Army Coach Realizes 100 Per Cent Improvement In Navy Team

Cadets' Mentor Warns Own Boys Of Tough Tussle

"Bill Ingram Has Developed a Smooth-Running Attack Which is Perfectly Coordinated," Says Sasse

(By The Associated Press)
EST POINT, N.Y., Dec. 8.—Launched practice today in preparation for the first military game with the Navy in New York Saturday. Major Ralph L. Sasse, Army football coach, sounded a warning that "the Navy is at present better than at any previous time this season."

"Bill Ingram has developed a smooth-running attack which is perfectly coordinated," said Sasse, who was in the stands to witness victory over Penn on Saturday.

"One defense the Navy was alert and strong. Another phase of the game which they have mastered is blocking and tackling. The interference was excellent, and the defensive victory over Penn on Saturday.

"Our defense the Navy was alert and strong. Another phase of the game which they have mastered is blocking and tackling. The interference was excellent, and the defensive victory over Penn on Saturday.

"There is no doubt that next Saturday will be another good game, showing the teamwork and the tackling was hard and smart.

"There is no doubt that next Saturday will be another good game, showing the teamwork and the tackling was hard and smart.

"Sasse was particularly impressed by the play of his backs. Tullie, center; Bowring, tackle, and Williams at quarterback."

Fighting Outstanding

"Fighting Outstanding," Sasse said, "was outstanding and William's selection of plays was excellent. Furthermore, if Navy has any more success, it will be hard to beat them. Korn, we will be in for an unpleasant afternoon."

The Army Major claimed the "unconsciousness of the players" was responsible for the victory over Notre Dame at Chicago. To keep the squad from going stale, we broke training after that game for three days. Now we are trying to build up."

"We will certainly be unable to put our full strength on the field Saturday. We will have to go out definitely out for the rest of the season. This morning I visited Armstrong, Mallay, Trice, Blaikie and Gammie. They are all regulars and men are regular players and their absence next Saturday will be sorely felt."

Garnham has never fully recovered from his injuries incurred in the Yale game. Stecker and Fenzel are also on the injured list. It will be a good game, though."

BOYS' CONFERENCE IN GOODING CLOSES

had for its slogan "Patriotism, Loyalty, Work, Duty, Honor, Master what you like to do in your power and follow your spirituals and tastes."

Sufficient questions of Christianity were answered by the conference were:

"Where did we come from?—What are we here for? And where are we going?"

Study Economics

Problems of economics and morals were brought to light. They were presented in a series of lectures on the employment relief program and developed a slogan, "Help the fellow that is down." The crime rate was presented and the need of some men to make easy money selling liquor, strong drinks, perfume,

"I'm giving the best I've got and I want you to catch the meaning and the secret life," Dr. Culver said. "The world is a great place, but the world is not perfect. The world is not perfect because of the noblemen who gave each of 10 servants a talent to trade with, one of whom buried his talent in the ground. The world is not perfect because many of your young men are going to make good with what God has given you—talents, talents, privilages, education, etc."

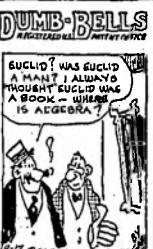

Closes Admonitions

"Life there are three adjustments which are absolutely necessary," continued Dr. Culver. "First, to give to one's self, to others and to God." In adjusting one's self, certain interests must be met and satisfied, and held in balance. "It is a curious feeling, desire for revenge and sex. Life's adventure will be a tragic failure, unless these instincts are directed toward the right channels."

"Truthfulness and the realization of the rights of others are traits we must develop in our educational work. We must never forget the memory of forever ideals," he continued. "In the third adjustment, we must learn that God is God, he concluded."
