Dramatic Adventure of Air and Sea Costs Army Flier's Life

NEW YORK AVIATOR DIES WHEN PLANES CRASH ON PACIFIC

Surface Vessels Bring Companions of Ill-Fated Airman to Honolulu After Harrowing Experiences

HONOLULU, May 15 (AP)—The body of an air and sea, it was found today, has cost the life of Staff Sergeant Joseph Becker, Brooklyn, New York, and caused the loss of three military airplanes between the islands of Maui and Hawaii yesterday. Twelve other army and navy fliers whose planes roared the rough waves from noon yesterday until early today were rescued safely after by reaching surface vessels.

Becker died when an army bombing plane fell into the ocean while flying a fleet of forty-two army and navy planes from Tinian and Wheeler fields, near here to Hilo, Hawaii. A navy seaplane and two army amphibious planes were brought by their crews to the rescue of the bomber's men. They picked up three men, but the rescuing plane was unable to rise from the rough water.

While flying 5000 feet high, the bomber broke in bits and pieces when it was about to land. Becker parachuted open prematurely as he was about to land, and became entangled in the bomber's flying. Two others of the crew parachuted at an altitude of 4000 feet and were picked up by the rescuing planes.

Legs Lacerated
Lieutenant Tellmads Loeble Boyd, Washington, pilot of the bomber, remained with the ship in an heroic effort to extricate Becker and was drawn into the whirling stabilizer. Boyd's legs were lacerated, his shoes and socks torn off and his clothing reduced to rags. Three thousand feet above the sea, Boyd freed himself and bailed with his parachute into the water.

A naval seaplane commanded by Lieutenant M. A. Schur followed the parachuting men down and picked up Boyd, Staff Sergeant J. Alexander, Kennedy, Alabaster, and Flyer. Lt. J. L. Cowan, Spence, New York, Becker was carried down by the bomber beneath the waves.

Boyd, Alexander and Cowan were brought to a hospital here to be treated for exposure.

The eleventh Hawaii rescued Lieutenant E. W. Rawlings, Sergeant C. P. Summers, Senior, Lieutenant C. A. Hawkins, Aviation Pilot A. H. Schlick, chief radio man, J. H. Dobson and Machine A. J. Kacherig. One of the planes drifted miles before its men were rescued.

Through the long hours of day and night, the three planes, which to give assistance owing to rough seas. Several surface vessels which had gone to the scene were unable to at once locate the drifting planes.

SON OF UTAH
ODDEN, Utah, May 15 (AP)—L. Boyd, pilot of an army bomber which was forced down on the Pacific coast off Hawaii yesterday, is the son of Mrs. C. A. Boyd, society editor of the Standard-Examiner here. He was graduated from Utah, Texas, last February, and went to Honolulu.

would transform the 1920-21 treaty into a full five-year agreement.

He said the London meeting had not been merely a naval conference, but had aimed at contributing to the cause of general disarmament.

"We must turn our attention now to the sea part of the air and land as well," he said. "The limitations of the form of armament will not go very far to secure the peace of the world."

The foundation of real security and international understanding, Mr. MacDonald added, must be an agreement between the United States and Great Britain such as has been made.

"And that piece of work has been done," he said to the accompaniment of cheers. He said that the nations are "falling back into their old mentalities."

Old fears and old superstitions regarding security are returning.

"The same sort of arguments so familiar before 1914 are coming up, unwholesome and unwholesome, in 1929."

RUINS OF CHICAGO ELEVATOR RECALL EXCITING BATTLE

Unmated at $140,000.

An 181 Joseph Letter, six feet tall, rolled up his Harvard pennant and a bunch of air sheeps, deposited $20,000 check from his father and stuck his determined chin into Chicago finance. He played with stocks, flirted with bankruptcy but made more money than any other showing reduction in the wheat supply, he turned his attention to the Chicago board of trade.

He had no idea what wheat looked like and less idea as to its uses. About his plan for cornering the market. He began to buy anyway. Old timers said he was more than apt about his plan for cornering the market. While buying every bushel he could, he advised the public not to sell wheat.

The wheat supply in 1897 was 200,000,000 bushels above average. The American supply was 120,000,000 bushels above average.

