The pre-military training will serve as a model for the 18-months' conscript service each youth is called upon to reach the age of 20.

"Your ecological ignorance," said Judge Neu, "will set you back $100."

Storm Keeps Do-X's Passengers On Hold

SANTANDER, Spain, Nov. 20 (AP)—The German seaplane Do-X came to a stop in the water while en route from London to Copenhagen. It was determined such bad weather there could have caused the accident, which had been attributed to the Shropshire-Town maternity act, which failed in June.

A special meeting of the entire public health service and admiral medical section was held tonight to consider the emergency. The admiral medical section, at the earliest possible time, independence to the Philippine Islands in order that insulation of the preliminary region and subsequent treatment of the patient could be carried out.

KANSAN WEDS GIRL

IN LOS ANGELES BY USE OF TELEPHONE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20 (AP)—By a 1,000-mile telephone hookup Miss Thelma Lee Paauwane and B. White, young bank cashier at Kansas City, Kansas.

While and Probate Judge W. L. Johnson, presiding, went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Stewart, the bride's grandparents, who were celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary.

Judge Beasley asked the questions of the young couple, they answered him and he pronounced them man and wife.

The gray-haired grandfather took the bridegroom's place, however, when the judge ordered the bride seated.

Declaring its child health and protection objective important enough "to justify any amount of time and expense," the procedure committee to-night issued a statement that "politics in any way whatever can not be allowed to interfere with the administration's continuation committee."

The statement was precipitated by a clash between the public health and welfare committee and an old age pension first broached in the conference proceedings by Secretary Davis in his morning address to the conference.

His speech emphatically declared that "any arrangement, any function, any organization or bureau of health, welfare or labor must be based on the principle of self-government."

INDIA'S DELEGATES TO LONDON PARLEY LASH GOVERNMENT

All Day Long Prime Minister MacDonald Sits in Big Chair Thumping Table But Speakers Go On

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 20—Ramsay MacDonald, 41, leader of the Labour party, was repelled by the British government's attitude toward him.

The Mulligans were asleep in their quarters on the second floor of the Indian embassy, which is occupied by the Indian delegation.

The Mulligans were awakened by noise coming from the British delegation, which is located in the same building.

It began with an appeal for help from the Mulligans, who were staying in a room above the Mulligan's.

Then came the sound of voices from the Mulligan's room, followed by the Mulligans' own voices.

At length the Mulligans learned that the Mulligan's were staying in a room above the Mulligan's.

The Mulligan's room was filled with the Mulligan's.

Influence of Election on Agriculture Receives Attention

Farm Chiefs Await Linup Of Parties to Swing Fate Of Debenture in Congress

Problem of Whether McNary-Haugen or Smith-Aswell Factions Shall Lead Committee Worries Leaders

By FRANK J. BELLINE
(Associated Press Writer, Editor)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20

WNATIONAL farm leaders are vitally concerned over who shall head the senate and house agricultural committees of the new congress—McNary and Haugen, Republicans or Smith and Aswell, Democrats.

The export debenture looks in the foreground, and the desire of certain senators to reveal the agricultural marketing act runs in the background.

Regardless of whether Democrats or Republicans lead either branch in the general election, the margin of victory is so small that it easily may go to one side or the other.

The election is a year to go before organization of the new congress, and the slightest diminution of ranks in either camp might change the entire working structure.

To the farm mind, the eventual set-up is all important. To one farmer, another will it have as much influence as the man he has been but whom a number of farm organizations and "farm-minded" members of Congress believe may have a new chance for existence.

Under Republican control the two congressional committees on agriculture, by whose hands all farm legislation is passed, would retain their heads, Senator George N. McNary, Oregon, and Representative Gilbert N. Haugen, Iowa.

Democratic control would place at the helm Senator George W. Norris, Lincoln, Nebraska, close friend of the debenture; Senator Elwood D. Smith, South Carolina, ranking Democratic member.

But, in the house, it would revolve to committee chairmanship an outspoken enemy of the export debenture and certain other farm legislation, Representative James D. Allerton, New York, and James D. Adwell, Louisiana.

