CHINA LOOKING FOR EARLY SETTLEMENT OF RAILWAY DISPUTE

Direct Negotiations in Moscow Without Intervention of Third Power Looms in Near Future

(By The Associated Press) SHANGHAI, July 25.—China expects that its dispute with Russia will be settled soon by direct negotiations, probably in Moscow without intervention by any third power. It was thought that this method would have the approval of the Soviet government.

The day brought the usual crop of reports of flying along the border and of Soviet airplanes operating over Chinese territory. Foreign officials here were belittled similar reports and said that stories of arrests on both sides of the border were the result of local officials, which did not affect the major issues.

DISTURBING REPORTS MOSCOW, July 25.—Disturbing reports of atrocities by Chinese military and White Russian bands along the Eastern railway continue to reach Moscow, creating grave apprehensions in the minds of Soviet leaders lest provocative acts may force the Russians to invade Soviet territory.

Official circles were particularly perturbed by reports that White Russians have become extremely active in organizing armed bands which, according to the latest information, were crossing the border. It was feared that an armed clash might result from this incursion at any moment.

His Captive Woman at Orpheum Showhouse Nov

"His Captive Woman" is now playing at the Orpheum theatre, with Milton Sills co-starring with Miss MacCallin for the last time.

Adapted from the original story, "Changeling," by Damon Byrne, it deals with the experiences of a cabaret dancer who kills an admirer and flees to the South Seas.

land, and the trial is delayed for several days—until they are recued by a passing steamer.

With the sound effect of the tropical, and the actual dialogue of the film, "His Captive Woman" is a truly dramatic and tense story.

But the outstanding feature is the characterization of the woman, changed from a desolate woman of simple life into a woman of character and beauty through her love for the man who distressed her.

Miss MacCallin's extensive screen experience stood her in good stead when she played the role of Janssen, the changed woman. Such a part would test the abilities of the most clever screen actress for realistic characterizing.

Sills plays the policeman who arrests the girl after a chase almost half way around the world. A splendid supporting cast is required for the characterization.

The company to be seen in the Hawaiian Islands, where the beautiful scenic background will be a great asset.

Fields Wins Welterweight Title on Foul During Second

Dundee Twice Hits Canvas Then Lands One Blow Too Low

Before Final Smash Champ Faced Certain Defeat in Minds of Many of 25,000 Fans in Detroit Arena

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY (Associated Press Sports Writer)
DETROIT, July 25—Jackie Fields, shakily appearing youth of Chicago, won the world's welterweight championship tonight. Fields defeated Joe Dundee, the titleholder, on a foul in the second round of their scheduled 15-round contest.

Dundee, reeling and staggering after twice hitting the floor in the second round, delivered a terrific right hand punch low in foul territory, a minute and 25 seconds after the second round opened.

Fields, writhing in intense agony, backed into the ropes and then Jacked to the floor. His second landed into the ring and dragged him to his corner. He was in such pain that he was unable to sit on his chair. He fell into the ring in his own corner while his handers worked frantically over him.

Rocks Like Reed
Meanwhile, Dundee, hopelessly beaten, staggered in the corner. He was rocking like a reed in a heavy wind from the barrage of punches that knocked him to the floor in the second round for the counts of nine and seven.

The second round had hardly started when Fields cut loose with a crushing right to the chin that knocked Dundee sprawling. He gamely struggled to his feet and met another barrage that again dropped him. This time it was another right that sent him to his haunches. The champion got up, backed into the ropes and shook his head in confusion. Then Dundee launched forward with a low, sweeping right-hand punch. It landed squarely in foul territory. Fields was through. He was unable to continue. He sank to the floor, turned over upon his face and rolled over to his corner. Before two seconds could get into the ring to drag him to the corner, Dundee delivered the foul when he apparently realized that he had no chance of defeating the youthful challenger and saving his title.

27,000 Fans See Fight
The battle was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 27,000 with net receipts around $125,000, a new record for a welterweight championship contest.

The Michigan board of athletic control, which governs boxing in this state, may find itself in difficulty. It considers Dundee for fouling Fields. Dundee received $50,000 in cash before entering the ring in defense of his title. The commissioners therefore may have a hard time trying a fine loose from his end of the purse. Dundee got $10,000 at the time the match was made and the remaining $40,000 tonight before he pulled on the gloves.

