Copyright and operation of automobiles is so common nowadays that one hardly ever stops to consider that as a privilege.

This new of the situation, though presents itself rather forcibly in the light of the terms of the parole to which Judge Hugh A. Baker in district court here yesterday assigned Olen Martin.

Under terms of the parole Martin cannot own or operate an automobile for two years. He may operate a truck but only for business use.

There is in this—when one comes to think it over—a good deal of deprivation for a heretofore thoughtless and perhaps improvident youngster, inclined more than a little to be reckless and wild.

It is not going to be easy for young Martin to expiate his offense along the lines laid down by the Court during the next two years, and long before the expiration of that period it is probable that there will be branded upon his mind and conscience an abiding appreciation of the truth of the Court's observations.

gully of the crime which Viola Love has been convicted is not sufficient either to exonerate her or to bring such other persons to an accounting that she so richly deserve. If, as counsel aver, there actually are such persons, their crime is far more heinous than the one of which she has been convicted, because if they are guilty of the forgotten, they are guilty also of a dastardly trick to exculpate themselves.

In this connection it is to be observed that the only claim of proof implicating other persons has been advanced by counsel for the accused young woman and presumably that proof is in their possession.

There are three other ways open for presentation of this evidence. If it existed, there is no reason for supposing that the Prosecuting Attorney would fail to act if valid evidence were laid before him; but, if, for the sake of argument, it were granted that the Prosecuting Attorney would not act, there still remains the provision in the Idaho code for the convening of a Grand Jury.

As an analysis of the business and financial situation of the country which which appeared on today should be accepted as about the most comprehensive summary of the present state of trade and commerce which has yet appeared.

Mr. Babson declares that American business has been going down hill since last July but the descent has been arrested. He further states that following a period of readjustment a resumption of normal activity may be looked for.

There is nothing alarming in the Babson prediction. The trend of business is slightly upward and a gradual acceleration is to be anticipated. Conditions throughout the East will not grow worse. They may remain more or less stationary for a time but the time will not be long.

Readers of The News will find the Babson articles of more than passing interest. Respecting in tone, simply and clearly written, they deal in facts and in conclusions based upon facts and figures. They are not to be taken as mere speculations of a man who has given years to a study of his subject and whose business it is to tell a straight story, without bias and without color.

Young Nowheres Next At Orpheum Showhouse

One of the loveliest to be heard in "Young Nowheres," the first National Vitaphone production starring Richard Barthelmess which comes to the Orpheum theatre tomorrow, is a Christmas carol sung by an unseen chorus choir.

Richard Barthelmess, who plays the role of Blinky, the wiseful elevator boy, visits his sweethearts, relayed by Marian Nixon, who lies ill with pneumonia. It is a tender, unforgettable scene, and as the boy sits beside his bed, the sweethearts' choir breaks into the carol with the throaty notes of a pipe organ in the background.

GIRL SENTENCED TO PRISON APPEALS TO HIGH STATE COURT

Miss Viola Lowe, Convicted of Forgery, Keeps Liberty by Furnishing Bond After Hearing Stern Judgment

Under sentence of imprisonment for 14 years for the forgery of a check, Miss Viola Lowe, 25, former clerk in the office of Twin Falls county superintendent of public health, appealed to the state supreme court within a few days after sentence was pronounced by Judge Hugh A. Baker in district court here yesterday.

Miss Lowe was found guilty at the conclusion of trial that occupied all last week of forgery of a check for $100.00 drawn on the First National bank of Twin Falls, Idaho, just August 20. Checks against her were filed following discovery of shortage attributed to forgery of bank checks amounting to $1000.00 at a retail store.

Retains Liberty

She has not yet been called upon to give a bond in confinement and retained her liberty after sentence was pronounced yesterday by furnishing $250 bond that was signed by her father, C. H. Lowe, and by T. J. Lloyd, Twin Falls. The same sureties signed other bonds furnished for other cases when the jury rendered its verdict last Sunday. The matter was argued at the trial that she will serve the sentence in the event of a supreme court finding against her contentions.

Attorneys for Miss Lowe stated in an affidavit filed in the state supreme court that she is a native born citizen of the United States and that she is not a convict. She is a native born citizen of the United States and that she is not a convict. She is a native born citizen of the United States and that she is not a convict.