Armour and other great traders in 1897, they paid little attention to the price of wheat in the market. But then, he drove the price from 64 cents to 74 1/2 cents, and kept it there. The bears suddenly found the Chicago market destitute of wheat—and they were obliged to sell at 200,000,000 bushels in the market. They scoured the country, found the wheat and started to laugh at their losses. Letter could not pay, of his losses. Letter could not pay, of his losses.

But Levi Zeigler Letter came forward with $20,000,000 to back his son. Armour and the bears became more than worried. Letter beat them to the Minneapolis and Duluth mar-

ARIZONA OFFICERS USE GAS ON THREE

Modern Methods Win Against Gun Play of Old West, Cattle Rustler's Defense

TWIN FALLS, May 15 (AP)—Arizona police today bombarded up against the two-gun play of the Old West near here today and the tear-bomb was when Edward Mitchell, now a prisoner in the Colorado jail, surrendered to a posse on a charge of cattle stealing after he had had a good cry. Mitchell, a black-headed giant of a man, and a stranger in these parts, was accused by law of the part of a rustler who had been arrested in a gun fight near the town of Park, Ariz. Mitchell yesterday today they were used with almost immediate effect. Mitchell came out weeping and surrendered. His head was wrapped in a blanket which he had used as an improvised gas mask.

The "herm" was placed in jail charged with theft of cattle he will be charged with retaining arrest. Sheriff Oliver said.

Not much is known of the prisoner except that he is a wanderer in the southwest and has been headmastering recently on the Parks ranch. Several hundred pounds of jerked beef were found in the stone cabin where he resided arrest. It is alleged the meat is from cattle stolen by him.

Nevertheless at the end of May, 1898, the bears were able to finish up 8,000,000 bushels and deliver—and Letter was able to pay. The price was $1.25 a bushel.

When came Armour's trump, the three quickly built a elevator, the dynamite in the "boom" and ruin for Letter. On June 13, 1898, with 25,000,000 bushels of wheat on hand, Letter's father and the banks withdrew support and left him helpless in the face of Armour's readiness to deliver. In an hour he unloaded 8,000,000 bushels and the price dropped 30 cents. Only timely intervention of the banks and appointment of trustees to dispose of Letter's wheat at the market demanded saved the day from a grain panic. The price went to 75 cents.

"It was easy to make and easy to lose," said Letter. He aimed at other interests and regrouped his fortune in gas. Today the fortune combined with that left by his father, is one of the world's largest.

Letter has followed the suggestion in his entry.

George Washington's "Home Town" Gains 33 Per Cent During Decade Just Past

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The census-taker's tally today revealed the modern status of three of America's most historic cities—St. Augustine, Florida; Plymouth, Massachusetts; and Alexandria, Virginia.

St. Augustine and Alexandria showed a marked increase, but Plymouth, Massachusetts decreased 500 per cent.

A fourth city, Henry Ford's Dearborn, Mich., was not included in the census.

St. Augustine, oldest city of the United States, showed the second highest percentage of increase of any city of more than 10,000 population thus far reporting.

Dearborn, totaling 59,960, increased 127.7 per cent over its 1920 population of 2470, coming closest to the 33 per cent gain of Alexandria, Va.

Quaint old Alexandria, George Washington's "home town" some time tried "the United City" by increasing its population and reducing its area. It is still capable of making brick sidewalks, its mayor dwells in the same stately mansion the first major bulk. Yet in the decade just past, Alexandria's population increased by 33 per cent to 12,985 as compared to 13,945 in 1920.

a spirit that a solution will be found.

Asserting the prohibition question to be one which "constantly captures moral principles with the art of government," he went on:

"The United States has been divided as between federal and state governments in a way that will recognize the rights of the states and the rights of the people in the constitution."

"I see no way of settling that question satisfactorily," he concluded, "without a further change in the constitution."

Morrow looked forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement will appreciate that they have no real permanent solution of a world-old problem by the present Eighteenth Amendment.

"I look," he said, "to the time when the moral leaders of the country will realize that, in the battle for a great social reform, there was a day in the old system of experimenting in 48 laboratories rather than in one."