Dundee weighed 147 pounds when he crawled through the ropes. Fields scaled 145 pounds, two pounds under the class limit.

Dundee-Fields Fight Round by Round

ROUND TWO—Dundee was short with a left to the head and they clinched in mid-ring. They exchanged body punches. Fields hooked two lefts to the body and a terrific right to the jaw. Dundee backed to the ropes and was floored with a heavy barrage of punches to the head. He got up at the count of nine and was not down again until a moment later for a count of seven. Fields drove three rights to the jaw that had the champion reeling. Dundee drove a hard right to foul territory and Fields fell to the floor in pain. His seconds started the work-over him while he was dragged to his corner. He was unable to sit on the chair and fell to the floor. A doctor was called into the ring to make an examination. Fields was unable to continue and the fight was awarded to the challenger.

Tennis Stars Draw For Davis Cup Play

Bill Tilden Faces Cochet and George Lott Will Vie With Jean Borotra

PARIS, July 25—Just as America would have it, and with France equally satisfied, too, the Davis cup forces of two great tennis nations will swing into action tomorrow in the opening singles battles with Bill Tilden facing Henri Cochet and George Lott in the opposite court from Jean Borotra.

The draw for the challenge round for the historic trophy was staged today in all solemnity in the presence of the players and diplomats of both nations.

The veteran Tilden, still America's hope for victory, will face Cochet, world's champion, in the crucial duel at the day at 4:30 P. M. after Lott, fiery youngster, faces the challenge round test for the first time, opens the series with the veteran Borotra at 2:15 P. M.

In the French mind Borotra is a two-to-one favorite to defeat Lott, 22-year-old youngster from Chicago. Despite recent defeats, Tilden's reputation still carries such weight in France that he is quoted as even money with Cochet, who whipped him decisively at Wimbledon a few weeks ago.

Barnes Leads Field On Canadian Course

"Long Jim" Gets Score of 66 in Opening Round of Golfing Championships

By MIHAN BELL (Associated Press Sports Writer)
MONTREAL, Quebec, July 25—"Long Jim" Barnes, retired professional golfer of New Rochelle, New York, who scores knicker, showed a little respect for par over the Kanawaki course today and with a great 66, led the field in the first round of the Canadian open golf championships. The former American and British open champion, who insists on wearing trousers long enough to cover all his long legs, compiled his score early in the day and despite an all-day assault, it stood when the day's work was done.

Little Ernie Wakeman, 29-year-old "pro" from Brockville, Ontario, occupied second place tonight with 68. Two other sub-par scores, a pair of 68s returned Tommy Armour, Detroit, former United States and Canadian open champion; and Billy Burke, Westport, New York, New York state open champion, represented a tie for the "place" position.

The free predictions that the stars of the two countries would divide the par 70 of Kanawaki to cover were slightly premature.

George von Elm, Detroit's star amateur led the minor purses home with 71, a mark hung up by Bill Melhorn and Joe Kirkwood. The two Smiths, MacDonald and Horton, stood at 72 with Bobby Burns, another Montreal "pro," C. H. Perkins, West Hartford, Connecticut, and Charles Lacey, Pine Valley "pro."

Twin Falls county residents are rapidly becoming familiar with Twin Falls one-hour parking rule, and few of them have received police tags recently for violation of that regulation. H. D. They had been issued, one to a resident of Indianapolis, another to a resident of Salt Lake City, and three to residents of Boise. Three instances the possessor of the tag furnished evidence of lack of acquaintance with the regulation, and charges were all dismissed.

SCHOOL SYSTEM TO TRY OUT CHARACTER-BUILDING COURSES

MICHIGAN CITY WILL TEST NEW PLAN WITH DIRECTOR IN CHARGE

Pontiac Superintendent Declares Unusual Experiment in Education Will Attract Wide Interest

By JAMES H. HARRIS (Superintendent of Schools, Pontiac, Michigan)

PONTIAC, Mich., July 25.—Character building as a definite objective in education, with director specifically employed to promote a program consciously directed toward ethical training, is the new and radical step to be taken in the public school system of Pontiac, Michigan this September.

So far as known this is the first directorship of character education to be established in a public school system in this country and the experiment will be watched with intense interest by the superintendent of schools, supported by a sympathetic board of education, is responsible for the innovation, and the newly elected director, Kenneth L. Heaton of the University of Chicago.

