JOHNSON'S ABSENCE FROM WHITE HOUSE EVENT DUE TO ERROR

President Hoover Directs Letter Expressing "Deep Pain" Because of Mistake Involving Westerner

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON (Associated Press Staff Writer) WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—In a letter explaining "deep pain," President Hoover directed today to Senator Johnson, California, that his failure to receive an invitation to a White House dinner last night along with other members of the Senate-Executive committee was "due entirely to a mistake."

The letter of Mr. Hoover, which was made public at the White House late last night, stated:

"My dear Mr. Senator: I was greatly distressed to learn that you were not invited to the dinner given at the White House for Ambassadors Dawes and Guggenheim in honor of the foreign relations committee, who were in the city as available, were invited. Directions to send out the invitations were given on Monday and in the hurried telephone conversation and settlement of other details an inadvertent error occurred somewhere."

"I am most deeply pained that such an accident should have happened, and I assure you that I will accept my assurances that it was due entirely to a mistake which is most completely excusable."

"Years faithful to the president of the United States, I have been honored to receive the highest honors of my country, and I hope you will accept my assurances that it was due entirely to a mistake which is most completely excusable."

ON THE SIDELINES

by BRIAN BELL

OUT in the West where men are men and football players are versatile, followers of the game are comparing the ability of Brock Nagurski to that of Herb Jostling, Minnesota's great fullback of 1926 and 1927.

"The big fellow's ability to play in any spot he lands has been tried by other college players. Some men are built for certain positions and no substitute will be readily accepted but in a majority of cases, the best of the game's great can play anywhere."

"This was illustrated several years ago, before the Carnegie Foundation conducted an investigation of college football. It was found that the best players in the land were not specialists but all-around players who could play in any spot."

ABOUT the same time when "ringers" in football were especially plentiful and no college seemed quite complete without a few, a big fellow who had experienced appearance of knowing his way about a football field appeared at a college.

"Put me down for it," insisted the football player. "I'll fool him. I'm a student."

MOSCOW, Nov. 6 (Special to The News)—Football teams representing the University of Idaho and Washington State college are preparing for the annual gridiron battle of the Palouse hills. This year it is at Pullman, November 8. This game, featuring one of the oldest college rivalries in the Pacific Northwest, always is one of the West's spectacular "football" contests. The approaching contest will be the thirty-second meeting of football teams representing the two institutions.

Idaho's Year for Luck
This ought to be Idaho's year to receive what good luck is distributed during the game. Last year the Cougars were the lucky ones. The Vandals have had enough bad luck in their last two games to last the remainder of the season. Last season, at Moscow, Idaho fell, 28 to 0, before the Cougars. In actual playing the two teams were about evenly matched, as they appear to be this year, but Washington State intercepted five Vandal forward passes. Two of the interceptions immediately counted for touchdowns and a third was quickly converted into 7 points.

The Vandals have this year the same advantage Washington State enjoyed last season, that of two weeks rest, preceding the big game. In 1928 Washington State rested the week before the Idaho game while Idaho met the University of California branch at Moscow. The Cougar squad and coaches had an opportunity to watch the Vandals. This year Idaho has a chance to watch Washington State against Oregon State. This game being at Portland, November 2.

Oregon State Strongest
Oregon State gave Idaho its toughest opposition so far this year, as measured in first downs and yardage gained.

from scrimmage. The Oregon State game will give Vandal fans in some notable points on the Cougars.

Long before there was such a thing as a Pacific Coast Conference, Washington State and Idaho football teams were holding their annual "ridiculous parties" and those early battles were far from "punk tea" affairs. The first game, according to records, was played in 1894. Since 1901 the teams have met every year. The last game was between the school and teachers of two other institutions and won by Idaho, 35 to 7.

Tigers Training For Provo Grid Eleven

After Defeat in Montana Pocatello Team Starts Practicing for Utahns

POCATELLO, Nov. 6 (Special to The News)—Sighting many signs of an undevoted defeat at the hands of the Intermountain Panthers, the University Tigers turned out Tuesday ready for a grilling week in preparation for the Brigham Young university reserves with whom they plan to entertain a record draw on Hugginsfield field November 11. No practice has held Monday night allowing the squad time to recover from their strenuous trip.