MORNING COMMENTS
WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said tonight Dwight H. Morrow had followed the program laid out by the Association against the Prohibition Amendment in making his platform on state control of liquor.

"Ambassador Morrow has accepted the program of Henry C. Curran, president of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment," McBride said. "The association was against state option until we got prohibition and now they want it back again. While we were fighting state after state for prohibition, these prohibitionists were in the background. Morrow has followed the suggestion in his entry."

can readers is "The Beloved Vagabond." Other later popular works were "The Moughs of Marcus Orde" "Stella Maria," "The Wonderful Year," "The Rough Road," "The House of Balaiah," and "The Mountebank."

"The Beloved Vagabond" was dramatized and produced at His Majesty's theatre, 1908. Other plays were "Mr. Cyprian," "The Lost Legion," and "The Man From the Sea."

"The American writers had considerable influence on Lockie's writings, according to his own admission. They were Oliver Wendell Holmes and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow."

"Both Holmes and Longfellow," Lockie said, "had a whimsical touch in their prose, and I used to enjoy reading them so much. I wish the touch in English, France and America might be lighter today. There is a terrible tendency toward deadness in modern writing. I am more interested in spiritual things than in depressing material naturalism."

Lockie was once criticized as a popular author with a whimsical touch of sentiment. One wrote said: "The Driving Force behind his stories is their sincerity, and their sympathy with the sick, lonely, vanities and errors of the motley human multitude."

"Toward the end-of-his-life the novelist lived much in France, his last home being at 'Les Aranches' in the Pyrenees. He was a member of a number of literary clubs; among them the Garrick, Junior Athenaeum, the Vagabonds and Omar Khayyam.

OREGON EDITOR FACES CRIMINAL LABEL SUIT

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 15 (AP)—W. E. Haaser, Coquille, Oregon, editor and owner of the Coos County Courier, was arrested today on a charge of criminal libel preferred by Frank R. Osmond, Marshfield chief of police and Republican candidate for nomination of Coos county sheriff.

Osmond also filed in circuit court a complaint charging Haaser with violations of the Oregon corrupt practices laws. The editor, Osmond, charges printed anonymous material in his publication detrimental to his election and urging the election of Henry Haaser, incumbent sheriff. Haaser denied all charges.

COWLES, Spokane, $5000.

Earl Sande's Mount Continues Favorite To Win Famous Derby

Tannery's Stock Soars Following Fast Exhibition

Impressive Workout by Probably Close Rival of Fast Gallant Fox Attracts Attention of Many Owners

By ALAN J. GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor) LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15.—Hope that a spring race season in Kentucky will be a turkey-turner's dream, whether the classic derby is concerned, rose with some buoyancy today as the result of an impressive workout by Edward F. Richardson's colt, Tannery, the pride of the Blue Grass, in preparation for Saturday's $50,000 added race at Churchill Downs for the most cherished of American three-year-old prizes.

Perhaps a part of this homebred optimism is due to the fact that Tannery was due to take the race as a consolation, Kentucky, and the desire for victory of his own to beat, nevertheless, the Richardson colt's performance was good enough to make Eastern horsemen sit up and take sharp notice, even though not sufficiently so to dislodge the gallant Earl Sande, American Falls, Idaho, and Gallant Fox from the rock-bound position of favorite.

Tannery worked a brisk mile and a half in 1:02 2/5, impressing all with his long, easy stride. The fractional times were 2 2/5, 30, 1:18 and 1:34 and the workout served to boom the stock of the colt which is likely to attract even stronger backing in the East of Derby day.

With the derby only two days off, the East of Derby day, the colt makes the spring here some miles away from Lexington, and good-earned with no record breaking record training into town.

CUSTOMERS' INCOMES WOULD LIMIT CREDIT

Merchants should be diligent in seeing to it that customers live within their means and should refuse credit above the customer's ability to pay, according to a credit policy advanced at the tenth annual conference of the Retail Credit Men's association of the Northwest at Seattle last Monday and Tuesday. H. E. Detweiler, a director of Twin Falls Credit Association, said on this return last evening from attending the Seattle meeting.