With her parents and elder sister, Miss Lowe came into a crowded courtroom yesterday to receive sentence. She stood close to her father and sister. Her mother and two other women were seated in the front row. Judge Baker reviewed the history of the prosecution, returning to the arraignment and preliminary hearing, an unsuccessful attempt to transfer the trial to another county, granting of additional time for the prosecuting attorney to make further study of his case, and finally the trial itself terminating in the return of the verdict. It was a formal proceeding, a part of the trial of the court, in dealing with criminal actions.

When the court inquired whether she had any legal reason why judgment should not be pronounced, Miss Lowe turned with a questioning look toward her legal adviser. He shook his head and she murmured, "No."

It is the judgment of the court, Judge Baker then declared, "that you should be confined in the state prison for a term of not less than 1 year nor more than 14 years."

Scarcely had judgment been pronounced when Mr. Taylor exhibited on the desks of the clerk and prosecuting attorney copies of a number of documents—copies of appeal addressed to the prosecuting attorney and to Idaho attorney general; affidavits in support of application for certificate of probable cause; application for admission to bail.

Judge Baker signed the certificate of probable cause. Mr. Lloyd was summoned to join the state, and the court approved the bond. The prosecuting attorney endorsed the bond with the words, "Approved as to form."

Finally all of the steps were taken, and the girl, with her parents and sister, left the court room, to await the decision of the state supreme court.

Willie Willis

By ROBERT QUILLER

"It ain't right to keep you in for months a whole year when it's got seven letters on you and you're not even in the state supreme court within a few days after sentence was pronounced by Judge Hugh A. Baker in district court here yesterday."

DOMESTIC BEANS GET PREFERENCE OF NAVY

Evidence of Foreign Origin Lacking in Recent Purchases of Department

Whether 854,000 pounds or 427 tons of white beans recently purchased by the navy were wholly or partly of foreign origin is the question before the department. It is stated by P. C. Fyfe, acting paymaster general, in a letter filed in the records of the navy. The beans were purchased by the navy in 1928 and 1929. The beans were purchased by the navy in 1928 and 1929. The beans were purchased by the navy in 1928 and 1929.

The letter of Paymaster General Fyfe to Congressmen Smith follows: "It is quite probable that the letter from the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce accompanying your letter of December 22, 1929, regarding the purchase of white beans for the navy is being reviewed."

The bids for these beans were opened 20 October 1929. A copy of schedule 1728 used in the advertisement for bids is forwarded herewith. "Shimshier and company, San Francisco, received the award for 200,000 pounds of beans under Class 74 and 1,000 pounds under Class 75. The remainder of the schedule was awarded to H. Resler, New York City. The specifications for these beans are attached to the enclosed schedule. You will note that the beans must be 'U. S. Grade No. 1' conforming to the United States standards for beans."

"Beans shall include all kinds of beans produced in the continental United States commonly sold in the dry, shelled state and used for edible purposes. In this statement emphasis should be placed on 'U. S. The 19 classes defined in these standards are the classes of beans which are to be used in the United States. All beans which are of the same type as either of these classes will be accepted for the purpose of meeting the requirements of such class regardless of where the beans may be grown."

"It is not the intention of the department to attempt to certify as to the origin of production of any lot of beans but to certify as to the quality and condition in terms of the United States standards when such beans can be identified as one of the classes defined in the standards. However, in making inspections, if there is any evidence that a lot of beans is of foreign origin, such evidence will be stated on the certificate."

"Beans whether of domestic or foreign origin which can not be classified under one of the 19 classes provided in the standards may be inspected for quality and condition, in which case a descriptive statement will be issued showing the percentage of defects present, such as splits, damaged beans, and foreign material—foreign material together with the generally accepted commercial designation of the type or class, if known."

"You will note that the specifications require the distinction as to the origin of the beans. There would be no author-

DEATH CAR DRIVER MUST FOREGO USE OF CAR FOR TWO YEARS

Court Sets Forth Rigorous Conditions, in Granting Parole to Olen Martin, Convicted of Grave Crime

Olen Martin, Oakley, 28, convicted of involuntary manslaughter in connection with an automobile accident in which two persons were killed, must not drive an automobile for two years, under terms of the parole that was granted by Judge Hugh A. Baker in district court here yesterday.

Martin was admitted to parole after being sentenced by Judge Baker to serve 2 to 5 years in the state prison. Under terms of the parole, Martin must pay out of his own earnings costs of the prosecution totaling $295.50, and must report twice a year to the court and at all times keep his grandfather, Sol Worthington, Oakley, to whom his bond was forfeited, advised in regard to his condition.

The prohibition against use of automobiles during the period of the parole is for motor cars, for pleasure purposes. It does not prevent use of motor trucks in business purposes.

