FIRE BREAKS OUT IN GIANT DO-X IN HARBOR AT LISBON

Six Men Remain On Board

Gigantic Craft and Extinguish Flames Licking Way to Gasoline Supply

(UPI) Associated Press

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 29 (UPI)—A "do-x," German seaplane attacked an enraged horse today and probably saved his master's life.

Orle Hamilton, a farmer, said he was paddling the boat through a pasture gate when a horse, with a snaffle bit in its mouth, charged him.

Hamilton leaped back but not before a hawk had sunk into his leg and ripped it open. Hamilton went down and the horse charged.

"Spike," on the other side of the fence, leaped to Hamilton's rescue and charged the horse until the animal retreated. Meanwhile Hamilton crawled to safety.

Death Summons Last Man of Indian Tribe

WADENO, Wis., Nov. 29 (UPI)—Chief Silen Kahuquah, 70, died to be the last of the Potawatomi Indians who came from Canada on a belt of land, 11 miles east of here, it became known today.

Through the intervention of the state historical society, his body was sent to Green Bay where it will be laid until spring and buried in the "holy hunting ground" he chose—Peninsula state park in Door county.

The life of chief came to Kahuquah down through 600 years of Indian legend. It was the son of Chief Gauan Quetone, long ruler of the tribe in Door, Keweenaw and Manitowish counties.

Old Chief Kahuquah was well known among the Indians nationally.

Chief Kahuquah had often asked that he be buried near the Great Lakes. He died Saturday, Nov. 28, after a stroke, starting to drift in the north woods.

$5,000 Medieval Treasury Sella Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (UPI)—For the last time, beginning tomorrow, humankind will have a chance to view the treasury of the Guelphs as a single collection.

The 82 pieces, valued at $30,000, will be on view in the Steinhardt galleries of the Metropolitan Museum, after which they will be sold in separate lots. They have been intact since nine years before Columbus discovered America.

The collection has been designated the greatest medieval ecclesiastical treasure known.

King Carol II Plans To Marry Royal Lady

VIENNA, Nov. 29 (UPI)—The Reuters news agency today had reported that King Carol II intends to marry a royal lady.

The king's aides said a wife, but she will be a lady of royal rank. It was also said his diverse wife Queen Elizabeth intends to leave the throne and marry a man of her own choice.

The collection has been designated the greatest medieval ecclesiastical treasure known.

MISSOURI'S EDUCATORS NOMINATE OFFICERS

Buhl, Burley and Jerome Members of Association

Receive Honors at Boise

BOISE, Nov. 29 (UPI)—Frank E. Dahl, Caldwell, and L. S. Robinson, Hailey, were nominated for president, vice-president and treasurer of the state education association at the closing session of its three-day convention today.

Eleven of these officers, as well as the state superintendent, were not elected.

Nomination of officers followed a session devoted to discussion of scores of topics, including both general and departmental sessions and in general education.

The association, bent on record in favor of state control, voted to support the state department of education in its efforts to distribute practically to poor school districts with the aim of making education available to all students.

The association favored consolidation of school districts, more economical administration and better teacher salaries and requirements for teachers, and recommended that superintendents and principals be given full charge of their schools.

Educators' officers have not less than one-half of their time in service in addition to a degree in education.

Report on Education

A report on work done in preparation of the court of study brought out that studies conducted by several educational committees in the state and the national educational committee reviving the old system of examinations and the work was well under way.

For Vice President, the association selected Frank Foster, of the state department of education, and the state superintendent of schools, Alfred J. Hale, of Idaho Falls.

For Secretary, the association selected Dr. Charles E. Morrison, of the state department of education.

For Treasurer, the association selected Mrs. Mary E. Wallace, of Boise.

After the meeting the family went back home for luncheon. The young people are to stay at the Einstein apartment, while the parents and his wife are in America.

STRIKE OF 92,000 SCOTTISH MINERS LOOMS AS LIKELY

Unless Government Intervenes Successfully Army of Laborers Protests Against Owners' Action

(UPI) Associated Press

LONDON, Nov. 29 (UPI)—

By two thousand coal miners in Scotland will go on strike tomorrow afternoon, unless the government intercedes successfully, because the mine owners insisted on a "spread over" working schedule instead of a straight 7½ hour day provided in the contract as which miners agreed on Monday.

The spread over system would permit the owners to work the 4-hour week through five eight-hour days and one five-hour day.

