BORAH TRAINS GUNS ON AGENTS PAID TO ENFORCE LIQUOR LAW

Idaho Senior Solon's Statement Deals With Proposed Report by Commission in Charge of Investigation

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—Increased attention was directed to prohibition enforcement today as Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, the former campaign manager for President Hoover's election on the "dry" issue, assailed the entire personal charge with making "policy" and effective. He said they would never enforce the law.

Senator Norris, Nebraska, a Republican, "dry," who supported the candidate ticket last year, contended that efforts to suppress the alcohol traffic had never been made in good faith in many sections. He expressed the opinion that time and agent officers had disregarded cases where men with money were purchasing liquor in large quantities, but had investigated less flagrant violations.

The Borah statement dealt with a proposed report by the Hoover law enforcement commission, saying that agency "will not tell us anything we do not know, either as to the law or as to the facts."

"We will still be back to the one proposition," he averred, "and that is that will the present personnel nothing will be accomplished."

Called to White House After publication of his statement that "the prohibition forces of the country will be greatly disturbed" unless President Hoover removes Judge Paul J. McCormick from his law enforcement commission, Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, was called to the White House for a talk with the president today and declined later to comment on the subject covered by them.

McCormick, former U. S. attorney general, was called to Los Angeles Sunday night at the commission called to discuss prohibition and governmental law enforcement, major problems. His assertions led to his description by the Georgia senator yesterday as "this man who can assure you that he is not an idiot as well as a violator of the law." Harris' visit to the White House this morning followed.

Brookhart, Republican, Iowa—another "dry"—came to the support of Harris today with a declaration that McCormick should be removed from "who believes in the government of the United States and law enforcement." He expressed impatience "with making the government the criminal in enforcing the law and making heroes out of bootleggers."

Senator Jones, Washington, the assistant Republican leader, who had announced that he would ask this week that the commission make a report, said today he could not see the value of a preliminary pronouncement.

Price of Turkey Slumps in Cities of Far West

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24 (AP)—A plentiful supply of turkeys throughout the West this season has brought prices to a point lower than last Christmas, poultry dealers said today.

Kirk Coblentz ranges in price from 35 cents to 45 cents a pound compared to 45 cents to 50 cents last year.

As a result, the dealers said, consumption of the Christmas bird is unusually heavy. In many instances roasting chickens are 10 cents a pound higher than turkey.

Railway Discharges 3000 Employees in Sacramento

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 24 (AP)—About 3000 men working for the Southern Pacific company in Sacramento, were today laid off for 10 days to two weeks.

The company explained that this move was because of the lack of continuing work and it was unable to remain within its 1929 labor appropriation.

The order to close down affected all Southern Pacific employees in Sacramento except those on regular schedules, clerical and office employees on monthly salary and the minimum number of stationary employees.

Simplicity Marks Last Rites for Former Ruler

MONTELEONE, France, Dec. 24 (AP)—Without pomp or ceremony former President Loubet was buried today with the simplest rites of the Catholic church from which he was excommunicated during his term of office.

There was no music and no flowers and just one speech, Mr. Marrou's who said: "President Loubet, a great, unemotional Frenchman, with solid and sober judgment, presided the most difficult times of the Third Republic over a race outside of the Great War."

Unemployed Penniless Father of Trio Resorts To Crime to Get Funds

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24 (AP)—Out of a job, his pockets empty, three small children at home waiting for Santa Claus.

No Leslie Snyder hid a hovel under his coat, police say, stepped into a grocery store where he had ordered the clerk to give him three pounds of potatoes. As the clerk, Patrick Reilly, was reaching under the counter for a bag, Snyder, the police assert, struck him over the head, seized $200 from the cash register and fled.

Police found Snyder at his home tonight.

"Go ahead and take me," police quoted him as saying, "I don't care any more. Only I couldn't stand it. My boys for months have been worrying themselves sick; the children asking me every day, every hour, what Santa was going to bring them. I wanted to give them a merry Christmas, that's all there is to it."

Snyder was charged with larceny and aggravated assault and battery. Reilly's condition was said to be serious.

UTAH SOLON DIES AT CAPITAL OF COUNTRY

Heart Disease Claims Life of Elmer O. Leatherwood, State's Representative

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—After weeks in a hospital, Representative Elmer O. Leatherwood, Salt Lake City, died today from a heart attack. He was 37 years old.

Although in poor health during the last few years, which would have led to his return to strength, "suddenly" before his death he had engaged his wife in a cheerful conversation on their plans for Christmas and she had left his bedside to do some shopping.

He was a member of the Republican party and had been a member of the United States and law enforcement. He expressed impatience "with making the government the criminal in enforcing the law and making heroes out of bootleggers."

Senator Jones, Washington, the assistant Republican leader, who had announced that he would ask this week that the commission make a report, said today he could not see the value of a preliminary pronouncement.

ASSASSIN FIRES ON RULER OF ARGENTINA

Presidential Escort Killed Would-Be Slayer After Assaultant Wounds Officer

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 24 (AP)—President Hipolito Yrigoyen escaped injury today because the aim of a would-be assassin at his speeding automobile was faulty. Two of the three shots fired from behind a wall along the roadway struck members of the presidential party and the third went wild.

The nation rejoiced tonight at the narrow escape of its chief executive officer today because the aim of a would-be assassin at his speeding automobile was faulty. Two of the three shots fired from behind a wall along the roadway struck members of the presidential party and the third went wild.

The assassin was described by the police as an Italian anarchist named Gualtero today because the aim of a would-be assassin at his speeding automobile was faulty. Two of the three shots fired from behind a wall along the roadway struck members of the presidential party and the third went wild.

Investigator May Die An employee of the investigations office, Carlos Maria Sicilia, was wounded in the stomach and at a hospital tonight it was said that he was injured by the assassin. Another man in the presidential automobile also was wounded. President Yrigoyen and his companion, Dr. Meade, were not injured.

That the plot failed of its purpose was attributed to the quick action of the immediate police who, moving down the assassin with a stream of shots. He was killed where he stood and later it was found that seven bullets had entered his body.

President Yrigoyen has long been one of the most powerful and individual figures in Argentina. He was first elected president in 1916 and served until 1922. He was re-elected in 1928 by a two-to-one majority.

Officials Investigate Rumor of Santa Claus' Addition to Tobacco

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 24 (AP)—Does Santa Claus smoke? If anyone has any authentic information on this matter there are some harassed city officials here who would like to get it.

The matter was made a question of official importance last night when Walter H. Hoshal, superintendent of the Calhoun county council of religious education, protested to the city commission against advertisement of a cigarette St. Nicholas with a cigar in his mouth.

