Wildest Orgy in History of Market Wipes Out Billions of Dollars in Paper Values

Pandemonium on Exchange Pierces Blocks of Metropolitan Traffic Din as Era of Avid Public Speculation Comes to Climax in Terrifying Stampede to Unload Nearly 13,000,000 Shares

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The remarkable era of avid public speculation in stocks which has swept over the country during the last five years came to a climax today in the most terrifying stampede of selling ever experienced on the New York stock exchange and other leading security markets.

Not since the war panic which resulted in closing the exchange for 17 weeks in 1914 has Wall Street seen such a dark and trying day, and never in financial history have security markets been thrown into such a tumult.

At the close of the day the stock markets were so unsteady that the stock markets would be unable to face the situation, and that trading would have to be suspended, but the leading exchanges saw the order through, although a few floor traders collapsed and had to be aided from the trading floor.

By early afternoon, the situation became so grave that a hurried meeting of leading bankers was called at the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co., and a reassuring statement issued from the conference by Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners, finally checked the alarming drop in prices and saved the market from a complete impasse.

Scores of important stocks tumbling from 100 to 50, 200 to 100, values vanishing at the rate of millions of dollars a minute until mid-afternoon, when the bankers' quick action of speculators who were reaping millions in selling the market short, to cover their commitments, checked the slide. Values rebounded substantially.

Total sales on the stock exchange from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. today were $4,840,000, surpassing by more than 50 per cent the previous record of $3,640,000 reached on March 22. The ticker continued to scribble for hours behind transactions, and traders who were unable to get quotations from the floor—throughout the day from 100 to 500 shares. Many save at intervals when a few stock quotations were sent out through the ticker.

Standard dividend paying stocks were thrown overboard along with the more speculative values. Stocks were sold for what they would bring in blocks of from 100 to 500 shares. Traders on the floor of the stock exchange shrieked and howled their offers for separate minutes before they found takers.

Such a roar arose from the stock exchange floor that it could be heard for blocks up and down Broad and Wall streets. Speculators and high-seas poured into Wall street in such volume that extra traffic police were required to handle them and the stock exchange gallery, to which speculators are admitted only upon recommendation of a partner in a brokerage or firm, was closed to the public.

Italian Crown Prince Narrowly Escapes Assassination

FIRST SHOT MISSES HUMBERT AT GRAVE OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Belgian Detectives Avert Tragedy On Day of Official Announcement of Engage- ment of Princess

(By The Associated Press)
BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 24.—On the day of the official announcement of his engagement to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, narrowly escaped death from a political assassination. The prince was placing a wreath on the tomb of the Belgian unknown soldier this morning when he was shot.

The prince was placed in a Belgian military hospital which was fired at him. It was reported that the assassin, a Belgian, knocked him down.

According to the official account of the Brussels chief of police, the prince was a few steps forward from the crowd which was waiting to witness the ceremony and fired one shot. The assassin shot again when the detectives were within.

The man who escaped killing by the prince's bullet, was shot in the throat. Later that he was an Italian named Francesco di Resa. He affirmed that he had intended only to fire in the air as a protest, but had been fired on by Milan October 9, 1928, and had been living in Paris where he was a law student at the university.

Princess Humbert himself was remarkably cool and unexcitable in the face of the bullets. He quietly intimated to Count de Broqueville his desire to go on with the ceremony without the slightest interruption of the ceremony.

While bullets played Italian athletics he laid his wreath on the tomb and then returned to the Italian throne. The crowd which was slow to realize what had happened, fought the police to get at di Rosa and shouted, "A bas di Rosa!" which had been at the Palais de Justice, while di Rosa was being questioned.

The police later gave an additional information that di Rosa had admitted what di Rosa had first said. They announced that he had arrived in Brussels at 10:30 P. M. and had been arrested and returning to the capital yesterday evening.

They added that di Rosa admitted he had come to Brussels to kill the prince. He describes himself as a Socialist and a member of the Second-International.

The criminal court issued a warrant for his detention on a charge of attempted assassination.

A Brussels newspaper said this afternoon that a second Italian, giving the name of Georges Albert Davis, was arrested and confessed that he also was to have fired a shot at Prince Humbert.

The public release of the betrothal of Princess Marie and the heir to the Italian throne were changed into consternation by the attempted assassination.

The prince, who had conquered all hearts in Belgium by his modesty and charming personality, a political martyr and popular hero.

The populace of Brussels gave spontaneous utterance to its admiration with the shout of "Vive le prince!" as the prince returned to the Italian embassy. A large crowd gathered there between the prince and his fiancée who three hours later left for Rome for their honeymoon.

The princess could not control her emotion.

Others voting in the negative contended the proposed committee rate was sufficiently high, while some opposition senators protested against any increase at all.

Senator Blaine and Senator Borah led the drive for the proponents of a duty higher than the 15 cent. While Senator Vandenberg, Michigan, and Gillett, Massachusetts, both Republicans, opposed an increase on the ground that it would be ruinous to the coated paper manufacturers.

consumption. He assailed those who he said always fought against higher prices for a farm product on the ground that it was injurious to the industry using the commodity as a raw material.

