Grand Mufti Urges Arabs To Peace As Britain Moyes To End War In Holy Land

(By The Associated Press) UNREST and disorder is spreading through the Near East following four days of bloody fighting between Jews and Arabs in Palestine.

Communications between Jaffa and Jerusalem are reported cut. Palestine is said to be without newspapers. The frontier toward the east has been closed to check advances of Arabs from Trans-Jordan.

While Palestine itself remains under strict censorship, Jewish sources, particularly the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, continue to receive detailed reports of the situation. The Moslem version is that the initial cause of the conflict was the throwing of a hand grenade at Moslems who were leaving the Mosque of Omar, of which the Walling Wall is an integral part. Moslems charged that violence was thrown from a abuse over passing Arab worshippers and that in general riots followed.

POWERS ACCEDE TO BRITISH DEMAND ON REPARATIONS SPLIT

Agreement Removes Barrier to Adoption of Young Plan at Hague Conference; German Acceptance Likely

(By The Associated Press) THE HAGUE, (Wednesday), Aug. 28.—Agreement in principle on the British share of reparations, which had blocked adoption of the Young plan for three weeks, was reached just after midnight by the six powers who called the conference.

Details of the agreement were given out by the British delegation. The French placed a slightly different interpretation of them, but it was understood that in the main the agreement gave the British substantially 70 per cent of their demand in money, while other concessions were made to them on deliveries in kind. Among the last was agreement to allow to buy an additional 1,000,000 tons of coal annually for the state railroads on the reparations account.

and other federal holdings specifically endorsed the measures introduced by Senator Odell of Nevada and Representative Collins of Missouri, which created funds for such construction and urged their passage.

Forest Fire Protection Appropriation of $2,000,000

The federal government was urged to appropriate for forest investigation work the full amount authorized under the McAdams act, which provides up to $3,750,000 annually within the next 10 years for research and an additional $2,000,000 for a survey.

Forest Fire Protection
Appropriation of $2,000,000 for the purpose of forest fire protection by the Clarke-McNary law was asked of congress, to meet a like sum for the purpose of increasing the number of government-owned timber lands outside the national forests, on the same basis as that set up by the McAdams act.

Another resolution cited what was termed a misunderstanding throughout the country regarding the purpose and results of federal reclamation and declared that the policy was responsible for the loss of timber in the West. Denial was made that products of reclamation projects enter into competition with those of private farming, with a declaration that the remaining irrigable areas must be developed by governmental rather than private enterprise.

Work of the Western States Aeronautic association organized at Boise, Idaho, last month, was endorsed, including establishment of state and interstate airways, uniform laws, markings and reciprocity between states in licensing of aircraft and pilots.

ANCIENT FREIGHTER ABANDONED TO FATE

Old Boat Holds Head Above Water for Day After Being Deserted by Crew

NEW YORK, Aug. 27 (AP).—The ancient steamer Quimistan survived abandonment by her crew for more than a day, although her attendance was then slack and she was left to drift.

A radio message to The Associated Press from the master of the steamer Quimistan tonight indicated that the men who took to their boats and drifted for 24 hours before being picked up by the Dollar Steamship Co. vessel, had been a bit hasty in getting overboard. The message read: "passed steamer Quimistan on Aug. 25 P. M. after forward hatch was flooded. The ship was abandoned or crew within 10 miles radius. The Quimistan left Norfolk on August 18. The ship was abandoned in the Gulf of Mexico, Italy. Her crew when they were landed here last Saturday said that 'a plate seemed to rise and the old fish light filled rapidly. They made signal lights which set the ship astir forward, they then took to the boats.'

The Quimistan was abandoned on Tuesday evening the old Panama freighter, abandoned to her fate still had her head above water.

By Western men conversant with those problems.

Appointment of a committee from delegates representing the universities was authorized for the purpose of devising a plan of coordinated research and fact-finding on the public lands.

The resolution called increased appropriations for wire work control following the Triple Creek case of Harden Bennion, Utah commissioner of agriculture; Claude Wakeland, state land agent in charge of the land department; they told of the inroads of this and other plant pests in their states.

Water Control Figures

Federal water control as opposed to state control was brought before the committee at the afternoon session in a paper by Dolph Carpenter, Colorado, member of the Colorado river commission, which was read by Robert E. Winbourne, attorney general of that state. He argued that the theory of federal control was opposed to court decisions upholding state rights.

Just before adjournment the conference went to explore the question with the consent of Assistant Secretary Joseph M. Dixon of the interior department, all relative to the payment of money expended by the federal government in the various Western states, and returned from the states by the government. Mr. Dixon touched upon this subject in his address to the conference yesterday, and today continued his address by presenting figures for each of the 11 Western states.