Said Mr. Hoshal: "To mislead children into believing that the symbol of the Christmas spirit should smoke is to flout the sacred memories of childhood."

The commission passed the matter along to the city attorney. Mayor William P. Penty said he had observed that men riding in the cold do not seem to have a bad enjoyment out of smoking and that accordingly he does not believe Santa Claus will be puffing a smoke as he makes his rounds tonight.

While President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover were entertaining in a party of children of the White House staff the executive wing of the building, separated by more than 100 feet from the living quarters of Mr. and Mrs. Hoover, blazed up, the only danger to the chief executive was the possibility that he might have been struck by an unruly fire hose and he escaped this.

The executive wing built on the recommendation of President Roosevelt who found the White House proper too small to transact the business of the nation. It was a small, one-story structure on the west end of the executive mansion, abutting the state department and connected with the White House proper by a covered corridor. In it were housed the activities of the president, his secretaries, the newspaper corps and the general everyday business of the head of the government.

MERCURY DROPS LOWEST IN 23 YEARS IN FLORIDA

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 24 (AP)—This season of Central Florida shivered today in the coldest Christmas eve in 23 years, with a temperature of 33 degrees recorded at Tampa this morning.

No official surveys were available, but citrus fruit was believed to have escaped damage, with truck crops faring somewhat worse, according to W. J. Bennett, government meteorologist.

During the day the mercury rose to 52 degrees. On the east coast at Miami the maximum was 10 degrees higher.

Frost was reported in many sections around Tampa, but there was little ice.

Two original manuscript letters written by Dickens at the time, were read tonight. The one told his sister-in-law in England how well Mrs. Field had decorated his suite. The other thanked Captain Dillier, customs house official, for the latter's efforts in obtaining a sprig of mistletoe for the author, from England.

Edward P. Falne, president of the fellowship, presided.

Population of Twin Falls Increases 2497 During Decade to Total 10,821

Population of Twin Falls within municipal limits at the opening of 1929 is 10,821 compared with 8324 in 1920, an increase of 29 per cent, according to a survey estimate issued by the Newspaper Feature Bureau. The survey is based on excess of births over deaths in the city since 1920, the increase in youth school age, the increase in domestic water services and other factors, having a bearing on populations.

It is estimated that the 1930 population of Twin Falls and its suburbs is in excess of 14,000.

Persons over 21, not all of whom however are qualified voters, number 6474. Workers for gain—the city's breadwinners—number 4434 of whom 3544 are males.

The detailed characteristics of the Twin Falls population, in which the present figures are compared with those of the census of 1920, follow:

Table with 2 columns: Category and 1920, 1929. Categories include Population, Males, Females, Persons over 21, Persons over 10, Workers for gain, Families, and Chamber of Commerce's estimate.

DICKENS FELLOWSHIP HONORS GREAT POET

Admirers Hear "Christmas Carol" Read Again After Flight of Over 62 Years

BOSTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—Sixty-two years ago Charles Dickens gave his last American reading of his "Christmas Carol" here, and tonight the members of the local Dickens Fellowship commemorated the occasion before the same hotel fireplace in the warmth of which the great author stood that night. Its mantle, as well as the large picture which had reflected Dickens' form and figure, were decorated as nearly as possible after the fashion in which they were in England.

Two original manuscript letters written by Dickens at the time, were read tonight. The one told his sister-in-law in England how well Mrs. Field had decorated his suite. The other thanked Captain Dillier, customs house official, for the latter's efforts in obtaining a sprig of mistletoe for the author, from England.

HOOPER PLAYS MAIN ROLE IN CAPITAL'S CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Through Gathers in Washington to Hear Chief Magistrate of Nation Wish People of Land Happiness

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 24—A giant spruce tree, brilliant with myriad colors, stood close to the White House tonight as a symbol of those in homes throughout the land.

President Hoover, standing on a small platform in Sherman square, his overcoat buttoned tightly as a protection from the cold, his face turned on the lights of the national Christmas tree in conformity with the Christmas custom.

The illumination of the tree, the booming flashlights of photographers and the blue light of the stars, all off simultaneously with the switching of the light, revealed a crowd of Washingtonians of every rank who came to hear the president's Christmas message.

"I WISH YOU ALL A MERRY CHRISTMAS AND A HAPPY PROSPEROUS NEW YEAR," President Hoover said in the state heard his salutation by radio.

Before and after Mr. Hoover's greeting, the children from the junior high school of the city of Columbia sang the national Christmas tree in company with the United States marine band.

Nature had its part in making the setting for the ceremony so beautiful. The grounds were white with snow and the trees were wreathed by the ice, cold, snow, Joseph Wheeler, and a girl scout, presented Mr. and Mrs. Hoover with baskets of flowers.

The ceremony passed so busy Christmas eve on the streets, and the president, with thousands of other government workers, was looking forward to the White House Christmas party, accompanied by the United States marine band.

All afternoon Mrs. Hoover had been helping to distribute baskets of food to the poor. Mr. Hoover had spent most of the day in the White House, ever, in plenty of time to supervise the final preparations for a party to which he personally invited the children of the White House.

The president's two small grand children, the son and daughter of Herbert Hoover, Jr., were in far away California with their father, the chief executive asked the children of George Akerson, Walter Newton and French Strother, his secretaries, and the small daughter of Joseph Hoover, the White House physician, to be his guests at dinner and a party afterwards. The parents of the children also were present.

The usual singing of Christmas carols at the White House tonight was dispensed with in order to allow the White House police to bring home to celebrate the holidays. Most of the members of the house and senate, except those living in the War West, left the White House for their homes to celebrate the holidays.

Many Officials Leave With the exception of about half of the president's cabinet, a large part of official Washington was back home to celebrate the holidays. Most of the members of the house and senate, except those living in the War West, left the White House for their homes to celebrate the holidays.

President Hoover will not attend the dinner because the President's Mailing House, where he works, does not hold special Christmas services. Members of the cabinet, who expect to spend the day with their families.

PILGRIMS MEET AT BETHLEHEM POINTS MEET AT BETHLEHEM From many parts of the world came this historic Biblical town tonight and joined in the simple, devout celebration of the birth of the Messiah. Clear, starlight night, following a brilliant sunshine added to the impressiveness of the observance.

Among the faithful who visited the holy site of the birth of Jesus were 300 Americans and Canadians. The celebration in general did not attract the throngs of other years. It was estimated that not more than 2000 Americans, other than residents of Bethlehem and near by Jerusalem, were in the little town tonight.

