FELICITATIONS ON BIRTHDAY ACCURV JOHN J. PERSHING One-Time Leader of Army in France Receives Admirers Without Showing Signs of Three Score 10 Years

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (By The Associated Press) — John J. Pershing, 61, celebrated his 31st birthday today with a salute and a handshake, but nevertheless remained at his desk during the official day of mourning for the late president.

The felicitation of President Hoover were brought by Lieutenant Colonel Campbell H. Hodges, military aide at the White House, while other government officials, civilian friends, army officers, and even an entire company of soldiers came to congratulate the former leader of the biggest army this country has ever known.

During the afternoon, as government offices closed for the customary Saturday half-holiday, and the stream of cards diminished, Colonel Pershing continued the routine tasks which he usually performs. He answered correspondence coming to him as head of the battle monument commission and caudated of the mailing plans of American dead in France. Later in the afternoon he received a letter from his just-living members as a leader of the American Expeditionary Force in France.

But also, in moments of leisure at his desk overlooking the green of the White House grounds, he received a letter from his son, who was born in a living house near Meadville, Pa. There was a day 44 years ago when as a graduate of West Point, he received his first commission as a second lieutenant in the cavalry. There was another day 34 years later when he was appointed a brigadier general in the Mexican war in action along the Mexican border.

Officials Agree on Season Grid Schedules Johnny Doeg Defeats Shields To Win National Tennis Title

Superintendents, Principals And Mentors of Southern Idaho High Schools Discuss 1930 Football

South Central District Athletic Association Elects Rupert Man Chairman of Organization for Ensuing Year; Hears Comments on Rules and Transacts Annual Business

FOURTY-THREE superintendents, principals, and coaches representing 18 high schools were present yesterday morning at the annual meeting of the South Central Idaho District Athletic Association held in the Twin Falls high school. At this meeting football schedules were completed and announced, officers for the coming year were elected, general rules governing football competition were adopted, and a school was conducted for the officials. The meeting was called to order by Superintendent D. D. Gibbs, Kimberly, retiring chairman of the board of control. C. D. Merrill, Gooding, was elected temporary secretary. Rules governing football competition in this district last year were read and approved for the ensuing season. Superintendent Gibbs explained that under last year's rules a school with less than 50 students enrolled was declared a Class B school and all others Class A.

"There is no distinction made in football between B and A class schools in the matter of schedules or teams they should play. The district-board of control, however, picks the champion in class B division at the close of the season," Mr. Gibbs said.

He also explained that all schools are required to play at least three games to be considered eligible to compete for the district title by the board of control.

Decide on DS
It was decided that the fee of $5 district dues on charged last year should be charged this year, the fee to be paid in advance of the school year in the election of officers.

Superintendent M. M. Van Patton, Buhl, reminded those present that the total amount of state activity dues for each school was $11.40 and payable on Oct. 1.

After explaining that at least one member of the district board of control must be elected from a class B school the following officers were unanimously chosen for the coming year: Chairman, H. M. Carter, superintendent at Buhl; Ramsey, Filer, secretary-treasurer of Stokescrover; Hazelton; secretary-treasurer, Earl Ramsey, Filer, superintendent of schools.

It being customary for basketball to be controlled by a Class B board of managers and a Class A board of managers with meetings at the homes of the board members, Superintendent Merrill, who presided at the meeting, broke up in to sections for the election of the respective boards of managers. Superintendent Stokescrover, vice chairman of the board of control, was automatically chosen chairman of the Class B basketball board, as was Mr. Herrier, Zlati, and Coach Hanson, Declo, as the Class A two members.

Ramsey, Filer, secretary-treasurer of the board of control was automatically declared chairman of the Class A basketball managers: Superintendent Mercer, Oakley, and Superintendent Shown, Jerome, were elected to complete the board.

Smith Conducts Class
After completing and announcing the schedules of the various schools, Superintendent Smith conducted a class for approximately 15 officials explaining to them and the coaches the revision in the rules and some new rules for the year. It was pointed out by Mr. Smith that formerly each official had certain specific duties to perform. This year, however, all officials are to act in accordance with the rules of the official in case of disagreement among the other officials. The referee is still the only one to declare a touchdown as made.