Direct Objective Character education may be made a direct objective in the education of children, Sunday schools as all for might, unless character, morals and religion can be directly inculcated, and we have wasted our time, effort and money, this is not true. It is merely an extension of the practice for the public schools to undertake the task.

We propose to carry on here in Pontiac a laboratory experiment which all interested may watch and appraise. Our experiment should at least prove a contribution to the solution of the problem. We shall set about the task of training and educating the teachers in the technique of handling personnel and problem cases.

The teacher is, after all, the one who is next to parents, the closest to the boy or girl, and upon her or him must rest the major part of the responsibility for character building. Some teachers are instinctively keen to know how to reach the erring child and set him in the right path. Others seem never to master the art.

The director will seek to coordinate all the forces and activities that now lie in an incidental and unorganized way, make for good citizenship and character development. The literature that makes for the creation of ideals will be organized and graded so as to produce the maximum influence upon the development of the child.

The various activities that make for the establishment of proper habits and the ultimate production of good citizens will be elaborated and organized into a conscious purpose.

Director Takes Part The director also will interest himself in case work—in the specific problem of the boy or girl who makes an initial mistake and who perhaps may be prevented from further errors if the right methods are employed. This will involve much personal work—home and neighborhood contacts, conferences with parents and teachers, and so on.

These are but the starting points, and indicate merely the initial steps we propose to take in a program that will continuously enlarge its scope as we penetrate more deeply into its problems.

CATTLE RANGE REFLECTS NEW LIVING CONDITIONS Modern living conditions leave little opportunity for home cooking of big roasts of beef, and the bulk of the present day demand is for smaller cuts. B. M. Anderson, head of the beef cattle department of the Kansas State Agricultural college, Manhattan, Kansas, told members of Twin Falls Kiwanis club at a luncheon meeting Thursday, at which he was a guest.

In consequence of this trend, Mr. Anderson asserted, the beef cattle industry had turned largely to the production of "baby" beef instead of the older steers that were preferred a few years ago.

Complaints Grow Out of Altercation Over Moving Complaints meeting R. C. Edmonson, 1140 Eighth avenue east, with disturbing the peace, and his son, Lewis Edmonson, with battery, were fined by Clinton Lowe, Kimberly, and filed in probate court here Thursday. The complaints were an outgrowth of an altercation that is alleged to have taken place when Lowe attempted to remove a store and other articles that he claimed belonged to his sister, from the R. C. Edmonson residence Wednesday evening. Police were called to intervene in that case. It was reported to have been struck off the head three or four times with a hammer.

Famous Physician Defends Value of Potatoes as Food

By DR. JOHN HARVEY KELLOCK

When Carlisle, the famous English essayist, ridiculed Bronson Alcott's "dominated potato gospel," he helped to block the way for a potato diet. The potato would have meant far more for England's prosperity than the discovery of gold in the Transvaal or the founding of a new colony. It is proving itself to be one of the choicest of all America's gifts to the world. It is king of cereals. We potato is certainly queen of vegetables; and there is good reason for believing that the country would be much better off economically as well as from the standpoint of health, if this wonderful tuber, one of Nature's most amazingly efficient devices for capturing and storing solar energy, filled a much more conspicuous place in our American dietaries.

For some unaccountable reason, the potato has always been opposed by absurd and wholly baseless prejudice. When first introduced into Europe, it was accused of being the cause of leprosy, which was then more or less prevalent in various European countries. In more recent years, the potato has been charged with being the cause of indigestion and rheumatism. All of these accusations are equally unfounded.

The idea that root vegetables, particularly roots such as the potato, are inferior to leafy vegetables is a widespread error which somehow has attained wide currency. The fact is that root starches when cooked are by far the most easily digested of all foodstuffs. Some years ago, Professor Gerson, an eminent German chemist, made a careful study of the digestibility of starches from various sources. He found that the starch of rice, wheat and corn requires two hours for digestion; the starch of oatmeal, eighty minutes; while arrowroot, potatoes and sweet potatoes are completely digested in ten minutes. In other words, the starch of wheat, corn and rice requires twelve times as long for digestion as does the starch of potatoes; and the starch of oatmeal eight times as long.