Sensors Borah and Howell, Republican members, disputed the argument that American processors could not make casein of a quality equal to that of the Argentine. Howell said 10,000,000 pounds of Argentine milk were lost each year in the United States which could find a market with sufficient protection on casein.

It was impossible to help the farmer by destroying his ultimate consumer, said Vandenberg, whose estate produces 25 per cent of the American casein per outfit. He contended the only possible relief the farmer could get by a higher casein duty was "celled from 75 per cent of his consuming market at minimum."

CURTAIN-LIFTS ON FATE OF THE LAKE

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—With the "lamb" storm which whipped at the Great Lakes region for three days ended today, the curtain was lifted on the fate of at least six lake vessels—two, with 52 persons aboard, was at the bottom of Lake Michigan, another sunk in Lake Erie and four were grounded.

An additional battle wreckage along the shore lines indicated property loss that is expected to run into many millions of dollars.

Bodies and wreckage of the car ferry Milwaukee, caught in the storm as it proceeded from Milwaukee toward Grand Haven, Michigan, were found today near Kenosha, Wisconsin. They confirmed the belief that the vessel was sunk and gave rise to the fear that 100 on board were dead.

Persons aboard other distressed vessels either were rescued or reported safe.

The freighter Donaldson, overdue at Superior, Wisconsin, since Tuesday, arrived there today from Apostle Islands.

The old-wooden Preheader II, a Nesken vessel, was placed last night on a canal off of Leanington beach. Its crew of 13 was rescued. The sand sacker, C. W. Dacwell, was grounded only five miles away. Its crew also was safe.

Twenty-three persons were rescued from the grounded steamer Maple Rock, held fast in Magnolia reef and Cookin Island in upper Lake Huron, by coast guards early today. The steamer William B. Pikeley, was stranded off Gravel Island.

Damage to Chicago breakwaters, boulevard lights and parks was estimated tonight in excess of $2,000,000. With private property loss running $1,000,000 or more, Wisconsin's shore-line loss will amount to more than $10,000,000, it was reported.

Vandals, Beaten by Webfeet, Seek Revenge a Corvallis

Idaho University's Eleven Out to Win Over Oregon State

After Defeat at Portland

Vandals Seek Revenge in Gridiron Contest With Orangemen at Corvallis

(Special to The News) MOSCOW, Oct. 24.—Having taken a bumping at the hands of one Oregon member of the coast conference, the Idaho football team is out for revenge from the other. The Vandals were routed, 34 to 7, at Portland and Saturday by the University of Oregon. It was Idaho's first defeat this season. This Saturday the Vandals again are to meet at Corvallis, in the homecoming game for the Orangemen.

The Vandals did not take the severe drubbing from Oregon that they considered. Idaho's driving attack scored nine first downs and 191 yards from scrimmage to Oregon's four first downs and 48 yards. Unable to penetrate the Idaho line consistently for gains Oregon turned to the air and there obtained almost miraculous results. Oregon State has used the forward pass with this season. The Vandal coaches are devoting practically all their attention this week to a forward pass defense. Idaho's four games have demonstrated that the Idaho line is able to stop drives at three yards with speed and in line considerably superior to Idaho's. The Vandals were badly battered by Oregon but none of the injuries are expected to carry over to the Oregon State game. Idaho's line is being worked on first reserve fullback, back on duty for that game. The Idahoans left for Corvallis this evening.

Pheasants Plentiful R. E. Thomas Asserts

BOISE, Oct. 24.—The pheasant hunting season in southern Idaho will not be shortened this season as reports indicate that birds are generally plentiful. R. E. Thomas, state game warden, declared today. Several sportsmen wrote into the department some time ago demanding that the season be shortened because of the heavy reduction of the number of birds. Warden Thomas began an investigation which disclosed to him that the birds in counties surrounding Boise were at least as plentiful as a year ago and in some instances an increase was noted. Reports from eastern counties were not so favorable, the warden said, but pointed out that in those counties the season was open only 15 days. "He said there was no provision in the law permitting him to shorten specified hunting seasons except where it was clearly indicated that heavy shooting or disease threatened extermination of the birds."