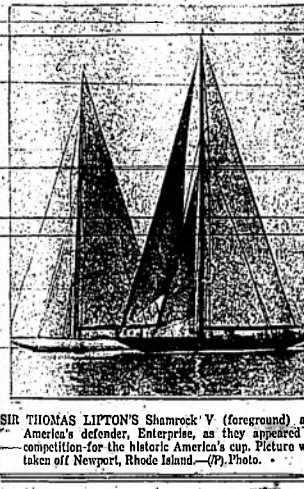

While the school for officials was being conducted the superintendents of the various schools held a meeting at which time several subjects of athletic interest were discussed including a suggestion that the district board of control should be agreed upon. No definite action was taken, however. In accordance with the opinion expressed that Twin Falls with its new gymnasium could very easily accommodate the state basketball tournament a resolution was drawn up and ordered sent to the secretary of the state board of athletic control, suggesting that this year's tournament be held in Twin Falls. The superintendents were reminded that they should plan to attend the meeting of the Idaho State Athletic association to be held in Boise during the Thanksgiving vacation.

After the meeting a banquet was held at Tompkins. Places were set for 25 members.

14-Foot Putt Wins Crown for Armour

Slivish Scotch Golf Professionals Triumph Over Sarazen by Score of 1 Up

BY BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Tommy Armour, stylish Scotch golf professional, today won the Professional Open at the 14-foot putt in the final round of the 1930 U. S. Open championship at the Links at Hazlet, N. J. He defeated the defending champion, Harry S. Truman, by a score of 1 up.

For the year the Scot has been dubbed a poor putter, and a great player. This afternoon, with the clutch square on the green, he held a 14-foot putt for a four and when Sarazen missed his bid from a few inches under 14 feet, Armour was the Professional Golf association champion for the 10th time. Sarazen has held the title twice, in 1923 and 1925.

Today's match was a great example of the thrilling golf—Low handicaps who have held the championship for the last two years but was beaten in the second round, called it the greatest golf match ever staged.

American Skipper Wins Over British Grid-Tens Swing in Yacht Classic

Sir Thomas Lipton's First Attempt of 1930 to Lift 'Old Mug' Ends in Failure On Atlantic Waters

BY BLAN GOLD
(Associated Press Staff Editor)
NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 13.—Enterprise, a 112-foot racing yacht, like a big white gull, ran away from Shamrock V today in a moderate breeze and Sir Thomas Lipton's quest for the America's cup again took on the aspect of a fruitless chase after another will-o'-the-wisp. The first race of the series, sailed over a 10-mile northeast and westward course in the open sea southeast of Newport, was won decisively by the American yacht, which defeated the British challenger by a three score victories to one.

It is not to be expected that the British yacht will win the cup, though the British skipper, Sir Thomas Lipton, has a good chance of winning the cup. The British skipper, Sir Thomas Lipton, has a good chance of winning the cup. The British skipper, Sir Thomas Lipton, has a good chance of winning the cup.

Laborers on Golf Links in Flowers and Snow Near Finishing Touch

PARADISE VALLEY, Wash., Sept. 13 (AP)—Golf a mile high among the flowers and snow near Paradise Valley. Rainfall will be possible in 1931.

Superintendents of a nine-hole course has been begun with the granting of permission by the national park service. The course should be ready for play by August 1, 1931, with the greens to be built next year.

A unique feature will be that on completion of the ninth hole players will be returned to the clubhouse on foot by stage if they wish.

Since Leo, the referee, has said more of them any of the 2500 people in the gallery.

The fortunes of the golf battle were decided throughout the day. Sir Sarazen was a hole ahead for the first time, but when he had been completed, Arner led by one stroke.

After 70 holes the match was all even—and on the 71st hole, the final hole, Arner won when one hole was needed.

Bull Terry, Olant first baseman at the home, pitched the year. Both Terry led 300 for the season, and later taught the Giant shortstop a new swing that has put him up to the level of a great pitcher.

South Carolina's Team Gets Beal

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 13 (AP)—The South Carolina football team, led by Beal, defeated the Clemson team in a game that was a real test of the young players' ability to handle the pressure of a big game.