The Seattle meeting, Mr. Detweiler said, emphasized the idea that if customers do not pay bills when due, that delinquency must be reflected in increased costs of doing business that means higher prices.

On the way to the Seattle meeting, Mr. Detweiler and Mrs. Detweiler, distributor for southern Idaho, with Willie Threlkeld, factory service engineer, attended the annual spring sales conference of the Iron Works Manufacturing company, showing new model stokers.

Mr. and Mrs. Detweiler and Mrs. and Mr. Threlkeld made the trip by motor, returning last evening.

DISTRICTS SUE ON FORGERY CLAIMS

Rural Schools' Trustees Seek to Recover $1401 Losses From Bankers Here

Popular Hill, Riverside and Willowdale rural school districts have brought suits in district court here for recovery of claims totaling $1401.20 from the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company on account of apparent forgeries of school district orders for warrants that figured in auditors' investigations and prosecution of Miss Viola Leve, former clerk in the office of Twin Falls county superintendent of public instruction last December.

Twenty-two of the county's 37 rural school districts lost approximately $15,000 as a result of these apparent forgeries, the auditors' reports indicated.

The districts now are bringing action against banks alleged to have cashed the questioned orders.

In the suits started yesterday, the Popular Hill district seeks for $51.20 on account of four questioned orders issued between October 19, 1926, and November 15, 1927. Riverside district seeks for $330 on account of seven questioned orders issued between March 25, 1927, and June 15, 1927. Willowdale district seeks for $230 on account of an order issued June 29, 1927.

Three other districts herebefore have started similar actions, each of the three Twin Falls banks being named as a defendant.

The districts in these actions are represented by Swezey and Swezey, Twin Falls.

FIRST BEER BREWS IN SANTO DOMINGO

Election Day in Dominican Republic Marks Date for Sale of Domestic Beverage

SANTO DOMINGO, May 15 (AP)—The capital of the Dominican Republic, excited over the elections scheduled for May 16, also looks forward eagerly to another event set for that date.

It is the sale of the first beer brewed in the country. The new industry is one of the largest in Santo Domingo. It started brewing about the same time that politics began to brew with the forced resignation of President Horacio Vazquez.

Hereafter all of the 2,000,000 litres of beer consumed annually is principally from England and Germany. The new brewery has equipment for a potential output exceeding the present domestic demand for beer.

The new industry is under American management and two-thirds of the $500,000 invested in the enterprise was raised in the United States.

The brewery occupies a new building of Spanish mission style of architecture.

According to the county agent, Idaho representatives of two Boston wool buying concerns, who have each purchased the pool, one buying last year and one the year previous, will again submit bids. Both companies report having been well pleased with the wool and with the dealings of the pool. Bids are to be delivered to Manager Beck.

MOTOR IN RACING CAR WEIGHS BUT 11 POUNDS

Liquid Oxygen and Fuel Sprayed in Cylinder of Steel Furnish Motive Force

By LOUIS F. LOCINER (Associated Press Staff Writer) BERLIN, May 15—A tiny motor about as big as a beer bottle, with characteristics of both an engine and a refrigerator, may solve ocean flying, believes Dr. Paul Heylandt, liquid gas authority.

Heylandt and Max Valier, rocket car pioneer, believe their experiments will lead to development of special type of rocket-propelled plane which will shoot up 40,000 feet, and travel at 650 miles an hour.

The motor, an elongated, pistol-shaped drum of hardest steel, fits in a one-cylinder, valveless contraption, devoid of pistons or other moving parts.

Into the front end liquid oxygen is sprayed, while into the further end, near the exhaust, liquid fuel, such as wood alcohol, benzene, gasoline, or even fuel oil is injected.

At the entrance points of both components into the motor there are spraying attachments which diffuse the liquids over the entire hollow inside.

Steady combustion. The liquid fuel is ignited as it comes in contact with the liquid oxygen. The result is a continuous, steady combustion which produces a recoil of 250 horse-power with a motor of only 11 pounds.

The best German automobile motors produce only about half a horsepower of propulsive energy per pound.

As the two components explode, they emit a steady stream of smoke, jets, scintilla fire about a yard long. The noise is deafening and greater than that of the 12 motors of Dornier's "Do X" combined.