Bruins and Rupert Go Out of District

Filer and Jerome Play in Twin Falls and Bull's Team Appears at Burley

The teacher's meeting has caused the three teams to be written to Ligen field at Twin Falls today, and the three teams were played yesterday. The other teams will be played by the district today at the district to opponents, the Bruins to Nampa, and Rupert to Idaho Falls. Neither game will have a direct bearing on the district standings, but both will give the other team power in the other districts. Nampa has shown strength, but on comparative scores is about on a par with the Bruins. No first-game competition can be made at the northern lads can hold Coach "Ducey" Kluge scoring outfit, they will have some real football. It is probable that Idaho Falls will test Rupert's defense, an unknown quantity this far, for Rupert has won away with all her opponents. Games today are as follows: Twin Falls at Nampa. Filer vs. Jerome at Twin Falls. Bull at Burley. Rupert at Idaho Falls. Wendover vs. Gooding. Albion at Declo. Bellevue at Hatfield. Caldwell at Hazzard. Shoshone at Oatley.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL IN HOLLYWOOD STARTS

My Trial or Miss Berger's? Queries Witness

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 24.—Dorothy Mackinnon screen actress and principal government witness in the trial of fraud charges against Miss J. Marjorie Berger—Hollywood income tax collector—today said she was required to blame Miss Berger for her alleged false return by $200. Miss Berger was accused of falsifying the actress' income tax statement by making illegal reductions of more than $20,000. Miss Mackinnon was absorbed of any criminal intent in presenting the return, the government alleging she was misled solely by Miss Berger.

"It is a fact," the defense asked the witness, "that you told Miss Berger in a telephone conversation in August, 1928, that the government was investigating your income tax, that you were likely to be stung for $25,000 and that you were going to blame it all on her?"
Court Scolds Witness
"I never said any such thing," Miss Mackinnon replied bitterly. "It's a lie. This is my trial or Miss Berger's?"
The court reprimanded her for asking a question from the witness stand, the second time she had been rebuked for her replies. "The first day of the trial the court censured her severely for using profanity."

WOMEN CHARGE CRUELTY IN SUITS FOR DIVORCE

Two women alleged cruelty as grounds for divorce in petitions filed in district court here yesterday.

Misconduct attributed to the husband was rated as cruelty in the petition filed for Mae Enley for divorce from Lewis Enley. They were married in Twin Falls on March 7, 1927.

Their baby, according to the petition, when it was three months old, since October 15, 1928, the petition says, Enley, has absented himself from his home, and according to information received by his wife has been for some time at Twin Springs, Nevada, road house. Mrs. Enley asks for $30 a month. The petition was filed through O. G. Hall, attorney.

Crucially took the form of violence, according to the petition in the case of Jane McCoy, suing for divorce from Wrenn J. McCoy to whom she was married in Elko, Nevada, on April 5, 1927. She asks for division of the community property which consists of an automobile valued at $86. The petition was filed through A. J. Myers, attorney.

The trophy is awarded by the National Tuberculosis association to the state with the greatest number of Modern Health Creators in proportion to its school enrollment.

SHOSHONE BASIN POOR AS SPORTSMEN'S PARADISE

Shoshone basin region in Twin Falls county, thrown open to deer hunting last Sunday for a 10-day period after an interval of 19 years, is no sportsman's paradise, according to Jack Peronius, Twin Falls stage operator, who returned yesterday from an excursion to that region.

The region is dry, Peronius said, making it impossible to track deer, and since the wholesale slaughter of the first day of the season, the deer have become wary so that shooting now is limited to persons willing to wait in ambush at the waiting places.

Among 40 persons who met encircled in the basin, Peronius said, none had succeeded in bringing out a deer. He said that he had only one possible shot, and that was at a fawn, which he refrained from taking.

In one place, he said, he found abandoned carcasses of five deer abandoned from trees.

During the first three days of the season, according to count made by game warden and forest rangers, nearly 700 deer were killed in the basin.

EVANGELIST WILL SPEAK ON "STEPS HEAVENWARD"

"Jesus prayed that all his followers might be one and yet in spite of his prayer we are divided into more than hundreds," declared Evangelist W. A. Moore in his revival sermon at the Christian church last night.

"Two-thirds of the world has never heard of Jesus Christ and 27,000,000 young people in the United States are receiving no religious instruction," the speaker said. "What will God say about our division when we appear before him? We have, however, learned to speak kindly of each other. We are making progress in Christian courtesy and will yet find a way among the Christian gentleman will heedlessly or needlessly offend the feeling of a Hindu or a Buddhist; however absurd his opinions may seem to him. Much less will a Christian gentleman offend the feelings of one who professes the Christian religion in any form."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Joseph R. Grundy, Pennsylvania, told the senate lobby committee today about his activities in Washington over 32 years in behalf of protective tariff legislation and reflected that if he had helped to get some increase in the pending bill he was "proud of it."

The white-haired president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, who helped raise $250,000 for the Hoover campaign in his state and $200,000 for the Coolidge drive four years ago, left his accustomed seat in the senate gallery avoiding the debate on the tariff measure to answer the committee summons.

Expense $25,000 Annually

Answering Chairman Caraway, the witness said his occupation was manufacturing. He said he paid all expenses while in Washington but "too many" to figure. He was estimating them at $25,000 for this year alone.

"You came here to see that the campaign contributors got their money's worth," asked Senator Caraway. "I came here to see that the Republican platform, which was endorsed by the immense number of people who voted for me, was not put into effect. If it was then I suppose they got their money's worth," Caraway concluded.