The 16,000-acre preserve, recently surveyed, lies on both sides of the road that connects the town of Columbia with the city of Columbia. It is a beautiful area, and the preserve is a real test of the young players' ability to handle the pressure of a big game.

George D. Widener's Entry Turns Back Pages of History to Prove Worthiness of St. James as Sire

By ORLO ROBERTSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—With a racing history of 150 years, George D. Widener's Jamesstown today proved himself a champion worthy of his great sire, St. James, by winning the forty-first running of the Futurity and $99,600 to clinch the 1930 two-year-old title before a crowd of 30,000 fans who jammed the grandstands of Belmont Park.

Packing the same crushing weight of 130 pounds carried by St. James in 1856, the 1930 champion today dashed down the seven furlongs of the Widener course in 1:20.4, according to the timing of Jamesstown.

His trainer, James H. Smith, said he was sure his horse would win the race. He had trained Jamesstown for a long time, and he knew his horse was capable of winning the race.

(By The Associated Press) ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—The St. Louis Cardinals pulled themselves over the edge onto the roof of the National League here today by battering out an 8-to-2 victory over Boston's Braves as the Cubs lost to Philadelphia.

Today's victory was the twentieth the Cardinals have registered over their last 23 consecutive games since they started on August 9 when they won 14 games away from first place. They started a total of 14 hits with every member except Bottomley getting at least one run. "Doc" Hafner and Cap Anson helped matters with home runs. Hafner was his twenty-fifth of the season and Anson had a triple with the bases full in the ninth to his day's work.

Bottomley pitched wisely and kept the eight hits made by the Braves well scattered.

Men in a large measure responsible for keeping their clubs in the race for the big league pennants this year are Lefty Grove, Philadelphia's left-hander, and Joe Cronin, Washington's shortstop in the American league, and Gabby Street, St. Louis manager; Glenn Wright, Brooklyn shortstop; Bill Terry, New York first baseman and Hack Wilson, Chicago center.

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—With the end of the season just around the corner, Bill Terry of the New York Giants still is the only regular among the National League batters who is hitting above the .400 mark. Terry has been having occasional difficulties during the last week or so, but the averages Wednesday's games, still credit him with a .401 average and a lead of 4 points over his nearest rival, Babe Herman, Brooklyn.

Other contenders for the season's batting crown have fallen far behind. "Chuck" Klein, Philadelphia, leader of third place teams, whose regulars, has dropped to .382. Behind him come O'Doul, Philadelphia, .380; Stephenson, Chicago, .375; France, Philadelphia, .373; Klotz, New York, .343; Watkins, St. Louis, .343; Cuyler, Chicago, .343; Ryan, Pittsburgh, .307; and Miller, St. Louis, .302.

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Four major league ball clubs have flabbergasted the baseball news-writers here today.

The Cubs and the Athletics, the champions and hence the "hats" to a many "experts" again were predicted to be "almost certain" to coast into a world's series.

But in the final month of the campaign, Judge K. M. Landis found it necessary to invite also to a conference to lay ground-work for a world's series. Washington of the American league, and St. Louis, New York and Brooklyn of the National League, of course, have entered into the race, but ahead of each of the clubs stands a "year-end" behind which the attack was made. A measure of the spring confusion was due to the failure to recognize these playing forces, except on the club and individual basis.

Everybody thought that "Hack" Wilson, chunky center fielder, would be valuable to the Cubs, and that "Lefty" Grove would win a lot of ball games for the Athletics.

Even so few expected that Wilson would shatter both the National League record for home runs and for runs batted in. His slugging has done much to offset the club's loss of Rogers Hornsby's 300 slugging.

It hardly seemed necessary for "Lefty" Grove to win 35 games for the Athletics this year. But "Lefty" has and his big year has been important, as Babe Webster, the club's other star left hander, has been un-able to win consistently.

Shorstoppe have led both Brooklyn and Washington this season—more than any other member of the team. Neither Glenn Wright, the Dodger field captain, nor Joe Cronin, Washington kid pitcher, have been able to do so.