The heat at the exhaust is such that, when Valier during one demonstration did not mix the two components correctly, the engine simply melted away. Cold produced by the liquid air is such that the conduct-

Step Toward Goal. "Our experiments with the rocket car are only a step toward our real goal, a motor for airplanes intended to go up into the atmosphere," Dr. Heylandt declares.

"One essential thing is that both components are so separated as to avert all danger of explosion. The rocket car will never be a practical proposition except for racing purposes," Dr. Heylandt states. "Naturally, no police authorities could stand for a car making such a noise and speeding along as fast as a rocket car, it is economically efficient, must speed. As soon as possible, therefore, we will experiment with a rocket plane."

WARBERG'S SENSES REPORT

Everywhere I find men in groups talking. I hear the words, "We need a good leader." I wonder if there is to be a riot. Farther down the street some men are standing before a window, and one of them is gibbering about the Poles, and how much bend-in them. Anyone knows the North and South Poles don't bend. Later I saw two grown men in a garden digging for worms. One found a fat one, and as he held it up, shouted gleefully, "What a dinner you'll make for those Gray Fellows." I began to be afraid. Here were two men who were going to feed someone worms for dinner. This town has no senses to report I thought. Then it dawned on me that the fishing season opens today. All that talk was in regard to fishing. I certainly was relieved until I thought of the women and children that would be left behind, for in the excitement and rush of getting ready to go after the Big Ones, I got to thinking you might forget to look at the coal bin. Give a look and lift it low, and you haven't time to order, tear this out, and hand it to the wife as her instructions. ORDER ABERDEEN NUT COAL FROM WARBERG'S, the number is 1-4-2.

Government Considers Building Monument to Indian Chief

SENATE COMMITTEE FAVORS HONOR FOR NEZ PERCE LEADER

Strategy of Joseph in Warfare Leads to Title of "Napoleon of Red Men"

Commemoration Comes 50 Years After Battle

Historians Describe Surrender of Warrior as Most Dramatic in Pages of History

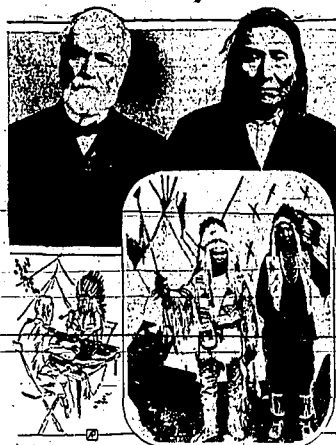

(By The Associated Press) SPOKANE, May 13—More than a half century after United States soldiers pursued him on one of the most brilliant retreats in the history of Indian warfare, the government is considering erection of a monument to Chief Joseph, of the Nez Perce.

The senate committee on Indian affairs has reported favorably upon a proposal to place a monument at Bear Paw mountain in north central Montana where General O. O. Howard and then Colonel Nelson A. Miles, after a chase of 1200 miles over parts of Washington, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, forced Joseph and the remnants of his once-powerful band to surrender on October 4, 1877.

Military Strategy
Joseph, whose brilliant military strategy won him the compliment of the description "The Napoleon of the Indians" look up arms against the United States after his chief had been ordered from their lands in Washington and Idaho to live on reservations.

The opening battle was fought in Whitebird canyon in June 1877, and it was the beginning of the retreat. In a dazzling series of rapid strategic movements Joseph and his army made good their escape from the hands of the most skillful Indian fighters in the army.

Dramatic Surrender
Historians describe Joseph's surrender as one of the most dramatic in history. His speech at that time is a masterpiece of pathetic and picturesque oratory. To Colonel Miles, designated by General Howard to accept the surrender, Chief Joseph said: "I'll General Howard I know his heart. What he told me before I have it in my heart. I am tired of fighting. Our chiefs are killed. Looking Glass is dead. Toohoolie-bull is dead. The old men are all dead. In the battle the young men and boys are all dead. Old women are being taken to the reservation. (O'Connell, Joseph's brother) is dead. Suffering of tribesmen. It is cold and we have no blankets, no food. No one knows where there is any more food. It is too late now. We are starving. I am tired. I am old. I am sick and sad. From where the sun now stands, I will fight no more forever."

