BORAH LEADS GROUP BATTLING MEASURE ON TARIFF CHANGES

Combination of Democrats and Republican Independents Out to Defeat Administration's Program

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The combination of Democratic and Republican Independents in the senate, which for weeks has been battling the tariff bill, against the wishes of President Hoover, was succeeded today in oppose the administration group in the pending tariff bill content.

As a result of an agreement as to procedure reached between Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Senator Borah, Idaho, leader of the so-called Western Farmer-Labor group, the efforts to limit the tariff revision to agriculture will be deferred. After the senate recovers Monday, a motion will be made to start debate on the administrative provisions of the Republican measure.

The compromise, which the merits of the bill should be debated first and said that after the country was adequately acquainted with the changes proposed by the finance committee majority in the house measure, many Democrats would favor a motion to recommit similar to one introduced which lost by one vote last June.

Silent of Details

In announcing the "understanding" between the two groups, Borah would say no more details but he said the Independents would have no objection to deferring a constitutional motion if it was decided that measure, which will affect the bill, could be passed at a later date.

As for the resolution of Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, to strike out rate sections of the bill except that relating to agriculture but under which industrial tariff amendment could be proposed, the impression among the Democrats and Western Republicans seemed to be that this was impractical.

Senator Snout, Utah, in charge of the bill for the finance committee majority, and he who voted to continue the bill in committee, agreed to defer the consideration of the administrative provisions first, so the initial clash on the tariff itself seems destined to revolve around these sections in the final part of the bill.

SENATOR BORAH, NORTH CAROLINA—The new members on the financial committee, will move that the administrative section be dealt with at the opening of debate but before going to a vote ask a vote on his proposal to obtain from the treasury for the information of the senate membership a record of such profits and losses of taxpayers as

Physical Condition Only Can Delay Fall's Trial

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5 (AP)—Only the physical incapacity of Albert H. Fall to make a trip to Washington will be able to delay his trial before the federal district court here, which is to begin October 7 the trial of the former secretary of the interior on a charge of bribery in connection with the Elk Hills naval oil reserve leases.

Fall, working with Owen J. Roberts and his Prentiss, said that his more or less permanent infirmities would be to file a physician's affidavit stating that the journey from his home in the Southwest would jeopardize Fall's health. Then a government physician would examine the former secretary.

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., Sept. 5 (AP)—Harry Parsons and R. H. Smith were being sought in the wild country of southern Utah after Deputy Sheriff Richard O. Westwood, who found the men in his office, was shot and killed as he was leaving the building.

The two men, arrested in Moab, Utah, by Westwood were said to have robbed two filling stations at Clifton, Colorado, and driven into Utah. At Moab they were seen with what they attempted to get currency for about $50 worth of small change. In their car were most of the articles stolen at Clifton, officers said.

Colorado officers were notified and left Moab for Moab.

BOISE, Sept. 5 (AP)—More money has been collected in seven months this year than in all previous years for vehicle and chauffeur's license. During the last year, a report of the state tax department revealed today.

Up to August 1, the total amount of $60,400 compared with total collections last year of $12,000,000. The department expected the figure for the year would exceed last year's.

Automobiles licensed during seven months this year totaled 82,000, compared with 16,164 last year. The increase in fees collected this year was credited to more drivers and chauffeurs, licensed.

Dynamite Attached to Dog Kills Animal and
Injures Girl at Home

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 5 (AP)—The family dog was pressed into service here tonight by persons who sought to dynamite the person of Joseph McNichols.

Several sticks of dynamite were tied to the animal which they had chased home. As he reached the door, the dynamite exploded and the porches were shattered, windows broken, killing the dog and causing superficial injuries to McNich's 12-year-old daughter, Nellie. The girl had run to the door when she heard the animal whining on his return.

Six other children in the house were uninjured. Their parents were not at home.

McNichols told police he has no enemies.

The president understood hold that the assembly of the League of Nations shall formally approve the revised root plan.

He also understood that the that each of the delegations should

NEW YORK, Sept. 5 (AP)—The late summer hot spell which lasted five days had ended—brought in many sections of the country as rain and falling temperatures brought success from discomfort after a day in which temperatures of 80 and above were common—the change in weather proved welcome in the East showers robbed the air of its torridity and cooler weather was welcomed.