Wright's arm was a question. It kept him out of action last season. He had undergone a certain operation, and it was not until after the season got underway that it could stand the strain of a campaign.

It has, and Wright converted a mediocre Brooklyn infield into one of first division caliber. Though he has slugged only 300 for the club, he has driven in more than 100 runs.

Cronin recently simply came to the club along with Washington's return. He started slugging at the first of the season, and has held on. He has hit around 200, some 60 points better than his average of last season.

Now he is out of college but not through with football. His activities this season will be devoted to turning out a winning team at St. Joe junior college.

This small prep institution, located a few miles south of here, needs many of its men to attend. Philadelphia will be assisted by Dudley de Groot, another Stanford graduate star.

Legs, San Orleans, will play football again this fall.

Finding Of Note Reveals Wind Trap Nature Set For Andree

DISCOVERY REVEALS UNSTABLE CURRENTS OF ARCTIC SEA AIR

Note Dropped 28 Years Ago By Yank Polar Explorers Turns up 400 Miles Away

MEMBER OF EXPEDITION IDENTIFIES CONTENTS

Details Suggest Reason For Probable Fates of 12 Other Still Lost Aeronauts

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—New light has been thrown on the trap of winds and sea currents which Salomon August Andree—in his attempt to reach the North pole by balloon in 1897.

It is a message dropped 28 years ago by American polar explorers.

The Russian ice-breaker Cedra reports by wireless the finding on August 11 of this message in the Arctic ice.

Discovery of this message also suggests reasons for the probable fates of 12 other lost missing aeronauts, and also in the Salomon August Andree expedition.

Like these missing men, the message started its journey by air, rising in a balloon from northern Norway.

Dr. Gunnar Horn, leader of the expedition, is said to have written the note, which was wrecked and Andree disappeared.

Eastward Trend In all that area the sea currents are eastward, while circulation and hope of rescue lie westward and southward.

In 28 years the message made a total of 400 miles, the message will reach to various points of the region which prevented it from getting far beyond the ice.

The message was sent by Commander William Ziegler, a member of the expedition that attempted to reach the North pole.

Nearly 200 identical messages were sent, attached to strings of 10 or 20 balloons about the size of grapes. The messages were in bags, made to release automatically upon contact with water.

A few of the messages were found in the nearby Arctic in the next several years.

In a metal container in the bag the note was found in the busy city.

It required only that the expedition might remain longer than originally planned, but the message was not found for two years and the expedition came home on schedule.

Babson Avers Greater Decrease In Production Than Consumption Justifies Optimism in Business

Statistician Declares Inventories Becoming Abnormally Low, and Predicts Flood of Orders During Fall in Most Industries

By ROGER W. BABSON BABSON PARK, Mass., Sept. 13.—Statistician, upon careful analysis, justify an optimistic outlook, at least for the coming fall. My reason for this statement is as follows: Consumption has fallen off only about 10 per cent, taking all lines of industries and all sections of the country. Of course, in certain lines this falling-off has been greater, and in other lines it has been less, but on the average consumption has not fallen off more than 10 per cent. This applies not only to retail sales, but also to the wholesale trade. These sales are corrected as to deflation, wear and tear, etc. Yet, while consumption has fallen off 10 per cent, production has fallen off 20 per cent, and the transportation of goods has fallen off 20 per cent. This means that inventories, both on the part of manufacturers, jobbers and retailers, are becoming abnormally low.

If consumption, production and transportation had fallen off about the same percentage, there might be no reason for my improving business outlook. Under the circumstances, however, it is very possible that there will be a stampede of orders and consumption of freight between now and Christmas in certain lines remains active. The market has increased as to 1921, but I am generally optimistic regarding this fall as to commodities, money rates, general business and even the stock market. It is just as evident today as last business has come bound to improve. It was a year ago that the steel price of early 1929 should not be kept.

Parasites in Commodities During a period of sharp falling commodity prices, buyers always become extremely cautious. They resist their buying to the lowest level possible. This aggravates the price decline, and as a result many commodities will follow their inevitable value.

