Helen Wills and Edith Cross Triumph in Doubles Final

English Players at Easthampton Meet With Quick Defeat

British Forces Find Some Consolation in Singles Match Which Goes to Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron

By TED VOSBURGH, Associated Press Sports Writer.

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 5.—By the scores of 6-3, 6-0, Queen Helen, Berkeley, California, and her San Francisco partner, Miss Edith Cross, overcame the English combination of Miss Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Phoebe Watson to win the doubles final in the women's invitational tournament at the Maidstone club today. The same foursome will meet later this week in a Wightman cup match at Forest Hills.

The English forces found some consolation in the singles match, which went to Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron in a straight set victory over Miss Marjorie Gladman, Santa Monica, California, by scores of 6-2, 7-5.

As none of the American players and only three of the five British Wightman cup players entered the singles, the real test in the light of the approaching international team came in the doubles engagement.

But, for the first time since they have been playing doubles together, Miss Edith and Miss Cross "clicked" perfectly. Most impressive of all was the great performance of Miss Wills. Never considered remarkable as a doubles player, Miss Wills showed the same magic mastery of ball and racket that have made her a "champion" queen in the singles courts of the world.

Guy Reigel Wins at Golf

Mrs. Elizabeth Curran, Tacoma-Golf country club, finished before Miss champion, was third in the qualifiers with 88, and Mrs. Henry P. Russell, Walla Walla Country club, was fourth with 83.

the committee in charge of women's activities.

Mrs. Worthington Sherman, national committee woman for Pennsylvania, is one of those prominently mentioned to succeed her.

Besides filling the two vacancies in its high offices, the committee also is charged with filling the vacancies in the national committee membership at that time. Foremost among the list of the Georgia representatives is Ben Davis, a nurse, served as national committeewoman for Georgia for several years until the Kansas City convention when that state's delegation was unable to agree upon his re-election.

Some party leaders expect Perry Howard, a nurse national committeewoman for Mississippi, to resign in view of the announcement by the president that the organization which Howard heads could no longer be re-elected in patronage matters because of repeated charges of irregularities.

The president also said that the resignation of Elizabeth H. Smith, Georgia, also would no longer be recognized in patronage matters for the same reason.

one other restriction—we could not turn anything out of the window, because it might blow into one of the open motors. In fact, nothing was ever dumped from the Zeppelin, not even refuse, garbage and waste paper, was carried along in big containers under the cabin. This maintained the ballast of the craft.

Only one or two of us visited the stowaway, which was locked up in a tiny room. Dr. Eckener was very angry when he was discovered on board, only 10 minutes after we had gotten under way. He was a German youth, but the camera he brought along with him did him no good, as he saw none of the sights.

"It was a wonderful trip," Zeppelin traveling is splendid—and despite the luxurious steamships, trains and automobiles it is the ideal mode of travel.

WILL BUILD FASTER CRAFT LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 5 (AP)—

Dr. Hugo Eckener today disclosed that the new dirigible will be built in a tinier and thicker, but faster than the Graf Zeppelin, will be completed at Lakehurst, N. J., in 1930.

The new ship, the master of the Graf Zeppelin said, will have eight engines instead of five, and will be able under similar weather conditions to make the transatlantic trip 12 hours faster than the Graf.

Dr. Eckener revealed that a wider hanger was being built at Friedrichshafen, and that plans for the new dirigible were already being made.

The new ship will carry 24 passengers—only four more than the present queen of the air, the Graf Zeppelin, which carries 20.

considerable more room for freight and mail, which Dr. Eckener said was more profitable for oceanic transit than passengers.

He explained that the Graf Zeppelin's two "visits" to the United States have been so successful that he established the dirigible's feasibility for transatlantic transportation, but said that the Graf Zeppelin was being developed as an economical business carrier. There must be several ships to cut down overhead. Just when these extra ships will be built, depends on the bankers.

REAR ADMIRAL MOPFETT CONGRATULATES GERMANS

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 (AP)—Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, in a statement sent the Chicago Tribune from North Platte, Nebraska, tonight, said the Germans were to be congratulated upon the achievements of the steamship Bremen and the Graf Zeppelin.