Flight Leader
The little children are fleeing to death. My people—some of them have run away to the hills, and have no blankets, no food. No one knows where there is any more food. It is too late now. We are starving. I am tired. I am old. I am sick and sad. From where the sun now stands, I will fight no more forever."

Device Gages Diameters of Many Stars Heretofore Indeterminate

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—Diameters of many stars, heretofore indeterminate, can now be measured directly by a new powerful interferometer.
Officials of the Carnegie Institution of Washington say that successful tests have been made with their 30-foot interferometer which has a spread of 30 feet greater than any other.
Observers show that this instrument will give the diameter of stars which appear no larger than would a ball one inch in diameter if seen at a distance of 10 miles; or the headlights of an automobile when removed 12000 miles, about as far away as the north pole from the south pole.
Devices of this kind in the past, it is pointed out, have been limited by size, to measuring only a few of the great stars.
The interferometer itself consists of a long steel beam placed across the upper end of the telescope.
Two mirrors are mounted on the beam so that the distance between the two can be varied at will up to 30 feet. Light from the star, upon which the telescope is trained, falls upon the mirrors.
The two pencils of light thus formed are reflected by a system of mirrors through the telescope tubes to the convex mirror at its bottom and then to the eyepiece.
Here each beam forms an image of the star; the one superimposed upon the other. The combined images—observed under a magnification ranging from 1000 to 3000 diameters.—A mathematical calculation based on the wavelength of light employed, on the star's distance, and the space between the mirrors gives the diameter of the star.

Leads War on Gangs AIRWAY SURVEY COVERS NEEDS OF PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, May 13 (AP)—A "greater air region" with Philadelphia at its hub, is the vision of the regional planning federation that is studying the needs of a 4000-square-mile district in Delaware, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey.
The violation committee of the federation, in completing a survey of airway needs in the region, concluded that many of the airports are inadequate to care for anticipated demands of air-borne commerce.
Six major airways are recommended as necessary to serve the district, radiating from Philadelphia and Camden to New York and Boston, Atlanta City, Norfolk and points south; Washington and Atlanta, Pittsburgh and points west, and Syracuse and Buffalo.
In the Stocking Valley, Ohio, coal mine region a life has been burning since 1884.

RULER OF BRITAIN SPENDS SCORE OF YEARS ON THRONE

WEARER OF CROWN AND QUEEN MARY CELEBRATE

Typical Fever, Torpedo Mishap, Fall From Horse, And Recent Illness Threaten Life

(By The Associated Press)
 LONDON, May 15.—Four close encounters with death and wide travels over the earth have colored the career of King George, whose twentieth year on the British throne closed May 6. Typhoid fever nearly claimed his life in 1891, when, as Duke of York, he was severely ill as a Commander in the navy. Another time, when he was in charge of a whaleboat towing a target for torpedo practice, a badly aimed torpedo crashed into his boat and all the crew were thrown into the water but were rescued. — During the World war, on the king's second visit to the western front, a horse that he was riding rolled on him, crushing his chest and injuring his lungs. — Last year the king was seriously ill for many months and at one time his life was almost despaired of. — Extensive visits King George has visited virtually all parts of the vast British empire on which the sun never sets. — He has sailed about the world, carried his initial, a big "G," on the Great Pyramid of Egypt, visited the tomb of St. George, and bathed in the sea of Galilee and the river Jordan. — As a young midshipman, treated the same as other naval cadets, he sailed around the world on the M. S. Bacchante, an old-time sailing ship. — A bloodthirsty old chap" was his description of Oetewayo, a Zulu king whom he saw, and he became friendly with the Mikado of Japan. — Later, as the Duke of York, with the Duchess, now Queen Mary, he traveled 45,000 miles and visited 17 British possessions. On this trip he opened the first federal parliament of Australia.

An alignment of all lumber companies of the southern, central, western and northwestern states to finance the plan has been discussed. Wastes in handling lumber products may be removed, Long said. New markets, new marketing methods, new uses for products and improved management will be promoted through the proposed movement, he declared.