Those that are selling on an installment basis, however, with a long record of earnings will above interest requirements, and strong asset position, give indication of continuing strength. Money rates, commodity prices and equities are all favorable to an upward trend in prices of round bonds. Every investor should now get a satisfactory quota of cash bonds if he has not already done so.

Distress by the Babsonist now requires 10 per cent below normal compared with 1 per cent above normal in many of this year's financial data.

WARD WARP SHOWS WATERS RESOURCES

Twin Falls Canal Company Aids Geological Survey To Show Underground Flow

MOSCOW, Sept. 13 (Special to The News)—Two years of investigation to determine the geology and underground water resources of the Snake River plain, an area of more than 100 miles in length in southern Idaho, have been completed by the United States geological survey, with maximum available for public inspection.

Cooperation with the United States geological survey was given by the Idaho bureau of mines and geology, state bureau of reclamation, North Side Canal and the Twin Falls Canal company, Shoshone Irrigation district, and the Idaho Power company.

An advance set of maps showing the direction of movement of the ground water under this vast plain and the location of the wells from which it is drawn, was published on the afternoon of August 13, 1928. The final map, which will be published, is completed, but because the report can be published for some time, copies of the new maps were made available for public inspection at the following place:

Bureau of mines and geology, Department of Idaho mines, Moscow, Idaho; state bureau of reclamation, Boise, Idaho; office of the Idaho state geological survey, Idaho Falls, and Federal building.

PARISIANS DECREE WINTER COATS OF DISTINCTIVE STYLE

Change in Sleeves and Hem-Lines Shorter Than Dress-Prove Distinguishing Features For 1930 Season

PARISIANS DECREE—A WOMAN BY BARBARA BEAUFORT (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS, Sept. 13.—Cooler now have style lives of their own.

They are no longer just part of the ensemble, although they may have matching dresses or skirts.

One way to tell if this winter's coat from a last year's model is by its sleeves.

Another is by its hemline, usually two or three inches shorter than the dress, provided the dress is made of the same material or is the same color.

Only on dressy afternoon coats or for bona fide travel or sport coats is the minimum length—the length at the hem of the dress.

Utility Coats General utility coats tend to be straight and belted with a generous wrapover on the skirt. Fur coats are varied, with detachable fur collars, mink, fox, rabbit, or beaver, and some have fur trim on the collar.

Boat coats are mostly straight and there are many belted coats and polo-neck coats with or without fur trim.

Decorative coats with more than one color are popular. They feature dull black above everything and concentrates on interesting sleeve treatments.

Triple cap sleeves, bishop sleeves which gather into a fur cuff, mink-lined forearms and hand pockets are all new and used with important designers.

FRIVOLOUS MARIAGE LINES EVENING WRAP PARIS (AP)—Evening coats lined with maroon and dove drapes with wide bands of maroon around the bottom are among the unusual modes shown for winter.

Marabou is not taken very seriously as a trimming material, because of its fragile and frivolous character. Paris dressmakers have not used as much of it as they do now, for many seasons.

ETON COLLARS INCLUDE SOME OF SHAKIN PARIS (AP)—Eton collars of fur are new on youthful suits.

One such model of green mixture has a black Alaska shawl and carries a cloth box of the suit material.

Small turnover collars of the suit are also used extensively by a dressmaker who likes beige but does not like black.

Wit Of Yankee Wins Place For United States Flag In World Exhibit At Antwerp

Arthur Sichel, Philadelphia Representative, Persuades Baron, Director of Fair, To Fly American Emblem

(By The Associated Press.)

ANTWERP, Belgium, Sept. 10.—The United States officials are ignorant of the fact that there is an international fair in Antwerp, the stars and stripes flew in the court of honor among the flags of the nations which have made their names known to the world.

This morning has a round of receptions for visitors and exhibitors alike and all have their eyes on the American flag which they heard the story.

The divergence from the rule was brought about by Arthur Sichel, who was sent to Antwerp by Harry A. Macey, mayor of Philadelphia, to supervise a booth showing the achievements of that port during the last century. He ran a number of officials in his attempt to get the American flag into the court and to have it raised on the same pedestal as the flag of the United States.

