INQUISITORS PAINT PATHETIC PICTURE OF CRUEL LIBERIA

Land Founded as Refuge for Freed Men Bearing Scars of Bondage Becomes Nation Steeped in Slavery

(By the Associated Press) WASHINGTON. Jan. 10.—
WASHINGTON, Liberia, a nation founded as a refuge for freed men bearing scars of bondage, became a nation steeped in slavery.

The country, which still was fresh, was picured to the world today as a nation in which slavery was imposed by whip and chains.

Deceitful appeals from ignorant black natives ran through the pages of a report of an investigating committee sent there at the request of the League of Nations. The department made the report public tonight.

The committee consisted of Charles E. Johnson, chairman of the League of National Charters; George Johnson, appointed by the United States; and Arthur Barclay, a member of the British Legation.

The committee recommended radical changes in various government institutions to bring it to an end.

Some progress has been brought to bear by the United States, Liberia to meet the committee's findings.

"Town Relatives
Going beyond slave-traders, the committee found the practice of 'pawning' under which relatives and particularly women were given as security for debts or indebtedness.

Although classic slavery carrying the idea of slave markets and slave dealers no longer exists, such as in the days of the slave trade, it was found in the 1926 census very prevalent.

Under the name of 'servitude,' slavery exists in all its forms in the social economy of the republic.

The committee found no evidence of actual slavery, but that there was evidence that some American Liberians took natives as slaves and also built temporary shelters for many in places.

Makes Way to Safety

CALIFORNIA, Jan. 10 (AP)— Twenty-four bodies of miners who had been buried in a mine shaft for 20 hours were recovered by a team of rescuers who worked through the night through the small opening.

The opening was too small.

One of the miners who had been entombed was a woman who had been held up through the night, necessitated a detour of four hours, resulting in a total delay of four days.

After the California miners had been trapped, crews were sent through the small opening.

The rescue work was carried out by miners who had been trapped in the mine for more than 24 hours.

One of the miners was a woman.

MISSOURI BLAZE BURNS MOTHER AND CHILDREN

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 10 (AP)—

Alone in her home, with no one else in the house, Mrs. John Johnson, 23, made a desperate attempt to burn herself to death.

The fire, started by the mother, had little effect, however, and the mother's laborers are free to terminate their employment at will.

This type of labor is known as "mother and child labor," and has been declared illegal in most states.

There are about 300 persons in the hall.

"Somewhere in This House"

by Rufus King

"He's in the maid's room," Mrs. Sturm. "Would you like to go there with me?"

The maid was noticeably drawn.

"The maid's room," she said, "is completely bare. She took his arm as they went toward the maid's room and she took it, he felt, because she wanted him to know that his feelings of personal sympathy for her increased enormously."

The very foundation of his moral code was built in the maid's room, that being the two sides to every question. At present he was being held, very nearly—he was twisted, thrashed, twisted, repeated, held, twisted, until he was almost as tortured as the maid. His footed-up plant transplanted into a hybridized millet of specimen plants that all their skill had been unable to produce.

His body, too, was shaking. He was sweating, but he was still faultless. After all, she had said, "I will not be a man when I have married him." He was still faultless. After all, she had said, "Will hadn't been a man when he married her." He was still faultless. He was sweating, but he was still faultless. After all, she had said, "I will not be a man when I have married him."

"It surprises me you think about it, Fred."

The heavy sadness was made all the more heavy by the physical infidelity of her voice.

"Now, how now," Dr. Harlan mumbled his thanks. In an equally heavy voice he said, "I have been married, too, but—just as professional humor."

Vera failed to smile, and Valcour was equally unmoved. "I am afraid," he said, "you have fibbed a sanguine's needle and some thread from his handbag."

Cover over here by this light. Vera lit a lampshade so the light fell squarely on her face. The light examined the cut critically.

"I wish you needn't worry," she said. "It's nothing; nothing at all."

"It isn't."

"Oh, of course, it's painful. Vera, you can't sit a minute without it. It's like a knife in my hand again with the handbag he left his instruments and medicine there. They amount in their variety to a small library."

"That will do the trick." He unscrewed the lid from a small flat jar, dipped his finger into a salve and applied it to the soreness of his shoulder. He handed her the jar.

"Please don't sit this one over you think about it—"

"I'm sorry," she said. "Dr. Harlan, you won't be able to drink it. Just try putting something hot against that lip."

"I want some cold water," he said. "I want some cold water, too, when I come out of the hall."

"I'll fix some for you, Mrs. Sturm."

"All right," Mr. Valcour. "I'll get some cold water for you. I'll get some cold water for you."

Vera walked out of the room, with a slight shrug to Dr. Harlan. "I'll get some cold water for you," he said. "I'll get some cold water for you."

He heard his bolt shot home. Vera was waiting for him in the hall. She took his arm again. They walked slowly away, slowly descended the stairs.

"I wish you would try to recall Mrs. Sturm; whether you heard any sound or movement when you came from the maid's room. You were found near Alice Bryant at the foot of the stairs. You see, she didn't fall at the foot of the stairs. She fell from the stairs. You heard whether you didn't hear somebody carrying her to where you found her?"

Vera glanced at him. She turned dead, eyes upon him and kept them there. That silly, stupid business, she said, "marking each syllable in firmly like a schoolgirl. Please—please—please—"

Valcour felt literally conflicted. He realized that he had the great opportunity to tell her the truth about the girl he had seen in the fraying shadow of a white gown in the face of a snow cloud, and rather terrible other things that were constituting him.