Excited some discussion concerning the record of the department of agriculture, who contended the interior department figures he presented were inaccurate, in that they failed to take into account income tax and customs payments and other indirect receipts. The proposal to clear the record of the discussion was presented by Austin D. Crile of New Mexico.

California's secretary of the American Mining Congress, in a short talk declared his organization for years had carried on a single-handed fight against the government's public land policy, and urged the conference to take up the battle. He recommended that a large fund be raised for educational purposes in the West, and offered to contribute $100,000 to the organization as a headquarters until the conference had established one of its own.

Governor Baldrige, in reply, stated that it was not the idea of the men behind the proposal to have such a publicity fund be raised of Washington headquarters be maintained, but that it would afford means of expressing to congress the sentiment of the Western states on reclamation and other matters affecting their development.

Victor Shaw, secretary to Governor Baldrige and secretary to the conference, was named chair of the executive committee, charged with the formation of a permanent organization.

It was the only bad accident in a day crowded with speed and daring.

Madame Woman Wins

The 50-mile speed race for women over the Cleveland airport aerial speedway was awarded to Mrs. Keith Miller, a 33-year-old woman of Chicago, Illinois, who had been disqualified for crowding the plane of another contestant in banking her plane for one of the turns around the pylons which mark the air course. Miss Ombel filled a protest, denying she fouled. Her speed had been 112.9 miles per hour. Mrs. Miller's speed was 98.72 miles. Lady Mary Heath of England and Isabelle Noyes of Cleveland won second and third places, respectively.

Prize for the winners of today's events were $500 and $200 money in the Portland derby, $500, and lap awards in the Miami derby and $1700 in the women's speed race.

Speed in Second Place

A revival was made today in the outcome of the All-Ohio derby yesterday, officials awarded the race to Lewis Love of Richmond, Indiana, who originally had been declared the winner, but later had been placed second to H. A. Speer of Marshall, Missouri. A record of elapsed time gave Love the race and top spot in second.

A contest for airplane pilots was won by Elmer Westerman of Jackson, Michigan, who sailed 550 feet; William Phier, Cincinnati; was second with 497 feet. Oscar Kume of Orton, Michigan, was third.

DEHYDRATING PLANT EXPECTS BIG SEASON

Operators Prepare to Handle 4000 Tons of Culls During Autumn of 1929

With view of handling business twice as great as ever before in its history, the Pacific Coast Dehydrator company has begun extensive alterations in its plant at 425 Main avenue south. Part of the old machinery, though installed only three years, will be removed to make way for later appliances, in the way of an additional peeler and probably an additional slicer.

The entire arrangement at the plant is changed, and new runways for expedient handling of products are being installed.

Handle 4000 Tons
"We expect to be in operation in about three weeks," R. L. Pucinated, Les Co., California, head of the company, said yesterday. "We will handle about 4000 tons of cull apples, instead of 2000 tons, the amount which we handled last year. We are putting in extra machinery."

AIRPLANE VITAL TO WESTERN TERRITORY IDAHO MAN ASSERTS

Commissioner J. D. Wood Argues for Coordination of Airways and Highways to Meet Demand for Speed

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 27 (UP)—Fast transportation by air is vastly important in the West, where widely separated communities demand quick communication, Joe D. Wood, Idaho commissioner of public works, told governors of the eleven western states and their state delegations in convention here today.

"We have a unique situation in this western country—the unequal distribution of population," he said. "This population is centered in a few large cities in the coast, as Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles, separated from the inland centers of population by great distances, mountain ranges and deserts."

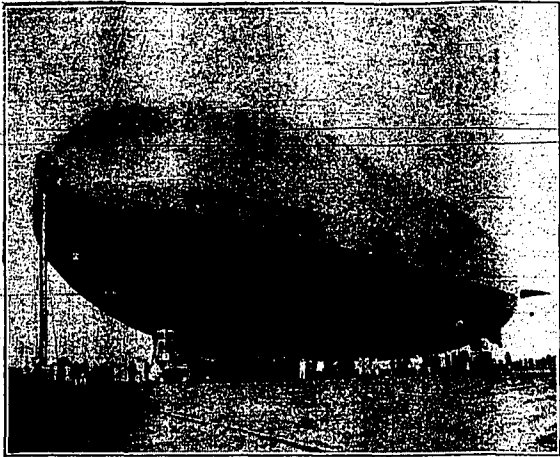

ECONOMIC NECESSITY "This condition in the West makes the demand for a faster mode of transportation between these widely separated points an economic necessity if we hope to maintain the facility of commercial intercourse enjoyed by eastern states."

