English Physicist Invents Device to Photograph Electron

PICTURES MADE BY CAMERA RESEMBLE GLOW OF RAINBOW

30,000-Volt Vacuum Tube Projects Stream of Particles

Atoms of Every Substance Make Distinctive Patterns

Instrument 'Becomes Valuable in Study of Catalysts'

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Science Editor, Associated Press

TWIN FALLS, Jan. 25.—If the sun should turn pale green at sunset and streak the sky above the dim, green, rainbow-shaped arcs, the scene would be a perfect copy of exquisite pictures filmed by a new kind of camera at Cornell University.

The camera uses electrons instead of light, and its "sun" is a stream of electrons projected by a vacuum tube with a piece of copper at its tip, which radiates nature's glow.

This camera is the only one of its kind in the world, developed a few months ago at Aberdeen, Scotland, by Professor G. T. Thomson, a young English physicist, who is eminent in the scientific world. He is professor of natural philosophy at Aberdeen, and it is at Cornell this winter as George P. Baker, non-resident lecturer in chemistry.

Some of the electron pictures show the launch on copper, the kind that housewives get rid of with a polishing rag. A small piece of copper is bombarded for use in one of Dr. Thomson's experiments and allowed to be introduced for an hour in a stream of secondary electrons and a vacuum.

At the end of the hour its bright glow is extinguished, but spectacularly, the film of particles already should have started, and the camera will show whether the copper is in the middle of the camera, or at the end of it, or if it can be moved about at will.

At one end of the camera is a long vacuum tube of glowing light, known as a cathode ray tube, which projects the ordinary 100-volt energy of radio tubes. This tube projects a beam of electrons through the middle of the camera directly into the copper, and shining on a fluorescent glass plate at the opposite end.

The beam of electrons is so intense that it penetrates the entire glass plate. When the bit of copper is manipulated to thrust it into the electron stream, the beam of light begins to wobble, with all the twilight effects of a great rain setting behind the earth's shoulder.

As the electron sun sinks, green light begins to appear. It is produced by filling the photo plate with a geometrical pattern. This pattern reveals the nature of the substance being photographed, and in this case it is copper oxide, which laymen know as a tarish.

The atoms of each substance make their own distinctive pattern, thereby revealing both scientific and practical information.

Professor Thomson's aim is a new method of studying "catalysts," the substances used by chemists in what is called catalysis. The public may have called catalysis.

New catalysts are commonplace in chemical manufacture. They usually are small foreign particles which help to change an substance into another—nearly like it—chemically.

Professor G. T. Thomson, English physicist, has invented the electron camera which takes a picture resembling a rainbow. The diagram illustrates the mechanism of the camera.

Weather Interferes With Hoop Schedules

Twin Falls Bruin Hoopsters Overwhelm Gooding Team, 37 to 4

District Situation Still Lacks Games Vital to Forecast

Week on Court in South-Central Idaho Finds Bruins Dividing Honors With Flashy Teams From Buhl

By E. M. SWEENEY

ACK OF teamwork on the part of the weather sent some of the scheduled games over for later play, and this leaves the district situation still lacking games enough for safe estimate of the strength of the several teams. This will work out in due time, and may be an advantage to the teams new to the season, their players too many games before the material is entering physical shape not fully helpful.

Twin Falls and Buhl had their first meeting and divided honors to 26, and displayed real progress over the previous week with promise to come very early in the game with Buhl it became apparent that the smaller home floor was by no means without advantages in preparation. The small floor is a sharp disadvantage in handling, forces a degree of deception and builds up a fast break. That it can be made to do so, the Bruins have made good use of. In the first quarter they were faster than Buhl on attack, and got into the lead. The movement in the condition of the game, as compared with the game played on the big Kimberly floor, was noted. The Bruins could keep up their pace over the whole game as Buhl, while at Kimberly there were times when they lagged a bit. The larger speed bothered them some on defense when Buhl took to carrying the attack, but as the game went along this became less important, for the players are being known to learn as they go.

Morgan got back in the game and steadied the play. With Bacon in line taking this morning's game over for a time. If Morgan had been out all the team time would have suffered. As it was, the game along its basis of attack and defense made good by Morgan's return, although this player was again helped out. All of the Buhl speed attacks payed hard fighting game, is sharp and quick in his floor work, and with more game experience next season his basket shooting ability will be a more effective use. He plays the ball rather than the man, and this is one to be made use of when the going gets heavy. The shammoneing of the players was again helped out. They were steadily threatening the basket; Lincoln had a trick of snapping from a very sharp-breasting offensive, and against Buhl swept the ball a couple of times with a speed that found Buhl almost flat-footed. Given has had the fortune in two games to hit full usefulness when it was most needed. Against Jerome he flicked the winning basket from almost mid-floor when there was only a line of play left to come to his full effectiveness against Buhl in the last quarter, when points were needed. A scoring team in this game is tight is useful. Weaver's play is better. He held his speed all the way to the end. Buhl has a lot of work yet to be done, but have done enough to promise that they are workers who can sustain their own team and come from behind.