The statement said that the Graf Zeppelin made the transatlantic voyage over a much longer route in less time than the Bremen. The Germans are to be congratulated on their foresight, vision and sportsmanship for this pioneer work in the commercial use of airships.

"It is to be regretted that America, with her vast resources, has not taken advantage of this opportunity promptly. The six and one-half million people here have a dirigible being built for the navy, but it is flying today across the oceans and around the world."

He can retrace our lead in this new field of airship transportation. If we now grasp our opportunity vigorously and adopt the lead of the Graf, however, we will be able to define the next merchant marine in the world in years.

MAY SELECT NEW NAME LAKEHURST, Aug. 5 (AP)—

American base for the Graf Zeppelin ship will be named in honor of Dr. Hugo Eckener said today.

The commander of the Graf, however, added that no definite location had been decided upon.

Reserve squadrons of police were rushed to the district and five arrests were made. One man, Yee Sing, 35, police said, would be held in connection with Chin's death. Both the men shot were said to have been members of the Hip Sing tong and the police seek every available officer into Chinatown to prevent reprisals.

A fire on Trout creek, west of Missoula, started yesterday, and a call for help was sent to Spokane. Fifteen men were sent to a blaze three miles west of Seeley lake yesterday. In the Lolo and Missoula forests half a dozen new fires were burning tonight.

Private timber owners were fighting several dangerous fires in the Blackfoot valley and Hell Gate canyon. The largest were at Elk creek 50 miles north of Missoula, and at Ryan gulch, 35 miles east.

Discovery of a fire caused by carelessness led to the warning last night by forest officials that another of that type would result in closing of part of the Missoula forest. The Pend O'Reille forest here today yesterday was added to the restricted areas.

IDAHO'S GRAND OLD MAN

The passing of August 11, 1841, places a period in a chapter of Idaho history. No other man who figured in its early chapters in a prominent way, continued to play an active part up to the present year.

Honored by his party in this state by nomination for governorship, for United States senatorship, and for congress, recommended for the position secretary of interior and ambassador to the presidency of the nation, Governor Hawley was loved as much by Republicans as by Democrats.

The "idaho's Grand Old Man" was not conferred on him by reason of the eminent qualities mentioned above. It was the spontaneous offering of a people who correctly sensed that the generously wholly distinguished him even in pioneer days from others of a generous generation, was peculiarly one of spirit.

The personal element in his character, extending to individuals, was separated sharply from his political principles. Hence, his opposition to those opposed to his principles, carried with it none of the venom which leaves unhealed wounds.

FARTY DOWNWARD

The big thing about the present disarmament proceedings of the British American government is that, as President Hoover says, it makes a new departure.

Premier MacDonald "introduces the principle of parity which we have adopted, and its consummation means that Great Britain and the United States henceforth are to be committed in armament as potential opponents, but to cooperate as friends in the reduction of it."

Here is a reversal of the attitude maintained by the big boys of high finance. Yet, while yielding to the desires of the peace-makers, it leaves the militarists no legitimate ground for complaint.

Neither country is disarming. Neither country is to be outbid by the other in technical craft. Both are to get along with fewer fighting ships, men and guns.

Instead of parity downward, which is what we ought to have if the Kellogg peace treaty means anything, it is also what the public opinion of both countries wants.

DINING REBELS

Amnesty and an invitation to dinner were the punishments meted out to a rebel group by General Sarmiento Cedillo, governor of a district in Mexico, when he captured them.

Mexico's neighbors to the north have much to learn about her ways. There have been plenty of firing squads south of the Rio Grande. But there have also been many incidents similar to this. Peace and prosperity will come in Mexico the sooner for such broad-minded tactics.

WHEELBARROWS
The Wheelbarrow Association of America feels bad. It is manufacturing one million barrows a year, but most of them are exported. Americans, says the president of the association, are becoming too soft-handed, flabby-muscled and in-sleeping to push wheelbarrows, and machinery is doing their work.

Too bad! There never was a flatter mechanical aid for human use. This generation needs push. If there's no more work for wheelbarrow, barrow-pushing should be made a sport.

Here! See! Clara Day in the Paramount picture, "Dangerous Curves," at the Idaho today for the last time.