Commissioner Wood made a plea for coordination of airways and highways. He pointed out that the established federal airways in the West followed already established highways. "This is natural," he said, "for the same topographical features that govern the highways govern routing of airways. Both seek the low passes and the water grades, he said."

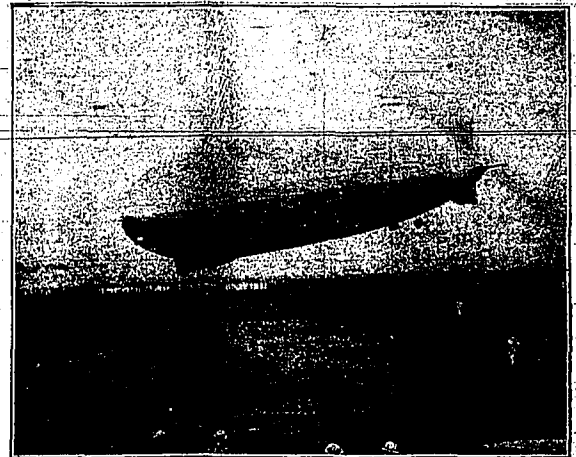

Americans Affirmed Further development of state airways to extend the system of federal airways is becoming rapidly necessary, he said. "The American communities have become so air-minded that, even as automotive vehicles created the demand for highways, so is the airplane creating the demand for airports and air routes."

To take over the development of these state airways, Commissioner Wood pointed to the state highway department already established. The same factors going to building good roads, he said, apply in building good airports. This technical help was already mustered for the job. "It would seem that the highway organizations of the various states, as a matter of economy and efficiency should take over the establishment and maintenance of state airways."

M., cruising about the city and nearby beaches while awaiting the first streak of dawn before gliding gently downward to the stub mast.

GIANT DIRIGIBLE COMES TO EARTH—Her spider lines in the hands of a trained landing crew of United States marines and sailors, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin is brought safely and gently to earth and towed toward a specially constructed stub mooring mast at Los Angeles airport. She was to sail for Lakehurst to complete the circling of the globe after refueling.

The main purpose of this course in Journalism is to teach the student how to properly read and interpret the newspaper.

Eight boys have already signed up for work in general agriculture and more are expected to enroll by the time school opens. Obsolete methods of grading by percentage will be discontinued this year in favor of the more modern five-group system.

IDAHO EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM EXTENDS TO LITTLE RED SCHOOL

Rural Districts Closely Coordinated with Central, State and County Supervisory; Helping Hand for Teacher

(By The Associated Press) BOISE, Aug. 27.—Idaho's modern rural school system is not operated in the traditional manner of a generation ago. The various schools are closely coordinated with the central, state and county supervisory.

The working of this system was revealed in the reports of the two southern Idaho rural school supervisors who operate out of Albion State normal school.

The supervisors are Ethel A. Hoffman and Anna C. Pearson. Similarly, north Idaho has two supervisors operating from the Lewiston State normal.

The two southern Idaho supervisors divide this big half of the state between themselves and each visits most of the schools in her district two times during the year.

During the past year the two supervisors stressed reading and language because new texts were just available to the students and it was deemed advisable to assist the teachers to use them most successfully.

In the eastern half of the southern district, reading tests were given and the supervisor pronounced the reading ability of the children as "rather poor."

Teachers See Demonstration The first visit to the schools amounts to a short practical course in teacher training for the instructors in each district.

All the teachers in a particular locality are called in to witness the demonstration of teaching arranged by the supervisor in cooperation with the county superintendent and trustees.

After a half day of this, the students are dismissed and the teachers "go into a huddle" to discover the good points and bad points of the teaching.

The second visit amounts mainly to a survey of results achieved during the earlier demonstration.

In summing up the work of the 26 weeks of supervision during the year, Miss Pearson declared that she was pleased the results of the work were very satisfactory.

"With such a big turn over of rural teachers in Idaho every year it is imperative need for more supervision becomes apparent."

CASSIA ABANDONS SALT IN CAMPAIGN ON WEEDS

BURLI, Aug. 27.—Salt has been practically dispensed with in the campaign to eradicate weeds in Cassia county, according to County Agent W. W. Palmer. Calcium chloride is almost exclusively used this season.

Three crews have been at work this summer, using spray guns and calcium chloride. Sodium chloride has also been used as a spray in a few instances. The spray has been found to be more effective than salt, and very much cheaper. Some 100 per cent kills have been noted in the weedy patches treated this season, and the average per cent of eradication seems to be about 90 per cent. The weed killing campaign has been energetically pushed by the county commissioners. It is carried on from the county agent's office under direction of Clio Coepler, weed supervisor.