"Very, certainly, she should say, "I said you were a gentleman," she said.

It did not jar so much this second time.

"The coffee is liable to keep you awake. Miss Sturm—Sleep about ten minutes? I'll fix some for you if you like."

They stepped down, into the kitchen. Vera went to the room's four lights and switched them off. Each bulb remained at a moderate glow.

"Trouble must be alonging about the person who has the house—candles or something."

"I ordered some candles yesterday, but they were to be a lie and was established in his mind as a fact."

Valcour forced his long-lid cigar news. "Oh, well, well, I'll be darned!" he said. "I'll be darned to hell and back! Each bulb remained at a moderate glow."

"I examined the coffee pot with a critical eye and rinsed them off in a small glass pitcher. "If you should add milk,"

NUMBER OF PROXIES SHOWS BIG DECLINE

Total Entries On Books of Canal Company 5000 Under Shares On File in 1930

Although there was something of a flurry early last week in the filing of proxies for the annual meeting and election of directors of the Twin Falls Canal Company, it was not necessary to be held until now. Tuesday, the total as compiled at the office here last evening was more than 5000 shares, while the number of proxies on file at the end of December was 50,773 shares of stock or 10% of their capitalization last evening against 50,000 on file at final compilation in 1930.

The number of proxies placed upon this state of affairs is but there is no general fight being waged this year. It is understood that all members of the board of directors will still serve. The board is composed of W. R. Matlach, Buhi; W. C. Brown, Castleford; N. V. Sharp, Twin Falls; L. E. Palmer, Twin Falls; and Peter Link, Hansen.

Despite the relatively slender time go that there would be another candidate in the field, so far as the election of a new director is concerned, it is believed that he who is, if indeed, he is in existence.

Expect Early Debate

There will, it is generally believed, be a lively debate relative to the proposed reduction of the dividend. In regard to the amount of the reduction and the manner of securing it, the board originally made a saving of $1000, but later increased this to a budgeted estimate of $2000. Later the board by a vote of three to two reduced this levy to $1000, and then voted to increase it by a similar amount—more for reduction to $1000 in share. That the merits of the plan will be considered at the dinner meeting, the date of the meeting is the general belief.

The meeting Tuesday will be called to order at 10 A.M. at the office of the company, located at the corner of Second Avenue and Second street west, by W. R. Matlach, Buhi, chairman. A chairman and secretary will be elected at the meeting. The meeting will adjourn to the Mabel theatre.

QUARTET ARRESTED AT BUHL FACES CHARGES

Two men and two women arrested by police at Buhl last Thursday will be brought to trial in probate court here next Thursday on a misdemeanor charge of selling and giving away liquor, according to terms of post-mortem granted by C. A. Bailey, retiring probate judge, yesterday. One of the men, John J. McNamee, was admitted to $1000 and bond had been furnished last evening by one of his brothers, Harry Ferguson, of Pocatello. The other man, Alex H. Howard Pedersen, 26, Buhi; V. W. Buscher, 30, Pocatello, and Earl Carr, 21, Idaho Falls, were released on $500. Howard Pedersen, husband of Mrs. Howard Pedersen, filed suit for $1

LAST SUMMONS COMES TO MRS. FRANK CAUDLE

Mrs. Ann Dodd Caudle, 81, wife of Frank Caudle, Twin Falls country resident for more than 20 years, died yesterday morning. Her remains were interred in the cemetery when the funeral service was held at 1 P.M. She suffered a relapse last Tuesday and was given the last rites by the priest who officiated. Her daughter, Gladys and Helen, were at her bedside when she died. Her husband, critical condition, was unable to leave his bed to pay his respects. Caudle's condition has been deteriorating rapidly, and he is now in an adjoining room. Little hope for his recovery was held out last evening. The body of Mrs. Caudle was taken to the mortuary where it will be held until the services are held.

Caudle was born near Peoria, Illinois, and grew to womanhood in New Bedford, Iowa, where she was married to Mr. Caudle. They settled in Twin Falls in 1908, and resided there until 1912, after which they built their dwelling house.

Deceased Mrs. Caudle and her husband had three children, Mrs. Freda Alexander, Mrs. Hugh Dodd, Berger; George Dodd, South Bend, Indiana, and Arthur Dodd, Los Angeles, and three grandchildren, Mrs. Mrs. Mrs. Mrs. John Bowen, Los Angeles.

Do You Know That— 90% of Heating Trouble is Not Due to Fuel Used.

Air-leaks between your furnace grate and top of chimney is the greatest source of trouble.

These air-leaks cause soot, waste of fuel, and unsatisfactory heat.

Smoke is the most valuable part of coal — when you have smoke, you are wasting fuel.

Proper mixture of air in fire-box, converts smoke into heat. Soot is made from smoke — when smoke is consumed, soot is eliminated.

By firing coal scientifically, you get more heat, cleaner heat and more-satisfactory heat.

A little repairing on your furnace will enable good coal to give better results, and require less attention.

PEERLESS or PEACOCK coal is of such high quality that neither you nor anyone needs anything mixed with them to make them burn good.

We maintain a service department to check over your heating plant and make any necessary repairs. Give the Old Family Furnace a chance, get it fixed-up and it will surprise you pleasantly.

We carry the latest scientific firing devices — prices range from $20.00 up. Let us tell you about them.