Another Christmas observance in the Greek coast, adding to the Church of the Nativity, was the same holy site of the birth of Jesus. The celebration was held in the city of Bethlehem, the birthplace of the Messiah.

UNIVERSITY TREASURER DIES DENVER, Dec. 24 (AP)—J. Chamberlain, treasurer of the University of Colorado, died today at his home here, after a long illness. He was 62 years old. He was born in Oregon, New York, in 1866. He came to Denver in 1892.

BOISE PREVENTS FLOODS

BOISE, Dec. 24 (AP)—Ten thousand dollars is being spent by the city Mayor Pope said today, on a program of new construction and repairs to divert flood waters from the foothills north of Boise.

Householders who put off buying their Yuletide decorations found that storekeepers and marketmen were demanding from $8 to $14 for fair-sized trees.

The high prices brought were to the hearts of many children in the tenement districts. Some of them railed police stations asking if there was any place where their parents could purchase trees at a price within their means. The police were unable to help.

governor of Jerusalem and consul of the British empire. After the service he led the whole congregation in processions down the steps to the gates where the manger is said to have stood. He placed a figure of Jesus on the spot where there is a Latin inscription announcing "Here Jesus was born of the Virgin Mary."

After the ceremonies, the way was left open for the balance of the night for visitors to come and go and to pray in the groto.

ENGLAND CELEBRATES
LONDON, Dec. 24 (The Associated Press.)—From the king to his humblest subject, tonight began to celebrate its traditionally homelike Christmas holiday.

From the occasion of festive celebration, Englishmen will not emerge until the day after Christmas. The day will be observed as usual with feasting and family reunions, whose joy will not be greatly dampened by such national ills as unemployment and stock exchange slumps.

There will be a virtually complete suspension of outside activities on Christmas day. Theatres and cinemas will not open, newspapers will not be published and the spectacle from a balcony of the famous mansion whose aides were charred by the British fire in the war of 1812, and the president in Norfolk, their majesties had the whole family group gathered for a homelike royal Christmas celebration, which is the first to be held since the war for all members.

Little Princess Elizabeth, King George's favorite grandchild, and the two young sons of Princess Mary will supply the juvenile touch and add gaiety to the occasion. The country will get into the open again on the day after Christmas for the holiday of parties and "boozing days" when servants traditionally receive their just rewards in largesse from the gentry, and outdoor amusements resume their sway.

The hardworking house of commons had kept its nose to the grindstone until late on Christmas eve because the domestic politics were to air their views on such questions as British policy in Egypt, the Singapore naval base and government finances. It was the day after Christmas that the house had met on Christmas eve.

Irrigation committee and later on the floor.

Leatherwood's word in formulating legislation in the four committees—banking and currency, irrigation, education and pensions—brought him into prominence, particularly his opposition to the Boulder Canyon bill. He took an important part in handling legislation before the Senate in 1921. He was one of which deals with the vast reclamation projects of the Western states.

In Congress since 1921, the Utah representative was reelected to each succeeding Congress—his knowledge of the problems of the Western states and his efforts to bring about legislation tending to assist the states to overcome them drew the admiration of his colleagues.

Leatherwood was born on a farm near Waverly, Ohio, September 4, 1872. After attending common schools, he went to Wisconsin university where he received the bachelor of law degree in 1901.

The same year he began the practice of law in Salt Lake City. From 1909 to 1916 he was district attorney of the third Utah judicial district. He became a member of the law firm of Straup, Nibley and Leatherwood, and later president of the Western Forestry company, the Leary and Warren stockyards and the Olympus Mining and Milling company.

In 1924 Leatherwood and Miss Nancy Albaugh, Klamath, Kansas, were married. They had one child, Margaret Jane.

Funeral arrangements had not been concluded tonight. Speaker Longworth probably will name a delegation tomorrow to attend the service.

Maximum temperature for the same period was 45 degrees. Clouds obscured the sun most of the day. The sun rises today at 8:34 A. M. and sets at 5:00 P. M. Tomorrow at 7:38 A. M. and 5:00 P. M.

$60,000, Conflagration Guts Executive Offices of Chief Magistrate

The children of the Hoover party were gathered in the spectators from a balcony of the famous mansion whose aides were charred by the British fire in the war of 1812, and the president in Norfolk, their majesties had the whole family group gathered for a homelike royal Christmas celebration, which is the first to be held since the war for all members.

While confined to the executive offices, the president was informed by the fire department to concur in it. Walter Justice, one of the secretaries to the president, expressed the opinion that a bad wire connection had caused the blaze, which flared up at the office, but had been closed for the day.

The official documents of the president, invaluable to the procedure of the government, were all in the office of the president was the worst damaged of all the rooms. Firemen made an especial attempt to save that portion of the structure along with the cabinet room. The offices of Newton and George Akerson, another of the president's secretaries, were spared. The stenographers' quarters, the main lobby, and the press room, in Egypt, were completely wrecked.

President Hoover did not seem to be excited by the blaze. After the firemen got to work, he spent a large part of the evening in watching them extinguish it.

The present White House was designed by James Hoban, and cornerstone was laid by George Washington in 1792. It is made of freestone. President Adams first occupied it in 1800, but in 1814 it was burned by British troops. In 1816 it was restored, and after it was re-occupied. The principal rooms are the East room, the state parlor and the Blue room.

There are also the Green room and the Red room, so-called from their decorations. All of these escaped the flames.

When the fire had finally been extinguished Fire Chief Watson estimated the damage at $60,000. Colonel U. S. Grant, a descendant of the famous Civil war leader, who is in charge of public buildings here, said he believed Watson's estimate was a conservative one. The roofs, the ceilings, the floors and the wooden partitions, he said, would all have to be replaced, supporting walls, he said, could be used in rebuilding. The walls were of brick.

Meanwhile, after the excitement was over, President and Mrs. Hoover, not at all discommoded as far as their home life was concerned, retired for the night.

Borah Trains Guns On Agents Paid to Enforce Prohibition

mandated by the Democratic dry leaders. He emphasized, however, that a complete report on the prohibition aspect of the situation should be made before the commission completes its entire inquiry into the whole question of law enforcement. Jones did not visit the commission today. Harris and Glass are one in advocating that funds for the commission's work be withheld until a report is made. The Virginia senator has differed with Harris liquorer, in the McCormick matter.

Senator Borah said the Hoover commission will not throw any light upon what the law is, and continued: "Neither will they have anything to do with the selection of the officers to enforce it. He has the law clearly defined, the next thing, and the only thing, is to find the kind of officials who will enforce it. In my opinion, it will never be enforced with the present personnel from top to bottom."