Clouds became lighter as the sun progressed and started to white up in the eastern public utility and railroad groups. Rain was advancing at a break clip when a storm of selling developed in the industrials and the whole market turned downward.

Great was the flood of selling that followed quietness which had been behind the market and was nearly as late in recording the last quotation. The day's sales ran over 5,500,000 shares.

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 5.—The Far West, host to the third Jonesless championship fight in six years, will fight it out with the East for the national amateur golf crown.

This was assured today when two veterans from Oregon, Dr. Oscar F. Willing and Henry Chandler Egan, champion 25 years ago, swept into the semi-finals along with the sharp-shooting Harry C. Johnson, St. Paul, and Francis Oulmet, Boston, title holder in 1919.

Willing and Egan will meet in the first-hole-semi-final-tomorrow-morning at 10 A.M., while Oulmet and Johnson will battle it out in the other so that no matter what the outcome on intersectional final is assured of success.

In a succession of sensational quarter-final matches, today Willing disposed of the last foreign threat when he conquered the big English champion, Cyril Foley, by the decisive margin of 4 and 3, leading all the way after the first nine holes. Egan, in his first tournament appearance since 1919, was overwhelmed triumph over blood dear Sweetser, New York, to the tune of 6 up to 5 to go.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Climbing a rousing ninth-hitting during which they made 11 runs, the San Franciscans today slaughtered Portland, and with a score of 18-10, and "staged a sensational comeback at the age of 45, eight years after the last national tournament appearance." At the end of 1921, Egan failed to qualify. He returned to the battle this year to help the Far West be host to the event for the first time, and also because he had a big hand in designing Pebble Beach's famous layout.

He remains a semi-finalist now for the first time since 1909 and plays as an amateur. At the end of any of the quarters remaining to the tournament he will be back to the first hole in the first round again.

Egan was 2 up on Sweetser at the end of nine holes, increased his margin to 4 at the close of the first round, and as he stood close to par going all the way, ended the contest on the thirty-first green.

Tolley, after his par-crashing play of the first two rounds, was a big favorite to go into the finals; but he was wild as a hawk today and no match for

SHEEPMEN PREPARE FOR RAM SALE AT POCATELLO

BURLEY. Sept. 5 (Special to The News)—The third annual ram sale will be held at the Pocatello Chamber of Commerce and the Idaho Wool Growers association in charge, according to officials of the association here.

The earliest information has been received from the ram sellers, and the Jarts demand for rams in the late fall, call for the continuance of this sale, sheepmen say. This gives the sheepmen a good range rams close to home, and when needed.

Some fine rams, yearlings, have been added in addition to other extra-cross-bred rams, of both white and black face breed.

Entries to this sale are being accepted until Sept. 11. The date for entries being Sept. 11, the announcement urges.

ers, tired of blaring defiance to one another, assumed a belligerent attitude of negative hostility and the rabbit-like animals were equally apathetic.

But the exhibits in general, like the crowd that viewed them, and like the steed on the race track, looked fresh and alive. The grandstand, bleachers and surrounding grounds were thronged with the fences around the race track or saw the sights and wonders on the gay midway.

Today is a client's day and the twin fair leaders hope to have satisfied all the beauties and attractions that have entertained crowds during the last three days will be awaiting them.

Blackfoot Delegation

A delegation from Blackfoot, composed of Frank Dakay, H. O. Boone, W. S. Rich and F. C. Crist, was invited to attend the fair and exhibit their products. They also told their friends that the Blingham county fair, which opened for four days on September 10, will be well worth seeing both the exhibits and free attractions, the latter, they said, would include a troop of performing elephants.

I suffered from stomach disorders for nearly four years. My appetite was very poor, but even the little I ate disagreed with me. I not only lost weight, but just about lost all my pep and enthusiasm. Constipation caused me a great deal of trouble but nothing seemed to give me any relief whatever. I was just about at my wits end.

I honestly didn't believe any one could help me so I sought out what Baron was. What I like about Baron is that he is a different man in every way! It certainly is wonderful able to eat heartily again and have everything agree with me perfectly. I am out of eat, enjoy and digest my food again.

I'm gaining weight every day, I'm just full of strength and energy.