Upon violation of any of the terms of the parole, Judge Baker declared, the parole will be rescinded and Martin will be required to serve the prison term. "Your future," Judge Baker told the young man yesterday, "depends entirely upon your own conduct."

The ever present thought that you have unlawfully taken the life of a human being will stay by your greatest punishment," the judge observed. "You are a young man with a bright future and you have a bright future."

Martin, a sturdy youth with round face and yellow hair, stood erect before the judge while sentence was pronounced and later, when the court reviewed the terms of the parole. There was no mistaking evidences of his apprehension of the gravity of the occasion and of the seriousness of the court's purpose. Martin was brought into the court room from the jail above where he had been confined for a month since being pronounced guilty by the jury.

Nearly 100 persons were seated in the court room at the time, most of them remaining in witness benches of Miss Viola Lowe, 25, Twin Falls, convicted of forging a Berger rural school district order for $100.00.

Petitions for and against admitting Martin parole were filed and circulated and widely signed in both Twin Falls and Cassia counties. In Martin's behalf his attorney, Captain E. M. Swerley, referred to his youth and to the fact also that the jury in the first trial of the charge against Martin had been composed of six persons, five of whom were from the county. Submitting petitions protesting against admission to parole prosecuting Attorney E. V. Lander argued that the justice system must be taken as a deterrent to reckless and drunken driving.

Martin was allowed to have been responsible for a collision on the highway near Murtaugh on the night of last May 3 in which William M. Shotwell, Twin Falls, returning with other Twin Falls men from a "dinner" meeting at Burley, and Miss Edith Truce, Ovid, 16, riding in Martin's car, were fatally injured.

At the first trial Martin denied that he had been drinking, but denied that he was drunk when the collision occurred.

Great Shoshone Falls to Have Increase in Volume

Great Shoshone falls which has been very much diminished as a result this week will reach large dimensions again Sunday or Monday, according to the forecast by John F. Hayes, manager of the Twin Falls Canal company. Mr. Hayes said that the volume of water in the week from 1929 to 2000 feet of water had been flowing over the falls. On Monday, it is said, the volume of water that otherwise came down the river was accumulating in the reservoir and the amount flowing over Great Shoshone falls was diminished to about 700 acre feet. Water was received from Miller last evening by Mr. Hayes. The previous flow of more than 6000 feet of water which reached the falls last night, which was a record for the falls, Sunday. The cause of the increase at this time was not given. Mr. Hayes stated.

OLD FRIENDS' GREETINGS. CHEER VETERAN PLUMBER

Among holiday remembrances delivered to Alex W. Murray, veteran Twin Falls plumber and municipal planning inspector, one that he prizes most highly was a letter from his old friends, the members of the Arnold-Gibson plumbing contractor, a close friend of the Twin Falls man for nearly a half century since both were engaged in business in Chicago. Greetings also have been received by Mr. Murray from the president and secretary of the national organization of master plumbers, which he helped to organize in 1882 and of which he has been elected a life member.

"Men who are worthy or prominent want to experience the highest respect," Mr. Murray said last evening, "and when one is old, and crippled and alone they mean a great deal."

Mr. Arnold's verse, entitled "Christmas greetings and best wishes for 1929," and addressed to Alex Murray, Twin Falls, is as follows: "Another year and we're still here. How beautiful it is to live. I sometimes think as the years go by. That it's not a sin; The world keeps shrinking forth and back. And sometime we'll fall through. Let's hope and pray we may be spared For this coming year and more."

MYSTERY MAN GETS BLAME FOR FORGERY

C. P. Reed Fails to Satisfy Curiosity of Authorities Who Want Explanation

Without benefit of counsel, C. P. Reed, in probable court here yesterday told his own story in explanation of his part in alleged passing of an alleged forged check for $40.00 at a local department store. Reed, 35, of this city, was before the court for preliminary hearing on a felony charge of forgery of the check. Too ready sympathy for a fellow being in distress broods on all the trouble, Reed averred. He told of meeting a stranger on the street who insisted his property and assistance with a plea for help in getting a check. The stranger, Reed said, explained his need for assistance on the grounds that he had indulged too freely in hard liquor and didn't want to go into a store in that condition.

Reed did not explain his presentation of the check in payment for a pair of shoes. He will be permitted to make further explanation on trial in the district court since Judge C. A. Bailey at the close of the hearing ordered that he should be held to answer to the forgery charge, and admitted him to $500 bail which was not furnished.
