WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—An announcement came from the White House today that President Hoover would submit the first report of the law enforcement commission to congress Monday. The commission itself issued a statement asserting that the criminal law enforcement machinery of the country is entirely inadequate.

Decision of the president to transmit the commission report was announced today. The had been widely published earlier today.

ed on the prohibition enforcement policy. These reports were promptly denied by Speaker Longworth and Republican Leader Wilson in formal statements.

Other developments in the prohibition discussion included an attack upon the "dry" laws by Representative Bohner, Republican, Wisconsin, a Republican Independent, that the law enforcement commission be permitted to make its study without outside discussion or influence.

Humors of Clash

Reports of a disagreement between the president and the house leaders were predicated upon statements of the latter that they wanted regular committees of the house instead of a proposed joint committee to consider the matter of transferring the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department.

At the White House, it was said that the plan of a joint committee to consider reorganization of the federal agencies for the enforcement of pro-

The senate resolution proposing the special committee was drafted that its recommendations would have had to be considered by regular house committees before house action. It was decided, however, that the whole question could be expedited by the various house committees taking up the proposal directly and immediately.

The further statement was made that the white house had no interest in the question of procedure, that it desired only expedition of legislation and that it would adopt itself entirely to the wishes of house leaders in any methods they might adopt for early consideration of the proposals.

When the recommendations of the commission were submitted to the president, it was said they could be transmitted to congress as soon as the president should have time to consider them.

committee had been created. Since this plan of handling the legislation has been disapproved by house leaders, the president decided to send up the recommendations Monday.

These recommendations are under stood to deal with the border patrols, the transfer of the prohibition unit and several other subjects but their contents are being closely guarded both by the White House and the commission.

Low Temperature Ends

One Life in New Mexico

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Jan. 10 (AP)—The second death in New Mexico this winter resulting from sub-zero temperatures, was reported today when the frozen body of an unidentified man was found three miles west of Las Vegas.

The body was apparently that of a tramp who was frozen last night while asleep. There was no evidence of death by violence.

During the November snows, a boy hunter was frozen to death in the hills near Bowe, New Mexico.

PROFESSORS-CENSOR MICHIGAN EDUCATORS

Curators and President of Great Institution Come in for Adverse Criticism

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—President Stratton Duluth Brooks and the board of curators of the University of Michigan have been censured by the Association of University Professors as a result of the controversy over a questionnaire at that institution.

The censure, announced this month by the association, was returned after investigation into the disciplining of two professors of the university faculty, because of their rejection of the questionnaire.

The association said the inquiry had been conducted by a committee of the faculty and students in the account of Professor "Macdonald" C. McCarty, who was dismissed last spring on account of the questionnaire. Professor Max F. Meyer was suspended.

Political Conclusions

The committee's conclusions, as revealed in a statement last preliminary to publication in the February bulletin of the association, were:

"For the board of curators to decree the most severe punishment within its power to a professor who is not a member of this association is a violation of the principles of freedom of teaching and research and of the rights of the university."

Professors A. J. Carlson and J. H. Johnson of the University of Chicago; Percy Bordwell of the University of Iowa; and J. H. Gray of the American University, Washington, D. C., were among the members of the committee.

Attending to the action against the curators and the president, without notice and without hearing, without the presence of the faculty, the statement said the questionnaire had related to "one changing economic status of the university community."

Both professors approved the questions and several hundred copies were distributed to students with instructions to answer them.

"That they took the questionnaire as a questionnaire to be circulated which tended to make students sexually immoral."

"That the questionnaire was shocking to students, especially to women students."

"That the questionnaire could produce any scientifically valid conclusion not any false, likely to be of substantial value."

"That the questionnaire tended to create the condition that it is alleged to correct."

No Evidence of Shock

"There is little or no evidence that any student receiving the questionnaire, was shocked or intimidated by it. There is no evidence that the questionnaire led to sexual immorality or to decreased respect for the authority of the university on the part of the students. Apparently, however, the publicity, the questionnaire was taken by the students for the purpose of creating a scandal."