"Baron Pills" ended my constipation problem. I am now able to eat the things I used to eat regularly and keep that way.

I don't see how any man could ask or expect any medicine to do more for you than "Baron Pills".

The above statements were made by MARY C. F. WOODS, 16 Maple St., Denver.

MANY GOODING GRADUATES FILL TEACHING POSITIONS

GOODING, Sept. 5 (Special to The News)—Gooding college graduates of the class of 1929 who have begun work as teachers fall far short of the number of openings available.

For more than two days, since the disappearance of the great all-metal trimotor airplane nothing tangible has been discovered, and no official reports have been filed.

From the wilderness of some 20,000 miles of the least sparsely populated and wilder parts of the continental United States, came many reports which awakened hope and despair in all parts of the nation.

First there was a report from Tom McCall, of Phoenix, Arizona, border on the Colorado, indicating the new Mexico border. It was that the plane circled over that trading post Tuesday noon, then headed south. A Santa Fe switchman gave the report.

Indian Returns Plane

Then from Blackfoot, an Indian trader, post in Arizona, near the New Mexico border, came the news yesterday afternoon that an Indian runner had seen a large plane on the side of a mountain ridge from there.

Later a horseman reported having seen the plane flying over Houck shortly after noon Tuesday.

Early last evening the Santa Fe agent at Potts, shaded through the clouds, reported that a mail carrier reports plane containing eight people all dead, evidently struck by lightning down near the Zuni pueblos.

Midnight, last night, New Mexico, in the evening for search for the plane and that report caused officials to conclude that the plane had been found.

Hours later a second failed to locate the name or identity of any mail carrier who had seen the wrecked plane. Searchers failed to find it.

Existing law provides that such information be made available only to the congressional committees in executive session, but Senator Simmons believes it is discriminatory with these committees to turn over this data to members of congress. Under the resolution, the taxpayers whose financial interests would be affected by this bill.

The announcement of the reforming of the composition committee came after the House adjourned and returned to the city and entered into a joint conference with the minority members of the finance committee.

The minority leader dictated a lengthy statement to newspapermen in which he outlined the Democratic program and charged President Hoover with an unwillingness to exercise his leadership for the purpose of causing the measure to pass.

He said that the bill, if passed, will be just as effective as the original measure, which will eliminate nearly equally as possible the effect of the tariff on prices.

Senator Robinson said the absence of the executive "in the presence of its members" indicated a reality of members of 4-H club members.

PROMOTION FIXED POLICY OF COUNTRY MINISTER DECLARIES

Rev. E. L. Mills, Portland,
Substituting for Dr.
Clarence True Wilson,
Speaks On "Dry" Outlook

Assurance that prohibition is firmly established policy in the church brought to the Idaho conference last of the Methodist Church by Edward Lamb Mills, executive editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, who discussed the "dry" outlook for Prohibition, was substituted for Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, who it was announced, had been detained in Portland by illness.

The speaker paid his respects briefly to "wet" opposition to prohibition especially the "wets," and then launched into his argument for permanent prohibition.

Cuts Liquor Consumption

Prohibition, he declared, is a success because it has attained its major objective in reducing the consumption of alcohol. It has cut down "hard liquor" and "soft" drinking and for less immorality of all sorts among young men and women now than before prohibition the speaker continued.

No element—in American life has profited more from prohibition than the liquor industry, which has had to learn to show fewer men were employed in the liquor industry in proportion to capital invested than in any other industry, and that labor's share in profits were smaller in the liquor industry than in any other industry.

Fathers for Victory

Prohibition will be upheld, he declared, because it is more largely responsible for the prosperity the American people now enjoy than any other one thing; because industry demands it; because it is a windfall to the dry counties, which have been the chief gainers since "dry" forces are alert since the challenge of the national election last fall; because prohibition now "for the first time nationally is going to have a square chance for efficient enforcement, and finally because the fathers have no practical alternative—refuge."

He attacked vigorously the suggestion that liquor should be sold under government supervision and argued that policy had been characterized by corruption where it had been tried in Canada.

He commanded warmly a fully published series warmly by Mrs. Mabel Williford, former assistant attorney general, dealing with "prohibition enforcement."

Mr. Mills was introduced by Rev. John Wesley Miller, Gooding.