No doubt the substitution of cereal breakfast foods for the old-time griddle cakes, fried potatoes, fried pork and other indigestibles, has been in the interest of the conservation of the American stomach; but there is much reason to believe that the Irish potato, steamed or baked, might well fill a larger place in the national bill of fare, especially as a breakfast food.

A baked potato digests in much less than half the time required for the digestion of a slice of bread and affords a more substantial and more nutritious food than those provided by wheat.

The above-mentioned results were fully confirmed by tests made in the laboratory of the Battle Creek Sanitarium by an expert German chemist. So it appears that the potato, far from being hard of digestion, is one of the most easily digested of all foods. It is equally true to disagree, the cause will generally be found in the mode of cooking or in indigestible combinations. Frying greatly lessens the digestibility of the potato; but on the whole, it is less easily spoiled by ignorant or careless cooks than are most other foodstuffs.

When Sir Walter Raleigh sent his first cargo of potatoes to England nearly three hundred and fifty years ago (1586), Europe was frequently suffering from the great and frequent prevalence of scurvy. After the potato had come into general use, this great scourge of the Middle Ages almost disappeared.

The housewife adds potato to her bread sponge because it encourages the growth of the yeast plant and so makes the bread the better. The growth-promoting vitamin B which the potato supplies in great abundance, is as active in encouraging the growth of the children as in helping bread to rise. It is equally useful to adults in maintaining good nutrition and in promoting the repair of the tissues.

A research undertaken by Rose and Cooper of Columbia University, showed the potato to possess a high nutritive value, and fully capable of meeting the protein requirements of the body when taken in the quantity of about three pounds daily by a person weighing one hundred and ten pounds. The only other articles of food eaten were butter and sugar, the latter in very small quantities.

The observation of Rose and Cooper have been recently confirmed by studies of Ron and Klein, of Warsaw, Poland, whose subjects, two adults lived for five and a half months on a diet of potatoes, with fat, and a small allowance of fruits. The subjects remained in excellent health with good digestion and every evidence of good nutrition.

PLAGE OF MASSACRE TO HAVE MONUMENT

Sons of Idaho Will Erect Tablet on Scene of Death of Five Idaho Pioneers

BOISE, July 25 (AP)—The scene of one of the vicious massacres of Idaho pioneers by the "Sheepcrazer" Indians will lay in ambush. The three ranchers full of Idaho when their organization will place a bronze tablet on the huge boulder where three of the five victims were slain, and well. (Reprinted from Good Health reprinting from American Potato Journal.)

Mundy, Jake Groselose and Tom Haley, ranchers, and Sam Crooks and Dan Wilhelm, prospectors.

The Indians, member of a "vengeance" band that had terrorized central Idaho for several years, were returning from Mundy's ranch. He called in two neighboring ranchers, Groselose and Haley, and with the added assistance of a man known only as "Three-fingered" Smith, set out in pursuit of the Indians. Leaving their ranches in Long valley, they headed generally eastward as the Indians were returning to their central camp in eastern Idaho. They crossed the Payette river near where Van Wycke now is located and at the top of a ridge ahead, they were fired upon by the Indians who had seen them coming and lay in ambush. The three ranchers fell to make his escape across the Payette and on his way near Payette lakes where he was picked up by the late Cal White, then a mail carrier. White took him to New Meadows and then returned to Boise to bring a physician. The Indians, after killing the ranchers, went about six miles farther and killed the two prospectors—Shooting Wilhelm in bed and Crooks as he made a desperate effort to pull on a second boot while running for the horses.

It was White who visited the scene of the massacre and buried the bodies of the ranchers and prospectors. Later a detachment of men from Company Second United States Infantry, inscribed the names of the three men on the boulder near where they had fallen and spelled Mundy's name "Mondy."

On the trunk of a tree at the ranchers' heads they blazed out a large cross. Both this and the writing on the boulder are preserved.