Republicans Look Warm

Co-sponsors of the old equalization fee principle, McFadden and Haugen, have been quite warm toward the bill, but the former has voted for it when it became a slight lame duck and McFadden's committee three times failed to get a sufficient majority to pass the bill.

Already the four stalwarts of the debenture, Senators Norris, Nebraska, Borah, Idaho, Brookhart, Iowa and Senator Smith, Texas, and Senator Teague, Texas, are preparing for battle. As before, Norris is expected to initiate the legislation in the form of a bill, and the others are in this time proposing that the debenture be enacted as an amendment to the agricultural marketing act.

Borah has said no government aid for the farmer will be effective without the export debenture. He also says friends of the law will join him at the crack of the gun when Congress is reconvened December 1, not waiting for the old debenture strength expected of the new session which does not convene until December, 1931.

Some farm leaders predict that if the "farm mind" section does not pass the debenture, President Hoover

The Weather

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND TOMORROW — Fairly cloudy in north Idaho; no change in temperature.

Minimum temperature in the vicinity of Twin Falls was 13 degrees at 21-hour period yesterday. B. M. Roberts, chief of the records of the government weather observatory here, maximum for the same period was 35 degrees. The day was mostly fair.

It may be requested to call a special session of Congress in summer for consideration of the plan.

The real debenture strength in the house is expected to allow up when the Democrats who have replaced Republicans come to the new Congress.

By any count, more than 36 new Democrats will come to Congress, apparently ready to vote for an increase in their party semi-officially has.

Many will come from the great farming regions, particularly from wheat-growing states where election of Democrats has an interpretation in favor of its debenture.

Few Democratic gains were made in the East where time has moved on the debate.

The change of political complexion in the stronghold of agriculture has given rise in some quarters to a theory that enemies of the farm have been beaten, while a number of farm organizations and "farm-minded" members of Congress believe they still have a new chance for existence.

They say, in particular, to the defeat of Senator Allerton, who was one of the young guard that came to the President's rescue in 1928 and was considered close to him.

To their minds, the administration will stand or fall on the record of the farm board.

Democracy has been born in the state for the farm board to handle and Allerton's defeat is believed attributed largely to dissatisfaction with his administration's farm policy.

Picture of Neptune's Rotation Requires Utmost Precision

PHOTOGRAPHING OF FAR-AWAY PLANET TAKES STEADY HAND

At University of California Observers Solve Mystery of Body's Motion

TURNING PROVES SAME AS EARTH'S DIRECTION

For Hours Giant Telescope Focuses on Tiny Slit Over Round Spot of Image

By HOWARD W. LAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

M. T. HAMILTON, Cal., Nov. 20.—It takes a steady-hand-to-a-shoot to photograph a picture of an object 2,800,000,000 miles away.

Not just for just a second or a minute, as in ordinary photography—but for hours.

That kind of a hand used to steady astronomical clocks has helped to solve at Los Angeles, of the University of California, one of the long-standing mysteries of astronomy—the direction of rotation of the planet Neptune.

Dr. J. H. Moore, Dr. D. H. Menzel and Dr. R. H. Dugay, in the same direction as the earth.

Neptune, 2,800,000,000 miles distant, appears even in the greatest telescope as a tiny dot at the eye of the end of a pencil.

There are no markings on it like the face. To study rotation it was necessary to photograph only this.

Exposures of the photographic plates last two to four hours each.

The results were not encouraging because of the uncertainty about inclination of Neptune's equator. It is not horizontal, but diagonal on the disk of the planet, so the stars receded away from the plane of the earth's equator.

This position was computed by aid of the most modern methods observed in the critic plane of Neptune's only satellite. The nod is like the wobble of a spinning top that is beginning to fall.

The all photo showed the equator's spectrum; that is, light reflected from the part of the planet's disk in direct sunlight was very like our colors, or wave lengths.

Study of these lines revealed that one side of the planet was approaching the earth, while the other was receding from it, due to rotation, and thus fixed the direction of rotation.

MOSCOW STUDENTS AID IN BUSINESS SURVEYS

MOSCOW, Nov. 20 (Special to The News)—To assist business men and bankers in getting a better and closer touch with and properly interpret business trends a set of indices of business conditions for Idaho is being compiled by students in the business administration of the University of Idaho.

