It was suggested at Mukden, he said, that Russian activity was shifted from the western front in the region of Manchuria to the eastern front during the last few days because of the success of Fentzen troops in holding the western sector and in withdrawing tentative pressure by Russian forces.

This decision was reached today at a conference presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

The decision was based upon the assumption that the Philadelphia Athletics will win the National and American league flags, respectively, this schedule for the sporting year.

Hero One Month, "Boob" Next, Bush Quits

By JAY VESSELS
Sports Editor
(Associated Press Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—When Donie Bush brought the Pittsburgh Pirates back home with him in the prize catch of a first Eastern trip, the Corcoran openly expressed their delight.

But Bush, a veteran warrior with many a hard campaign behind him, was amazingly reticent as the town fested his ball club.

Refusing to be stirred by any premature celebration, Donie was quoted in the papers as saying:

"I'm not a hero. It is going to be a hard fight."

The once-great Detroit shortstop knew how quickly triumph in baseball turns to defeat.

The week in 1927, when he headed the Pirates to pennantville, was hailed high as the "miraculous" of Pittsburgh.

One week later, when his men stood disgraced, crumpled beneath the ruthless Yankee machine, Donie was the anti-hero of greatness as far as Pittsburgh was concerned.

Anyway, five weeks after the outbreak of "delicious cheering" this year, Donie brought the Blues back to Pittsburgh into a seething cauldron of criticism. Their decline on the diamond had begun the day of the celebration.

The difference in Donie's standing then and the rating it had on its previous homecoming was a legume. The Pirates had cracked. There wasn't even a fight to be had.

Injuries had broken the very backbone of the team's offensive and defensive strength and had broken his amateur's spirit.

So Donie quit.

"Such are the fortunes of war," he said.

DONIE BUSH

It appears to be merely a temporary setback for the player. He has won his Detroit's shortest season in the halcyon days when Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford and others made the Tigers one of the best leagues.

Baseball men are certain Donie will break in a managerial role with some major league club if he cares to stay in the big leagues.

ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION

for All The People

Twenty-one years ago, when the Model T was first made, and again in December, 1927, when the new Ford was introduced, the policy of the Ford Motor Company was announced in these words—

"We will build a motor car for the great multitude. It will be large enough for the family, but small enough for the individual to run and care for. It will be constructed of the best materials, by the best men to be hired, after the simplest designs that modern engineering can devise. But it will be so low in price that no man making a good wage will be unable to own one."

MORE than seventeen million Ford automobiles have been made since this announcement was first printed. The passing years have brought many changes—in appearance—in performance—in manner of manufacture. But there is one thing that has never changed—the fundamental idea behind the Ford car.

The Ford Motor Company was formed, and exists today, not merely to make automobiles but to provide economical transportation for all the people. Far more important than the car itself is the part it plays in the lives, the happiness, and the prosperity of millions of people.

Before the Ford was introduced the automobile was considered more or less as an expensive toy, for only the wealthy to drive.

There was no conception of its uses and possibilities as we know them today. It was accepted in much the same manner that the airplane was accepted five years ago. Great emphasis was placed upon its racing speed and very little upon its practical utility.

With the coming of the Ford, however, it became possible for men in all walks of life to enjoy the benefits of transportation that formerly had been limited to a fortunate few.

A great change came over the country and with it a new prosperity. By freeing the movements of men, the Ford also freed their thoughts and created new opportunities. The barriers of time and distance were broken down. Good roads followed close behind the automobile and the isolation of country districts disappeared. The nation grew as people learned to use this newly developed horse power and fit it to their needs.

Into the hands of men of moderate means—to the workers in factories—to the toilers on the farm—was given a means to increase their income and enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring. The working day became shorter because men could do in eight hours the tasks that previously had taken ten or twelve—and do them better.

Always it should be remembered that we do not have automobiles because we are prosperous. We are prosperous because we have them.

Today, with all its improvements—with all its new beauty of line and color—with all the betterments and changes that have been made during the past twenty-one years—the Ford is still a "motor car for the great multitude."

It is not just a new automobile—not just so many mechanical parts carefully put together to run on wheels—but Progress—Achievement—a part of the very life and fabric of the nation.