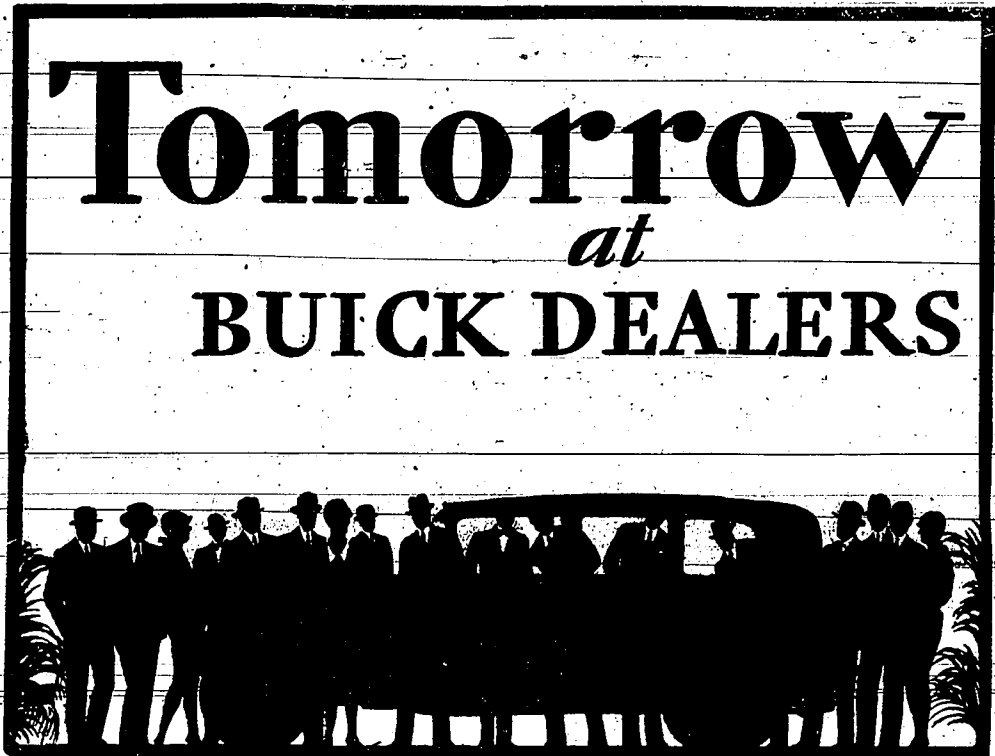

With this service completed the soldiers took over the Indians and broke up the band.

Smith lived many years afterward, the name of "Three-fingered" attaching to him as a result of a shooting affray in Silver City when one of his fingers was shot off, this being sometime after the massacre which he escaped. He died annular.

a few years ago in central Oregon. While died in 1924 in Emmett. Dedication of the monument will be one of several such incidents the Sons of Idaho have commemorated. A general celebration will be held in Cascade on the day before the dedication under the auspices of the local post of the American Legion.

Bushels Per Capita Price Barometer for Late Potatoes

FARMERS TO DECIDE OPPORTUNE TIME TO DISPOSE OF TUBERS

Principal Marketing Specialist of Federal Bureau Finds Production and Value Always Related

By FLANK I. WELLER (Associated Press Wire Editor) WASHINGTON, July 25.—When the potato crop in the ground that promises to equal to 2,600,000,000-acre crop of 1927, farmers must determine before fall whether greater profit lies in early, gradual, or late selling.

In 1928-27, production averaged 25.8 bushels per acre. The production of the United States and late selling paid producers who held their crop from the market at the time of harvesting.

As a general rule, whenever total potato production falls below 2.5 bushels per capita the price trend usually has been upward, but whenever it has approached or exceeded 3.8 bushels the price has tended downward during the season.

Wells, A. Sherman, principal marketing specialist of the federal bureau of agriculture economics, says potato prices are closely related to production, which in turn depends on acreage and yield. While the late potato harvest forecast before planting was completed, indicated a crop similar to that of 1927 the actual yield cannot be forecast until August or September.

During the last 27 years, he says, the power usually was justified in holding only when the indicated crop was far below the average or was not much more than three bushels per capita. In other years the chance of profit to the grower was too uncertain to balance the added cost.

During the last 27 years, he says, the power usually was justified in holding only when the indicated crop was far below the average or was not much more than three bushels per capita. In other years the chance of profit to the grower was too uncertain to balance the added cost.

However, Sherman says, growers should study this situation carefully before deciding when to sell.