In lead in this project is being taken by William C. Moore, a graduate student in business, who is working under the direction of Dr. D. S. Johnson, professor of economics, and Drs. H. T. Farmer of the school. Mr. Moore received his degree in the class of 1930. His new undertaking will be his master's thesis.

The indices for Idaho will be determined and used similar to the national index of business conditions. The time of production in certain fundamental lines and retail sales will be

Western Rice Growers Become Duck Hunters to Save Crops

VARIED PROBLEMS VEX PRODUCERS OF CEREAL ON COAST

Farmers Gamble With Wild Fowl, Weather, Game Laws and Market Conditions

RANCHES' OPERATORS FIND LIFE EXCITING

Japan's Failure to Buy Forces Concentration of Sales On American Markets

(By The Associated Press)

WILL OWENS, Calif., Nov. 22.

The rice farmer's plight may be desperate, but it's never dull.

He gambles with every thing from the weather, wild geese and ducks, foreign exchange and game laws, to general business conditions and the size of the rice crop in Italy.

A year ago Pacific coast rice growers started to broaden their sales to foreign markets. But they were made to wait a year and a half over an approximate 2,000,000 bushels was sold by the California Rice Growers' association.

This year an entirely different situation confronts them. All the buyers of the Coast cereal was without the credit to make them Pacific shipping attractive, and there was a large crop in the Far East due to bumper crops.

So the Western growers have been obliged to concentrate on the domestic market. This year foreign shipments will be virtually limited to Hawaii and Japan.

Reduced production costs, due chiefly to great efficiency of labor and more effective use of machinery, have failed to offset to some degree the unfavorable market.

Dick Atterton:

The Mid-West drought and that

Wild game is a menace to rice growers of the Pacific coast. Here is Abe Boyd, operator of an 11,000-acre rice ranch, protecting his crop from ducks and geese (inset).

that we ourselves are started."

"In the remotest corners," said Mr. Atterton, "we have had to take steps to keep our men from being disturbed by the geese and ducks migration over the coastal route from north to south. This added particularly to the gaiety of life in the ranches."

Obviously the harvest here has not finished until around Christmas, but the season was so advanced this year that the crop was nearly all harvested the last of October.

The ducks and wild geese surfaced again in November, and in time to share in the harvest, before moving farther south.

On the 11,000-acre Boydland ranch, which straddles the border between Oregon and California, the birds had settled down after a single month-long flight by the visiting fowl.

So Boyd and his men on the ranch have helped to defend some of the monitory los.

Another source of trouble has been the ducks which have been a pest to the rice fields.

Later some of the birds of the holiday will be transported, fattening on the rice scattered in harvesting.

WINTER STORM RIDES EAST FROM ROCKIES

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20 (AP)—A winter storm riding east from the Rocky Mountains has caused a break in telecommunication and hampered road and highway traffic in the midwest today in the worst weather of the season, and injured about 100 persons in Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas yesterday.

Passenger services to the Pacific coast was badly hit as little snow passed through the prairie country from accumulations of ice, sleet and snow.

Passenger trains from the West were running several hours behind schedule and highways were blocked in many sections.

Another weather was added to the list of severe blizzards over the Rock mountain section: Out D. Miller, 41, driver of Des Moines, New Mexico, was found frozen to death in his car near Durango, Colorado. He succumbed to exposure while going for aid after his automobile became stuck in snowdrifts. An aged man named W. H. Johnson, from Amarillo, Texas, who was left in Minor's car was found unconscious and may die.

Hundreds of motorists were marooned for varying lengths of time along snow-banked highways.

Twenty school children were forced to spend the night in a school building at Raton, New Mexico, when blizzard isolated the building.

Snow ranging from 2 inches to 30 feet deep were driven through the mountain states as the snowdrift forest indicated above.

A blizzard in Northeast Colorado forced a break in the road to Denver. Twenty-four miles of road were closed.

Two principal check stations, Cheyenne and Laramie, were closed because of the blizzard. The railroad tracks in the mountains were closed.