EDUCATOR DEFENDS NEZ PERCE INDIAN

President of Whitman College Declares Chief Lawyer Protected White Man

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 15 (AP)—The second shot in the "Nes Perce War" was fired by Frederick B. L. Penrose, Whitman college, who defended the reputation of Chief Lawyer against the Chief's Indian friends.

The college will dedicate a tablet to the memory of Lawyer. It dated long since to the happy hunting grounds after, one story says, having the life of Governor Jass.

As soon as plans were announced, Indians of Pendleton, Oregon, held a meeting and appointed a committee to investigate. The committee began by a vigorous criticism of Chief Lawyer as a historical hero.

As a chief he wasn't much they said. There were plenty of Nes Perce chiefs around the Governor's camp when Lawyer was alleged to have placed his tent near the Governor's to protect the white man.

Dr. Penrose related that maybe there were other Nes Perce chiefs, but Lawyer led them, and when Lawyer came to Stevens' camp it was to protect the whites from an Indian massacre plot. He couldn't have been fleeing to the white camp to protect himself, the president continued, because there were more than 4000 Indians and "The Joke" in the protest is in the fact that there were only 57 white men in Governor Stevens' party—and still the "Nes Perce Indian" claim that Lawyer went to the white men's camp for protection.

RUPTURE

Don't submit to avoidable operations or the use of antiquated trusses, as they all set where the lump is and not where the opening is. The opening is seldom larger than a dime (no matter the size of the rupture), and all cases can be relieved with the end of a lead pencil.

The Spermathe Shield-Complex in combination with the Sclerant-Simples (Patent No. 1247) and other patents pending—a scientific achievement in a highly specialized art—will not only reduce any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Infinitely superior to any "rubber" or "string" truss, producing results in no other way obtainable. All cases are secure a "lifetime" guarantee—no operation or expense. Large or difficult cases or incisional rupture (following operations) especially suited. This treatment received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or operations with distinguished personal patrons of all nations.

THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS

"Cinderella of the Skies"

By VERA BROWN

When closing time came Johnson said some final words to Loretta and left before she did.

Grace hurried out of the building by a side exit and found a taxi cab. She was carried in the maze of traffic, but when her cab finally pulled into line she noticed Johnson's car ahead of her. Loretta was with him. There could be no mistake. Her blond hair sprang out from under her black hat. Grace was so excited she could scarcely think. She leaned forward and ordered her driver to follow the car ahead.

"A good tip to you don't lose them!" The driver set nervous, uncertain of the purpose of his assignment.

"Don't worry, I'm not an angry wife or sweetheart!" she said crisply. "This is business! And she showed her police card when she followed."

Traffic was moving.

"I'll see only keep close to them!" Grace prayed, with one eye on the meter as it clicked slowly. Suddenly at 43rd the signal changed. She and her taxi were caught on one side of the crossing. Johnson sped along. "See! See!" she turned toward Broadway beyond the library.

"No, no, follow and see if you can find the car ahead of the taxi!" The driver shot across the street as the signal changed again. They cruised about for ten minutes in vain. It was hopeless. Johnson and his car were gone!

"No luck!" Grace finally admitted, and she ordered him back to town, where Murphy was waiting. She was breathing hard. She felt frustrated, fretful, and she suddenly realized, so bitter was her disappointment, that she was crying.

"Now watch! Can you see her?" she asked abruptly.

"She's sitting on this side," Grace told him and she slipped her hand into the pocket of the car and transferred the gun to her own coat pocket. The showdown was near and she knew it.

The bus lumbered on through the early winter evening. It was past the sixth hour and traffic had thinned and had not swelled again for the early theatre crowds. Unexpectedly at 110th street—Loretta had not counted on her reaching her destination so soon. Loretta hurried toward Columbus Avenue as Murphy pulled his car slowly toward the curb.

"She's stopped to buy a paper," Grace told Murphy, as they followed at a discreet distance. Then Loretta stepped before a cheap eating place, and Grace's hand on the car door, she leaped out as Murphy parked the car, and sped toward the dining restaurant at Loretta walked in the square. As the light hit Loretta's face Grace saw Grace breathed a sigh of relief.