Under the new system, miners would be entitled to a longer day and a half hour is long enough for a man to stay in a mine at once.

The men never can tell," the miners observed, "when they're the last ones in the mine."

Frank Bozza, legal counsel for Premier MacKay, had argued that the proposed eight-hour day would be more efficient, and could be more profitable.

The miners attempted to hold the fight in some other New Jersey towns.

LUTHER OAKS, Nov. 29 (UPI)—Exploration of gas in the number 5 mine of the Hatteras Coal company mine here today killed 13 men and burned four other miners, one seriously.

It was the second major Oklahoma mine disaster less than five weeks. Thirty-eight miners going to work in other parts of the mine emerged unscathed.

AFTER DINNER TOAST

D. R. CHURCHILL

A misery attacked me on Thanksgiving Day.
About two or two-thirty, or three, let us say.
Believe me or not, but it actually felt like a whole flock of turkeys was under my belt.

It hurt to stand up, and worse to sit down.
And the low water bottle could nowhere be found.
I moaned, and I groaned, and I rolled over and over.
And gagged at the thought, "did I want any more."

Me phone for the doctor to come, and come quick.
She said "Pe is founded, or awfully sick".
She had a rash call in the country, she mkae
Before he could come and take care of my ache.

I unpacked the cupboard and pantry for stuff.
Recommended to stop folks from feeling so tough.
I took some of this and then some of that.
Some pink and some red ones, some round and some flat.

I instead of getting better, things only got worse.
And I really felt no spells than at first.
It seemed all the misery was on the inside.
When a bread-and-milk-peppermint was frantically piled

I rallied in time when doctor McGrever said "kick out your symptoms" and felt me all over.
He felt of my pulse, of my back and reverse.
And while diagnosing, he felt of my pulse.

Said he, "My dear man your symptom is bad!"
And I said "I am not a doctor, I am a head;
But said "If I have you lay old lost."
It's got to be cured or cut off or cut out.

He fixed up some powders like lactum, or lime.
And told me to take what would help in a dime.
Now this could be a pe, so caught in this pickle.
Ma handed five pennies, the rest on a nickel.

Sometime in the night, the hour I can't tell.
My misery was not simply given me, it's true the doctor gave me without doubt.
Had it been in small change I'd have surely passed out.

I think I'll get well though maybe I won't.
I don't whether I do or whether I don't.
I'll never know what to do.
And will pass it along should it happen to you.

It's fixed up some powders like lactum, or lime.

And told me to take what would help in a dime.

Now this could be a pe, so caught in this pickle.

Local improvement district bond issues lately coming due have brought to a number of Idaho municipalities, an identical test, under which the municipalities are reading variously.

The question presented in each instance is one of the measure of responsibility to be abdicated by the municipality which, in response to pertinent legislation, has created local improvement districts for the collection of assessments, ad valorem, taxes and so on, and obliged the municipality to try and collect the assessments agreed upon properly in these districts to pay for the improvements.

The only property against which there are delinquent assessments remains, under a strict construction of the law, as security for payment of unpaid local improvement district bonds.

Grimmiling two years of negotiations, a three-party agreement was reached at Rupert recently under which the City of Rupert and Minidka County is to turn over to the bondholders tax-free, the property against which local improvement district assessments remain unpaid.

The City of Twin Falls is holding several thousand dollars in payments in the local improvement district funds, waiting for the holders of unpaid bonds to reach an agreement among themselves as to how to share the funds, which, if divided on a pro rata basis, would not be sufficient to pay about forty cents the dollar. In the meantime some of the property that remained as security has passed into other hands as tax lien.

The City of Twin Falls has lately appropriated five hundred dollars to employ attorneys to "protect itself and to fulfill its obligations to the holders of special improvement bonds."

In a suit brought against the city by persons seeking to quiet title to lots purchased at tax sale, and to cancel special improvement assessments.

Local improvement districts and their bond funds have gotten a number of Idaho municipalities in a number of states, no matter how you look at it.

The whole situation is involved in a cloud of doubt and uncertainty.

Unless Idaho municipalities can find the straight and honorable way out, it is quite likely they may find they have paid too much for their improvements.

Municipalities' reactions under the present stress are, of course, interested, not only as indicating possible solution of the problem, but also as revealing the temper and disposition of communities.

THE BEST TEACHING

The set of conclusions reached at the Child Welfare Conference at Washington is said to be that "good habits are easier caught than taught."