Business of every kind moves forward at a faster pace because of it. To countless homes it brings the rewards of widening opportunity, happiness, and priceless hours of relaxation in the open air.

All of this not merely because of its safety, its comfort, its reliability, its speed, its acceleration, its ease of control, but because of a fundamental purpose that is greater than all of these. Because, in larger degree than ever, it provides economical transportation for all the people.

CANAL MAN HITS AT VACATIONS DURING IRRIGATION SEASON

Board Agrees With Hayes Views and Directs Preparation of Schedule Moves to Readjust Year

Vacations during the irrigation season are an expensive luxury, the Twin Falls Canal company, John F. Hayes, general manager, reported to the board of directors at a monthly meeting here yesterday.

The directors agreed with the manager's contention and directed him to submit a report on the subject in accordance with his own ideas. Mr. Hayes recommended that vacations be held in April and September. It should be a bi-monthly vacation leave during the past year, the manager continued. "It would seem that vacations during the operating season are ill advised."

"Taken at such periods," he asserted, "indicates clearly that there is a surplus of men in the organization."

"A casual checking of vacations taken and contemplated shows a surplus of 44400."

"If this practice is to continue," the manager's report suggested, "it might well to adopt a vacation schedule in which the time of employment shall be one factor and the time at which a vacation is requested shall be another factor. Vacations between April and September should be barred, that being the most important period in the operation of the irrigation project."

Mayor New Fiscal Year

Directorial action was taken on a proposal to change the date of the close of the company's fiscal year from September 15 to a later date. It was decided to include under the annual maintenance payments in two installments due in April and October and to include also the more expensive part of the irrigation season. Directors elected at annual meeting in January assume responsibility four months after the beginning of the fiscal year.

The manager suggested making fiscal year coincide with the calendar year. Directors indicated favor of proposal to close the fiscal year on December 1.

Hot Weather Takes Water

Anticipated decrease in the use of irrigation water during August did not materialize because of hot weather during the first three-fourths of the month, and it was not until the end of American Falls that the actual cutting of water took place, the manager reported.

On August 1 the main canal was correspondingly reduced and continued to run right at 3600 second feet for the entire month dropping off during the last two days to 3570 second feet.

Twin Falls Canal company did not use any stored water from Jackson Lake, but used 58,702 acre feet out of American Falls reservoir during the month. Stored water varied from 1080 to 7600 second feet during the month.

The month closed with any breaks or other mishaps in the irrigation system.

"Hot weather" was responsible for reduction of water in the Snake river system that removal of moss was carried on over the entire system for varying periods.

Mr. Hayes submitted at this meeting the first written monthly report ever presented by a manager for the company.

It contained detailed information relative to drainage operations in 15 locations.

Maine Fort, Built in 1754, Publisher's Gift to City

HISTORIC STRUCTURE RISES AMID MODERN AUGUSTA'S ACTIVITY

Reconstruction of Building Follows Plans in Drawings
Once Retreat From Indians
Newspaper Man Gives Money Needed to Carry Out Work

(By The Associated Press.)
AUGUSTA, Maine, Sept. 10.—Old Fort Western, built in 1754 to protect the early settlers of Maine from Indians and to defend the head of navigation of the Kennebec river, today stands restored amid the bustle of twentieth century city life in Augusta.

Restoration of the fort was made possible by William J. Gannett, publisher of Maine newspapers, who provided funds for the purpose and presented the buildings to the city of Augusta.

Old drawings and plans were found, which made its reconstruction possible. With the aid of architects the fortifications, palisades and blockhouses were again erected. The main building, situated far as the exterior was concerned, had been changed within. In reconstructing the interior long forgotten fireplaces were brought to light.

Scene of Business
Where once Indian cries resounded, tomahawks flashed and flintlocks roared the business of a state capital now moves without intermission.

The old fort's defensive purposes were served at the end of six years. Then it became a dwelling place and finally, when much of its original form had been obliterated by the march of progress, a cheap lodging house. The old buildings lay upon the route Benedict Arnold took in his ill-starred march upon Quebec in 1776. The expedition stopped nine days at the fort before it pressed onward to attack the British in Canada.