The Tigers returned Sunday afternoon after playing two games in 48 man days, the first with the Montana Normal which they won 40-0 and the second with the Intermountain which ended in a 20-0 tie.

The surprising strength shown by the reserves in the Dillon game will probably occasion some slight adjustments in their line up.

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

TELLER REPUDIATES ENTIRE CONFESSION

Young Seattle Banker Declares Statement Result of Third Degree

SEATTLE, Nov. 6 (AP)—Floyd Sprague, young teller of the Marine State bank here, late today repudiated a confession which police said had been obtained from him that he had willingly handed over more than $7000 of the bank's funds to a bandit 16 months ago.

After confessing, police said, the minute detail of an alleged conspiracy at which Sprague and two others looted the bank, the youthful teller announced that his statements had been won from him by "the third degree" and that he would deny them at the trial.

The confession, made to Deputy Prosecutor Ralph Hammer and police, said the teller had entered the alleged conspiracy because of a desire for money to enable him to marry a girl with whom he was in love.

Sprague insisted that he was given but $300 of the amount which was stolen. Hammer said and he declared that he was so apprehensive over the ownership of the money that he threw the $300 into Lake Washington canal.

He was quoted as saying the alleged conspiracy cost him money as J. R. Abernathy, the bandit employed for the actual robbery, used his knowledge of the young teller's guilt to blackmail him.

Abernathy, apprehended by police under the name of Joe Miller, corroborated this, Hammer said, admitting he had compelled Sprague and Clifford E. Blawson, alleged "master mind" in the conspiracy, to pay him $200.

Sprague, Blawson and Abernathy were all charged with grand larceny.

"The Virginian" Coming To Idaho Theatre Soon

OWEN WISTER'S widely read novel "The Virginian" a great American classic, has been thrice dramatized on the screen and will be seen and heard at the Idaho theatre five days—starting next Sunday.

In producing this famous novel and play as an all-talking picture (Dustin Farnum played "The Virginian" on the New York stage a few years ago) Paramount has succeeded in making it a new life, catching the reckless spirit of the original novel and successfully and convincingly making it one of the most interesting and enjoyable pictures of the current season.

In the role of the two-listed red kindly Virginian, the awkward, hard-riding cowboy who loves his heart to a classroom Eastern school teacher, Gary Cooper proves to be an ideal selection.

His rugged, sincere performance is always believable. A portrayal that is sure to win the approval of audiences everywhere. Incidentally, "The Virginian" is really Cooper's debut on the talking screen. He spoke a few words in "The Showman Angel" and sang a cowboy song in "Wolf Song" but in this latest Paramount production, his popular young star cracks through and reveals a well modulated, effective speaking voice.

The girl to whom Cooper loves his heart, Clara Bow, in the winningest part of the picture, is what the author lacked for. More beautiful than ever, this charming actress who excelled so favorably in "The Cover of Romance" gives what many consider to be the finest performance of her career.

Two other outstanding performances are contributed by Walter Huston as a Mexican cattle raiser, and by Richard Arlen as Cooper's wayward friend who "shoots his way" into the picture.

"The Virginian" was filmed in the picture-quest forests of the Sierra Nevada mountains and in the cattle range land of Virginia, the awkward, hard-riding cowboy who loves his heart to a classroom Eastern school teacher, Gary Cooper proves to be an ideal selection.

Trencher Makes Delayed Crossing Over Highway

Twin Falls Canal company's 45-foot catapillar trenching machine made its delayed crossing of the concrete paved state highway near Cedar Dam yesterday afternoon when the canal company management and Ted Goehner, state traffic officer, reached an understanding and agreement.

The crossing was made at the place suggested by the state officer, the huge catapillar being piloted across on mats made of poles to protect the concrete surface of the road.