Senator Norris agreed with Senator Ochs that he saw no reason for action against Judge McCormick because of his statement taking the position that members of a commission should be expected to have divergent opinions. McCormick had assailed the entering of private homes without a search warrant, and the Nebraska senator—who is chairman of the judiciary committee—took the same stand.

WITNESSES TELL OF AFFAIRS IN MULLAN

Court Hears Stories About "Donations" for Good of Little North Idaho Town

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho, Dec. 24 (AP)—Several witnesses in the Mullan "rebellion" case in federal court testified today that they paid money to the chief of police, but most of them said they understood it to be a "donation" for the good of the town rather than a fee for liquor protection.

One bartender said the chief was ungrateful in "collecting" donations. Wayne Pikkering, the bartender, said his employer, Frank Hahn, was arrested for not donating, and that thereafter Hahn, has refused to reveal it to anyone or to have it patented. He wants to sell it outright for $1,000,000.

The Lehigh Valley Navigation and Coal company, Rosenthal said, had witnessed a test but before making any arrangements with Weber and his friends the firm insisted that the process be patented.

Weber refused, he said it would be stolen if patented. And he continued to refuse after receiving subsequently offers from the Prospect Coal company, the Susquehanna Coal company, and J. M. Markel, a coal operator of Hazleton, Pennsylvania.

Witnesses today included some of the 20 defendants and some bartenders. Agnes West said she sold beer to support her invalid husband. She paid the police chief $10 a month, she said, and this was not for protection, but to "keep him from bothering her."

"Baby" Kelly said she had never discussed protection with the police. Mona McDonald said she "donated" $15 a month because the city needed the money.

Cross-examination revealed she had been arrested by federal dry agents but never by Mullan county officers. Several bartenders and popcorn vendors said they "donated" but had no idea the money was for protection.

Joseph Speck said a deputy sheriff warned him when his liquor supply was endangered by officers.

The government is trying to prove the Mullan city council sent the chief of police out as a "rum money collector." The trial adjourned over Christmas.

Hahn instructed his bartender to "donate" $15 a month for the sale of "good beer" and $10 a month for gambling. The government charges Mullan officials rebelled against the prohibition laws and licensed liquor and vice to replenish the empty village treasury. The defense admits Mullan was "wide open" but said the officials did not authorize it.

Witnesses today included some of the 20 defendants and some bartenders. Agnes West said she sold beer to support her invalid husband. She paid the police chief $10 a month, she said, and this was not for protection, but to "keep him from bothering her."

"Baby" Kelly said she had never discussed protection with the police. Mona McDonald said she "donated" $15 a month because the city needed the money.

Cross-examination revealed she had been arrested by federal dry agents but never by Mullan county officers. Several bartenders and popcorn vendors said they "donated" but had no idea the money was for protection.

Joseph Speck said a deputy sheriff warned him when his liquor supply was endangered by officers.

The government is trying to prove the Mullan city council sent the chief of police out as a "rum money collector." The trial adjourned over Christmas.

Mine Blast Claims Life
MOALESTER, Oria., Dec. 24 (AP)—One man was killed and serious damage was done to the shaft of the Manning mine when an explosion, caused by a "windy" shot, occurred there tonight.

The miner who lost his life was Ito and M. Markland, a shot fire, who was the only person in the mine at the time of the explosion, company officials said.

Sportsdom Looks To Santa Claus For Athletic Material

Boxing Promoters And Baseball Nine Managers Seek Aid

Right-Hand Pitchers Much in Demand Among Skippers of 16 Major Circuits of National 'G'

By BRIAN DELL (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Santa Claus, alias St. Nick, can do a good turn tomorrow for a number of watchful waiters in sports, but probably he will not.

There's Madison Square Garden with a yawning sock, only half filled with heavyweight boxers to clutter up a new and expensive arena at Miami, Florida, in February.

Sixteen managers of major league baseball clubs would count Christmas a huge success if only Old St. Nick, esq., should leave them a few good right-hand pitchers or even left-hand ones if their control is good.

Yanks Need Infielders Donnie Bush of the Chicago White Sox will look through his packages to see if any are labeled "catchers" and Bob Shawkey of the Yankees will feel much better over the holidays if his presents include infield toys guaranteed not to break.

If Roger Peckinpaugh and Bill Evans find an outfielder on their joint Christmas tree their first question will be "does he bat right handed?" If not, they will toss him back. For Wilbert Robinson at his Dover Hall, Gloucester, where Christmas trees are grown, not bought in the market, the best present will be news of peace, or an armistice, along the turbulent Brooklyn baseball front.

Bill Melitichne of the Braves, and Heinie Wagner of the Red Sox, will be among the recipients of the recipients of Christmas tokens. They will not look gift horses in the mouth. If their presents include ball players they will not care what positions they play.

Hundreds of golfers, convinced that the game they misplaced last autumn will be found again if they can try their shots under Southern skies, will start after Christmas for sunnier climes, where there is no snow on the greens.

The best Christmas for those optimists will be a fire for a slice. They do not mind the hook.

Here is the hope that you, too, have enjoyed prosperity this year—and may your Xmas gift be a furtherance of such contentment in 1930.

Noble Kizer Takes Phelan's Position

LA. FAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 24.—The football system which James M. Phelan organized at Purdue university and which produced a western conference championship team for the old gold and black during the recent season is to be perpetuated by the advancement of Noble Kizer, Phelan's assistant, to the position of head coach.

SCHOOL CLOSING BUT GIRLS AND BOYS TEAMS PRACTICE FOR FUTURE FIGHTS

EDEN, Dec. 24 (Special to The News)—Although the schools are closed here this week, basketball practice for the boys' and girls' teams of the high school is being continued during the week. Each school is grooming the boys' and girls' teams for a conflict with the Paul high school five here Friday evening. This game will be a double-header with the Paul and Eden girls making it the first contest of the evening. These games will be the opening ones of the season for the home teams on their own field. While little can be learned this early in the season just how strong the Paul teams are, yet it is presumable that the school will have as strong teams as previous seasons. Last season's conflicts between the two teams were hard fought contests with the boys' playing an extra period to win the Eden. The Paul girls lost to the Eden with last season in a district contest. However, the girls should insure much interest in the outcome of the games Friday evening. A season ticket sale is being carried on this week by the students of the Eden school.

Utahns Leave for Denver Grid Game

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 24 (AP)—Ernest Simkins, Utah tackle and Paul Thoms, and Bliss Hoover, Brigham Young university halfbacks, left here today for Denver to play in the all-star football game on New Year's day.