Definite Standard

Earlier in the evening the conference visitors and delegates assembled in the Methodist church auditorium, heard Rev. Mr. Lovjoy, Oregon, secretary of the department of stewardship, deliver the first of a series of two addresses on Christian stewardship, which he defined as "recognition of consciousness of relationship to God, and a sense of obligation or account to Him."

Mr. Lovjoy declared: "There is appreciation of this principle been so great, because never before have the people had so much to be stewards of."

He outlined graphically practical methods of applying the principles of stewardship to which combinations of one-tenth the income of church members could be put.

Dr. J. D. Gillilan, Wendell, introduced the speaker.

The second of Mr. Lovjoy's addresses on this subject will be delivered at this afternoon's conference session.

Misenary Anniversaries

An anniversary of the Women's Foreign Missionary society was observed yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Wallace E. Brown, wife of the bishop of the Holston area, delivered the principal address, and Mrs. Charles D. Fletcher, Bush, presiding.

The Women's Home Missionary society anniversary service will be held this afternoon with Mrs. C. O. Heath, Caldwell, presiding at a "Brotherhood" program arranged by Mrs. C. D. McMillin, Twin Falls.

The Secret of Coolness Is In Light, Easily Digested Foods

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Sprague and their family, Peoria, Illinois, are the owners of the "Sprague House" in the East, including visits to Mr. and Mrs. Sprague's former home in Central Virginia.

Mr. Sprague's home is a fine old home in which he and his wife have lived for many years.

Much of his time is spent in Virginia, and from there they went three times to Washington, D. C., to visit their son, George P. Sprague, Jr., University of Virginia student, who is employed in the office of the U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

SCHNEIDER CUP SPEED LEAPS UP EACH YEAR

CALSHOT, England, Sept. 5.—The Schneider cup race speeds have increased remarkably since the first race in 1913, when Prevost won for France with an average of 44.7 miles an hour. Some other winners and their speeds:

1914—Piston, Great Britain, 53.3 miles an hour.

1920—Balconi, Italy, 102 miles an hour.

1921—Debiaghi, Italy, 117.4 miles an hour.

1922—Bard, Great Britain, 140.5 miles an hour.

1923—Rittenhouse, United States, 177.38 miles an hour.

1924—Lindbergh, United States, 223.57 miles an hour.

1925—Bernardi, Italy, 246.49 miles an hour.

1927—Westerlind, Great Britain, 281.2 miles an hour.

This year speed of more than 300 miles an hour are expected.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 5.—Above the panorama of the Solent, famous stretch of English yachting water, the international race for the Schneider cup is scheduled to be flown tomorrow and Saturday.

Thousands of Americans will be able to visualize the course. The British have made arrangements so that the American few miles away was an American army concentration point. Nowadays great Atlantic liners carry tourist cargoes in and out of southern English port over the course selected for the Schneider.

Great Preparations.

The British have made great preparations for this year's race. A million pounds will be spent on the airfield at Calshot, where the race will be held. The British will line the shores or cover their decks from yachts and club ships on the Solent.

For the Americans—Portsmouth accommodates 10,000. Parking arrangements have been made for 30,000 automobiles, while there are two fields for private planes. The Royal air force will have 800 planes of all descriptions on hand.

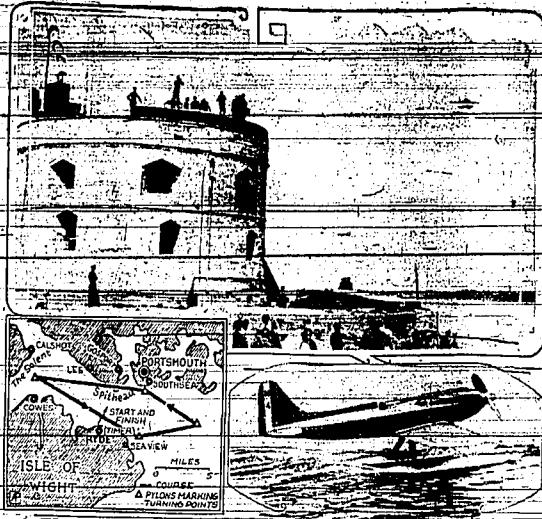

The kite-shaped course is 50 kilometers long. The planes make seven circuits, traveling 350 kilometers, or 210 miles.

