REPORT TO LONDON REVEALS INSURGENT TRIUMPHS IN SPAIN

Correspondent Declares King Alfonso Possibly Considering Departure From Madrid as Rebels Advance

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON, (Tuesday Morning) Dec. 16.—A midnight dispatch from Paris to the Daily Mail says official quarters have received information that the Spanish revolutionaries are encroaching upon the upper-hand and that King Alfonso may leave Madrid.

Friends of King Alfonso of Spain here last night said he was probably among those last swept up at the upheaval in his own country since he had been unable to sleep all night at any time late to face such an eventuality and was prepared for it.

Because of this knowledge, it is said, his queen, who is a member of the English Royal family, has indicated that as far as possible some British members of a close friend's household will find a home always in Madrid.

It is said to be not unusual, but it is not impossible, for friends here he has made such provisos as possible to provide for his family outside of Spain if and when a final came.

Two AVIATORS PUZZLE
LISBON GOVERNMENT
Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 15 (UPI)—Twelve Spanish aviators, headed by the temperamental Major Ramon Franco, the ex-Olympic flier, were missing day after the collapse of an air force revolt and landed in Portugal, where a puzzled government sought to determine what should be done with them.

The fliers were interviewed by the war minister, and it was learned tonight that they had been captured for placing their government in such a delicate position, since Portugal borders on Spain and is a friendly nation.

Officials added tonight the only thing certain was that Portugal would refuse extradition of the men to Spain.

It was decided to wait until the fliers from Spain present themselves, cautioning an expedition.

Meet of Young Yachtmen

Most of the homes were vacant, the owners having moved to Hollywood, and the few families still remaining in the city did not contact the police, the news service said.

All Spanish, meanwhile, was declared under martial law.

Since a revolt broke at the northern city of Jaca last Friday, the rebels had been harassing the roads to Madrid Saturday, Franco's participation in the revolutionary unit was widely reported, but not confirmed. Last month the news service said that he had been imprisoned for writing articles criticizing the government's aviation policy, except from prison and had been freed on parole.

At 8 o'clock this morning he appeared at Cuatro Vientos airfield, where he was welcomed by the King, who is considered the first aviator revolt in history began.

Mechanics and other members of the staff were coming on duty at that time and were ordered to assemble on the parade ground. When they were gathered, their officers and chief were told to join the rebels, which had not been done before.

12 AVIATORS PUNISHED LONDON GOVERNMENT

LONDON, Portugal, Dec. 15.—The twelve Spanish aviators, headed by the leader of the revolution, Gen. M. A. Gómez, fled Madrid in four airplanes to the south after the collapse of an air force revolt and landed in Portugal, where a formal protest was made against what they should do with them.

The men were interrogated by the minister, who was learned to-night that he roundly chided them for placing their government in such a delicate position, since Portugal is on Spain and is a friendly nation.

Officials said tonight the only thing certain was that Portugal would not be asked to return the men if that was requested. "Now we trust them at present," said what to do with them.

All Spain, meanwhile, was dazed under martial law.

The Spanish rebels at the northern city of Jerez last Friday and a rebel force was engaged in a battle Saturday. Pronto's participation in the conflict was denied by the rebels, but not confirmed. Last month the noted hero, who had been imprisoned for writing articles critical of the revolution, was freed, having come from prison, and had been sought everywhere.

At 8 o'clock this morning he appeared in the square in front of the Field of the Four Winds, and what is considered the first aviation revolt in history began.

100 Men Join Movement

Mechanics and other members of the staff were coming on duty at the base, and the rebels were on the parade grounds, where they were harangued by their officers and urged to join the republic which had just been established.

The movement—about 1000—were given rifles and ammunition, although many never used such a weapon, and the men who refused were locked in a jail.

Six planes were wheeled out and their wings were painted red by party of rebels, who then took off and proceeded to drop bombs their barracks that they did not bomb.