Vaudeville and "Phyllis of Follies" at Orpheum

"Phyllis of the Follies," a sparkling comedy and Fanchon and Marco vaudeville today only at the Orpheum theatre. The sophisticated screen comedy, "Phyllis of the Follies," which opened at the Orpheum theatre today is a riotous round of rollicking situations.

This one depends on perfectly natural yet charmingly ludicrous situations for its amusement, and it gets more deep laughs than the stinging and nosing up things generally. "On With the Show" is a clean comedy, although it is almost naively sophisticated, if you get what we mean.

Warren began his present consecutive service in the senate in 1908 after a two year lapse from his first two years in that body. Simmons entered the senate in 1901 to be followed by his colleague, Tom Overman, and by Reed Smoot, Utah, two years later.

"On With the Show" to Play at Idaho Theatre

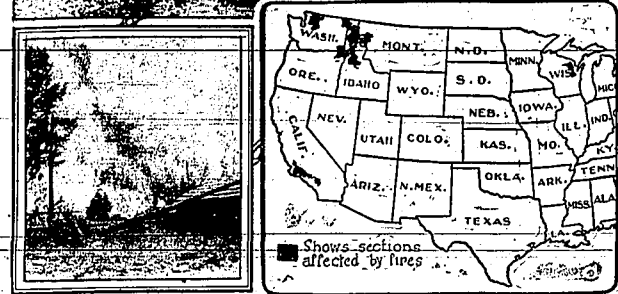

An entire season was built on which much of the action of "On With the Show," Warner brothers first, 100 per cent natural color, talking, singing and dancing picture, coming to the Idaho theatre Sunday next, takes place.

It is a set representing the first scene of a musical comedy, which is laid in the South, and it is complete with a Colonial mansion, the Mississippi River as a backdrop, the prow of a steamboat and boats of every kind.

A Washington Bystander

By Kirke L. Simpson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Of all the veteran members of the present congress, the initial service of Senator Furchard M. Simmons in that body antedates them all.

There is no one else can look back over a span of 43 years to his first entry into national political life. It was in 1886 that he was elected to the house of representatives by his constituents of his home district in North Carolina. He served one term.

Warren began his present consecutive service in the senate in 1908 after a two year lapse from his first two years in that body. Simmons entered the senate in 1901 to be followed by his colleague, Tom Overman, and by Reed Smoot, Utah, two years later.

CANAL EMPLOYEE RESIGNS TO RETURN TO MISSOURI

Having sold his home at 535 Fourth avenue north to Thron Olson in order to take up the occupancy of a nine-acre farm near Carthage, Missouri, Charles H. Brown, for the last two and a half years assistant secretary of the Twin Falls Canal company, presented his resignation to the board of directors Saturday evening. During the present season, Harley Rayborn superintendent of streets and waterworks, reported to the city council last evening, the waterworks department has replaced approximately 11,000 feet of wood water pipe with iron pipe, and the work is continuing. Iron pipe now is being laid to replace wood pipe on Third avenue east where two breaks occurred recently.

MILK COLOR STRONG POINT IN GUERNSEY ARGUMENT

WENDELL, Aug. 5 (Special to The News)—Arrival of 20 purebred Guernsey cows from the Island of Guernsey has aroused a great deal of interest among breeders and admirers of this breed of dairy stock. The Guernsey breeders declare that the popularity of this strain of dairy cattle is due largely to the demand for the milk, which has a rich, yellow color that appeals to users. It is stated that this quality of the milk has brought a premium in New York and other large cities. This point is strongly urged by the American Guernsey Cattle Club. Six of the cattle imported last week have been sold to the Adorah farm near

New United States Envoy to France Started Career on Borrowed $600

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE BRINGS SUCCESS TO WALTER EVANS EDGE

American Ambassador Wins Wealth and High Position After Laboring as Printer's Devil and Errand Boy

By HERBERT PLUMMER (Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A loan of $600 gave American's next ambassador to France his start in life at the age of 19.

Walter Evans Edge, who has accepted the ambassadorship by President Hoover and probably will leave in October after congress winds up its work, was a general handy man in an advertising agency at Atlantic City. He had been a printer's devil before that, but he got into it to run errands and sweep floors in the offices of the advertising agency.