Misunderstanding arose Thursday afternoon when it was reported to the canal manager that the traffic officer would not permit the catapillar to cross the road because it was more than its 50-mile length across the county.

The traffic officer explained yesterday that he had been on the scene when the crossing was attempted Tuesday, in obedience to orders from his superiors, and that his purpose was to assist in directing the crossing so that the road would not be damaged.

It is one of the duties of state traffic officers, Goehner said, to assist in moving heavy machinery across surfaced roads when crossing is necessary and when the officers are notified.

PICTURES OF SOUND MAY RELIEVE DEAF

Possibility of Translation of Shadow Words Appears as Result of Experiment

NEW HOWARD W. HAINES, Science Editor, said in a recent issue of the NEW YORK, Nov. 6, Pictures of spoken words were shown to the New York Electrical society tonight and discussed as a new kind of possibility for enabling the deaf to hear conversation.

These speech pictures were thrown on a canvas screen, where they literally talked, by turning themselves back into speech. The pictures were the sound track of a movie film, magnified so as to appear until the eye of jagged lines was as big as a line of letters.

As the speech translated, the alternating light and shadow penetrated walls in the room and fell upon a mirror, there they reflected in a photo-electric cell and were turned into sound. Instantaneous, the audience could see the shape of shadows that made the sounds.

Mr. Taylor said it is conceivable that methods can be devised of turning the moving shadows into a series of stills which the eye can see while speech goes on. Ordinarily the shadows move so fast that they are a blur. He said that although he knows of no one now able to read the words in these sound tracks the key to shadow translation may yet be discovered.

FIVE PERSONS HURT IN SHOOTING AFFAIR

Remarks to Women Workers Leaving Cincinnati Radio Plant Cause of Outbreak

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 6 (AP)—Five persons, 10 of them women, were slain here today by one of three men who were seated in an automobile in front of the Crosby radio plant.

The victims, Claude Hughes, 36, wounded in neck, condition critical; Miss Lorraine Wagner, 19, shot in left leg; James Crowder, 28, dead, wound in back; Edward Mapp, 18, shot in right hip, and Flora Gray, 19, also shot in right hip.

Hughes had driven to the plant for his wife, Mrs. Maudie Hughes, an enemy. He protested when the men directed several remarks at his wife. He said: "They became abusive and an argument ensued."

Hughes picked up a brick, he said, but Crowe, also waiting for his wife, prevented on him to put it down. Hughes said the gun user fired before he could throw the brick and then turned the weapon on the crowd.

During the excitement that followed the three men escaped.

In reading the shadows, said the demonstrator of the picture, John Hellamy Taylor, of the General Electric company. He said the possibility of relief for the deaf. He warned, however, that there is no early likelihood of this relief.

Tonight, for example, when he wished to show the shape of speech, he had to stop the picture, turning it into a silent still. Even so, only the simplest words could be explained. Nevertheless, Mr. Taylor said it is conceivable that methods can be devised of turning the moving shadows into a series of stills which the eye can see while speech goes on.

Ordinarily the shadows move so fast that they are a blur. He said that although he knows of no one now able to read the words in these sound tracks the key to shadow translation may yet be discovered.

BOUNTY CUTS IN ON CATS AND COYOTES

Predatory Animal Board Pays $1635 for Enemies of Flocks Since Last March

Since last March 15, Twin Falls county animal board has paid $1635 bounties on 314 coyotes and 144 cats, chairman of the board, said last evening.

Bounties are paid out of a fund raised by collection of a predatory animal tax that is paid by owners of sheep. Ninety per cent of the tax collected in this county is placed at the disposal of the county board, 10 per cent being used to meet expenses of the state predatory animal board.

Twin Falls county is one of the largest payers of this tax.

Felis on which the board pays bounties are returned by the board and proceeds from the sale of these pelts is turned back into the bounty fund.

One effort of retention of the value of pelts is the winter season when the value of pelts on the market is greater than the amount of the bounty.

During the past season there have been no claims in this county for a bounty offered for pelt of a muskrat.