The evidence is in agreement on the point that the curators and the president are familiar or known not only to the students in the University of Michigan but practically to every high school graduate before entering the university of Michigan.

Professor McCarty testified that he had been frequently consulted by students about the very issues that are raised in this questionnaire. He stated that the sex code and the moral ideas that are also involved in engagement and marriage. The students testified that these points of the sex code of moral engagement and marriage are frequently discussed frankly, not only in the fraternity and society houses but also by the girls with their boy friends.

These students do have ideals and convictions about the sexual code and marriage. They are not, however, as the statement says, "in a state of sexual immorality." The statement denies the further objection of the board that the inquiry from its very nature could produce any scientifically valid conclusions or any facts likely to be of substantial value.

Controversy Rages Over Sugar Tariff in 'Upper Chamber'

It was opposed by the proposed increase in duty in the pending bill from 1.75 to 2.50 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar on the ground that it would place a heavy burden on the American sugar farmer but little, increase the profits of sugar growers in the American sugar industry and fail to increase domestic production.

Waiting his arms and walking up and down the center aisle of the chamber, Senator Burton announced his colleague with the tariff he displayed in ripping into "protectionists" against a higher sugar tariff. A little while earlier he had been at a luncheon given by his party.

Senator Burton, who is a native of Cuba, said: "The National City Bank would like to see the domestic sugar industry destroyed so that larger profits for its foreign investments might accrue."

He added the New York Bank would like to see the domestic sugar industry destroyed so that larger profits for its foreign investments might accrue.

ROCKIES HOLD PAST OF AGED CROCODILE

American Museum of Nat- ural History Finds Reptile of 100,000,000 Summers

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—One of the oldest residents of the present state of New Mexico, who recently was uncovered by the American Museum of Natural History, would not recognize the times today.

He was a seven-foot crocodile and lived in a tropical swamp that now is a high, dry and cool section of the New Mexican Rockies, between 500 and 600 feet above sea level.

The creature was found by Dr. G. C. Simpson, associate curator of vertebrate paleontology, buried in the bulk of a layer of sand and gravel recently discovered by geologists.

Although Dr. Simpson estimates his age as nearly 100,000,000 years, the crocodile is startingly like the crocodiles of today.

It is sufficiently different so that it is not a modern crocodile, but it is a crocodile in a fair fight, but its features are so similar as to give crocodiles a good claim on palaeontology.

Dr. Simpson says the prehistoric reptile is a little shorter, has a blunt snout, and some of its teeth are blunt, that is, shaped like tree trunks, instead of the long, sharp, fangs of the modern crocodile.

In this same region, the San Juan basin, the paleontologists found remains of a large dinosaur, a 30-foot long, 10-ton animal.

The largest, named Periplanthis, was a 10-foot long, 10-ton animal.

reported in Germany and one in Toledo, Ohio. In the United States 11 persons were critically ill—two in Toledo, Ohio, in Warren, Ohio, and seven in Baltimore, Maryland—and its vicinity. One died in Toledo, Ohio, and one in Baltimore, Maryland.

In each case a parrot had recently been brought into the home and soon after its arrival had taken sick and died. Some of the persons ill in Baltimore applied to a local physician, who recently received a shipment of birds from Brazil.

The disease, which attacks both parrots and human beings much as a combination of influenza and typhoid fever, was reached epidemic proportions last October in the Argentine, according to that country's health service, and was divided in their opinion as to whether parrots could be communicated to human beings from parrots. Doctors generally describe it as a disease which human beings may contract from parrots.

It first appeared in this country in Baltimore, where three persons in one family became critically ill soon after Christmas. They purchased from a Baltimore pet shop, died Christmas day.

Although some doctors say the disease cannot be communicated from one human being to another, the McEntyre family of Warren, Ohio, three of whom are ill, have been placed under quarantine.

Whether the figures show an advantage to Germany or not, the increase in exports has been the most noteworthy recent fact in the world's foreign trade.