Twenty-Sixth Division Rebuilds Wrecked Belleau Church

AMERICANS OF UNIT WILL DEDICATE WAR MEMORIAL TO DEAD

New Edifice Same as 600-Year-Old Structure Destroyed by Twentieth Century Guns in Battle

By JOHN E. KNOX
Associated Press Feature Service.
BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Out of a heap of war shattered ruins in Belleau, France, a little church has been resurrected which will be hallowed not only as a place of worship but as a memorial to the heroic dead of the Yank-kee division.

Several hundred members of former members of this unit of the American expeditionary forces are planning to sail from Boston for France September 20. They will attend dedication ceremonies to be conducted within the reconstructed church October 10.

For 10 years the heap of "tumbled masonry" that once was the Belleau church stood as a reminder of the war of the war. When, at last, the war time members of the twenty-sixth division sought a suitable form for their proposed memorial to fallen comrades, restoration of the ruined church was undertaken.

Same As Old Church

It was decided that the new edifice should be exact counterpart of the 600-year-old structure destroyed by twentieth century artillery. M. D. Zaitell, president of the Paris Society of Architects, was commissioned to carry out the idea. He consulted the Count Amyras de Bernadotte, secretary of the French War Veterans' Bureau, who had been with the twenty-sixth during the war.

Slowly, the little church has grown, created from much of the very material that was built into the destroyed edifice. Members of the Yank-kee division, scattered throughout the country, have contributed to the fund to rebuild the church. The church is not yet complete but is nearing the point where dedication will be possible.

Restore Windows
The work will be carried through to completion, however, including the restoration of stained glass windows suitable to the character of this fourteenth century edifice.
Connect with the remains has been maintained through visits to France at their own expense, by Colonel William B. Nevins, major and chief of staff, and Major Slater, who found the people of the commune at Belleau grateful and happy in expectation of the plan.

Official John H. Sheridan, war-time commanding officer of the artillery brigade of the division, was chairman of the overseas memorial.

War Invention Useful In Search for Mineral

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Sept. 10.—An electrical prospecting process developed in anti-submarine research during the war is being adapted for the search for minerals in the northern Manitoba mining fields.
In wartime, establishment of an electro-magnetic field made it possible to detect the presence and location of a mass of metal—the submarine—under water. It is asserted that the same method will detect sulphide bodies under ground because these ores are electro-conductive.

Potato Growers Heed Advice of Government

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 10.—Michigan farmers who lost heavily last season, due to potato rot, are following the government's advice for the best time to market their crop this year.

Federal observation over a period of 27 years indicate that it rarely pays to hold potatoes in years when the national production exceeds 700 million bushels. The trend in prices usually is upward when national production falls below 325 million bushels.

Michigan potato growers about 80 per cent of their crop last fall despite a per capita production in excess of four bushels, and they have taken heavy losses. About a third of the crop never will leave the farm.

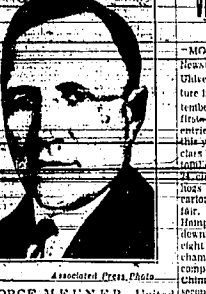

Most of the hauling vessels still afloat make their headquarters at San Francisco and hang in far North waters.

In temperate South America the potato is usually white.

Vast quantities of potatoes exist in the Gulf of California.

The leading food crops of middle America are corn and red beans.

MINIDOKA PROJECT TO NEED LABORERS Great Demand for Workers During Sugar Beet and Potato Harvest Probable

MINIDOKA, Sept. 10.—(Special to The News)—Farm laborers will be in great demand on the Minidoka project at the coming sugar beet and potato harvest, according to people familiar with the situation.

The sugar beet crops fall fair to good, many indications are that the crop will be of very good quality.

In the Twin Falls country, it is said, a shortage of laborers is also in evidence. The beet harvest is to start there September 23, as the crop is rapidly reaching maturity. The sugar mill will begin operations September 27, and a run of at least 100 days is anticipated.

Some early fields are already being harvested. There are nearly 6000 acres of potatoes on the North Side of the Minidoka project alone, according to records kept. There is a shortage of laborers for the North Side of the project.