A good deal can be taught in the schools. The churches can teach morality and religion, and parents can add their instruction. But always example means more than precept.

This is particularly true in family life. It is not so much what parents tell the children they should do, as it is the example set by the parents, which forms their children's character.

Some one has said recently that parents influence their children more after death than during life. A thousand times advice or example need be had first, but especially half-forgotten, will rise up in their minds at critical times and determine their action. This should comfort many a father and mother.

I have some ideas about women's place in politics.

A man said: "I will not vote as long as women work in the booth. I believe that this is a man's job, and I object to the presence of women in politics."

Another said: "The last time I voted, some woman in the booth asked me so many questions that I became disgusted and will not vote again or longer as there are women election officials."

Other citizens, men and women, thought forward such ideas as that women have allowed up the election system by making it a party out of election day; that women don't know enough about politics to vote intelligently; that women haven't time to vote or perform political service if they take care of husband and home; that women quarrel over politics.

It is an amazing array of reasons for depriving oneself of the privilege, or disregarding the duty, of voting. Doubtless individuals could be found to take just the opposite stand on every point mentioned. We are influenced in our attitude toward political research by whims, emotions and prejudices just as we are in other matters.

Obscure Clues Yield Evidence Against Criminals As Expert Detectives Of Northwestern University's Scientific Laboratory Probe Homicides

Skilful Crime Detection Students Reveal Methods Used to Solve Problems

Dr. Ferdinand Watsek and Dr. C. W. Muehlberger Apply Modern Science in War Against Windy City Underworld

Dr. Ferdinand Watsek (left) and Dr. C. W. Muehlberger are experts in Chicago's crime detection laboratory. Pictures above show how numbers that had been filed from gun used in Lingle slaying were brought out to identify the owner.

By WALTER T. DROWN
Written for The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—Dr. Ferdinand Watsek would never be confused with Philip Vance. He looks not at all like Sherlock Holmes or other fictional detectives, but he has law-and-order experience. But the painstaking, middle-aged Viennese in the studio across from his office is such detective.

Through him, Calvin Goddard, director of Chicago's scientific crime detection laboratory at Northwestern university, was able to demonstrate his contention that European police investigators were trained and competent in all phases of the work.

William Vernon, man fell from the top floor of an exclusive Chicago club and was crushed to death on the pavement below.

To silence rumors and clear up the death the family retained a lawyer. It called upon the crime detection laboratory, and Watsek was assigned to the case.

Louis Phillips,

"Watsek traveled over the room with a microscope, and here is what he found:

Finger prints on outside of horizontal frame, vertical frame, glass, lenses of the glasses, hand and four of the left palm prints of both hands on highly polished window frame.

On handle, vertical frame, door, lenses of the glasses, hand and four of the left palm prints of both hands on highly polished window frame.

Watsek traced the prints to the window for the handle. He had leaned out against the window sill, placing his hands against the vertical frame, and the prints were on the glass, he said.

After an experiment in it he found that, no hands but his, no eye but his, no mind but his, played no subject of the experiment.

COUPLE GETS LICENSE

JEROME, Nov. 29 (Special to The News)—A marriage license was issued here today to Leslie L. Clark and Lois Ingham, both of Salt Lake City.

From a public position he had pointed to the outside edge of the window, and returned to the room, from those outside had made in pulling him off the floor.

But he also took the leather straps on the outside wall told Watsek that he died accidentally, and the doctor was asked to make out the bill. A suicide or the victim of a shot would have left no feather traces.

The writer of the Lingle, Chicago probe, is the assistant director of crime laboratory, Dr. C. W. Muehlberger, toxicologist and chemist. On the day of the shooting he was found near the busy Michigan avenue corner where Lingle was killed. Beside it is a silk glove.

Gangland kit no longer a mystery. The police traced the killer's gun to the barrel. It had been filed.

However, a few hours after Lingle's death Muehlberger traced the gun to Franklin Foster, a deeper life-long gangster known as a gunner. The gun's serial number 36882. It had been sold to Foster, who was treated in Los Angeles and charged with the killing.

"Steel has a crystalline structure very plain to read under the microscope. These crystals determine the strength of steel," Dr. Muehlberger said.