He kept interest in his work and a natural aptitude for advertising had attracted the attention of everyone connected with the firm. And then the head of the agency died.

Young Edge was told that $600 could buy the whole outfit. He went to a friend, persuaded him to advance the money, came back and bought the business.

Advertising made Edge a rich man. From Atlantic City he branched out into other cities. He opened an agency in New York and it prospered. Then he ventured abroad. First to London, then to Paris, to Berlin and elsewhere he organized.

Now he has practically retired from the advertising field. All of his agencies are in the hands of those who were faithful in his employ. That is, all but one.

He keeps the one in Atlantic City that he bought with the borrowed $600. Ben-timent causes him to hold on to it—Edge began his political career just as he started out in business—as an apprentice.

His first public office was that of journal clerk in the New Jersey senate. Next he became New Jersey's chief executive. In 1909 he was elected a member of the assembly and served as majority leader for the first year. Next he advanced to the state senate, where he also served as majority leader.

In 1916, with 69,000 votes to spare, he was elected New Jersey's chief executive. Two years later he was sent to Washington to fill the seat of the late Senator William Hughes. His popularity is evidenced by the fact that he was re-elected in 1924 with a plurality of 276,896 votes.

At the age of 55 he has served almost all of his time to public service.

Rather robust in stature, with iron gray hair, Senator Edge is one of the most striking men in the United States senate. He is always immaculately dressed.

He is a demagogue for work. As a member of the senate finance committee he has spent the entire summer in Washington helping to formulate the tariff bill.

His favorite recreation is hunting. He plays some golf, but is not an enthusiast. He enjoys swimming.

The senator has been married twice. His second wife is the grand-daughter of Arthur Sewall, candidate for vice president on the Bryan-Sewall ticket. Mrs. Edge's father was Harold Sewall, the late American minister to Hawaii, and Mr. Edge's pride is his 14-year old son.

Geologists Say Florida Under Water Many Times

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Reasons why geologists think Florida has been submerged several times in a vast past, covering more than 100,000,000 years, are reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. C. Wythe Cooke and Stuart Mossom.

Dr. Cooke is of the United States geological survey and Mossom is former assistant state geologist of Florida.

Recent rock discoveries contain indications that all of Florida is underlain at great depths by rocks of the paleozoic era, which goes far back toward the now known preglacial beginning of things.

The report says that Florida probably has been, ever since that era, a part of North America. There also is evidence that it has been completely submerged from time to time and that now its real bulk is only partly above the sea.

Missouri Farmer Scorns Use of Horses and Mules

CHARLESTON, Mo., Aug. 5.—For one year Claude Thompson and his two sons have operated their farm without the aid of a draft animal of any kind. They have a favorable farm balance.

Three tractors to the work and Thompson says they are able to do as much of it as ordinarily would require a draft team of 24 horses or mules. The chief advantage, they say, is that rain which soaks the underfoot and makes horse plowing difficult; has no effect on tractor farming.

They expect to seed 400 acres in corn for the coming crop. Last year, they say, they planted 185 acres and found the investment paid, chiefly because of their motorized farm method.

Bees and Mites' Teams Bewilder Entomologists

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 5.—A strange team of the insect world, the busy carpenter bee and a tiny mite, defies the analysis of scientists.

The mite, according to Norma LeVague, University of Colorado, is found in a peculiar abdominal pouch in female bees and in their nests. They are found only in tropical regions of the old world.

The relationship of the two has not been clearly solved. The suggestion is offered that the mites keep down the fungus growth in galleries in which the bee drills its timber and that they protect their hosts of the excess of honey which may adhere to the hairy body after raids on flowers.

Tractor Completes Three Jobs in Single Operation

SHORTER, Ala., Aug. 5.—Webb Hurt has hit upon a tractor combination which enables him to cut, sow, plant and plant peas all in one operation. Two men are required to operate the tractor and attend the attached machinery.

Hurt says the tractor has warranted reduction of his mule team from 28 to 20 and his labors from 17 to 12 men.