The bounty on coyotes and cats is $5 each.

The bounty on a coyote pup is the same as for a full grown animal, and hunting for coyotes does with young litters of coyotes in some sections of the county.

White House Conference Ready to-Begin Most Sweeping Study of Child Welfare "Ever Undertaken in History," Secretary Wilbur Announces

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO PRESIDENT TO DIRECT DIVISION OF RESEARCH

Nearly 500 Men and Women, Authorities in Various Fields, Will Participate First Report Due in 1930 All Types of Organizations Interested in Labor for Children Aiding in Study

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Secretary Wilbur, as chairman of the White House conference on child health and protection, announced today that its various committees were ready for the most sweeping study of child welfare "ever made in all the world."

U. E. Barnard, director of the planning committee, and other members of the committee, who were drawn from all types of organizations engaged in welfare work, finished three months' work recently by recommending the most complete study possible of all work being done for the improvement of the child, from which suggestions will be drawn for future action.

Conference Work Divided The work of the conference has been divided into four major sections, medical service headed by Barnard McNeill, Philadelphia, public health service and administration, Surgeon General Hugh R. Cumming, Chicago; education and training headed by Dr. F. Kelly, president of the University of Idaho, and study of the handicapped child, to be directed by C. Carson, director of the Child Welfare League of America.

Under each of the major sections have been divided phases of child study, each with a chairman recognized as an authority on the subject. Under the medical division will come pre-natal and maternal care, medical care of children and study of child growth and development.

Secretary Wilbur said that in all about 500 men and women, all known and recognized authorities, have been asked to help in the widespread study of child welfare. It is expected that a year or more will be required before the first preliminary report and recommendations.

IDAHO SCHOOL TO OFFER LAW RESEARCH COURSES

MOSCOW, Nov. 6.—(Special to The News)—The first research courses in law ever offered at the University of Idaho will be available the second semester of the second and third year students in the college of law, according to Dean William B. Masterson. Additional law courses also will be added in subsequent years.

While some of these courses will be presented by faculty members, students will be given an opportunity to obtain first hand information on Idaho jurisprudence through lectures by prominent Idaho lawyers.

According to Dean Masterson every effort is being made to increase the enrollment in the college. At the present time there are between 25 and 30 students in the college proper and a number of others preparing for entrance, by taking the required two years of pre-law study.

Although small, the university college of law has a national reputation, and Dean Masterson states that the Idaho college is known for its high standards. The school has three full time professors, and the students have the facilities of a complete law library.

There are 90 pupils at the Almo school. The schoolhouse is a splendid four-room brick building, recently renovated. Running water has been just installed. This comes from a mountain stream flowing above the school house. Water is filtered into a cement cistern, and again filtered when it passes into the pump system, which delivers it to the school. # Tammany Braves Hailing John F. Curry As Great Leader

POLITICAL FACTION'S CHIEFTAIN RECEIVES PRAISE OF FOLLOWING

Don Listener gives interviewer glimpse of life and character after 20 years in chosen field

By LORENA A. HICKOK (Associated Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In his handsomely furnished office in the new Tammany Hall, John F. Curry, hailed by the veterans of Mayor James J. Walker, last night as "the finest type of political leader I have ever known," sat through the later afternoon twilight today and quietly discussed the raising of tin troops in his climate.

Outside a long line of Tammany braves and others waited to congratulate him on the results of the first election under his regime as Tammany leader. Still ringing in their ears were the words of "Jimmy" Walker at the celebration in Tammany's auditorium last night—"In my long political career I have never known a leader of higher ability, integrity and nobility than has the honorable John F. Curry. Amongst all the leaders in and out of New York, he is the finest type of political leader I have ever known, and one that I will follow as long as I am alive."

Mr. Curry leaned forward earnestly in his chair there in his office this afternoon. "I have a friend," he said, "who actually did raise tin troops out at Manhattan beach," as the fall he turned them down—covered them with straw and wrapped rags around them."