Grundy, who has been regarded one of the star witnesses in the lobby inquiry, entered the crowded committee room with a lengthy prepared statement and was subjected to a rapid examination by Chairman Caraway almost before he was seated at the witness table. He persisted throughout that he was here to see that the party kept its platform.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, read a list of 42 of Grundy's activities in Pennsylvania which he said received increase in tariff rates under the pending bill and asked if Grundy considered that to be limited friction within the meaning of President Hoover's recommendation.

Grundy refused to interpret the president's statement so far as the tariff and insisted upon reading it. Grundy was informed that no prepared statement was to be read. He was permitted to put in the committee record.

It is estimated that the cost of a funeral in New York county is $772. There were 452,000 young men 20 to 25 years of age in the United States in 1929. Today in the United States, 47,000,000 people are employed in gainful occupations. Radium comes from ores mined in the Belgian Congo.

SAFE FILM STORAGE RESULT OF DISASTER

Tragedy at Cleveland Offers Stimulus For Producing Fool-Proof Vaults

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—From the recent Cleveland disaster, scientists and the inventors of motion picture photography, X-ray and motion picture films.

The importance of safe storage of such films is emphasized by C. H. Brown, of the bureau of standards, who outlines the following methods: Storage of films in vaults constructed to resist pressure from rapid combustion at 400° F. and explosions. The vaults must be fireproof.

Provision of vents to the outside of the building to carry away the poisonous gases. Self-closing doors, preferable opening inward into the vault, and of sufficient strength to resist pressure.

Most of the films, he pointed out, especially in hospital buildings, have been of the nitro-cellulose type—that is, subject to relatively high temperature burns very rapidly, and gives off poisonous gases.

In 1920, the government spent $15,000 for the distribution of fire-proof film stock.

About 25,000,000 inert trees were distributed from state nurseries to farmers in 1927.

101-RANCH COWBOYS NOW SLOP PORKERS

Cattle-Chasing Rider of Yore Becomes Hog-Herder on Big Farm in Oklahoma

POWELL CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—The cowboy still in tune on the illustrious 101 ranch, but he no longer is the cattle-chasing rider of yore. Hog-herding is his latest forte.

One of the principles of large-scale diversified farming, the ranch is raising what may be the largest herd of hogs in the country. A crop of 20,000 Duroc-Jerseys in this year's goal.

Thousands of hogs now roam fields where cattle once grazed. The ranch pig program has become so large that the cowboys automatically have fallen into new jobs.

Have Special Feeds
Hogs of every age have special feed. "Living debris" of trees, an acre in area, have been planted as slowly pastured. That idea was borrowed from the Indiana Dairy cattle and chickens have been eliminated to make room for more hogs.

Zack Miller, sole survivor of three brothers who made 101 famous, has planned most of the traveling and is usable as hog feed. Wheat has been displaced by corn and alfalfa. Unbroken range now is fenced off for the first time.

While the ranch management intends to market most of its hogs, enough will be reserved from each year's herd to supply meat for the 101 ranch plant, which sells at both wholesale and retail.

By revolving the solarium, the sun's rays may be utilized at the angle deemed most beneficial. Should clouds shield the sun, artificial ultra violet and infra red rays will be furnished by electrical equipment.

EELWORMS MAKE INROADS ON STRAWBERRY INDUSTRY

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 24 (AP)—Favorable conditions, now favorable for an annual loss of two per cent of the strawberry crop in this country.

Dr. Brooks says the eelworms are responsible for a disease called "crimp" of Florida, the "dwarf disease" in Louisiana, and "red blight" in Great Britain. Earnings of utility companies, however, are reported to the department of the state.

They are not the same variety as those that cause root rot, as they can only be seen under a microscope, and symptoms remain in the soil year after year, and are varied into the plant by rain or feet.

Dr. Brooks said the eelworms were hard to detect because affected plants do not show immediate symptoms. His beetles annually.

SOLARIUM TO BENEFIT MINERS OF GEM STATE

WALLACE, Idaho, Oct. 24 (AP)—Hard rock miners here who spend their days several hundred feet underground no longer need to leave the "working" to get sun-browned appearances. The sun-bathing brought to them.

An ultra-violet ray solarium has been installed in the Barber, Hill and Sullivan mine's dry room, where men coming out must change their clothes. All the miners have to do to get their tan is to step on a moving platform which carries them through a cabinet upon the walls of which are mounted six powerful ultraviolet lamps.

The solarium was installed as an experimental health measure, as miners are so liable of skin cancer, an ailment or so in the summer and often not at all in the winter.

BIG SCALE MACHINERY DANGEROUS TO HORSES

JAMES TOWN, Oct. 24 (AP)—Animals working on the inside of teams hitched to gang plows and big scale harvest machinery often suffer hindered skin evaporation because of close contact and lack of air circulation.

At the first sign of overheating, specialists say, work should be stopped at once and the animals taken out of harness. A veterinarian should be called to administer heart stimulants, but immediate turning to reduce temperature is highly important if the animal is to be saved.