Captain Bob Davis, quarterback; Dean Olson, guard; Marvin Jones, center, all of Utah, and Ed Jensen, tackle, and Joe Neal, quarterback of the Utah state agricultural college, will leave tomorrow for the scene of the contest.

Sports Paper Picks Simmons for Honor

Left Fielder of Athletics Becomes 'Most Valuable Player in American Club'

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 24 (AP)—At Simmons left fielder of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, was unofficially chosen the "most valuable player in his club in the American league" for 1929 in a poll conducted by the Sporting News, St. Louis baseball newspaper of sports writers who formerly comprised the league's exclusive contest committee.

Results of the poll, announced tonight, gave the slugging Athletics star the honor with 40 points, with Tony Lazzeri of the Yankees a close second with 33 points. Heine Dush of St. Louis Browns, and Lee Fossner of the Cleveland Indians, were next with 21 each. Charley Gelinger of the Detroit Tigers, got fifth place with 19 points.

The American league has abandoned the annual most valuable player selection, but the Sporting News polled the eight sports writers who last year officially awarded the most valuable player honor to Gordon Cochrane of the Athletics.

Simmons, who batted .364 for the season and was named first on five of the eight ballots.

Twenty-five athletes were recognized in the voting. They include Earl Averill, Indians, sixth place, 13 points; Willie Kamm, White Sox, 11; Joe Judge, Senators, 9; Jimmy Dykes, Athletics, 8; Jimmy Fox, Athletics, 8; Wesley Ferrell, Indians, 7; Bill Dickey, Yankees, 6; Ralph Kerra, Browns, 5; Jack Roth, Red Sox, 5; Dale Alexander, Tigers, 4; Harry Rice, Tigers, 4; Phil Tozt, Red Sox, 4; Leon Gualin, Senators, 4; Art Shires, White Sox, 4; Sam Rice, Senators, 4; Sam Jones, Senators, 3; Marty McManus, Tigers, 3; Carl Reynolds, White Sox, 2; Moe Berk, White Sox, 2; Russell Sewell, Red Sox, 1.

Panthers Prepare To Trek Westward

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 24 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh football squad tonight was busy with preparations for the trip they start tomorrow night to Pasadena, California, to play the University of Southern California in the tournament of roses on New Year's day. The last hard home drill was held today. Light exercises will be conducted tomorrow and workouts are scheduled en route.

The list of 33 players to make the trip, announced today, includes 11 backfield men.

Commissioners Ban Jackie Fields' Bout

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP)—The scheduled 15-round welterweight championship boxing bout at Madison Square Garden January 3, between Champion Jackie Fields and Young Jack Thompson, was quashed today by the New York state athletic commission which refused to grant the sanctioning.

Because of the dissatisfaction resulting from the Tod Mottson-heavy bass junior lightweight affair of last week, the commission was disposed to apply scrutiny to future title matches.

44 Gridiron Stars Train for Classics

SQUADS REPRESENTING EAST AND WEST GO THROUGH STIFF WORKOUTS ON COAST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24 (AP)—The Christmas holidays meant nothing in the lives of 44 football stars who will display their wares here New Year's day in the annual Shriners' hospital charity game.

Both the East and the West squads held stiff workouts today and will put again in uniform tomorrow morning. Practice thus far has been generally in the East's hands. Tom Dawber, backfield mainstay from Colgate, was on the shelf today with a sprained knee, sustained in a scrimmage against Stanford university's team. The Eastern players are training at Stanford and their prospective Western opposites are working out in San Francisco.

Head Coach Andy Kerr of the East, seeking to perfect a starting combination, has switched his players in every practice session. The Western squad has not shaped up any more definitely than the East's with Coach Percy Lacey trying out a different backfield combination every little while.

Willie Hoppe Wins In Billiard Match

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP)—Willie Hoppe easily conquered Walter Seltzer in a 200-point three-cushion billiards match concluded here tonight, 200 to 140.

Hoppe took both of today's block's winning 50 to 41 in 52 innings this afternoon, and 50 to 30 in 35 innings tonight. Hoppe's high runs were 7 in the afternoon and 5 at night. Cochrane's best clusters were 5 and 6.

The two players will meet in a 400-point match starting Thursday.

Risko Prepares for Bout With Griffith

OHIO RUBBER MAN WILL TRY BEST TO LIVE UP TO REPUTATION AS "SPILLER"

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—The late Tex Rickard once characterized Johnny Risko, Cleveland, as a "spiller" and he still knows Ohio rubber man will try his best to live up to his reputation when he takes on Tuffy Griffith in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Rickard lacked his nickname on Risko because of the Cleveland's penchant for "spilling" battles. The famous promoter was trying to "build up" Starkey, Berlebach, Delaney, Paulino, Uzunovic and Tom Heeny all were sent against the rubber man for "build up" purposes but what aily there was in those matches went largely to Risko.

The Cleveland veteran meets another comer in Griffith and he may flash enough of his old time form to conquer the slinger who has been in New York rings, aside from the bout of several months ago when he was stopped by Max Schmeling.

Griffith, who has won 10 of his 13 heavyweight bouts by knockouts, will enter the ring a favorite at odds of about 7 to 5. The Sioux City fighter has much to gain and as much to lose. Provided he can win in sensational fashion from Risko he will be given serious consideration as a possible opponent for Jack Sharkey in Miami in February.

A loss of course, will relegate him to the side lines until he can fight his way back to the top.

Taberski Leads In 1500-Point Contest

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 (AP)—Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket billiard champion and Frank Taberski, Schenectady, New York, former titleholder, split even in two blocks of their 12-block, 1500-point match here today. Taberski, however, leads in total points, 490 to 371 and in blocks, three to one.

Taberski won the afternoon block, 125 to 118 in 14 innings. The New York state star's best run was 85; Greenleaf's 60.

Greenleaf took the evening block, 126 to 115 in 10 innings. The champion's high run was 28; Taberski's 29.

Every year, nearly every car tries to look like some other car. Sometimes the result is an improvement, but always it makes confusion.
Bureaus improve improvements when they are real. But many of the changes made have little or nothing to do with structure or function.
With frequent changes in superficial details, it is more nearly standard. If they would remain more recognizable, they would sell for less money, and the market would be more continuous.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT
By Agnes Jo Lyons
The joy that came to me that morn
Those long, long years ago,
When Jesus Christ, the Lord, was born
That peace the world may know,
Is the same that comes today to bless
When in the heart of man
Is born the Christ—His consciousness—
Fulfillment of God's plan.