From behind a parked car, Grace watched the girl through the grimy windows. Most of the customers in the place were men, many shabby, but some of them well-dressed. Grace thought with a smile.

"You know that woman who tried to fool you yesterday and couldn't?" Murphy said. "Well, that was the girl!" Loretta looked at her arm and she almost cried aloud with terror.

But the hand was Murphy's. "She's ordered her food and waiting for it," Grace told him. Just that moment the man behind the counter handed her a sandwich and a cup of coffee and the waiter, who had been waiting for her, took her to the table. Murphy took Grace's arm and hurried her to the car as an air of making sure both were ready kept their faces away from the girl on the other side of the room. They ordered sandwiches quickly and found chairs where they could sit. Loretta and the dark man sat next to her. Prepared to eat the sandwich, Loretta followed the paper she had prepared outside the door and put it beside her in the chair. As she did so, the man behind her fumbled in his pocket, straightened his coat and turned back to his seat.

Murphy stood up suddenly and in half a dozen strides stood before her.

"Hands up! Give me those bonds!" His voice came like a pistol shot and the clatter of dimes in the eating place. Most of the customers in the place reached for their lips while the man reached for his hip.

"None of that! Put 'em up!" Murphy's voice broke no refusal, the hand came away from the man's pocket.

"Grace, take that newspaper from the seat!" Murphy commanded. As she turned to do so Loretta made a gesture.

"Get out your gun!" Murphy cried. Grace obeyed, but even in the crisis she smiled when she realized how much her right hand trembled.

She picked up the folded newspaper quickly, and a long, heavy package fell out. As she stooped to retrieve it, the man made a quick movement. Then there was a loud report. Two shots came a close together that Grace was not sure whether one or two had really been fired. She was trembling so she could scarcely stand. She wondered if the hand behind her had held the precious package safe in her arms.

The man raised her head and she smiled. "The room belongs to me. It is full of poison! All taking orders from Murphy. Loretta, she came running in with a package of two young officers. The man was slumped down in his chair and another policeman was examining the man. "You didn't fool with that one!" said the officer as he looked at the dead man.

Murphy was smiling faintly. A mirror of his face was shattered with the bullet. The man behind her was unharmed.

"It was either him or me, and I'm

STRAWBERRY PATCH NETS LARGE PROFIT TO HAGERMAN MAN

E. W. Dilatush Reports Returns of $2056.25 From One and One-Half Acres And Good Crop in Prospect

(Special to The News) HAGERMAN, May 15.—According to carefully kept accounts during the season, $2056.25 was the gross amount received by E. W. Dilatush last year from one and a half acres of land planted to strawberries on his farm a half-mile north of Hagerman. Of this amount Mr. Dilatush's figures show 23 cents a crate with for the expense of picking, states and cups, leaving a net amount of $1028.25 for labor and use of the land.

This year plants on the same land stand loaded with fruit beginning to turn red and will be ready for the pickers in a few days. Present indications—the owner says—show that with favorable weather conditions this year's crop will be equally as good as last. Five-hundred empty crates are now on hand, together with 12,000 cups as a first shipment to receive the berries. Last year 1175 35-cup crates were shipped, bringing an average price of $1.75 per crate.

Mr. Dilatush has been in the berry business six years. He started with six plants, for which he paid $1 each. 700 of this present patch and two acres in putting the fruit in crates came from these. The plants six years ago are well loaded with fruit this year and will bear a good crop as ever, he states.

Quality in Demand

There is no time lost in getting the berries into the crates and the fruit is placed in the crates and sent to the market before picking begins. About nine pickers are employed. This is the main labor expense. The rest of the work, which is no small amount, is done by the owner.

During the picking season water is turned on the plants every day. All through the rest of the season they are watered regularly once a week. In the fall the patch is plowed and buried off. This is done not only to get rid of the dead vines, but as the best method of eliminating insects that injure the crop and weed seeds. Much work is required to keep the berry patch free of weeds. During the winter the ground receives a covering of well pulverized manure.

In addition to his strawberry bed, Mr. Dilatush takes care of the rest of his 20-acre farm, raising potatoes, melons and hay, but returns from the one and a half acres of berries, he says, are greater than from the rest of the crops combined.