It is essential to shade, or get the animal on a hill top where there is plenty of air. Cold water should be splashed over his head and neck and his mouth

Four Men Responsible for President's Waterways Plan

NEW CHIEF OF ARMY ENGINEERS CONTROLS PROPOSED PROJECTS

United States and Canada Seek Development of Channel

Great Lakes Program to Cost Nearly $198,000,000

Illinois State Canal May Become Government Proposition

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Hoover's gigantic plan for waterways development has taken a forward step.

It comprises the saddling of responsibility on the shoulders of four men—army engineers specially selected for the strategic points of the project.

Over all is Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers. Subject to his decisions are Brigadier General Thomas H. Jackson, charged with carrying out all the flood control and waterways works of the lower Mississippi valley; Lieutenant Colonel George H. Spaulding, in charge of operations on the upper Mississippi system, including the Missouri, Illinois and Ohio rivers; and Colonel Edward M. Markham, responsible for the Great Lakes development, including the St. Lawrence project.

Perhaps no part of the program appeals more to the imagination than the proposed waterway from the lakes to the Atlantic.

Negotiations are in progress between the United States and Canada for an international agreement on development of the St. Lawrence channel. Both governments are to share in the cost and in the rights to water power.

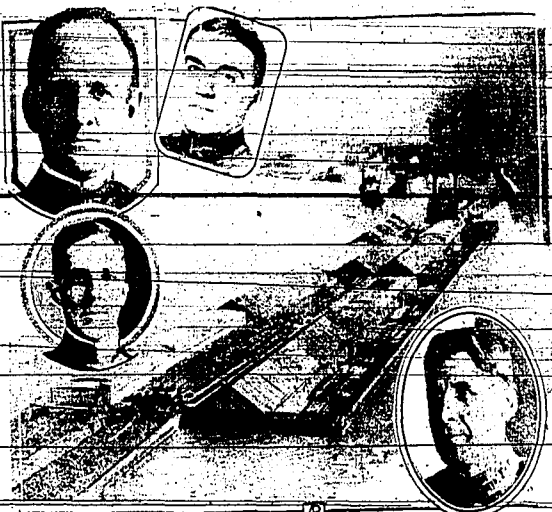

Congress and the Canadian parliament are yet to act on any agreement reached. The total cost of reconstruction of the St. Lawrence river for passage of sea-going vessels and the development of harbors and channels in the Great Lakes is estimated at from $100,000,000 to $198,000,000, depending on details of the plan.

The Great Lakes to the Gulf project embraces extension of a nine-foot channel from the union of the Mississippi and Illinois rivers to Lake Michigan at Chicago. The sanitary district of Chicago already has a canal connecting the Illinois with the lake.

Under the second canal following the river from Lockport to Utica, Illinois, has been undertaken by the state of Illinois on a $20,000,000 appropriation. A movement is under way to make this a federal proposition, as is the channel development from Utica to the mouth of the Illinois.

Ultimate development of inland waterways in the upper Mississippi system calls for nine-foot channels in all principal tributaries. A six-foot channel up the Missouri to Sioux City is proposed and engineers are yet to determine whether it can be deepened to nine feet as far as Kansas City.

Plans call for a six-foot channel up the Mississippi from St. Louis to St. Paul. That, too, is to be studied with a view to making it nine feet deep.

Markham (upper right), who will direct the nation's inland waterways program. The picture of the Ohio illustrates the barge load that can be handled by one boat on a developed waterway.

"WET" GASOLINE THINS OIL

THINNED OIL WASTES GASOLINE

An example of what a thousand miles of ordinary gasoline can do to a car. Thinned oil wastes gasoline.

Correct this vicious circle with "DRY" GAS

"WET" gasoline that doesn't vaporize completely runs down the cylinder walls and thins your oil. Then the thinned oil can't seal the pistons properly, so more gas gets past them and further thins the oil!

You've probably seen the lubrication man drain the crankcase, and you've undoubtedly noticed how thin the old oil is—particularly if you've been using ordinary "wet" gasoline.

Heretofore there wasn't much you could do about it. Gasoline was wasted, oil was ruined, the car suffered, but none knew how to correct it. Repairmen recommended new and tighter piston rings; oil refiners tried to overcome thinning with special lubricants.

And all the time gasoline was to blame. "Wet" gasoline, filled with heavy "wet" particles that failed to burn.

Shell 400 is a "dry" gas. Exact refining has eliminated the "wet" fractions and produced a fuel that goes all into power and miles—the things you buy gasoline for.

Shell 400, the "dry" gas, is more costly to make—there is less of it in a barrel of crude oil—but it costs you more than the "wet" gas you've been using. All yellow and red Shell pumps sell it and they are everywhere convenient.

Fill up with it. Begin now to dodge the vicious, never-ending circle of thin oil and "wet" gasoline.

SHELL 400 The "DRY" GAS

And about oil: There's an oil now that forms no hard, sticky carbon. If you would avoid the results of carbon by carbon, and add thousands of miles to the life of your car, insist on SHELL MOTOR OIL whenever you buy.