Then several of the rebels began a flight over Madrid, dropping pamphlets which urged troops to revolt, and others who dropped bombs their barracks that they did not bomb.

The government acted speedily. The Leon regiment of 2000 men, under command of Gen. Jose de la Torre, rounded up the mutiniers, while the government road and camp artillery began a bombardment and loyal troops advanced to the scene, followed by rebels. In all, said an official statement, about 6000 troops were assembled to crush the uprising.

No casualties were reported, and the government said it wished only to intimidate the rebels, but the rebels shot down their general and the chief of staff, and the rebels fought half an hour while fire shot to the top of the airfield and the rebels at last point was reached.

Many rebels were captured, when the first shells fell and others waited until they saw the gleaming bayonets of the infantry approach.

In the meanwhile the pamphlets spreading plans in one of which Franco held the title, saw what had happened to the rebels, and four machines speedily set a westward course for Portugal.

Tide today the rebels and the compasses, and the rebels, and Mechanics made landfall at Aviador airfield, 12 miles from Lisbon.

They made a bold bid for freedom, springing for the adjacent heavy woods, but Portuguese authorities closed in on them and they surrendered to Lieutenant Franco of the

A sitting process was originally scheduled to be performed by the entire state central committee which would consist of 1000 names, T. A. Walzer, state chairman, said.

EINSTEIN EMBARKS FOR VOYAGE TO CALIFORNIA

(New York, Tuesday Morning) Dec. 16 (By)—After five days submitted to the fanfare with which New York greets visiting celebrities, Albert Einstein, the world's greatest scientist, left New York yesterday for California, where he will remain for three months.

The great scientist spent most of the day in yesterday's meeting with Mrs. Einstein and friends.

The scientist, who had been invited to speak at a symposium at a state meeting in Germany last month, spent a long week

following his official reception at city hall Saturday.

In addressing a literary club here last night, he advised militant pacifism to Americans.

In California Dr. Einstein will visit the California Institute of Technology and the Mount Wilson Observatory, study the sun, and perhaps lecture on the atom.

BISHOPSHOPE, Dec. 15 (Special to the News)—Work has started on the task of surveying and distributing 15,000 acres of land to be irrigated by the new Miller-Shoshone canal, says C. H. Springer, engineer in charge.

This is the first time since the beginning of this work that irrigation has been given to lands without water rights. Heretofore all the work has been concentrated on the efforts to obtain relief on land now being farmed.

In the districts under Mr. Springer's supervision, there are 15,000 acres of land which have been surveyed and 10,000 acres of land which have been distributed.

The work is progressing rapidly. About 97 per cent of the upper contract of Miller brothers is now completed, and 95 per cent completed.

"Dark Lantern" Giving "Black" Light Detects Criminals

LAMP RAYS REVEAL MARKS INVISIBLE IN ORDINARY DAYLIGHT

Dr. Herman Goodman Demonstrates and Explains New, Valuable Device

THIEVES CANNOT SEE IDENTIFICATION MARKS

Characters Formed of Sensitive Substance Show Only When Under Dark Beam

By F. B. COLTON
(Associated Press Science Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Thieves and embezzlers now can be tracked with a new kind of "dark lantern" which sets out "black" light rays that actually give no light.

Things that ordinary light does not reveal can be seen with the aid of these invisible rays.

They reveal invisible ink markings on money, stamps on "rare" checks, forged signatures and synthetic products that by all other tests seem exactly the same. The new kind of "dark lantern" which sets out "black" light rays that actually give no light.

Filter Eyes

The old-fashioned dark lantern has a glass tube which, when shut off, all the light will be in the lantern; a glass filter replaces the shutter, and it cuts off only the rays that give out "black" light, leaving rays of "dark light."

"Black light" actually is ultraviolet light. The visible light from the sun and electric lights is filtered by the filter. The black light causes certain substances to emit in the dark.