Mr. Sichel, neither your ambassador nor your special commission, has secured the United States government to take part in this fair. Furthermore, after he came into Antwerp, he tried to get America into the line for an award now you ask me to allow official dignity of the American flag just because Philadelphia has an exhibit.

His course was appreciate Philadelphia's action and all Belgium grateful for that city's offer of friendship, but under the circumstances it is an American flag that must be turned down.

Mr. Sichel, being of the plunger type, he had considered the matter even then.

"Baron de Verwaghe," he said, "it is the position of the United States that can be answered truthfully 'yes,' I shall desire from further attempts to take the American flag to the court. 'Would you punish a child because its father is errant?'"

The baron surrendered then and ordered space for the American flag in the court of honor. Mr. Sichel's only triumph. Another incident that was amusing and amusing to the king Albert, on one of his visits to the exhibition, was halted with a cherry "good morning" as he was passing the Philadelphia booth.

"A 'bonjour, sire' in French, while you would not mind the words of the democratic king, speaking would have acknowledged it with a military salute and salute. But the 'good morning' in English made him look up.

Mr. Sichel bowed, the king entered the booth, asked several questions about the exhibit and departed only after he had signed the book for photographs of distinguished visitors.

TEUTONS MAKE RITE OF COFFEE DRINKING

Germans Serve Beverage at All Hours in Many Forms and Places to Everyone

By WARD WERNER.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Germans drink 25,000,000 pounds more coffee last year than in 1929.

If appearance are not deceiving, they discovered new ways of drinking coffee.

Actually, less coffee is drunk here per capita than in the United States, but it is difficult for an American to get coffee in Berlin to believe that.

Coffee is being served at all times, in so many forms and to so many people that it is a national rite.

That suspicion is strengthened if you visit some of the more elaborate temples erected here to the coffee deity.

In one very popular place, for instance, there is a large, slightly tilted room where the coffee is served. Those who merely want to sit in armchairs and quaff coffee to the accompaniment of a gramophone.

Those who want good coffee but haven't time to wait for it, sit at a table in the salon can get quick service at the coffee bar.

Many Coffee Houses.

Still others prefer the semi-secluded atmosphere of a cafe, where, no place has several of these, so a large upper salon, not too close to the street, where the conversation is quieter.

All this, however, is merely a prelude to the real thing, the coffee ceremony. It offers also a large room for those enthusiasts who like coffee with their meals, who have their own table and their own coffee.

There are also, however, people who like a cup of coffee while having their feet set on the massage table. So there is a place for these, too. Also a spacious writing room, with a desk and a chair.

To an American, however, the most surprising evidence of the thoroughness of the coffee ceremony is the coffee-drinker is the dictation room. Here the busy executive slips his dictation while dictating letters.

It is not surprising that the coffee ceremony is so popular. It is a national rite, and it is being practiced in all parts of the world.

BRITISH POINT TO INDIAN BOAT RIOT

Officials' See Battle After Hindu-Moslem Contest as Proof of Incompatibility

MADRAS, India, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Hindu-Muslim rioting in Madras today is a result of a meeting which at Hyderabad was held by the two religions. It was held by the Hindu and Moslem leaders, a shining example of the incompatibility of the two elements in India's warring population.

While the Hindu nationalists claim that the Moslems are sure ultimately to rally to the Gandhi non-violence campaign, the British assert that the followers of Mohammed would always stay away from the political field to the Hindus.

Recent Parade.

The rioting in Hyderabad began when the British authorities permitted a parade of their own soldiers. Moslem leaders argued that this demonstration would be humiliating to the Muslims and they refused to allow it. The British then ordered a parade of their own soldiers, which was held in the presence of the British troops.

FRANCE EXTRACTS BIG PROFIT FROM FOREIGN TOURISTS

Economists estimate to Percent More Return in Year Despite Fewer Wealthy Travelers and Mart Crash

By SMITH HEAVIS.

(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

PARIS, Sept. 10.—France has discovered that tourists with limited pocket-books are just as profitable as the ultra-wealthy travelers.

Their year-long absence from the continent has not only benefited the tourists but also the French who have been flocking here in great numbers.