STREET TALKS TRADE BETWEEN LUNCH BITES

Private Tables Where Men Discuss Affairs Has Part in New York Business Life

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Several thousand lunch tables are almost as important a part of the financial district's business machinery as the exchange trading floors or the security counters of brokerage houses.

Nooks where business men can talk as they eat are everywhere. These affairs have come to have a special dignity and seriousness in stark contrast to those of an earlier day.

In December, 1923, General Washington was the guest of New York business men at John Cape's famous tavern. The bill for the occasion included several hundred bottles of wine and the breakage of 60 wine glasses and eight cut glass decanters.

Breakfast was a customary item in all bills-rendered-for-these-trinity-gatherings of "private business gentlemen" in revolutionary and post-revolutionary days.

John Adams, Boston, made a business trip to New York in 1774. He was entertained by various groups, including the chamber of commerce. Concerning the trip he made this entry in his diary:

"With all the opulence and splendor of this city there is very little good breeding to be found. We have been treated with an assiduous respect, but I have not seen one real gentleman, one well-bred man, since I came to town."

"At their entertainments there is no conversation, that is agreeable, there is no modesty, no attention to one another. They talk very loud, very fast, and all together."

The horse has become man's pal instead of his servant in America, where 125,000 horses are being used for pleasure riding.

Ralph Roberts, Capron, Oklahoma, farmer, is a one-man crew. Single-handed, he sowed and harvested 175 acres of wheat this year.

AGRICULTURE HEADS DIRECT DEPARTMENT TO HELP BOARD

Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, chief of the department of agriculture, who is ex-officio member of the federal farm board, and Dr. A. F. Woods, chief federal director of scientific work, who has appointed committees which will give the board valuable data, Chris L. Christensen (below), head of the division of agricultural cooperation, is secretary to the farm board.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The United States department of agriculture makes certain the federal farm board L. Christensen, head of the division of agricultural cooperation, is secretary of the board and fully prepared to advise necessary to rehabilitate the American farmer.

Whether the board will lean on the department or set up its own research department and in position to advise, William M. Hyde, its secretary, Dr. A. F. Woods, director of the scientific work, has the power to coordinate the talent of every man possessing creation of the special committees. ## New Anesthetic Brings Sleep to Users Unaware INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 3.—A new anesthetic, developed by two Indianapolis physicians, can be administered to a patient in his room without his knowledge.

The anesthetic is now known as rotidum. Its name is derived from the Greek word for "to sleep." Its authors are Dr. L. O. Zerfas and Dr. J. T. McCallum, Indianapolis. They say that the new anesthetic is a profound sleep before it is recommended to general use.

The medical council of the American Medical association has not yet passed upon the anesthetic.

Relief from excitement after operations is one of the qualities exhibited by the drug in early experiments. Nausea is said to be eliminated. There are indications that it produces complete muscle relaxation.

The anesthetic has been used on more than 1500 patients.

precluded during his tenure of office that the board's demands on the department would necessitate additional appropriations from congress, and an increased staff to insure ample facilities. Mr. Jardine was instrumental in framing the farm relief act under which the board was created.

To all purposes it is apparent the department is taking no time in preparing itself for a call from the board. Dr. C. R. Ball, chief of cereal research and chairman of a special wheat committee, is conducting a report covering every phase of the industry. It will be available to the board.

Dr. Woods has just appointed three more special committees, one for cotton, one for pecans and one for the study of range problems and policies. He says that perhaps no more such committees may be appointed "as the need arises."

The board has not asked for information necessitating creation of the special committees. Dr. Woods explains and the information they are expected to present to the board and fully prepared to advise the department's ideas.

PETROLEUM OUTLOOK IMPROVES DECLARES NOTED STATISTICIAN

Investor Must Approach Subject From Two Points of View, Says Bay State Authority On Business

By ROGER W. HANSON

HANSON PARK, Mass., August 5.—Analyzing the present oil situation, the investor must approach the subject from two points of view, first the prospects over the near future and second, the outlook over a term of years.

With regard to the immediate situation—the near future—the outlook is not so bright as it was a few years ago. The oil production has not increased as well as was hoped for earlier in the year.

Nevertheless it is encouraging that the mid-continent field as a whole has curtailed so much that it is now drawing oil at the rate of 3,000 to 4,000 barrels per day.