An object is seen because it reflects light. Substances sensitive to the black light shine in the dark because they transform the black light into visible light.

When ordinary light is present with black light it "drowns out" the black light.

The word "stolen," for example, may be marked on a gilt picture with this simple solution, which becomes invisible in ordinary light when it dries.

If the picture then is stolen, it truly cannot be seen, provided by filtering it under the black light in a dark room. The lettering will then appear plainly.

Such signs can be marked similarly with a substance sensitive to black light. This they can't change or remove the mark, for he cannot see it.

Two days later, McFadyen said the budget budget was sent on a date set for the committee to meet without a word of explanation. He said the committee considered the proposal and unanimously agreed to it.

Senator Robinson, in reply to a question of the secretary of agriculture, had recommended the proposal, a $400,000 drought relief bill.

McFadyen said a representative of the secretary of agriculture had brought to him the proposal, for a $400,000 drought relief bill.

"I believe the president had reason to know what his right hand was doing," he said. "He was fully informed of the situation," he added.

The discussion brought into action the committee's plan to send a delegation to Washington to present the bill.

Despite the house was unable to decide the question, he said, he would be bound by the decision of the committee.

Patton, however, insisted that his husband would be held responsible for the death of David Jenkins, and he was asked to leave the room.

NEW YORK. Dec. 16 (AP)—The leading industrial and utility stocks was checked today, but nevertheless were still under pressure, especially after it had been learned that the market's latest slumps put the balance of changes of the downward.

Cotton and sugar futures, as well as bonds, were firm, however, while wheat quotations flirmed, partly in sympathy with Winnipeg.

Trading on the stock exchange was active throughout the day, with the first half hour, when prices generally broke to new lows as the week's end approached, showing a record of 1,000,000 shares traded, up 1,000,000 from the previous market, when the rally ran into trouble, was much weaker. Gold for the day totalled 3,400 shares, the largest volume in a month.

No gains of a point in United States Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, John Deere, Standard Oil of Calif., Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse, all of which touched new minimums.

In the morning session, however, the market was checked by the stocks to which the market looks for leadership. The performance of the copper stocks, which have been trading, however, was far less impressive. Some of the carriers closed 5 to 10 points under Saturday's final price, but the market, which was then the leader, moved when the rally ran into trouble, was much weaker.

COUNCILMEN FAVOR FUND FOR SURVEY OF WATER SOURCES

Court Decision Endorsing Suspension of Winter
Delivery in Ditches
Revives Discussions

Twin Falls municipal budget for coming year will include a provision for investigation of water sources and of municipal water supply, if members of the city council carry out purposes they announced at a general meeting of the council last evening.

Municipal water supply, which has been a subject for discussion for many years, came up for attention last evening, following a district court decision last Friday that suspended to the Twin Falls Canal Company's purpose to shut out water of ditches during the winter season.

In the Canal and Ditch and Dike, which drew municipal water supplies from the canal system, were exempted in this decision, as were men and women who are in the position that eventually the city will be faced with necessity either of supply obtaining another source of supply or face the alternative of being water from Miller in a conduit.

In any event, councilmen agreed in approval of the decision of the state court. Commissioner T. C. Douglas said that a small appropriation should be made next year for a survey looking to solution of the problem.

City Pays Sprinkler.
Tax money collected for the city by the county tax collector during the month of October was carried into the city treasury to the extent of $288, a report from the county auditor's office showed.

The city paid its $11,000 street sprinkling account last evening, taking the money out of the administrative fund. The amount of the Sprinkling assessments on all city-owned land, including the city-owned land, is included in the bill.

Other items in the city treasury that were approved last evening totaled $83, including $40 for labor, $93 against the administrative fund, $10 against the general fund, and $187 against the streets sprinkling fund.

Council focused a plan and elections for a new service station to be built by the Ernest White company for Carl G. Brown on two lots on Main Street between First and Second streets south. Estimated cost was given at $1400.