Last year, French economists calculate tourists in France added about $100,000,000 to the value of "invisible exports." The year 1929 expected, despite the Wall Street crash and a general world-wide depression, to fill the national purse with a cool billion.

No exact list of the number of Americans who have visited in France this year is available, but the statistics of the French and Foreign companies and associations of hotel managers figure that it is in excess of 100 percent greater than for the entire period of 1927.

By Fewer Luxuries.

The effects of the Wall Street crash last year are being felt in the falling out of luxury purchases and in comparative dearth of the high-priced goods. On the other hand, the "average" American, with a few hundred carefully counted dollars to spend, has been more than ever before. They have been more than ever before.

Inspection by tourist agencies, under government encouragement, of the principal resorts throughout the French country, has been attended with an almost unbroken success. They have kept in France tourists who otherwise might have hurried on to another country.

Although Germany sent the greatest number of visitors to France last year, Americans spent the most money. They are credited with having spent $1,400,000,000, and $200,000,000 more.

Spain is second on the list of number of visitors and British and Canadians also have been getting the "see France" habit in increasing numbers.

AMERICAN AUTO HUSES HAVE INVADDED MUCH OF THE HINTERLANDS OF CHINA

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The interior of China is rapidly flooded with the mystery of development of automobile roads.

The Chinese Good Roads Society, which headquarters in Shanghai, recently celebrated its tenth anniversary and reports that within the past few months it has increased the number of automobile roads to approximately 2,000 miles of highways are available for the traffic.

Despite the recurring civil war and widespread poverty, the work is being pushed by both provincial and national governments.

The city of Nanchang, for example, is about 400 miles from Shanghai. It is the capital of Jiangxi province and has always been noted for conservatism. Less than two years ago there was no pavement and no cars in that city.

But today Nanchang has miles of broad, well paved streets and more than 100 cars are lined at the automobile registry. A modern highway, which is the city and good gravel roads, are being built and motor buses are doing a lively business. Link the capital with provincial centers.

Furthermore, there is a project now on to build a system of five main highways to the coast at a cost of around $100,000,000.

Farther north in the province of Shanxi, ballistics of Marshal Yen Hui-shan, the "model governor" who has been trying to knock President Kai-Shek off his seat by force of arms. This district has more than 100 miles of motor highways in use and citizens under construction. Over these roads motor buses speed in the shadow of the Great Wall.

Cathedrals and Castles of Apennine Region Await Efforts of Builders and Experts in Reconstruction

ROME, Sept. 10.—(AP)—A thousand cathedrals, noble churches and castles of the Apennine region, damaged by the earthquake that took 12,000 lives, are in the hands of architects and reconstruction experts. It is believed that almost all can be saved.

The twelfth-century cathedral at Montefiore, which was almost totally destroyed; THE RUIN will be demolished and new ones built. Works of art that cannot be removed will be protected by small, sand bags, as was done with many monuments in Mexico during the war.

The castle of Melli, important in Italian history, has the upper part of its facade ruined. These will be repaired at a cost of $200,000, which the proprietor, Prince Doria, will probably assume himself.

The picturesque church of Montefiore will have to be demolished, although its steps in intact. Some parts of the churches of the Carmine and San Lorenzo will have to be reconstructed.

Two Badly Damaged.

The cathedral of Napoli, a jewel of the Twelfth century, and that of Atella, a marvelous work of the Angevin period, many times ruined, both in various condition and will need temporary supports until they can be permanently restored.

The beautiful cathedral of Acerenza, which King Victor Emmanuel ordered to be rebuilt after the earthquake, has its front facade ruined. The main altar, however, is unscathed. The cathedral of Montefiore, which is the most important of the Apennine region, has its main altar ruined and requires attention.

All these towns are out of the usual path of tourists, but their architectural monuments are some of the finest in Italy. The work has been kept lively in the art world.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13—Hankow, an armed camp because of the constant threat of invasion by armies of Chinese communists, is one of China's most important cities, ranking commercially as the busiest of the interior trade centers of the republic, according to a bulletin from the Washington office of the National Geographic society.

