of restricted credit."

Dominican republic, the smallest exporter, accounted for only 193 bunches. Four hundred and fifty bunches arrived via Canada. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE NEWS.

RAIN PUTS IDAHO'S RANGE IN CONDITION

July Report On Pastureage in Gem State Shows Situation to Be Good

BOISE, July 18 (AP)—Heavy rains of mid-June revived ranges and put them in excellent condition for the start of the July range report of the department of agriculture statisticians disclose.

All classes of range stock are now on the higher ranges where they are making good gains on the abundant feed. Lambs are later in reaching condition for shipping than last year due to the late spring—the calf crop is better than average.

With scarcely an exception, the cattle and sheep ranging in northern Idaho had favorable pastures. Only at Midas in Bonner county was the moisture reported deficient—all others—reporting rich feed. Stock is late in developing due to the backward spring.

Reports from the western sections said cattle would get fat this year. In the last five. The report from Glenns Ferry said the demand for wild horses had about cleared the range. It means with the result that much more grass was left for cattle and sheep.

In South Central Idaho the higher ranges were getting much drier while the low ones were very dry. The result was that cattle and sheep were not doing so good. This was the most pessimistically reported section of the state.

Eastern Idaho perked up somewhat. Though claiming that late storming just prevented early maturing of lambs. Grain and hay crops were not so favorable. Lambs on the Power county range are fat but fewer in number. A recent rain helped out much here. Yearlings but Bear Lake said stock was doing exceptionally well, lambs being as good as usual for such a late spring.

Maine Farmer Builds Poultry Sun Porches

LISBON FALLS, Me., July 18 (AP)—Sun porches for chickens are a special feature of brooder houses that have been built by a Lisbon Falls farmer.

The chicks absorb ultraviolet rays on these porches or runs. The sides of the runs are made of half-inch mesh wire, thus keeping the chicks off the ground, which may be very muddy. The mesh flooring also serves to keep the runs clean.

The farmer, Walter O. Spear, keeps about 600 chicks in his brooder houses. He has raised thousands of chicks this spring.

Little Color Variations

Camels seem to be singularly free from the color variations that affect most domesticated animals—most common and abundant. Black camels, possibly nocturnal, are rare. A breed called "Suldan camels" is of a very light shade. This seems to be a regular color strain, however, and not a case of albinism.

Northwest Indians Did Not Wait to Be Converted; Sought Own Missionary

By CLEVELAND WILLIAMS (Associated Press Staff Writer) SPOKANE, July 18.—The Northwest Indian didn't wait to be converted—he went after his own missionaries. And the odd feature of that, the history book says, Jim Johnson, an Indian delegation went to St. Louis for "Black Robes," that is priests, the Methodists first answered the plea of the aborigines for the comforts of religion. The story goes that some of the Hudson's Bay men discouraged the merits of the Christian religion, until the savages became uneasy. A party was sent to find out whether the white man's religion was better than theirs, and to find some missionaries. One wealthy has it that they sought the "White man's book of heaven."

Good Will Great Asset of Public Utilities, Declares Roger Babson

Careful Estimates Place Total Investment of Industry at $25,500,000, Says Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass., July 18.—Careful estimates place the total investment in public utilities at $25,500,000. This is a huge sum. It is $8,000,000 greater than the United States national debt. It is equal to the investment in the combined industries of oil, coal, iron and steel, clothing, meat-packing, and coal mining. Nevertheless, this $25,500,000 investment in plant and equipment is only a small part of the total investment. The utility industry is of far greater importance to the future success than the one great asset of public good will. In fact, the most valuable asset of all does not appear in the companies' balance sheets. It is a firmly convinced that, by and large, the general public now favors investing companies. It is up to the leaders of the industry to conserve that attitude by the policy of dealing in a straightforward manner and by striving to bring about greater economies which will further lower the cost of service.

Considerable criticism has been leveled on various phases of public utility activity. Some of it is no doubt justified, but the fundamental thing in which the average man is interested is quality service. This the utilities have signally succeeded in providing during the last 10 years. While nearly all other items in the cost of living are much higher than they were before the war, the cost of public utility service is one item that is lower. Moreover, fascinating features of the industry have stimulated the intention of continuing to work for further rate decreases. This, of course, is only possible as systems are expanded and interconnection to reduce operating costs. Such expansion and interconnection is a feature of present day utility operation.

Has Proven Benefits

Doubtless there have been abuses in the financing of certain companies, but as a general proposition the process of consolidation and inter-connection has brought great advantages. More than any other industry, except the railroads the electric and gas business requires heavy capital outlay for each additional dollar of sales. A large system is better able to finance improvements and extensions than a small one. Moreover, this financing can be accomplished at less cost. A bond or stock issue of a large utility system with powerful financial backing is easier to handle than are the small issues of local companies. Lower interest charges per dollar of new capital are possible for the large systems. Since capital charges must be paid out of earnings, and since rates for service can be lowered only as earnings warrant, the public has an interest in seeing to it that new financing is done on as cheap a basis as possible. If the utility concern can do this, it has a better advantage than the small ones, then it is a benefit rather than a detriment to the public interest.

Also, consolidation means elimination of duplicated engineering, accounting, purchasing, and other costs in company operation. Also, when a number of individual companies are brought under one general management, they can be readily inter-connected and their generating facilities can be pooled. This brings surprising economies in operating costs. Experience likewise proves that the consolidated systems are better able to standardize the quality of their service on a higher level than the small local companies generally offer.