Aviators Flying "Blind" Travel in Circles Tests Show

BLINDFOLDED PILOTS SUPPLY INFORMATION TO ADVISORY GROUP

Aeronautics Experts Show
Value of Visual

Muscular Balance Plays
Minor Part in Flights
Men in Planes, Unable to See, Turn-In Same
Direction

By ALLEN QUINN
Aviation Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Like the men in a desert or in a blizzard, the aviator flying "blind" goes in circles.

Pilots, when unable to see, fly in circles, the national advisory committee for aeronautics has determined. Aviators blindfolded with cardboard lens goggles (inset) followed paths that appear like the scribbles of a child. The pilot in the test shown at lower left ended with his plane upside down.

Without exception, no pilot subjected to the test maintained a straight course for any appreciable time, but soon brought the airplane into a banked turn which usually ended in a diving spiral.

The flight expert said the committee, that visual reference of some sort must be provided, either by the horizon, by the reflection of the sun or moon while in dense fog or clouds, or by proper instrumental equipment.

Visual Reference—Visual reference was the key to the muscular balance and that visual reference played a more or less insignificant part in the committee's flight experiments should serve to remove this and develop the appreciation of the fact that muscular balance plays an extremely small part in flying, excepting in correlation with visual reference in the development of a polished technique.

THOUSANDS OF SHEEP IN IDAHO JOIN MIGRATION

SPokane, Oct. 24 (AP)—With thousands reported on the ranges, thousands of sheep in North Idaho and East Washington are being "dranded" into the migration.

Many of the sheep are being driven to the foot of the mountains of the upper Snake and Salmon rivers. Much distress was caused last winter by heavy snow which kept the sheep from finding their own food, and feeding was an expensive business. The grass this year is understood to be better than last, and with a mild winter, sheepmen are expected to do comparatively well. Cattlemen, too, will thrive under such conditions.

Fish fighting is a national pastime in Malaya.

The largest flesh-eating bird of prehistoric ages was the Terorialis Merhami. It stood four feet with a wing spread of seven feet.

The honey bear of Malaya is about 15 inches high.

The plandor, or mouse deer of Malaya, is only seven inches high.

There are ants in Malaya that are an inch long and half an inch high.

There is a simple mode of over half of the world's population.

SLOTH BONES REVEAL ANCIENT HAITI LIFE

Discovery May Throw Further Light Upon Animals Flourishing in Long Ago

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Bones of an extinct ground sloth, the first ever found on the island of La Gonave, off the coast of Haiti, may cast further light on the animal life that flourished in the region before Columbus discovered America.

The remains were secured by Arthur J. Drake and W. M. Perry of the Smithsonian Institution. La Gonave, probably the most primitive island in the West Indies, has been found on other islands of the region but not before on this old port. Other findings, some in new fields and others in the ruins of ancient settlements, in past seasons, included more than a dozen different types of animals ranging in size from a field mouse to a bear.

The bones were found preserved in more than 100 feet of earth. While there is no scientific proof, it is believed that the animals were brought to the rock-bound cells by giant ovens and by Indians who were driven from existence with the coming of the white man.

DENTAD SNAP SHOTS

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—The camera is used by dentists in keeping track of contour unchanged when installing "store teeth" in place of molars extracted. Before extraction the face is photographed from various angles to record the contour.

IDAHO MINE PROPERTIES MAY PROVE PROFITABLE

MOOSEW, Oct. 24 (AP)—Repeating of several old silver properties in Idaho might yield profitable returns, a university geologist here predicts.

Luther H. North and Frank J. plotters of the Great West in 1854-55, with their Pawnee battalion, were the discoverers of the Union Pacific railway route through Idaho. The route was built between 1864 and 1868 these properties, lying within 25 miles of Arco, were important in production of silver, silver-lead and zinc. Anderson says that in the old days, the rich ores near the surface were soon exhausted, and metallurgical processes that were not sufficiently developed to extract the valuable content of the base or secondary ores.

Gigantic British Dirigible With Swimming Pool Added. Would Match Luxury of Greatest Transoceanic Vessels

Passenger Staterooms Will Provide for 100 Travellers And Dining Salon Seats 50

Largest Public Room of R-101 60 Feet in Length and Half as Wide as Long with Tables Near Walls for Writing and Floor for Dancing

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Oct. 24.—If the dirigible R-101 had a swimming pool, it would have about everything that is found on the ocean liner.

The passenger staterooms have room for only 52 at present. They are arranged in corridors with upper and lower berths. Lavatories are provided nearby.

The dining salon is a cheery affair seating 100 persons, and is roomy. The atmosphere is that of a roof garden, with fine silver and linen. Through a long slanting window on one side the passengers can see the rest of the world go by.

But the largest public room is the lounge. It is 60 feet long and 32 feet wide, a polished floor for dancing and writing tables along the walls.

On each side is a promenade deck with a rail from which passengers can look out.

The cold which heretofore has frozen the occupants of dirigibles is averted in the R-101, with the heat from the five motors pumping hot air to the passenger quarters.