Current Demand Continues A more favorable aspect of the current situation, however, is the extremely heavy increase in demand.

Another important factor from the long-pull standpoint is the astounding increase in demand for gasoline and fuel oil.

CHICKENS FLEE SIGHT OF PLANE AS COWS CHEW CUDS IN DISDAIN

By W. W. CHAPMAN (Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Passengers on the inaugural air-journey of Transcontinental Air Transport amused themselves while flying by deciding which animals were the most "air minded."

The vote was inconclusive as to horses, cows and sheep, but all agreed that chickens were the most timid of all the birds and the beasts.

Although sometimes the planes swooped low above the ground, the domestic beasts scarcely wince. Other than a rumble of the engine or the straggling of a man, of which they were aware, they were not disturbed.

Some of the passengers held that this indicated perfect "air mindedness" on the animals' part, and that they accepted the new means of transportation and approved it.

BOISE, Aug. 5 (UP)—The lowly pronghorn on the plains has become self-supporting in Idaho covering the period to June 20.

This was revealed in the annual report of the biological survey work in Idaho covering the period to June 20.

"A total of 76,222 pounds of poisoned rabbit skins was distributed on 68,000 acres of land in controlling jackrabbits during the winter of 1928-29."

"It is expected that if the market for rabbit skins can be maintained jackrabbits will become an asset. It might even be suggested that skins frozen to death—as a result of five-day blizzards—were readily available, such is not true of starved rabbits.

IDAHO SCHOOLS GIVE PRIZES FOR THEMES

Be Chemistry, Highway Safety, Flag Loyalty

BOISE, Aug. 5 (UP)—Three essay contests that offer prizes ranging all the way from medals to trips around the world will be conducted in Idaho elementary and high schools this year as part of national contests.

The chemistry essay contest, conducted by the American Chemical society, offers prizes in each state and six thousand college scholarships as well as grand prizes.

The highway safety essay contest is conducted by the Highway Education Board of the National Highway association. In this, also, prizes are offered in each state while three gold watches Should this ERRING WIFE be forgiven?

DAWN was breaking—yet she still sat by the window, staring with sleepless, unseeing eyes at the dim world outside.

Should she tell her husband—confess her sin—bring down upon him the humiliations and agony of knowing that she had cheated and dishonored him? How he idolized her!

"You are the purest, noblest, most beautiful woman alive," he had often told her. And she had glowed with pride at his loving praise.

But that was before he had met the fascinating Barry Lawrence. The mere touch of his hand had set her pulses pounding—had warned her of the danger that lay ahead.

when Barry finally swept her into his arms and she felt his lips crushed to hers, something stronger than fear, more powerful than love or duty, seemed to overwhelm her.

"Oh, how you love me!" he whispered. "I've never been so loved before. Why continue to struggle against a love like ours? Why—"

But read the story—and then ask yourself: Can a woman truly love her husband and take even a temporary sentimental interest in another man? Should an erring wife be forgiven? Or should she remain silent—and go through life clinging to the mercurial life of romance?

Don't miss this story! It's a sensational story of love, sacrifice, and redemption. It's a story that will stay with you for years to come.

UNIVERSITY FARM TO HAVE NEW BUILDINGS

Dean E. J. Iddings Reports Plans For Structures at Moscow to Cost $15,000

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 (Special to The News)—Several improvement projects, involving the construction of four buildings costing about $15,000, will be started soon at the University of Idaho college of agriculture experiment farm here, reports Dean E. J. Iddings, head of the college.

Moving of the university poultry plant to a new location, and rebuilding it on a much more ample scale, will be the major item on the program. Construction of an addition to the dairy building for use as a milk house, and a two-story machine shed also has been authorized by the board of regents. Extension of the university water system to the farm is another important improvement.

The poultry plant will be moved to a new site, as the old site was much too small and crowded for raising healthy chicks in any great numbers, said Dean Iddings. With the rapid growth of the poultry industry in Idaho, and the enlarged poultry research program, larger quarters and better facilities were imperative, the dean declared. The new poultry plant will cost about $5,000 and will give the department modern facilities for fundamental experiments in feeding, incubation, breeding, and disease control, as well as the regular teaching program.