Colquitt County In Georgia Casts Off Burden Of Farm Mortgages By Adoption Of Signed Agreement To Practice Diversification Of Crops

DIXIE REALM GIVES EXAMPLE OF VALUE OF VARIED PLANTS

Meeting of Farmer-Debtors and Bankers Results In Scheme For Relief

COTTON NOW APPEARS WITH OTHER PRODUCTS

Panorama of Healthy Agricultural District Replaces Dire Circumstances

(By the Associated Press)

MCGUIRE, Ga., Nov. 22.—There are no idle farms and no vacant houses in Colquitt county.

The county probably stands alone in Dixie as an example of what a diversification of crops can do for a run-down community.

A few years ago neglected cotton farms and poorly kept barns and farmhouses dominated the picture, but now there is a panorama of healthy crops and diversified food gardens for breakfast and farm families. And the whole country is dotted with newly painted houses and barns.

Cattle, hogs and chickens roam pastures and fields that have green carpets of rass, cotton and rows, but the most important crop of all is planted for a money crop, and it is by no means the chief source of wealth.

From time to time, Colquitt county farmers found themselves in dire circumstances. Nearly all of them, except moviegoers, had to leave their homes and start over again, established in every home. All agreed that something must be done to bring relief.

Call Meeting

So the bankers, who held most of the mortgages, called a meeting of the debtors and the bankers, at which the bankers would agree to carry the notes for one or perhaps two or three years more or until liquidated.

The farmers saw the feasibility of the plan and to man signed an agreement to diversify their farms based on a one-horse farm of 30 acres, as follows:

Corn, velvet beans and runner beans.

Oats, followed by peaches having three acres.

Brown potatoes, sugar cane, corn, cotton, and other crops.

Tobacco, Spanish peanuts, or Spanish peanuts, watermelons, pickled peppers and specialized crops such as cotton, corn, etc.

Cotton—Five acres.

Highland pastures to be cultivated in grass crops for brood hens and game birds, and pasture land.

Perennial pastures—on waste lands or wet ground not suited to cultivation, five acres.

Two or three million dollars in brood sows and 50 pure-bred hams.

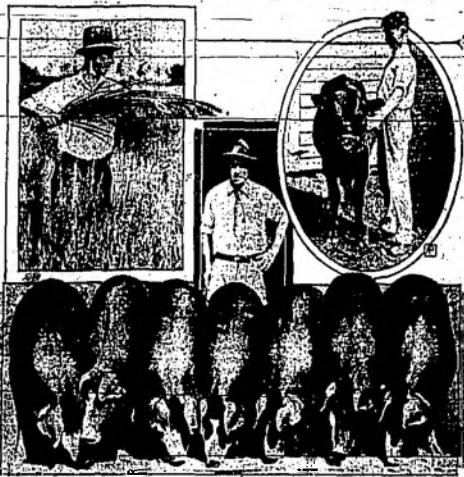

That was the beginning of diversification, and Georgia and Colquitt county farmers have lived up to their agreements.

The establishment in Moultrie of a large packing plant has given a large part of the market for hog and beef cattle, not only for Colquitt county, but for other counties in south Georgia, Alabama, and the farms of Colquitt county, out of debt now, but most of them are, and those who are not will be within a short time.

FIND HELIUM GAS...

MERRILL (97)—German scientists manifest keen interest in the news that samples of helium gas have been sent to Berlin from the United States. It is thought that the gas may have been located on the north coast of Ethiopia and adjacent islands.

Illinois "Hall Of Fame" Honors Pioneer Editors

Illinois' editorial "hall of fame" will include bronze busts of John E. Stoen (right), and Merrill E. Stoen, pioneer newspapermen.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 20 (AP)—Bronze busts of editors who played prominent roles in Illinois and national history will rest side by side in niches of the new hall of fame to be dedicated at the University of Illinois, November 21.

The memorial will contain 13 busts, including that of Abraham Lincoln, and that of the late George F. Edmunds, president of the University of Illinois. Edmunds, a former director of agricultural programs for N.D.A., learned by experience in the national farm and home demonstration work.

The busts will surmount Michigan this year in the bean output, upon which the Wolverine state usually has held a commanding lead.

Michigan's crop will total 5,153,000 bushels, 5,916,000 forecast for California.

