

Secretary Hyde Urges Curb of Abuses in Grain Trading

Conferences With Chicago Board of Trade Aim at Correction of Sales Regulations Voluntarily

Secretary Proposes To Minimize Misuses of Speculators' Privileges and to Eliminate Manipulative Operations Through Corrective Measures To Be Made By Exchanges

By FRANK I. WELLES
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—Secretary Hyde's terms promise of "another story" if he confers with Chicago board of trade officials do not result in a voluntary correction of trading regulations, has raised the question of congress broadening the powers of the grain futures administration.

The secretary has no quarrel with the speculative features of the trade, some of which he considers as shock absorbers during periods of heavy marketing, nor with the hedging practices which are considered essential to the welfare of millers.

It is his purpose to minimize abuses of the speculator's privileges and to eliminate purely manipulative operations.

Current regulations are, in part, an outgrowth of Secretary Hyde's three-year-old experience with the Chicago group.

Under the agricultural division of 1927 members of the Chicago board of trade requested to J. Hyde that he suspend operations, voluntarily or under conditions which required their operations to be reported to the government.

Hyde would consider the market in a big way as buyers and sellers at the price level he would like to see.

The rule required a report on every transaction involving 50,000 bushels of wheat or more. It was intended to prevent any trader acquiring more than 50,000 bushels net in any one day, but the majority of large holdings lead to a corner of wheat influence the market.

Secretary Hyde is adamant. "In the current negotiations Secretary Hyde has said that he believes it better for the grain trade to control its own members than for the government to control it."

Hyde says he believes most of the difficulties can be solved without legislation and that it may not be necessary to bring other changes into the act.

Asked what he would do if steps were not volunteered to meet the needs of the market, he said: "There will be another story."

A movement already in effect was to suspend operations in the market and raise wheat prices to a high level, prices in Chicago were 25 cents an bushel higher than in the market before the reports were suspended.

At the low point for December when the market was 25 cents an bushel higher than in the market before the reports were suspended.

During the period that the reporting requirements were suspended there were seven speculators who at one time or another had such a net position in a single Chicago wheat futures amounting to 500,000 bushels or more.

One of the seven came into the market later, on the long trade, but was not a new trader.

Two of the seven were out of the market before the reporting requirements were reinstated. Considered collectively, the group of seven had a short position in the market during six of the eight months the reports were suspended.

The group of big speculators did not become buyers and did not start forcing their short position, until the weather and delayed seeding in the Northwest spring wheat area, including Canada, had seriously impaired new crop prospects and changed the market situation completely.

It was too late to enhance prices very much. The time for doing so was the large speculators as a class began their short covering the small speculators as a class started liquidating their long holdings.

Again the speculators are demanding the report requirements, but

This chart shows how persistent short sales, except for covering of contracts when crop prospects weakened, affected prices in 1927 when government was promised speculators would buy heavily and advance market levels.

100,000 bushels in any one position rather than 50,000, is sufficient to insure a bargaining power. At present there is no authority in the grain futures act for any limitations upon speculative lines.

Through information supplied by the grain futures administration to the business conduct committees of the exchanges the exchanges themselves can exercise some measure of control over such matters.

The government holds that there are a sufficient number of traders in the market to take care of their own business, but it is not satisfied that the market is being run in the public interest.

There are instances on record in which futures prices, moving in the same direction as trading, have fallen as much as 10 cents in a day.

It has been suggested that speculation be limited to 2 cent up or down, in one day's trading, but there is no present law to enforce it.

"DYNAMITE" APPEARS AT IDAHO SHOWHOUSE

Once called by critics the "theater of the future," it appears that the producers-director is about to reclaim that title in "Dynamite," which comes today to the Idaho theatre. "THE SQUEALER" NOW APPEARS AT ORPHEUM

Jack Holt came into his own in a big way in "The Squealer"—Columbia's talking drama of New York underworld life at the Orpheum theatre today. A doubling personality and an ability to do "talker" roles that gets over with men as well as women are the qualities that the average movie fan has learned to associate with Holt. It therefore came as a delightful surprise to see him portray himself an actor of superior talents. Throughout the five reels of this picture, Holt made a most convincing study of his characterization, and achieved his climax with a quiet power that fully electrified his audience.

Who Is This Old Fellow and What Does He Seek?