The milk house will be built at the north end of the dairy barn at a cost of about $3,000. Dean Iddings estimated. A new machine shed will be built on the site of the old beef cattle barn which burned down several years ago. The shed will cost about $2,000.

Another important improvement will be the extension of the university water system to the farmstead. A fire hydrant will protect for the first time the farm buildings. Several years ago the beef cattle barn burned, the old system providing practically no protection.

The farmer entitled to the free animal is to be chosen for this energy and application.

FAIRVIEW HOME SCENE OF WEDDING CEREMONY

FAIRVIEW, Aug. 5.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Noh was the scene of a wedding last Wednesday at high noon, when their daughter, Ida Mary, became the bride of Alfred Kramer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kramer, Schuyler, Nebraska. Rev. W. F. Dannenfeldt, of the Lutheran church of Clover, officiated. The house was decorated with garden flowers and vines and the color scheme included pink, white and yellow. The ceremony was performed before the fireplace which was banked with flowers. The bride wore a gown of coral pink chiffon and carried a bridal bouquet of pink roses. After the ceremony a three course luncheon was served. The table was artistically decorated, with the wedding cake in the center, and baskets of flowers on either side. Mr. and Mrs. Kramer left for Salt Lake City for their honeymoon after which they will make their home on a farm south of Buhl. On Friday, before her wedding, Miss Ida Noh was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Frank Barron. The early part of the afternoon was spent in embroidering towels. Mrs. Emil Hahn received honors for the best free hand drawing and embroidery. A beautiful hand painted booklet with "Advice to the Bride," written by each guest, was read. The guests numbered 20 and were served refreshments at the close of the afternoon. Regular meeting of Fairview Orange

WORKMEN ENLARGING CASSIA FAIRGROUNDS

Program of Building and Rearranging For Event at Burley Progresses

BURLEY, Aug. 5 (Special to The News)—Work is progressing rapidly on enlargement and rearrangement of Cassia county fairgrounds. Additional stalls for race horses are being erected in the northwest corner of the sports section. The city has cut a new street through the north portion of the grounds, which is now being gravelled, and has closed the street at the south side. This has permitted the race track to be moved farther south, the south turn being at the north end of the new school recreation grounds. This rearrangement will allow school games and field contests to be held on the track, and a school practice field will be built south of the track.

The new household building and the poultry building have been completed. The new turn being at the north end of the competition slings. The framework of the big dairy barn is up, a structure 50 by 120 feet in dimensions, built in monitor style, with three long rows of windows. The city is preparing to bring water, for fire protection, to both the north and south ends of the grand stand.

The grounds are laid out in two sections. The race track and grandstand are enclosed within a fence. The exhibits buildings, for livestock, agricultural displays and household exhibits are on grounds outside the fence. No charge is made for admission to the exhibits at the Cassia county fair.

ENTOMOLOGIST SETS UP MOSCOW OFFICE

Professor: Claude Wakeland in Charge of Department's Headquarters

MOSCOW, Aug. 5 (Special to The News)—ENTOMOLOGIST, the headquarters of the department of entomology at the University of Idaho, with Professor Claude Wakeland in charge, has been announced by Dean E. J. James of the college of agriculture.

Increasing demands in recent years for instruction in entomology at the university, and the enlarged research program undertaken by the department in the experiment station, make it desirable to establish adequate laboratories at the central experiment station at Moscow.

Two large rooms have been assigned to the department on the third floor of the science hall, and will be fitted up as student and research laboratories and offices. The research work will give Idaho farmers and fruit growers more assistance in protection against such insects as the alfalfa weevil, the onion thrips, and others common in Idaho. Insects often are the factor determining whether a farming venture will result in a profit or a loss.

So great is the interest in entomological research in the Southwestern part of the state that money was raised and materials donated by corporations, associations, and private individuals for the construction of a well-equipped entomology laboratory at Parma. But the department never has had laboratory space on the campus.

Professor Wakeland will have direct charge of all the entomological work in the state. W. E. Shull, assistant professor of entomology, will remain at the university. R. W. Hayes, who has been assistant entomologist of the experiment station for four years, will have charge of the Parma research and field laboratory.