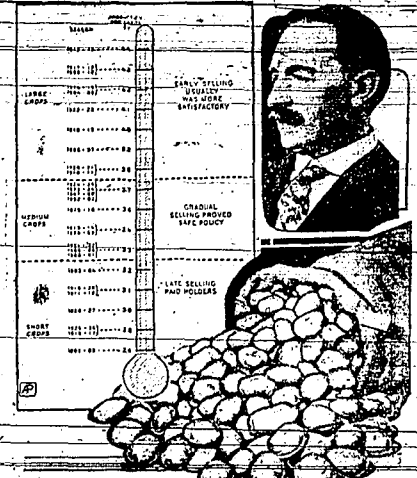

The late or main crop of potatoes comprises about 80 to 85 per cent of the total potato production. It is sold all winter and through the early summer of the following year, thus requiring different methods of marketing. Most of the crop is shipped from states near the northern border.

Architects Necessary To Finish City Plans

LOS ANGELES, July 25 (AP)—More than 500 American cities have city planning commissions, says Charles H. Cheney, yet on only a few of the commissions are there any architects.

Mr. Cheney is chairman of the committee on city, community and regional planning of the American Institute of Architects.

He says that architects must act to stop "enormous economic losses resulting from lack of constructive city planning."

Sense of Direction Guides Kitty Home

CLEVELAND, July 25 (AP)—The ability of cats to find their way home has been analyzed by Professor Francis E. Herrick, biologist of Western Reserve university. He finds that cats are not uniformly talented and furthermore much depends upon the incentive that takes kitty home. His experiments cover various distances, cats with eyes blindfolded, and others deprived temporarily of means of smell or of hearing. One cat was given chloroform to make it forget the way back.

"LANGUAGE OF LOVE" REAL AMONG CARIBS

CHICAGO, July 25 (AP)—Courtship is highly involved among the trilingual Caribs in British Honduras, and love has a special tongue, reports J. Eric Thompson, archaeologist and ethnologist at the Field Museum staff, recently returned from Honduras. "Carib men have one language which they speak to one another," says Thompson. "Carib women have a second for conversation among themselves. And there is a third tongue used in conversation between the sexes. The distinction is basic, not merely the difference between words white men sometimes use in the smoking room as compared to those used before ladies."

Fisher Folk Subjects Start Lake Art Group

SAGATUCK, Mich., July 25 (AP)—Because Frederick F. Fishburn of Chicago found subjects for his canvases among the fisher folk along this stretch of Lake Michigan, an art colony has grown up.

This year, the colony, enriched by a gift of $50,000 and one of 26 acres of land jutting out into the lake, has developed into one of the largest around the Great Lakes.

Furman founded the colony in 1910. He still is in personal supervision of it.

A Chicago business man, James MacFench, endowed the colony with $20,000, and Thomas E. Tallmadge, an architect, donated the land.

Robert Hoek Webb, Raleigh, North Carolina, won a membership in Phi Beta Kappa in two years at the University of North Carolina.

GRADE SCHOOL SYSTEM TO ELIMINATE CLASSES

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., July 25 (AP)—A phase of Oxfordian instruction methods is to be introduced into Arkansas City's public schools. Individual study is to replace classwork almost entirely. Recitations will be cut to a minimum and perhaps eliminated altogether under the plan devised by C. E. St. John, superintendent of schools. Pupils all in one study will be given opportunity to spend more time on other subjects. The amount of individual initiative shown will form the basis of grades. Officials believe the system will quicken promotions without unduly forcing students ahead.

Mayflower Claimants HAVE RIVALS IN EAST

JAMESTOWN ISLAND, July 25 (AP)—The whereabouts of the "first permanent English settlement in America" is proving a puzzle to some astounded tourists who have visited the historic island.

Letters have been written to Virginia authorities and to newspapers expressing disappointment that no flourishing village and no descendants of Captain John Smith are to be found here on the wave-washed banks of the James river.

Why is Jamestown known as the first permanent English settlement in America if it wasn't permanent? the tourists ask.

The answer is that the colony was abandoned even though Jamestown was abandoned and descendants of the early band still live in the Old Dominion. In fact, the descendants appear to be as numerous as descendants of those immigrants who found passage on that giant ocean liner of colonial days, the Mayflower, that sailed from European shores to Plymouth Rock some years later.