Traves Leadership
To the Tammany brass today, John F. Curry was the big hero of yesterday's victory. He had proved his leadership. Mr. Curry had heard all this, many times, and he continued to hear it many weeks to come.

"Well, what can I say?" he parried. Tall, slender, gray-haired, and courtly is John F. Curry, with soft, Irish brogue in his quiet voice. His expression is grave, but occasionally he smiles—not with his mouth, closed lips, and a clipped mustache, but with his intensely blue eyes. He is well rounded, but there is nothing pretentious about his appearance.

He is a born listener. Any man who has been for 20 years a Tammany district leader and before that a telephone operator would be speed listener and it amounts to more than training with Mr. Curry. It's his genius. Before the investigation of Tammany members, he had, with rare tact and convincing interest, found out all about the interviewer's birthplace, ancestry, profession, and hopes for the future.

Apologetically, Mr. Curry talked of himself. Of the days when he was a telephone operator, he recalled the Western Union, and then in the stockyards down by North river, of his four sons, Bernard, in grade school; Joseph, in high school; Frank, at Holy Cross, and John F., Jr., now out of school and in the insurance business; and of his daughter, Veronica, soon to be married to Edward McCarty, a young lawyer, up in Springfield, Massachusetts.

"And now, Mr. Curry, won't you please say something about yesterday?"
John F. Curry sat silent for a moment. Then he spoke slowly, and again the smile mounted in his eyes. "I can't say he's the best way my boys would. Let's say that yesterday John F. Curry got the big kick of his life."

Co-Eds Mustn't Fly Without Permission
EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 6 (AP)—"Mother, may I go flying?" is how the old rhyme runs for co-eds on Northwestern's campus.

New regulations of the university require that any resident woman student who wants to ride in an airplane first must file the written permission of her parents or guardian with the dean of women.
Airplane parties planned for distant football games are believed to have prompted the ruling.

Rhymers to Royalty
There agents to be no intricate recitation of the names of the members of the English and French courts of Louis XIV and Louis XV, but a "stratagem" in a detachment of the music of earlier times, when ministers and nobles were part of the routine of the life.

Mike, Mongrel Seattle Dog, Expert at Fishing

SEATTLE, Nov. 6 (AP)—A mongrel may be a mixture of setter, pointer, cocker spaniel and Irish terrier, but shows uncanny skill as a fisher-dog, sets his fish without pole, line, hook or sinker.

Mike, whose master is 12-year-old Gerald Smith, lies on the bank of the Elwha river and watches the humpbacks coming up the stream. When he spots the hump of a salmon sticking above the water he leaps in and grabs hold of the hump. The salmon puts up a battle but Mike invariably wins.

"I have to keep him tied up," says Gerald, "or he would be running away all the time to go fishing. The anglers who come down here object. They say that Mike catches all the fish. And Tom afraid the game warden will get him, because haven't bought him any license."

MINIDOKA PROJECT BEET YIELDS GOOD

Sugar Factory's Officials Report Probable Length of Harvesting Season

BURLEY, Nov. 6 (Special to The News)—Beet harvesting will probably last 10 days longer on the Minidoka project, sugar factory officials say. Yields are holding up well and sugar content is satisfactory. A few individual yields, notably some of the 4-H club members plots, exceed 20 tons to the acre, indicating it is said that fertile soil and good tillage with proper care will bring good production.

White fly ravages are light. It is especially shown that the white fly is a loser when he has to compete with early planting in fertile fields, followed by proper irrigation and care of the crop.