EXPLOSION OF LANTERN
BURNS YOUNG FILER GIRL
FILER, Dec. 24.—June Wilson, age 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson, former Filer resident, was severely burned at Pocatello last Thursday evening about the lower limbs and right arm and is now in the general hospital at that place. The accident was caused by an exploding lantern filled with alcohol sold by a service station for kerosene. Clarence, a brother, 14, was scalded and extinguished the flames from the little girl's clothing and also received quite severe burns on his hands. Physicians report the little girl doing nicely.
Henry Thompson was here the first of the week from Baker, Oregon, to attend funeral services Monday for his father, O. E. Thompson, who died at Glennville, California, and whose body arrived Sunday for interment in the Filer cemetery.
Among those home from school to spend the Christmas vacation are: Oren Allison, Christian Hultner, Ruth Crossley, Bob Fanning and Mahel Weaver, Merwin Barton, Jane Euts, Eva Metcalf, Mercedes Barbecat, Owen Miller, Gerde, Reid and Norma Barbecat.

CHURCHES
We're glad and heartily glad about "our dear" little, most of it uncomplicated. But my psychology—which is merely a fancy name for crowd spirit—may be either good or bad. And whether one or the other, it is apt to surpass the individual, taking the human units that compose it and carrying them beyond themselves.
If it is true that an individual alone seldom stoops to such depths as the crowd, in a typical mob, it is also true that he seldom alone rises to such heights as he does in a patriotic rally, in a fine religious service—or in a Christmas mob.

CUSTOMLY DRIVING
Hazard at railroad highway crossings is the only hazard in connection with railroad operation that the railroads have not been able to reduce materially in a systematic campaign continued over a number of years.
During the year nineteen hundred twenty-eight, the records show, an average of seven fatalities and eighteen injuries occurred daily, due to collisions between automobiles and trains at railroad crossings.
During that year, according to the figures, there were twenty-four million seven hundred fifty thousand registered automobiles, and these were frequently passed over nearly a quarter of a million highway crossings, intersecting two hundred fifty thousand miles of railroad.
Analysis of accidents occurring at railroad crossings during that year indicates that twenty-one per cent of all these accidents were caused by automobiles being driven into the sides of moving trains.
Hazard at the railroad highway crossing increased during the winter season. Slippery conditions exist and brakes do not respond as efficiently in cold weather. Automobile windows are closed or curtains attached, making it more difficult for automobile drivers to hear audible signals, and, because of frost or snow collecting on windshields or windows, it is more difficult to see approaching trains or visible warning signals. Automobiles, too, are much more apt to be stalled too close to, or on, railroad tracks.
These are things that are common knowledge.
At the same time, the warning cannot be sounded too often.
It demands attention of all who violate the rule.

CHURCHES
We're glad and heartily glad about "our dear" little, most of it uncomplicated. But my psychology—which is merely a fancy name for crowd spirit—may be either good or bad. And whether one or the other, it is apt to surpass the individual, taking the human units that compose it and carrying them beyond themselves.
If it is true that an individual alone seldom stoops to such depths as the crowd, in a typical mob, it is also true that he seldom alone rises to such heights as he does in a patriotic rally, in a fine religious service—or in a Christmas mob.

Home for Christmas—Mrs. Monte Sutton and baby daughter, Mary Elaine, born December 10, returned to their home from the county general hospital yesterday.
Back From Hot Lake—D. D. Kewer returned yesterday from Hot Lake, Oregon, where he has been under treatment for some days, to spend the holidays at home.
Here on Visit—Mrs. Wirth Williams and children, Grand Junction, Colorado, arrived yesterday for visit at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gubert.

BURNS YOUNG FILER GIRL
FILER, Dec. 24.—June Wilson, age 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson, former Filer resident, was severely burned at Pocatello last Thursday evening about the lower limbs and right arm and is now in the general hospital at that place. The accident was caused by an exploding lantern filled with alcohol sold by a service station for kerosene. Clarence, a brother, 14, was scalded and extinguished the flames from the little girl's clothing and also received quite severe burns on his hands. Physicians report the little girl doing nicely.

EDEN HOLDS ANNUAL CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

More than 400 Persons Attend Program Sponsored by Community Members

EDEN, Dec. 24 (Special to The News)—Christmas was observed here Monday evening, Christmas eve, in a most part in a staid Christmas tree program. More than 400 persons attended the exercises, and this number almost completely filled the high school auditorium where the program was rendered. Beside a magnificent tree with its lights and decorations, the electric lighting system, a tray of candy and nuts was distributed to children of the community. With a liberal contribution, these refreshments sufficed to give each of the group a card of the candy and nuts.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Ladies Handwork club will give their annual Christmas party December 27, in the Banbury Women's club room. Dinner will be served at 7, and the program will begin at 8. Members have been a help in raising rolls, plates, cups and napkins for their own fund.

The Bethan Sisters and party for Friday evening, December 27, has been postponed one week.

BURL CLUB FEATURES CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Mrs. Barney Wright Supervises Society's Annual Holiday Entertainment

HOLL, Dec. 24—Mrs. Frank Thatcher and Mrs. Jack Campbell were hostesses to the Burl club at the annual Christmas program of the organization. Twenty-two members answered roll call with Christmas verses. After the business session the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Barney Wright, chairman of the program committee, with "Christmas in Foreign Lands," the theme. Mrs. Fay Cox and Mrs. Dallas Cox sang "Silent Night." Mrs. Ray Wilson sang a number. Mrs. Hargreaves sang "Christmas in Philadelphia." Mrs. Crawford spoke on "Christmas in Poland." Mrs. Sumner on "Christmas in Rumania." Mrs. Malone on "Christmas in Greece." Mrs. Thatcher on "Christmas in Bulgaria." Mrs. Thurman on "Christmas in Serbia." Santa Claus appeared at the close.

HAGERMAN LODGE NAMES NEXT YEAR'S OFFICERS

HAGERMAN, Dec. 24—The Royal Neighbors at their last regular meeting chose the following officers to carry during the coming year: Mr. Deatrick, Durfee, president; Mrs. Lillian, past officer; Mrs. Lillie, Oswald, vice president; Florie A. Stark, recorder; Mable Utterback, secretary; Mrs. Myrtle Wiley, treasurer; Mrs. C. Young, Mrs. Emma Jensen, marshals.

The Hagerman fire department was called to a fire at the Malad power plant Saturday morning. The fire had gained too much headway, so the firemen were unable to save the structure. Cause of the fire was not known.