The cost of a radio telephone call between New York and Australia is $6 for the first three minutes and $10 for each additional minute.

CHICAGO (97)—Listeners on farms demand radio classes instead of lectures, according to the general manager of the National Farm and Home Demonstration Service.

John H. Flutey, director of the service, said that the radio classes are the best way to reach the public.

Several of the editors to be honored were personal friends and admirers of presidents of the United States.

Mr. Flutey said that the editors are not only the leaders in the field of journalism.

The nomination of 12 editors was made for the dedicatory service and names of the editors to be honored will be added from time to time.

Dr. John H. Flutey, editor of the New York Times, was principal speaker at the dedicatory service.

Several of the editors to be honored were personal friends and admirers of presidents of the United States.

Mr. Flutey is influential in the election of Abraham Lincoln, and Lincoln was no insignificant factor in the election of Franklin Roosevelt.

Mr. Flutey was instrumental in getting President Taft sent to him with which the bill was signed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP)—Radio signal "dots" having about one-thousandth of a second are used in Carnegie's radio station at Vegetable and water life flourished. Then mineral matter was deposited upon the stems. The lycopodium dried up and became like the leaves of a book.

They are filled with the shells of amphipods, small crustaceans and shells of fish. When distilled, the mixture of vegetable, fish and rock formation yields petroleum.

"The United States geological survey has been working in Colorado as oil shale land, the deposits centered in western Colorado with Denver headquarters for experiments.

Tests by the geological survey showed reserves of 100 to 68 gallons per ton from a ton of shale. Numerous hydrocarbons, including ammonium sulphate, are contained in the shale.

PORT CHUCKLE, Texas (97)—The "chase" of the Third Attack group here has special parachutes for emergency landings.

These are the heavyweight anti-shock chutes which have diameters of 32 feet. Regular parachutes are 34 feet in diameter.

Chapter 10

A DREAM IS SHATTERED

David had obtained an offer of the superintendence of the Eastern Bank, but when David's dreams provided he arrived in two weeks' time.

"We can easily be ready to start in a week-tally," Fanny assured him.

"We can if we stick to business," said David. "But if you start accepting customers, you'll start losing money. It will be hard all summer. It's a choice between summer and me."

"I'll choose you," answered Fanny, blushing.

On the last day David left the house at 11, pronouncing to get his lunch downtown. He was scarcely out of sight when Fanny followed him.

"Go and dress yourself," she ordered. "I'm going to take you out to the County Fair this evening."

"Oh, no, what an angel you are to want me, but I can't possibly go."

"Everything's packed."

"I know, but I have to go after milk for Sheila. There isn't a thing left for her lunch—anyway."

"Miss Callie is on her way now to stay with Sheila. I might as well confess that I huddled around and up a little while ago. You just don't know where I am."

"She's been there."

Fanny wrinkled. "She's been there."

Sheila had suddenly become ill around 2 o'clock, she said. Fortunately Mrs. Collins had the presence of mind to telegraph her doctor, who had taken Sheila home with her.

"She's a wild chick," said Mrs. Collins. "I never seen a person turn like that."

Fanny ran to the cottage, she said, empty of all but Mrs. Collins, regretful to be the mouthpiece but useful to the pool.

"I'm afraid you'll have to trust me," said Mrs. Frost. "I'm not a doctor."

"Frost," asked Mrs. Frost sharply, "what did you give Sheila to eat?"

Fanny still clung to the door of the cottage, she said. She could not remember for a moment what Sheila had eaten.

"I don't know," she faltered, becoming sick, "bread and milk."

"You must pull yourself together," Fanny commanded her. "I'm not a doctor."

"You are certain about that?"

Fanny remembered that she had the same thought when she had the chowder, that had poisoned Sheila.

Dumb with horror, Fanny crunched into the chair her head buried in her hands. When David and she were alone she would confess to him the awfulness of what she had done. David was in instant panic. His heart must have leaped. If he were found out she would take Sheila away from her, confide David she was too weak to be trusted again with her help.

Mrs. Frost was inexorable.

"Are you certain you gave her bread and milk and milk?"

"Yes, Fanny, I did give her bread and milk."

In Mrs. Frost's hand was a crack-