Despite the tricky circuit with its acute-angle corners and 14 canted tires, new speed records are expected, after the pilots pick up the world's million-dollar flying machine around the dangerous corners.

Turning and Banking Wins.

Mastering the science of turning and banking, after daring spurs on the race—But after 300 miles an hour, like the Schneider this year, a sharp turn may cost many seconds unless perfectly executed.

of the specks of flying metal that compete for the Schneider trophy requires uncanny skill. The slightest misjudgment can cost.

The pilot-diet-like jockeys and they fit into their racing machines like a hand in a glove. Bobbing on the waves, the planes are built like flying boats, as models with thin bodies and a skin close under pontoons almost as big as the body of the plane.

Receive Run Sale Entries.

BUTTE, Sept. 5.—Special to The News.—Entries for the Pocatello run sale are coming to the office of the Idaho Wool Growers Association, and stayed on Nov. 4-7 years-of-age-inclusive stopped into the limelight for his ability to find the right market. In this way he has no one but himself there in Nampa for many years.

All the old songs were included in his repertoire as presented at the prelude and he was prolonged and added to the entertainment. His added interest was given his success in the detection of calls for square dances as he whistled the rousing melodies from his instrument.

Even the vacation failed to help

WHEN they went on their vacation, they thought the rest and change would restore their health and vigor. Yet, when they returned, they were no better off than before they went away—unless they went back to business. And she wondered if she would ever retain her youthful beauty and health.

What a pity they didn't know that constipation was the cause of their unhappiness. Headaches, fatigue, bad complexion are a few of the symptoms. If allowed to continue, serious illness often occurs.

Yet there is a prompt and effective way to banish this evil. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve and prevent constipation safely.

Only ALL-BRAN gives maximum results.

It is bulk that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies bulk in generous quantity—in a part-bran product the amount of bulk is usually too small to be completely effective. That's why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is totally different from dangerous drugs and pills whose dose must be constantly increased to be effective—it works as nature works.

A pleasant cereal. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking, too. Mix it with other cereals. Try it in soups. Just eat two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. The health of the entire family can be maintained by serving ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, restaurants, on planes. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Milk Not Exposed to Air In New Dairy Farm System

PLAN MAY ESTABLISH INDUSTRY'S HIGHEST SANITATION STANDARD

Government Expert Finds
Stationary Container
Used With Milking Unit
Supplies Better Product

By FRANK L. WELLER

(Associated Press Feature Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—It is now possible for milk to make the entire journey from cow to consumer without contact with the air until opened for use.

Grandpa wouldn't have believed it, and if he had he would have said "It was silly."

In one day cows were milked in an open bucket by hand while flies, dust and millions of bacteria swarmed over the pail.

It was grandpa's idea that thousand miles of milk should be transported in buckets, and the terrible count per cubic centimeter was a lot of apprehension.

Selence Enters

A modern generation thinks differently than barnyard milkings has given birth to dairy and barnyard milkings.

R. R. Graves of the bureau of dairy feeding and breeding, and management investigations for the bureau of dairy industry, United States department of agriculture, with an idea that may set a new pinnacle of dairy sanitation.

Installed on the Beltsville, Maryland, experimental farm, his method consists of overhead sanitary pipelines.

There can be no better protection for milk than in the dairy house.

It can be cooled as it enters the tank, or it can be pasteurized and then cooled in the same tank.

Capital Group Plans receptacle, the operator records the number of the "pailings" and opens a valve which permits the milk to be drawn from the bottom of the container through the pipelines.

Tests of the bacterial content of milk produced under the new system, after pasteurization and cooling them, has honor bound that Salmonella paid less for farm products than was being paid elsewhere in this section.

The system not only gives a clean product, Graves says—but reduces the labor and the costs incidental to milking.

Cherry Blossom Fete

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Plans for a national cherry blossom fete here next spring are being made by the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

In 1913 a railway director said: "Well, here we are, friends—we came by rail, almost 42 miles in less than three hours."

The Milkman Container

The container consists of a small metal milk can and a milk maker but instead of going into the usual placeable receptacle, the milk is drawn in to a stationary container located between two stalls and somewhat above the counter.