EDEN RESIDENTS ADD TO JOY OF SEASON

Older Members of Patriotic Organizations Receive Holiday Dinner Packages

EDEN, Dec. 24—Christmas cheer was distributed here to several homes today for the form of packages containing good things for the Christmas dinner. Those who shared in the gifts included the veterans of the Civil war, their families and also the older members of the Eden circle, Women of the Grand Army of the Republic. The packages were prepared and delivered by other members of the organization. Those to receive remembrances were Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, William Kelley, Mrs. William Baker and family, Mrs. Ida Davis, and Cora Mae Clements.

FILER GRANGE APPROVES CANAL BOARD'S ACTION

The position taken by directors and management of Twin Falls Canal company in regard to discontinuing delivery of water through the canal system during the winter season was approved by Filer Grange in resolutions adopted at an adjourned meeting last Friday, which also endorsed the candidacy of N. V. Sharp, as candidate for reelection to the canal company's board of directors.

DEATH OF ONLY SON — IN WRECK DARKENS CHRISTMAS IN HOME

Son of E. D. Logan, Castleford, Killed, and Two Young Companions Hurt When Car Tips On Curve

Death of an only child in an automobile accident planned the loss of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Logan, Castleford, into grief on Christmas eve.

Hershel Logan, 21, the son, was instantly killed, and his companions, Alva Jesse, 21, and Letcher Jesse, 19, brothers, Twin Falls, were severely injured when Logan's car, a light roadster, in which they were riding, left the highway on a curve near Dead Man's gulch, a mile west of Twin Falls, and rolled over several times shortly after 3 P. M. yesterday.

The car, traveling at a high rate of speed, was said, failed to negotiate the curve. Logan, at the wheel, was crushed under the wreckage of the car. His head and face were crushed, and he was dead when passers-by reported the automobile.

Hurted Through Windshield

The Jesse household, one of W. H. Jesse 423 Fourth avenue north, who recently moved here from Pull, was taken to the county general hospital, only a short distance away. Letcher Jesse, suffering from bruises about the back later was taken home. The condition of Alva Jesse was pronounced favorable last evening although he was more severely injured with a scalp wound and cuts about the face and hands. He pointed a square of exposure about last evening to his mother who has been confined to her home by illness ever since the family moved here from Pull, Idaho.

There are nine children in the family.

Alva Jesse is believed to have been hurled through the windshield when the car overturned, while Letcher Jesse, according to his own account of the accident last evening, was thrown almost clear of the car, only his feet being caught in the wreckage while his face struck the earth.

Carrying Christmas Gifts

Rear wheels of the car skidded at the curve, Letcher Jesse said, and then, apparently encountered des earth. The car tugged forward with a great commotion and then rolled over several times. The young men were on the way to Flat cars for Christmas gifts to friends there when the tragic mishap occurred. Hershel Logan had been a guest at the Jesse home here Friday night. He brought Alva Jesse home from Pull, Idaho on the Logan farm at Castleford, home for Christmas Friday afternoon. Alva delivered of the Christmas gifts in Pull to meet his purpose to bring the Jesse brothers back to their home here, and then return to his own home last evening.

The young men had been friends for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Logan, parents of Hershel Logan, lived at one time on property near the county general hospital here. Later, during the years 1913 and 1914, they resided on a farm north of Curry. Since that time they have made their home on a farm two miles south and one mile west of Castleford.

The body of Hershel Logan rest of last night at the Drake funeral parlors here. No arrangements for funeral services had been made by the grief-stricken parents.

Contractor Gets Parole To Finish Contract Job

Tim Douglas, contractor, was admitted to parole during good behavior in order that he might complete a contract after being sentenced by Judge W. A. Hutbeck in district court here yesterday to serve 30 days in jail and pay $100 fine for operating an automobile while intoxicated. Douglas pleaded guilty to the charge. The court pointed out that a second offense would be a felony under Idaho law.

AUBURN EDITOR GIVES WORLD "INSIDE" STORY OF REVOLT AMONG PRISONERS IN STATE PENITENTIARY AND DETAILS PART OF POLICE

Report of Chief Chester J. Bills Adds Thrilling Details to Account of Carnage and Heroism in Mutiny

From Welter of Excitement Writer Constructs Narrative of Penal Uprising Most Spectacular in History of New York

(W. O. Dapping, managing editor of Auburn Citizen, who sent the graphic story of the recent Auburn prison outbreak to The Associated Press bulletin by bulletin, and prisoners and officials were struggling for mastery inside the historic structure, tells here the first "inside" story of the revolt, as reported to Mayor Osborne of Auburn, by Chief of Police Bills, leader of the forces of the law. Testaments of the report are combined with the observations of Mr. Dapping, for many years Auburn representative of The Associated Press.)

(By W. O. DAPPING.)
(By The Associated Press.)

AUBURN, Dec. 21—When the fragments of testimony now being gathered in three prison investigations have been pieced together, the resulting mosaic will present what is perhaps the most thrilling chapter in the history of the penal system of New York state.

That most of the facts will be buried somewhere in official archives is probable, but from the welter of excitement has been constructed the first connected narrative of the mutiny of Wednesday, December 11, 1920, during which, with its hostages, its carnage and its heroic rescues, Auburn prison was lost and won by the forces of law and order.

The record of facts obtained at first hand during the thrilling drama, have been added to the ordered statements of principals. None supersedes the official report of Chief of Police Chester J. Bills of the Auburn police department, made today to Mayor Charles D. Osborne.

There had been hints of something amiss, too vague, however, to be reliable. To all surface appearances business as usual was the order at 10 A. M. on December 11.

At excitement
Out on the cell block there was an air of suppressed excitement. At least a score of convicts knew the time had come for a "break." Other inmates knew, too, although perhaps vaguely, that a desperate episode was imminent.

Warden Jennings, who was sitting with Morrison J. Clark. It was Clark who caught the first audible warning of "something down below" and the warden started to investigate.

In that part of the administration building known as the "box office" where everything sent to the convicts is opened and examined, David J. Winnie, guard, was at work when an inmate called him to the wicket.

"What do you want?" he asked.
"Winnie looked into the muzzle of a pistol.
"Open the door!" commanded the convict.
Winnie darted to a door opening on the prison yard. In a split second, before the convict could thrust the gun through the grill and fire, Winnie was out through the door.