PROVO, Utah, Jan. 10 (AP)—Brighton University triumphed, the University of Nevada criers here tonight by a score of 44 to 26. The Cougars assumed the lead as the game and extra period ended, the visitors being unable to score with the brilliant shooting of Britney, Romney and Magley.

Exports to South American increased 20 per cent, or eight times faster than the general increase for all exports. Mr. Davis says most of the additional exports to South American were machinery, iron and steel products and automobiles.

Canada's exports are estimated for the calendar year to be about 6 per cent in advance of 1929. The United States practically evened up last year, and France expects a slight recession.

The export trade of the world as a whole on the basis of reports for the first six months, indicates an advance of about 10 per cent. The United States is about 10 per cent in advance of last year.

The first time it appears likely that Germany's exports for the year will be larger than those of Great Britain.

Bruce Flowers and Tut Fight to Draw Decision Close in Battle Between New Rochelle Na- tional and Mid-West Fighter

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Bruce Flowers, champion lightweight, fought a technical knockout in the second round of his fight with Tut Wallace, champion of the Chicago stadium tonight.

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, defeated Jimmy Owens, Oshkosh, Wis., in the third round. Owens was knocked out in the first round. He was no match for the challenger. He had previously been a push-in-the-mouth and was on the verge of going to the floor from punishment in the second round. Fields won by a technical knockout in the second round.

Plevers, floored for a count of nine in the third round, managed to score enough points at long range boxing to convince the two judges that he either won the fight or should have a draw. One of the judges voted in favor of Flowers, and the other declared for a draw, while referee Barry cast his ballot for Tut.

Tut, who stopped Billy Wallace 10 days ago, bled his head on Flowers' chest, and whaled away with both hands to the head and body in a grueling attack.

Tut weighed 137½ pounds with gloves—similar to a pound heavier.

Billy Wallace, Cleveland lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Danny Deacon, a swelling Chicago youngster, in the ninth round of their scheduled 10-round match.

Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight, outpointed Louis New, Milwaukee, in a 10-rounder.

Cigaret-Scofflaws
Pestering Dominion

DETROIT, Jan. 10 (AP)—Scofflaws, it seems, depend upon the point of view.

"Scofflaws," selling American cigarettes, are pestering liquor in the link which are being made in the pocket, are thick around the Detroit market, thicker than half-minute purveyors of liquor on the Canadian side.

The popular brands of American cigarettes sell in Windsor, and throughout Canada, for 35 cents a pack of 20, on account of the import tax, and the Canadian law frowns upon those who smuggle them almost as severely as the American law frowns upon hip-pocket importers of liquor.

The Canadian taste for American cigarettes, too, it seems, is about as acute as the American taste for Canadian spirits.

A tip . . . from Andrew Carnegie

ASKED to explain his phenomenal success, Andrew Carnegie blandly attributed it to his ability to get men to work for him who knew more than he did.

And that's a formula for success. Nobody who is really successful does all the work himself. He employs other people's minds and efforts.

Do you do the same in the intricate business of running your home and taking care of your family? You can, quite easily.

You can employ specialists in diet; you can serve the master dishes of famous chefs; you can have the advice of style authorities in selecting your clothes, of whole electrical laboratories in buying household appliances, by reading the advertisements.

All the newest knowledge—knowledge millions of dollars and years of effort have won—is contained in the advertisements.

If you will use the advertisements in this newspaper as Andrew Carnegie used men who knew more than he did, every dollar you spend will be spent wisely, economically, and will return full measure of satisfaction. That's the way to be a success in the greatest business in the world—making a home.

It Pays to Read the Advertisements

Editor Twin Falls News.

Dear Sir:

Since the passage of a January 8 News article embodying the statement of a certain Oregon minister to the effect that churches have no longer "need of bells" and further in today's issue the publication of the probable passing of the great philanthropist, Edward A. Bok, I wonder who is not giving a flexible thought as to the sacred character of the church bell.