All I know is just what I hear on the Radio. "International Relations" proved rather a dry subject at this time when we are more concerned with keeping the pot boiling at home. Something more diverting would be on the order of a drive to the State between Senator Borah and Congressman Addison T. Sells on the Smoot-Hawley Traffic or the Debs-Two Plan for sliding Agriculture as the Senator and Congressman took opposite positions on these things in Congress. We would probably learn nothing but it should furnish entertainment. In my opinion, if there were we would rather be baffled than bored. Veto the Democratic lickety-split and let the Herrings Thrang. You'll find some happy people, just some ordinary folks.

FORMER CONVICT SEEKS REFUGE IN TWIN FALLS JAIL

Police Check-Up - Explodes Riley's Bank Robbery Story - But Confirms Record of Criminal Record

Police officers here last evening expressed belief that Clyde William Riley, 27, has a hidden motive for wanting to be confined in jail here, and they indicated opinion that he may be seeking protection from former criminal associates.

Riley gave himself up to the police here Monday, with the statement that he had fled from custody at Astoria, Illinois, bank in July, 1928. The story was a proper ground for his arrest.

Other advice received by officers here during the day confirmed Riley's story of his conviction. He served a term in the Kansas penitentiary that expired last April 5 for fourth degree murder. Riley told officers here he was convicted in 1925 of burning the Weston county, Kansas, courthouse in fulfillment of his contract to destroy liquor hold there.

Earlier in his career Riley served two-year term in the Nebraska state prison for theft of an automobile at Fairbury, Nebraska, in 1923. Colorado justice landscape of the district advised yesterday that Riley had been arrested there in June, 1927, when he gave himself up to an officer on the street, stating that he was a fugitive from the Norton county, Kansas, jail. He was returned from Colorado Springs to Norton county and confined in the Kansas penitentiary in August, 1927.

RANGER QUESTIONS ACCIDENT STORIES

Report That Man is Missing and Others Badly Injured Laoks Confirmation

Don't list anybody had been injured hurt during the two day hunt for a deer in Blaine forest in Twin Falls county was expressed last night at 10:30 o'clock by C. E. Jensen, forest ranger in Shoshone State park here. He said that so far as he knew, the rumor that a man had been missing two days was without foundation.

Mr. Jensen said that from time to time the forestry station was empty during the last two days, and it was barely a week ago that some reports of serious accidents might have been made by him. Several minor injuries were reported, he said.

Mr. Jensen said there were about 100 of the 400 estimated deer in the forest in this county at the beginning of the season. Some of the rest had doubtless run across the line into Cassia county and others might be wandering quietly in some hidden spot. Most of the hunters had also gone by last night, he stated.

Last year at the beginning of the hunting season it was estimated that there were at least 1500 deer in the open territory, or nearly four times as many as at the beginning of this season. On the other hand the number of hunters had greatly increased. The season opened Monday morning, October 20, for five days and will close Friday night at midnight.

One-half hour each week is set aside by Chicago public schools for "human education." Methods of protecting animals from cruelty are discussed.

HOLSTEIN HEIFER HERE GOES TO STOCK SHOW

A senior Holstein heifer calf, owned by L. J. Trunkel, will be taken to the Pacific International Livestock show, Portland, with the Idaho state herd of Holsteins. It was accompanied by the owner, L. J. Trunkel, and Mr. H. H. Hale, Twin Falls county agricultural agent. The announcement says.

"This heifer won first at the Twin Falls county fair and at the Jerome fair and it considered one of our best in the state," said Hale. It was shown at the Caldwell dairy show but Mr. Trunkel has not heard what prize it won. Mr. Trunkel's Holsteins won more than their share of prizes this year at the Twin Falls and Jerome fairs, winning first prize, two seconds and one third at the Twin Falls fair.

The federal government plans to spend $1,000,000 in establishing an air base at Sage River, Louisiana.

THE TRUTH About GOITER AND IODINE

ONLY VEGETABLE IODINE WILL PREVENT GOITER

In the northern part of the U. S. we find the greatest percentage of goiter due to lack of iodine in the soil. Melting snow and heavy rains have washed these elements, that are preventatives of goiter, into the sea. The absence of iodine in land foods has resulted in 10% of the school children in this section suffering from incipient goiter. To supply the needed iodine and relieve this deplorable condition we must go to the sea where the needed elements are and add them to our daily food. What happier way than adding Kelpin - made from kelp which contains 3,000,000 milligrams of iodine per ton as contrasted to one milligram per ton of wheat - to bread, an article of every day consumption.

Kelpin supplies iodine in vegetable form, the only way it can be assimilated by the body. It does not change the flavor of bread and makes up the lack of iodine that causes goiter and other deficiency diseases.