The receivable is of unbreakable glass and is suspended from a weighing mechanism. Its transparency makes the act of milking visible to the customer at all times, with the amount of milk in the receptacle indicated by the weight registered by the scale.

The
GREEN SHADOW
by
Herman Landon

"Oh yes," Dale controlled his sharp, "unconscious" sensations. "Your—left sleeve is empty, isn't it? I can't see very well in this light but—"

Dale began, but even as he spoke a sense of bewilderment crossed his brain.

"Almost?" the girl exclaimed in a voice of stupefaction. "Why, how ridiculous you don't think."

Moffett's laugh faltered her.

"I'm not Alsworth," said the Picaroon family. "Who are you?"

Before the doctor could reply a loud knock sounded somewhere near the door. Axelson, standing near the door, gave a sharp exclamation. For an instant the pistol wavered in Moffett's hand.

"Who am I?" he echoed ironically. "That is something you will never know. Through the heart, did you say?"

The girl screamed. There came a sharp crack, followed by a roar, then a long, thin, shrill shriek away, hands clasped against her white cheeks.

Moffett's laugh faltered her.

"I'm not Alsworth," said the Picaroon family. "Who are you?"

Before the doctor could reply a loud knock sounded somewhere near the door. Axelson, standing near the door, gave a sharp exclamation. For an instant the pistol wavered in Moffett's hand.

"Who am I?" he echoed ironically. "That is something you will never know. Through the heart, did you say?"

The girl screamed. There came a sharp crack, followed by a roar, then a long, thin, shrill shriek away, hands clasped against her white cheeks.

The Picaroon clutched his heart, staggered back, gazed with a groggy expression at the girl in the green shirt, topped with a drunken-corksever-movement, threw his arms and went tumbling to the floor. A groan sounded, a hoarse, shuddering gasp for breath, then all was silent.

And then another long, strident peal broke through the silence. Dr. Moffett dropped the pistol on the table.

"We'll take him several minutes to recover down the gates in existence. We'll have ample time to get out the way. Get the brown bag from my room. Hurry!"

The last word disappeared, brought the man of the house, the doctor, the nurse, the maid. The doctor stepped away from the table. His movements in the green light grew obscure. A little click came, then a sliding sound, as if a drawer controlled by a spring had been pulled open. There was a hurried shuffle of papers.

Axelson, reappeared, carrying a small travelling bag. He placed it on the table. The visible part of Dr. Moffett approached again. He dumped a handful of papers and other articles into the bag.

"Get Annie and Caesar," he commanded. "No, just wait, a moment, first."

He broke off as a dull roar sounded outside.

"What—what was that?" Axelson jerked out.

"They are trying to shoot the last gun in the sky. They are trying to make it fall like a bomb. That's what it sounds like now. Axelson."

Through the green haze the doctor's eye traveled to Axelson. She stood there, trembling, her hands clasped across her breast, gazing in horror at the limp form that had fallen beside the table.

"I'll catch her with us," Moffett murmured.

Action gasped. He stared crookedly at the girl.

"Neither," said Moffett, "can we let them have us."

Axelson jerked up his shoulders so that they almost touched the lobes of his ears.

"I've done my share of the nasty business," said the doctor. "Do you hear me?"

He flung the pistol toward the old man, the latter caught it. With spasmodic jerks of his shoulder he turned and looked at it. Another muffled roar suddenly penetrated the walls.

"Hurry!" said the doctor.

Axelson hesitated. "I—I don't like to leave him."

"Neither," said the doctor calmly. "I haven't the right kind of nerve for that sort of thing. It has to be done. Axelson, this may be here and now."

The old man fingered the weapon a moment longer. He drew up his gaunt frame and looked at it. Another muffled roar suddenly penetrated the walls.

"Hurry!" said the doctor.

Axelson hesitated. "I—I don't like to leave him."

"Neither," said the doctor again.

"I haven't the right kind of nerve for that sort of thing. It has to be done. Axelson, this may be here and now."

The old man fingered the weapon a moment longer. He drew up his gaunt frame and said, "I won't!" he rasped out.

"Dr. Moffett's sharp eyes cut a blare through the green haze. He watched the old man. "What do you get out of squeamish? You had no qualms about getting Miss Conroy out of the way."