While Shanghai can be identified as the chief business center with good cause, so considered the Chinese republic's New Orleans, Shanghai, and Chicago—Hankow, one, declares the bulletin. "At though 600 miles inland—the city thanks to the great Yangtze Kiang, is like New Orleans a port for ocean steamers. China's great steel and iron mills are located here; and this city is the assembling point and shipping center for tremendous quantities of produce from the farms and gardens and groves of China and of ores from her mines.

Three Cities in One

"In its purely local geography, Hankow can be compared to New York. It consists of three cities grouped across the waters from each other: New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City. The group is situated where the narrow Han river meets the broad Yangtze, which is two miles across at this point. Hankow proper, by far the largest of the three communities, lies in a triangle between the left bank of the Han and the left bank of the Yangtze.

Across the Han is the Hansyang, where the tall chimneys of great steel mills pour out an incessant stream of smoke. Across the Yangtze from both is Wuating, capital of Hupoh province, and for ages an important political center. Between the three closely associated cities have a population of 1,500,000 people, with about 1,000,000 in the central in Hankow. The group is often referred to as the Wu-Han cities. Hankow's aspect is presented to the traveler's eye, however, by the river, extending from down stream. For more than two miles the International "Bund" stretches along the north bank of the river. It is a broad boulevard, paved, shaded by rows of trees, and faced on the left side by a group after group of imposing buildings. In the distance can be seen the extensive concrete "godowns" (warehouses) in which hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of cotton, silk, tea, wood, beans, and dozens of other commodities are stored for shipment.

Conclusion

"Furthest up stream, adjoining the native city, is the British concession which was the first unit of the international city. It was established in 1861 when Hankow was first opened to foreign trade. It extends for half a mile from the river and is joined by the Russian concession which dates from 1860. Next lies the French concession, established the same year, and beyond it lies the former German territory, now taken over by the Chinese. Farthest down stream is the Japanese concession which began in 1898. There is no separate American settlement. The consulates of the United States and of Denmark are in the French concession. In the British area are the Japanese, Dutch, and Belgian consulates. The Italian, Swedish, and Norwegian consulates are in the former German territory. The concessions are marked by relatively broad, well-kept streets and by the handsome buildings that house the legation offices, hotels, banks and shops. Modern water and sewer systems and electric lighting have been installed. These improved conditions have attracted tens of thousands of well-to-do Chinese families to take up their residences in the concessions.

Native City Contrasts

"The native city of Hankow presents a marked contrast to the concessions. Houses and buildings are crowded along narrow streets devoid of sanitation, and the populace are dependent on water from the Yangtze, much of it carried in pails by coolies. The city was practically destroyed by fire in 1911 during the revolution which overthrew the empire and established the republic. It was hoped that the city could be rebuilt along modern lines with wide streets, but instead the old tangle of alleys and crooked streets lined by haphazard structures sprung up, so that congestion is even worse than before.

China's dependence on man-powered boats is even in striking proof when ships are being loaded and unloaded at one of the many "wharfs" (floating rafts), along the river, the bulkhead of one of the boats is and men and packages, tea bars, and food, rammed over the bulk and its gangplanks, the dry mud of the river bank, and up steps for perhaps ten or three blocks to one of the warehouses. They remind one of labor armies of ants carrying leaves and bits of food.

"In normal times the white population of Hankow's concessions finds time for recreation at one of the many sports clubs to be found in the Orient. Known as "The Race Club," it provides facilities for horse racing, fishing, shooting, golf, swimming, tennis, baseball, cricket, basketball and dancing."

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

We sat dreaming at the top of a hill near a little wood. A squirrel scampered by, his little jaws stuffed with nuts. A bee buzzed past, gathering honey for the winter. A wind blew softly shaking the leaves to the ground and stacking them at the foot of a tree. Sunlight and food supply for the tree during the winter in those leaves. The breeze grew brisker. I sneezed. "It's getting cooler, we too must get ready for winter," said my good wife. We better begin by storing an adequate supply of fuel. "I'll order coal tomorrow," said I. Far overhead I heard a bird cry. It sounded like he called, ABERDEEN, ABERDEEN." Perhaps, it was an owl, he spoke so wisely. And when I got home I looked up a dealer for ABERDEEN COAL.