GOODING, Jan. 25.—Gooding high school basketball team, Twin Falls Bruins when the latter were going at 37 to 4, here tonight. After the hard tussle with Buhl last night it was not expected that Twin Falls would have so much energy, but they struck their full speed from the start and had the best of the offense all the way, while their defense held Gooding in control all time. Gooding's shots as counters, were not checked as counter, probably because of the striking speed of the Bruin defense, and in the second half the Twin Falls team substituted.

University Pugilists of Northwest Prepare For 1930 Campaign

Boxers Train for Performances on Conference Stage

Washington Aspirants go into Intensive Training For Division Tournament in Arena at Eugene

By FRANK G. GORRIE (Associated Press Sports Writer) SEATTLE, Jan. 25.—University pugilists will be the next contenders to perform on the athletic stage of the northern division Pacific coast conference circuit.

While the basketballers are having their final bouts of Washington and Oregon and Washington State and Oregon State are seriously preparing for their mid-winter act, which will be shown in March and April.

The fighters, winners of the Pacific coast conference championship and the Northwest intercollegiate title last year, are expected to again play the leading role.

The Northwest tournament will be held at Eugene, March 7 and 8 while the Pacific coast battles will be staged in the Washington pavilion there April 1 and 2.

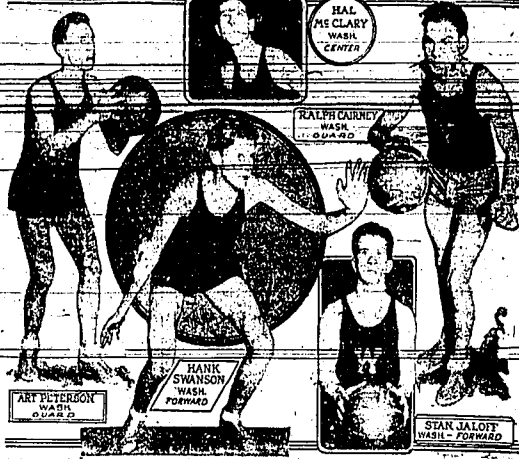

Coach Norman Kunde of the Washington aggregation has lost two champions and three other boxers, but is confident that the Huskies will again make a good showing.

John Perdik, Pacific Coast Amateur Athletic Union, and Northwest Intercollegiate, midweight champion, and Dick Hurrell, Pacific coast welterweight title winner, are the two biggest losses at Washington.

There is a slight possibility that Hurrell will fight next year and that Standard will be available again.

Hurrell's grades have been a little below standard and Standard has been ill.

Blinding Glare Of Fierce Red Sun Ruins Art Nehf's Last Ball Game

By JAY VESSELS (Sports Editor, Associated Press Feature Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Playing the afternoon of last September 15, Art Nehf simply must ask questions about his baseball experiences might play safe and avoid reference to the retired star's misfortune in the 1929 series.

Since Nehf has quit the game to help manage one of William Wrigley's hotels it is assumed that his partons will want to do a "way back when" act.

That will be quite all right if it's far enough back.

What happened in Art's last appearance as a big league pitcher is something that he would just as soon forget.

The few hundred persons at Shibe Park on the afternoon of last September 15, who were not powered with joy over the world's record-breaking "fally" or "the Ammerler" probably will remember the day for the break he didn't get that day.

Nehf was called to check the As after they had routed Charley Root in a 10-inning game that wiped out the Cubs' eight-run lead.

And Art stepped into the box to find himself facing not only the slugging Billie Ponder, but a still stronger pitcher in the bullpen, and a fiery red sun, just dropping behind the stands.

Shading his eyes with his gloved hand, Art managed to get his catchers' signals but when he took the plate to throw he had no protection.

But one out over that time he picked "for a forty" to cut the corners on the next two pitches but they went for balls. So with two men on one out and the Cubs only four runs ahead he had to make the next one good.

What Nehf did to that pitcher might have been to bid him and Hank Wilson—let the drive in the sun. Heck did, three runs came in and the As were one score behind with Miller Coker on a try ready to start it all over again.

Stolidly Art went back to work. The terrific roar of that great crowd meant nothing to him. But the sun did. It was unbearable. So the game rane walked over four of five pitches missed the plate.

Then they took Art out. They

Fortune Smiles on Aimless Wanderer of Cauliflower Patches

Carnera Receives $17,904 for Brief Bout With Gopher

Slightly Frayed Leather Workers Tear in Upon Heels of Peterson to Take Cuts at Italian

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The business of fighting Primo Carnera, regardless of the outcome, threatens to develop a "nouveau riche" among the aimless wanderers in cauliflower patches from Maine to Mexico.