And the no-smoking rule which has troubled passengers on other dirigibles is lacking here. Those who smoke, however, must go to a fireproof smoking room to do so. No one is permitted to carry matches; the smokers are ignited by electric lighters.

The upper and lower passenger decks are contained in the outer envelope of the big ship, and even the control car projects only slightly from the hull. Only the gondolas containing the five 685-horsepower Diesel engines hang below the envelope. Quarters for the crew are distributed in various parts of the hull.

The big ship made her first flying test October 14, carrying 14 passengers and a crew of 38 for a 300-mile journey.

All members were requested to bring the finished clothing to the next meeting if possible. Members were also asked to bring four quarts of fruit for the children's home. During the social hour Mrs. Sam Gamble at the piano led the group in community singing. At the close the hostess served delicious refreshments.

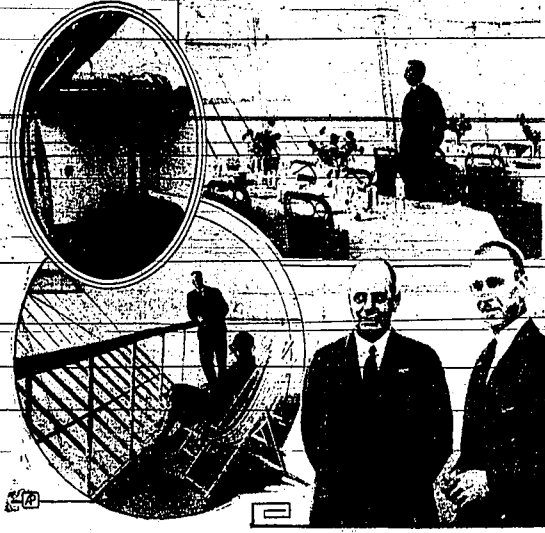

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Ira Hill on November 12.

TWIN FALLS, N. C., Oct. 24.—The ringing of school bells in North Carolina is announcing new victories in the campaign for education in a state which has had an illiteracy percentage of nearly 10 per cent.

A movement in a single section, Hatteras county, is helping to show the other parts of the state how to do it. The county has had an illiteracy percentage of nearly 10 per cent.

CANAL WORK STARTS ON PUMPING SYSTEM

Burley's Irrigation District Preparing Project For Next Season's Use

BURLEY, Oct. 24 (Special to The News)—Water is no longer running in the canals under the pumping system of the Minidoka project. Pumps were shut down Sunday and work is being started by the Burley Irrigation district board, which has charge of the pumping system, of cleaning and repairing canals and appurtenances for next season's use.
There are three canals on the pumping project, each served by a lift of 25 feet, making a 90-foot lift for the highest canal. There are 44,000 acres of irrigated land under the pumps. The project also serves about 110,000 acres under direct gravity canals, from the Minidoka dam; the greater portion of the gravity lands being on the north side of Snake river.

Water has been shut off from the gravity canal on the south side of the river which conducts water to the pumping stations. The United States reclamation service is starting on this canal, which is being enlarged so as to deliver an increase of 25 per cent of water to the pumps. Work is getting under way here, as when a new dragline excavator is being made use of. In addition to the widening and deepening of this feeder canal, the sides are to be lined and reinforced in places by a layer of concrete. At the conclusion of this work, the enlargement program will be continued on the canals above the pumps.

FARM BOARD EXPECTS TO AVERT LOW PRICES

Charles C. Teague, Representing Fruit Growers, Addresses Missourians

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 24 (AP)—Through conditions of disorganized marketing conditions the federal board expects to minimize hazardous loss for farm products, Charles C. Teague, member representing the fruit growers, told a farmers' week assembly at the University of Missouri today.
"Overproduction frequently produces a disorganized market," he continued, "and by removing the disorganization the board is going to be able to do something in combating the peaks and valleys."

Teague, president and general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange and organizer of the California-Walnut Growers' association, compared the situation in his home state to the national condition of agriculture.
"More than one-fourth of the nation's population is engaged in agriculture and manifestly we must give attention to the industry of that size. Someone has measured the comparative prosperity of city and farm dwellers by the number of automobiles they use. It is found that one-fourth of the farmers possess them and three-fourths of the city dwellers. Teague said the government should not at present interest itself in restriction of desert, swamp and other marginal farm lands—because there is already troublesome overproduction.

TEACHERS KNOW

The importance of a smart professional appearance. They know also, the influence of pleasing and immaculate clothing in the school room. They do not want a large supply of clothing preferring to have them dry cleaned or laundered often.

That is the reason that teachers are among the best customers of the first class cleaning establishments.

THE GUMPS—AND I SAYS, SAYS I—

The DEVIL'S MANTLE

By Frank L. Packard

That's as it may be, but the little fellow's ungracious. Tell you better, I know what you're driving at. However, if I'll please you, I'll show you how I'll get you out of the way you're hugging it to your bosom!