Of course, utilities are a natural monopoly, and as such must be regulated by state authority. They are so regulated at present. However, the leaders in this industry understand clearly that the only way they can avoid burdensome legal restrictions and regulations, similar to those which have hampered the railroads, is to shape their policies according to public welfare and to share their profits with their consumers. Only in this way can this paramount asset of good will be maintained. Public utilities themselves should be the first to condemn any and every practice either in political or in financial activities.

Great Future Growth

I have had confidence in the future of the utility companies, and I have conscientiously conserved public good will. While they have experienced spectacular growth in the last 10 years, they have but scratched the surface of their potential. Although gross revenues in 1919 were $1,000,000,000 compared with less than $100,000,000 20 years ago, the future spreads out alluring prospects for even greater expansion. Some idea of the potential market is given from the fact that still one-third of the population of this country lives in unlighted houses. There are still 50 per cent of the farms which are prospects for installation of power and light. Electrification of the railroads, the operation of the electric total mileage remains as a possible market. Growth of wired road should be a very important field for development. There are still about 50 per cent of industrial power requirements not supplied by electricity or gas. Telephone and telegraph companies, both of which are constantly being taken forward to continued expansion of service. The market for utility service seems almost limitless. New investments are constantly appearing requiring the use of electricity and gas. New methods of communication by telephone and telegraph are constantly being discovered and put into effect.

The utilities, therefore, have tremendous physical assets, a high credit standing, and a high credit standing. They are constantly required, and a great potential market. Moreover, the O'Fallon decision, in principle, may apply to the public utility industry. The public is thus assuring them of non-confiscatory rate regulation. In their favor, would appear to be in their favor, but they must be constantly on their guard not to lose their greatest asset, which is good will. All of their other resources would avail them nothing should wide-spread public antagonism be engendered against the utilities as it was against the railroads thirty years ago.

Business by the industry has state intention of continuing to work for further rate decreases. This, of course, is only possible as systems are expanded and interconnection to reduce operating costs. Such expansion and interconnection is a feature of present day utility operation.

"Mahizeit" Habit In German Homes Vexes Diplomats

BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—The Wilhelmstrasse, ever troubled by questions of diplomatic etiquette, is trying to buck up against the old German custom of saying "Mahizeit" literally meal-time at the close of a dinner or luncheon. "Mahizeit" is an abbreviated form of saying, "I hope you enjoyed your meal." At a German dinner party each guest on leaving the table offers his arms to the lady who sat to his right and, as he reaches her, says "Guten Mahizeit," to her, kisses her hand and says "Mahizeit." He next proceeds to the hostess and repeats the ceremony, and then to the host, with whom he shakes hands and exchanges "Mahizeit." If the party is not too large, every guest will turn shake hands with every other guest in turn, him or her "Mahizeit," or, if the party is large, merely go to those of his fellow guests whom he knows well personally.

This time honored custom, however, is proving a stumbling block when foreign diplomats are present. Many of them, unacquainted with German customs, take the host's and hostess' "Mahizeit" as a polite invitation to leave. They cannot understand why anyone should shake hands with them except to bid them goodbye.

Embarrassing situations have thus developed in this diplomatic, feeling themselves politely bowed out of the house, resenting seeing other guests remain. The hosts on the other hand could not understand why their distinguished foreign guests left so abruptly. The foreign office has instructed all its officials to request hostesses to break away from the "Mahizeit" custom.

WHAT WAS THAT STORY YOU TELL ME ABOUT HIM BEING THE BIGGEST FISH EVER CAUGHT? OLD TIMER.

WELL, I HOOKED HIM GOING DOWN STRAW. SO I DROVE ROWS AHEAD OF HIM FOR A COUPLE OF DAYS. I WILL WE CAME TO A NARROW PLACE ABOUT ONE HUNDRED FEET WIDE. THE CURRENT WAS SWIFT. I PUT ON FULL STEAM AND WEDGE HIM BETWEEN THE BLUFFS ON BOTH SIDES. HE ESCAPED OVER THE FALLS WHEN I ROLLED BOWLS DOWN ON HIM AND I KILLED HIM. HE WAS JUST A MILE OR LONGER.

YEAST—WHO ONE—AND I'VE FIGURED OUT YOU HAD TO USE TO COOK HIM ON HE WAS SO BIG YOU HAD TO FRY HIM ON—A WHAT?

OH—YES.

ALL READY? LET 'EM GO—

A FOREST FIRE.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT TO EXAMINE SALMON RIVER

BOISE, July 17.—This summer the department of the interior will examine the south and middle forks of the Salmon river to determine the power and navigable possibilities.

This work, part of the department's continuous investigation of the natural resources in connection with its classification of public lands, will be done by a group of engineers.

They will seek to determine the value of the territory for water power, minerals and agriculture. In evaluating the public lands, they will indirectly place a value on neighboring private or state lands.

The department has already mapped 1000 miles of rivers and 50 dam and reservoir sites. A recent report has been prepared describing the water possibilities of the Snake river from Veljeur to Lewiston and from Milner to Weiser.

The Salmon river from Salmon City to the mouth of the Stanley; the Payette river; the Clearwater basin and the storage possibilities in Bear and the Stanley basins.