"Whatever a number is stamped upon steel, as in the case of a pistol

CASSIA COUNTY'S WEED DRIVE ENDS

After Campaign Entailing Expenditure of $11,228, Workers Store Equipment

BURLEY, Nov. 29 (Special to The News)—After a series of warfare on Cassia county weeds, the campaign ended yesterday evening at an informal party. Guests were Mrs. Fred Dugan, Miss Maxine Wold, Catherine Turner and Mary Brennen. Miss Dugan was awarded the Miss Wolfie, low.

Extradition work was carried on by Cloy Coster, weed supervisor, under direction of County Agent, Tom McLean. The weeds in front of the barrack in Cassia county were morning glory, Canadian thistle, perennial sow thistle, white poppy, tall bellflower, red clover and cockle bur. The campaign was waged from May 1 to November 15.

Winter control work was started in the fall, and has continued undisturbed since. Hundreds of acres of notorious weeds have been eradicated. Canadian thistle was attacked principally by the use of fire, and the work mainly through the application of common salt and through continuous cultivation. More recently, work with chisel and coupled with cultivation, has been the principal method of eradication.

At first, sodium chloride was used as a spray, but it was found to be too caustic, too injurious to plants, and account of inflammability, and one weed supervisor, Arnold Worthington, lost his life by burning and his hand was severely injured. Finally, sodium chloride was substituted for the sodium chemical. Although there was very little fire hazard, the results were not so good. But when sodium chloride was used, the weed killing results were better when sodium chloride was used.

Results demonstrations showed that morning glory was easily eradicated, with Canadian thistle next. Yellow wild onions, white top, yellow vetch and field bindweed, the latter two proved hard to kill.

British Appear To Lose Grip On Orient As China Again Rules Naval Base

Return of Weihaiwei Confession to Nanking Puts Spotlight On Subject of Extra-Territorial Rights

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
(Associated Press Special)
MANCHURIA, Nov. 29 (AP)—Gloss: British losing their grip in China? Not only Americans, Japanese and continental Europeans but subjects of King George who have established their homes and businesses in this part of the world would like to know the answer.

Those who venture any reply at all, usually give an affirmative and the subject is dropped.

The subject has been discussed off and on for two years now since the return to Nanking of the Chinese Nationalist government, but the "Weihaiwei" concession has moved it further into the spotlight than at any time since the related subject was last in the news, a year ago, in a series of four. The North China report, which for 32 years had served as a British naval base, was handed over to the Chinese without even a question.

Asians Central.

Weihaiwei still remains a base, but the British have withdrawn and they have assumed complete control of the place, Sir Reginald Johnson, the British Commissioner, says. The Chinese who helped govern the port and adjacent territory, have gone to other posts and the British troops there have been handed over to the Hongkong Garrison.

Kufeng, the British concession in Amoy, is also said to have lost its British garrison within a few months and foreign business interests are wondering where the process is going to stop.

As a matter of fact, Weihaiwei was no longer needed as a British naval base, but then Tangshan, formerly German, was captured by the Chinese and given to Japan. Therefore, from a political viewpoint, the change in jurisdiction did not register as highly as it did commercially, because the business interests were to have developed regardless of who controlled the port.

One step was ever taken in that direction.

Used as Fortress.

This kind of commercial development was largely due to an agreement between Great Britain and Germany, which can be traced back to the time of the First World War, but not to recent events on the other's territory. The Spanish Weihaiwei was used chiefly as a radiator for the British naval base.

Another, a purpose it retains which it was ideal.

The story of Weihaiwei is linked with the fall of Manchuria.

After a movement, known as the Manchurian Incident, a movement which added Manchuria, or more than half the territory of the continent, to the ranks of the British dominions, the British took over the port of Weihaiwei, a purpose it retains which it was ideal.

An answer to Russians.

Britain's acquisition of Weihaiwei was primarily to meet the Russian threat, while the war fortified its port until it was supposed to be impregnable. British had down, however, to the point where Weihaiwei, rather upon her mutual control with Germany in that field.

The leased base of Weihaiwei had been held by the British for many years and a strip of land ten miles wide along the coast. A Chinese regiment was raised in the port and the marchioness of Lushun became the Marchioness of Queen Victoria.

During the Boxer Rebellion.

During the Boxer Rebellion, Weihaiwei was used as a recruiting station for Chinese coolies who rendered valuable non-combatant service in Europe during the First World War.

Rent remittances of pay from these men, poured a stream of silver into the treasury that greatly enriched the port.