Peter's eyes, as he rapidly donned his clothes, swept the ring all around him. He saw that several times, Mr. Garth's face particularly seemed to stand out from the circle. It not only attracted attention, but it drew the eyes of the crowd. Peter's eyes were fixed on the man with a smoldering fury, but it was almost as if he were blind. Twice he glanced at Captain Mummery. The man's eyes were following him under his breath, and whether deliberately or not, refused to meet his, Peter's eyes.

What did it mean? What was it all about? His first thought was that the man, in some one had recognized him, knew him to be Peter Blake. But that wouldn't account for the crowd that gathered around him every day. It was the moment of the door was opened. It that were all. Well, he was now— he was now— he was now— he looked steadily around the circle.

"I'm ready," he said. The yacht's commander motioned to Peter. Peter stepped out of the cabin and found himself under the close escort of the sailors. They were all looking at him, but for all practical purposes they might as well have had a foreboding grip upon his arms, for they were all looking at him on either side. Ahead of him, Humphrey Garth and Captain Stone led the way. Behind them, the little red-haired skipper still grumbled, but tacitly demanding an explanation.

They turned out of the alleyway, went along it, and descended the companionway leading to the deck below, and half an hour later, he was on the deck. The yacht's commander waved the two sailors to stand aside, motioned Peter to one side himself, as did Mr. Garth, and threw the door open.

For an instant Peter stood like a man the deed. He was justly, as the brutal and abhorrent of what confronted him drove in upon his senses. He was looking at a man who was looking at him. He was looking at a man who was looking at him. He was looking at a man who was looking at him.

No one else moved. No one spoke. This was what it meant. This was why he had been brought here. This was why he had been brought here. This was why he had been brought here.

"Go on, Rand," he said. "I think there is no doubt, but that, as you say, your experience with the natives as a sort of magistrate fits you better to conduct this miserable affair."

Rand, who alone had remained standing, nodded curtly, and advanced toward Peter. Peter's eyes flashed on the other. The man's face was half hidden by a shadow in his expression, but there was something else lurking in the countenance, a glint of smug complacency, as though the man relished his task, and that, more than anything else, brought Peter a cold and steady composure.

"I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said.

"I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said. "I am Peter Blake," he said.

IDAHO'S TREASURER WRITES BIOGRAPHICS

Byron Deffenbach Author of Book on Lives of Three Famous Indian Women

BOISE, Oct. 24.—Byron Deffenbach, state treasurer, has written a book, a biography of three Indian women whose lives were a part of Idaho and the great Northwest. The book is a history of the three women who lived in the Northwest during the early days of the settlement of the Northwest. The biographies show the result of Deffenbach's research for information and are based not only on historical material but on his own investigations. The reader who wants the intimate details of the lives of these three women will not get them. They are not available. The story of the Sacajawea was left practically untold until the recent years. That of Jane, who led a band of prospectors to the site of the gold discovery in 1829 was not interesting except for that exploit; while that of Mary—most too much known. In "The Heroines of the Northwest," Mr. Deffenbach has wrapped a mantle of sympathy around the lives of these three women and set his escaped sentimentalism. He tells a charming story of the pathetic love life of the Indian woman, Sacajawea, who was the first white woman to enter the Northwest. During the lecture hour Byron Deffenbach will explain the life of the three women and the history of the Northwest.

The story of Jane Sitton, the Nez Percé Indian woman, is a little disappointing. The story of the Doran woman is a story of a woman who was married to a man who was a successful explorer of the country. Her story is a story of a woman who was married to a man who was a successful explorer of the country. Her story is a story of a woman who was married to a man who was a successful explorer of the country.

Bits of next humor are injected into the narration—but all of them connected with the business at hand. For instance, in the story of the Doran woman and her journey across the present site of Boise: "Boise Indians were notoriously dishonest and tricky; something in the surroundings causes it. The vice is frequented by politicians this day."

Paris Landlord Fails to Collect Rent in 15 Years

PARIS, Oct. 24.—A landlord who waited 15 years for his rent has come to light. More than that he had not seen his tenant in that time nor had he inquired as to what might have become of him.

The landlord finally called on the police, who learned that a Klammann, Fourmann, the tenant, was last seen by the concierge in July, 1914, just before war was declared.

The owner, it developed, never worried about the unpaid rent because he considered Fourmann honest, knew his household goods were valuable, and, besides, didn't consider it one of his business whether his tenant lived in the apartment.

Political Circles Predict Call For New Executive to Organize Next Cabinet

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Edouard Daladier, who was elected president of the radical-socialist party at Lyons today, was invited tonight by President Gaston Doumergue to call on him tomorrow.

Political circles said this morning that M. Daladier would be asked to form a cabinet to succeed the one headed by Aristide Briand which resigned Monday.

It is believed that the situation tonight that the party leader would have little chance of success.

M. Daladier came into the limelight through his unanimous choice by the party members of Edouard Herriot and president of the latter's committee, that Paul Benazur, the socialist, was chosen to head the new cabinet.