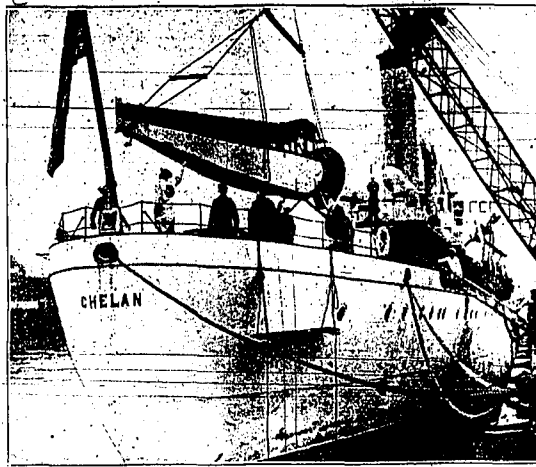

Thus, at a moment between 10:10 and 10:20 A. M. was the original plan of the desperadoes thwarted. Had they captured Winnie in the "box office," access to the front yard would have been a matter of minutes and just beyond was the outer gate.

Down to the ground level and back to the south corridor raced the charged convict. Already the subject of the guards had begun, timed to the expected capture of the "box office."

Principal Keeper George Durnford was held as he left his office at the guard room end of the south corridor leading to the chapel, by a convict said to have been Max Becker, who ignored the call. The first volley of shots started the prison.

Durnford fell with several bullets in his chest. Despite his wounds, the "P. P." stumbled toward the door, only to drop again, this time to rise no more. Auburn prison was in a turre.

Chelan Rushes Planes North In Rescue Mission

THREE AIRPLANES, aboard the coast guard cutter Chelan, are being taken to Alaska, to aid in the search for Carl Ben Eickson and Earl Burdick, flown forced down in the Arctic while engaged in rescuing crew and passengers of an ice-bound ship, the Naniuk, near Silerua. Photo shows plane being put aboard the cutter, just before departure from Seattle.—AP Photo.

Warden Jennings was seized by three convicts when he started from the kitchen to a stairway leading to the chapel. They rushed him to the south rally, second tier. Here the first keeper they met was subdued and relieved of his arms. The convicts then forced the other guards to open the cells of the emergency isolation block. Pawlik and Sullivan took command.

"We are going out!" shouted Sullivan. "Come along if you want to. If not, stay in your cells and shut your hells!"

No more than a handful joined them. Throughout the prison, guards, civilian employees in the Bertrian room and storekeepers with their convict aides barricaded themselves from the demons who now held the corridor. The self-imprisoned workers were shut off hopelessly from the outside.

"Captain Byron Sawyer was at the desk in the Auburn city jail police station when the telephone bell rang.

"This is Auburn prison," he heard an excited voice shout over the wire. "Another riot is in force here. The warden and some of the guards have been captured. Get all the help you can and come out at once!"

Sawyer called Chief Bills from the next room. "Is Bills who set the machinery of rescue in operation. Orders flew in a dozen directions in as many seconds. Help was called from the Oneida barracks, the state trooper headquarters and the police department at half a score of nearby cities and towns.

While his aids were thus engaged, Chief Bills telephoned Major Frederick S. Johnson of the Auburn national guard company. He detailed officers to "rent" the city in a car and pick up all available policemen and rush them to the prison. Bills then sped down to the prison to grapple with the greatest crisis in his career.

Within those walls Warden Jennings was a captive, in imminent peril of death. And with him was Guard Charles J. Bills, Chief Bills' father, whose life also hung upon the action of those outside as well as within the prison walls.

"When I arrived at the prison," read the report of Chief Bills, "I found Sergeant Sullivan, Captain McGrain and Morrison, Foster and Clerk Dero of the prison, with my own men, Sergeant Green and Patrolmen Bobbit, Arnold, Bunnell, Strasser and Craney holding the guard room.

"About this time John MacTaggart, a prison shop employee, was led up to the wicket, a man at his head, the report continues. "We threatened instant death. We could only continue to stall them. Time, and more time, was what we needed. Then Father Cleary arrived he made several trips to the prison for parleys. The inmates became suspicious of him.

"Most of the day had been spent this way. The convicts told the warden time was up to get some action.

"We had our plan all ready. The troops had their gas masks on. We needed more gas bombs but decided to use gas at first. We spent Father Cleary in with a note to tell them they could come out.

"We opened the door of souls had into the guard room and another into the back hall. The guard room offered the best hope for the tear bombs.

"It was 11:50 A. M. when word was passed to the inmates. The range near the door. Beyond they could see the open door. The gates ajar and even a line of cars awaiting them, as they thought. But they met the gas and began gas dropping. Those who did not go down broke for safety. The warden fell and the "guards" buckled under the fumes, but we distast them out.

"It was a ticklish job. The air was full of bullets.

"Chief Cadin of Syracuse, arrived with 50 men. Chief Cavanaugh of Rochester arrived with more gas and 80 men. They began the last phase of the battle, with the men in the upper tiers. They smashed windows and hugged the floors and did all they could to escape the gas, but finally gave in. We rushed them again and again, firing shots. They had to see their men springing, not having much ammunition. It was evening before we got them all."

The final stages of the mutiny came when the roundup for misting firearms began. Every cell was emptied and all their contents thrown into the corridor. Not a snap was overlooked in the search for 12 pistols, which were missing. Six were found in the prison and the other six were located outside the prison and either returned to Acting Warden Christian or otherwise accounted for.

THE GUMPS - MR. BIMBO GOOD FELLOW GUMP

"LOVE SHY" by Barbara Webb

FROM BIMBO - THE MOST BEAUTIFUL BRACELET I'VE EVER SEEN - LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THE BAGUETTE AND MARQUISE DIAMONDS - HE'S A DEAR - BUT IT ISN'T THE PRICE HE PAID - IT'S WHAT'S BACK OF IT ALL

"He took her to meet his sister last night. Mrs. Lane went on. "Only, that's special," Adelaide exclaimed. "And I thought he was slow. Oh, well, Janet, he's not my type any more. Just send me an invitation to the wedding, that's all I ask."

Want Ads - Bargains - Opportunities

"I didn't exactly promise," Janet retorted, frowning her hat on her head. "I just told him I'd try to see that you got there."

"Janet hokey - I called your boy friend at the filling station and he says he'll take you to whatever you want to do - dinner and all. I know it will be like with a car. I can win him round any time this way. They're not to be trusted - and wear your glad rags."

"I suppose you could," Janet admitted reluctantly. "but don't make any mistakes, Adelaide. I'm not seriously interested in Jimmy Warren and I never shall be."

"Perfectly," Janet told him. "I think we'll have a good time. "You're going to see Mildred in the afternoon, aren't you?" he asked.