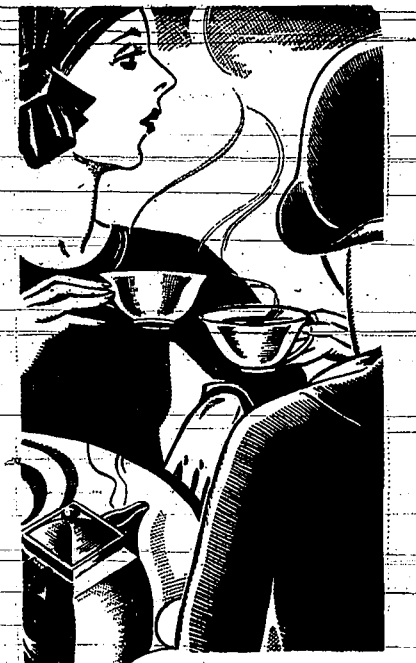

The two mechanical pliers installed on the project are giving good satisfaction. They have been observed to handle and pile a load of from two and one-half to three tons in 1 minute's time. The big pile up at Springside by one of these mechanical laborers, now has approximately 6000 tons of beets, and more added each day. These also piles will be shipped to the factory after harvest is completed.

The Burley factory is serving a large territory this fall. Beets are being shipped in from the North Side Minidoka project from Eden and Hazzard and from Oakley, as well as from the south side of Snake river.

Norris Charges Pennsyl- vanian with Coming Per- siously Near Violating Rules of August Body

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—In the first dispute over a major industrial tariff, the administration group in the senate bowed today to an overwhelming majority of Democrats and Western Republicans who succeeded by a 48 to 30 in reducing the duty on pig iron from $1.12 1/2 to 75 cents a ton. The Finance committee, however, had proposed an increase to $1.50.

The 75-cent rate was sponsored by Senator Barkley, Kentucky, a Democratic member of the tariff Finance committee. This was the same duty carried in existing law until it was raised by presidential proclamation to $1.12 1/2, which rate the house left untouched.

Party Lines Merged
Nineteen Republicans, including many regular members of the committee—Sackett, Kentucky—joined 29 Democrats in support of the lower rate. Four Democrats—Hroussard and Russell, Louisiana; Hefflin, Alabama, and Kendrick, Wyoming—combined with 28 Republicans against the decrease.

The roll call follows:
Democrats for the Barkley amendment:
Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Blaine, Bratton, Brock, Canaway, Connally, Coughlin, Fletcher, Gurnea, Harris, Hayden, Hayes, McKellar, Overman, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steak, Stephens, Thomas of Oklahoma, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana and Wheeler, Total 29.

Republicans for:
Bilins, Burch, Brookhart, Capper, Cutting, Frasier, Howell, Johnson, La Follette, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Pine, Sackett, Schell, Sheaffer, Thomas of Idaho and Watson, Total 19.

Republicans against the Barkley amendment:
Cowan, Dale, Densen, Eide, East, Glenn, Goff, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Kern, Keyes, McCall, Moses, Odde, Philbrick, Shorter, Snook, Townsend, Vandenberg, and Walcott, Total 28.

Reed Discouraged
Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who had urged the $1.50 rate to encourage American pig iron operations, said the Atlantic seaboard, said the vote proved the futility of attempting further arguments in support of industrial tariff increases and release of the bill was dead, since the house would never agree to the wholesale changes being wrought by the coalition.

United States' Flight Surgeons Increase With Demands on Pilot

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 6.—The only school of aviation medicine in the United States is in the process of training a class of doctors whose duty is to certify pilots who are to be in extra-perfect physical condition. These conducted by graduates of the college of medicine at the University of Texas at San Antonio are the best prepared for an aviator. This class, it has been found, is not only to possess that of physical and nervous strength, so highly demanded of aviators.

And these flight surgeons themselves must undergo an almost equally exacting training to qualify as examining specialists. Added requisites for the aviator pilot in turn have "topped up" this process of training by examining a reaction time machine and a "complex coordinator" are two examples of complicated apparatus that are used in the examination. The aviator-medical machine was invented by Captain F. H. Carl Liermann, Jr. and son returned Tuesday from Portland where they were visiting. Mr. Liermann is moving to California.

The Ladies Aid society of Trinity church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Otto Hahn near Hollon Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walter and daughter, Verdie, left by auto Tuesday for Waterloo, Iowa, where they will reside again after spending a year at Clover and Plover.

Royal Lovers at Betrothal

"At home after November first—"

EACH year thousands upon thousands of those neat, white envelopes find their way through the mails. You know what they are before you open them . . . an inner envelope, and a trim card—"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so announce the marriage of their daughter"—and another card—"At home after November 1st, at 101 Moonlight Ave."