Like the gold rush of the '40s, the days, slightly frayed leather workers tore in upon the heels of Big Boy Peterson today to take their cuts at the mammoth Italian as well as the magnificent gate receipts that promise to greet his tour of the flate centers. Some of the excitement was a genuine desire to take a sock at such a huge target, 270 pounds of still undisciplined musculature. But most of it followed the revelation of the earnings of Carnera and Peterson for a million and 90 cents of putting in a knockout strike during the fight.

Peterson Well Paid Feliciano, it was solemnly announced, took his place among the highest of all paid athletes of the ring by drawing down $10,084 for suffering three knockdowns and finally a knockout. On the basis of actual fighting, despite because of Peterson's lack of participation in the phase of the fight that has been from Minneapolis drew a wage of approximately $10,000. On the basis of the D.M.A. of which Peterson landed two, his salary amounted to $500 a blow.

Carnera Gets $17,904 Carnera, the business office revealed, received $17,904 for the minute and 10 seconds of activity, a rate of about $400 for each minute scored. This sum probably set a record price for a foreign heavy-weight's debut in America. It was even surpassed further, as Carnera really received 47 1/2 per cent of the gate, or $23,540, and from the amount paid Peterson a flat $500 for his services.

Nevertheless, the rush of customers for Carnera reached the avalanche stage when the figures were announced. Primo seemed to box either Johnny King, Jimmy MacIntyre or K. O. Christian for the garden April 11. He may box either Jack Agon or Bud Gorman in Boston February 14. Already the huge Italian has been signed for contests with Eliaz Rios in Chicago next Friday and one with Bill Owens in Newark, New Jersey, February 4.

Oregon Sapling Makes Walker Cup Team

DON MOE

Donald K. Moe is one of the youngest American golf players ever to be picked for international competition. He is 20 years old and western amateur champion.

By HIRSH BELL (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Donald K. Moe, Oregon sapling, will represent the youth of golf on the 1930 Walker Cup team. Young Moe, he is not yet 21 years of age, will, however, feel no need to ask quarter on account of his long years. He can hold his own with his seniors and will not be given the benefit of an apprentice allowance.

The student of the University of Oregon has been a star of the great Northwest for years. He is the reigning monarch for Western amateur golf, winning the title at Kansas City last summer but holding a championship was no novelty for the Oregonian.

He had won titles of less importance but these nevertheless will back him up when he meets "only a kid" as Martin Ott told John J. McCraw when the manager of the club asked him if he ever played the Western Cup. Moe's father made a startling statement. Ott was even younger than Moe when he took the Western Cup. ## Hitchcock Leads Nation's Poloists

Only Man to Hold Maximum Handicap of 10 Goals

Takes Command of Forces

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP)—Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., today was placed in full command of the American polo forces that will defend the international cup against an invading English team in September.

Showing unbounded confidence in the 30-year-old New Yorker who is generally considered the world's leading player, the executive committee of the United States Polo association, through its chairman, Louis E. Stoddard, announced his election as Captain of the team and chairman of the defense committee as well.

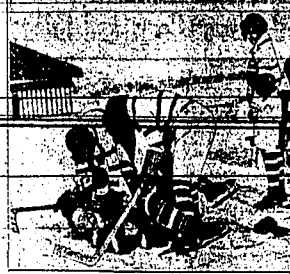

The son of Thomas Hitchcock, Sr., who played on America's first international team back in 1886, Tommy began his polo career at the age of 15 and at 18 he won his first championship cups as a member of the teams which captured the junior and senior titles.

This hard-riding and hard-hitting star blossomed out as an internationalist nine years ago. He played on America's teams against England in 1921, 1922, and 1923 and captained the side against Argentina in 1923.

For the last two years Tommy has been listed as the King of American polo, being the only man to hold the maximum handicap rating of 10 goals.

MERCURY FLUCTUATES IN VICINITY OF RUPT

RUPT, Jan. 25. (Special to The News).—After pushing down to 25 below zero Monday night, the mercury in and around Rupert again settled with that which stands for cold, and nighttime records show then, according to the government thermometer, that it has ranged from four below to 24 below, Thursday and Friday a decided tendency toward moderation has been shown.

Five inches of snow is recorded here to date and high winds of the early week did little to make travel uncertain and difficult.

The temperature in Rupert registered 30 above last Friday, and within 24 hours dropped to 25 degrees below.

50 horsepower six cylinder engine

Not until you drive the new Chevrolet—and for sustained high speeds. Its six can you appreciate what a wonderful improvement has been made in its famous six-cylinder valve-in-head engine. With its capacity increased to 50 horsepower, it has great reserve energy for sweeping up the steepest hills—for swift acceleration and for sustained high speeds. Its power flows evenly and smoothly. And it is extremely flexible in traffic. In fact—it does everything you could possibly want a motor to do. Yet it is remarkably economical in its use of gasoline and oil. Come in today for a demonstration.