That the people of the territory were satisfied, with British control, was evidenced when the British court, to which Weihaiwei was returned, held that the Chinese had promised to rule it over the lines established by the English. The British had agreed to retain the port as a gift.

The Chinese authorities hope to open Weihaiwei to trade. A customs house will be built there and plans are under way for improvement of the harbor and of the port facilities.

PHILIPPINES' CHOLERA ATTACKS ONLY NATIVES

MANILA, Nov. 29 (AP)—The recent cholera outbreak in the Philippines, which lasted from May until October, claimed 200 lives, says the United States Public Health Service.

There were officially 403 cases, confined entirely to Filipinos. All foreigners, including Chinese, escaped infection, largely because of their cleaner methods of preparing food and the greater care they take with their drinking water.

parently Lifts Mental Hazard—From Teutons, No More Fearing Resentment

(By The Associated Press)
VERDUN, France, Nov. 29 (AP)—Matters of life and death are being fought over the battlefields of the Alsace-Lorraine region this year than at any time since the war. However, the tourists are returning. The plains have quieted the devastated regions because of the recruitment of the inhabitants.

Verdun citizens are the last to leave, says the Associated Press.

"It is natural that Verdun should retain strong feelings about the war," said Henri Fremont, editor of a local newspaper.

But the Germans are trying to welcome our former enemies, remembering that they left many dead and have much interest in these fields as a result.

There are 10 German cemeteries in this region, some of them in the height of the war. In one of these neglected plots the grave markers are crumbling crosses patched together from splintered boards.

All Spanish Factories of Railroad Equipment Face Shutdown as Cars Increase

As a result of the program of economy observed by the government and generally industrial depression, the number of cars in Spain has advanced to a colony and a half.

The Spanish Railway Manufacturers' Association has asked the government for more control of the railroads, and the ministry of labor of the first division, chairman of staff of the final division, stated:

"Eight months later he changed his post for a peak in the ministry of defense. His brother, Colonel von Hammerstein, a chief of the army remained active in the same region.

He took service in the military and is now in command of a regiment.

He has been promoted to colonel.

NEW YORK: Nov. 29 (47)—The stock market put a dismal November behind it today and made ready to welcome December in trade made to Christmas.

Prices closed a point higher on the average, largely because professional traders chose to buy the dullness of the two-hour session prevented the market from giving a very clear picture of its intentions.

Starting with a small decline in the course of which a few railroads added a point to their gains, the market on the last became firm as it went into the second hour and final prices were generally the best of the day.

Industrial stocks were up, but the dullness of the two-hour session prevented the market from giving a very clear picture of its intentions.

Industrial stocks were up, but the dullness of the two-hour session

prevented the market from giving a very clear picture of its intentions.

Although the intervention of a bell day threw the market out of gear, its early action in this week has communicated a sense of wonder, wondering whether the losses of November are soon to be set by the still potent bear.

INJUNCTION SUIT TESTS ORDER TO SHUT OUT WATER

L. G. Hill and H. F. Ramseyer, Filer, Attack Canal Company's Plan for Partial Suspension of Delivery

Twin Falls Canal company must defend in injunction proceedings filed yesterday, its order of last May suspending water delivery to all users between the Perrine bridge on the east and Cedar Draw on the west and north from the Los Lins

This order is attacked in the injunction proceedings by L. G. Hill and H. F. Ramseyer, called the "two drunks," who assert that the proposed suspension of water deliveries in this manner would violate the terms of their contract.

David J. H. Nelson, manager, setting the date for hearing for 10 A. M. next Friday, signed yesterday a temporary injunction against the canal company from interfering with a flow of water sufficient to provide 1,000 cubic feet per second for every acre foot used with this area, it was announced in the court house for injunction, the amount which landholders are entitled to receive under their water contracts and which has been delivered without interruption since 1906.

The city of Twin Falls and two private companies are among the acre front which it is proposed to shut off the water.

Plains Hills and Shoshone, respectively, managers of the canal at Owyhee and North. Both will alter their contracts for injunction, the temporary restraining order.

Plains Hills, however, has voted a vote required by its stockholders for January first for shutting out water of the canal system in order to meet the emergency of economy in operation and a possible means of preventing the loss of ground water.

The case will go to trial on December 10th in a resolution adopted by the canal company's directors last May.

In the operation of the canal, Twin Falls and Shoshone, and the canals of the Snake River, between November 15, 1930, and March 15, 1931.