Every one means a new home initiated, a new family begun . . . a new set of problems faced by "two-who-are-one."

They've many a question to settle, and many a thing to buy. Furniture, kitchenware, linen and china—silverware, cereals, meat and potatoes . . . Familiar names will pass their lips as they buy—easily, naturally. Advertised products, quality merchandise . . . reliable . . . dependable. They've known them all their lives. But now they'll begin to read the advertisements in earnest—comparing values, budgeting expenses, choosing this, rejecting that, reserving the other till hubby gets his raise. They'll manage all right—with the advertisements to help them.

Make it a habit to read the advertisements regularly. The days of helter-skelter selection and blindfolded buying are over. For the sake of time, economy and convenience, have your mind made up when you start out to buy.

Regular reading of the advertisements is one of the essentials of good housekeeping.

THE GUMPS - THE ADORABLE WIDOW ZANDER

The DEVIL'S MANTLE
By Frank L. Packard

"You say," said Peter, in a flat, monotonous voice, "that they've got Marion—Miss Garth—on board that big one? There's nothing else matters, does it? The little skipper made a sudden clucking sound."

"Yes, I know," he said thickly. "I know what you mean, Peter. Yes, I've got the absolutely right."

"Then," said Peter, "I'm going aboard there, too."

"There's an instant's notice."

"The red-haired man's hand crept to Peter's shoulder."

"What good could it do, Peter, my lad, for you to be hanged to get aboard? Could you stand off a hundred-odd feet?"

"There's No Other Way."

Peter thrust forward the revolver in his right hand.

"If it came to the worst, I could give her this," he said. "Then his voice broke quickly again. "You've got understood Alice's a little woman."

Again there was an instant's silence. "Ay," said Captain Stone, in an untidy voice, "you could give her this—there's a chance in a thousand that you could; or, for that, too, Peter, you could give me this—this—last—of—I'd thank you for it, too. And so I'll make a try, my lad."

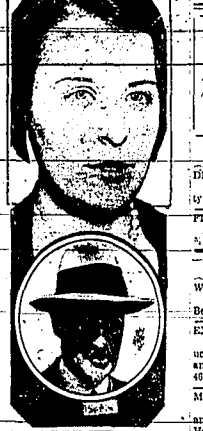

"No!" said Peter, sharply. "No! No! No! There couldn't be a chance. Then those devils know nothing about me; but they've seen you and know you to be aboard and the minute they see me they'll start shouting for you—they're probably started now. And if they didn't they'd see you on board here—they'd search you out, and that's what would be the end of it. Go back to the others—and give me your choice. I don't think they'll scold the Isis, but if they're right, I'll get it, and then the end will be the same whether or not you and I fought them for a few minutes in so long together, our cartridges faded, our strength ebbing, and our lives at stake."

"I'll go back to the others—and give me your choice. I don't think they'll scold the Isis, but if they're right, I'll get it, and then the end will be the same whether or not you and I fought them for a few minutes in so long together, our cartridges faded, our strength ebbing, and our lives at stake."

"Peter said the little skipper, and stumbled for his words. "It's like letting you go to your death, and not it's going, Peter, and your ribs are cracking. There's no other way," said Peter simply, "and there's no time to lose. The captain's the only man who can help. He'll hand the next instant, brushing by the little red-haired man, he was racing down the alleyway in the darkness."

"Peter!"

The lights had been turned on in Captain Stone's cabin beneath the deck of the Isis, and a group of three hands, consisting of Humphrey Garth, Harold and the man from the other ship, had been behind their backs, looking on the Isis' hatch after deck. Yes, here it was, the little red-haired man, and he reached the door, which he found to be open.

And now he hurried to peer out cautiously into the deck. There was no one there and he was not at all surprised to see one of the inmates of the Isis' hatch after deck. Yes, here it was, the little red-haired man, and he reached the door, which he found to be open.