Prospective Farm Income for Coming Year Higher Than in 1928 and Worry Uncalled for, Declares Statistician

Two Short Months Ago Situation Was Serious Menace to Business Prosperity, Says Roger Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
DABSON PARK, Mass., July 25.—Two short months ago the farm situation was a serious threat to business prosperity. The drastic smash in wheat prices carried down to the lowest level in 15 years. Within a prospectively heavy and uniform world carry-over it was difficult to see how purchasing power throughout the great wheat belt could avoid a disastrous drop. Other grains reacted with wheat so that the whole western agricultural outlook presented a gloomy picture. The whole world's crop of wheat and other grains sold to the farms and that fully one-third of our retail trade depends adversely on farm income depressing business then seemed sure to be adversely affected.

Today the situation is entirely changed. A continuation of circumstances for fourteen two months ago have transpired to raise wheat prices by more than 35 per cent. These causes were first, a wind drought in the Northwest steadily cutting down spring wheat estimates; second, settlement of the Reparations problem, thus clearing the way for large exports; third the establishing of the federal farm board exerting a psychological influence for improved prices; and fourth, news that the wheat crop is not doing well, and that there will probably be a drop of 325,000,000 bushels below last year's world production. Thus, in spite of a heavy carry-over of last year's wheat, both in the United States and abroad, the above factors have brought about a price recovery which affects not only the wheat growers, but the entire business outlook of the country. Today wheat prices are a stimulant to business, except in certain localities where crop failure has been serious. Other grains have had a sympathetic price advance.

Grain income above 1928
I realize that an estimate of crop income at this early date, when the growing season has not been completed, must be subject to modifications by circumstances that may occur. However, as the situation stands today the prospective money yield of the wheat crop is $1,182,800,000. This is based on the average of future grain prices multiplied by the July 1 official estimate of yields. This prospective income, compared with the actual income received on futures and estimates yields in the mid-summer of 1928—instead of being worse off this year than last, the wheat farmers on the whole are about 9 per cent better off. On the same basis the value of the corn crop will be $2,038,000,000 for 1929 compared with $2,511,000,000 last year, a gain of 5 per cent in income from the corn belt.

The crops from the oats crop, in spite of a prospective yield of 200,000,000 bushels lower than last year, is $598,500,000 compared with $565,000,000 last year. The prospective yield of the soybean crop is about 5 per cent. Estimated rye crop is just about the same this year as it was last, when expressed in the number of bushels. Prospective money income from the rye crop, however, is this year $58,223,000, compared with $44,000,000. Summarizing the money yields as now indicated for the four leading grain crops, it appears that there will be an increase of approximately 6 per cent.

Not Evenly Distributed
It has long been a disputed question whether it is better from the farmer's standpoint to have poor crops and higher prices of good crops and poorer prices. One thing is certain, that complete crop failure in any locality is a disastrous blow to the purchasing power of that section, although it tends to cut down yield and increase the price for the whole crop in the aggregate. However, it has often been true that moderate damage to certain crops of which we normally have a heavy annual exportable surplus has worked to the advantage of the growers of that crop. Consequently, while those industries and business men selling in farm regions should not be alarmed about the aggregate purchasing power of the farmers this year, they must expect certain localities to offer much better opportunities than others.

The condition of the crops this year is definitely spotty. While it is still too early to estimate the yields by states, sales managers will do well to watch specific localities. The condition of spring wheat, for example, in certain parts of Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Montana is poor. Other sections having had sufficient rainfall, are in the higher prices.

Good Cotton Crop
The wheat crops of good sized American cotton crop this year, higher rate of textile activity both here and abroad has prevailed during 1928. Consumption of the old crop was larger, hence the carry-over of world supplies is much less than normal. To take care of this year's requirements, our cotton belt ought to produce at least 15,000,000 bales. Whether it will reach or exceed this figure no one can tell at this time. Reports state that the boll weevil is exceptionally active and that the crop is late in certain sections. Generally speaking, however, a good crop is a good crop.

Inasmuch as the purchasing power of the Southern part of the country is chiefly dependent on cotton, the importance of a fair yield and good prices can hardly be over-estimated. No government estimates will be available until August, and private authorities vary widely in their estimates. Some place the crop at 10,000,000 bales and others range from 10 to 15,000,000 bales. Judging by reports of conditions in various sections of the belt, a fair guess would be around 12,000,000 bales. This, of course, entirely upon weather conditions during the next two months. Hence the purchasing power of the South during the coming year will be largely determined by the weather experienced between now and next October.

Business by the Babsonchart is now 6 per cent above normal compared with just normal a year ago.
