GROCER NORRIS AND REPUBLICAN LEADER CONFRONT CHARGES

Two Nebraskans Answer for Perjury as Result of Investigation by Senate Campaign Fund Committee

(By The Associated Press)

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 23—Two Nebraskans, one a Republican leader, were under indictment for perjury tonight as a result of the United States senate's campaign funds investigation in this state.

A federal grand jury true bill named Victor Seymour, Lincoln, former manager of the Western headquarters of the Republican national senatorial campaign committee at Denver, Colorado, on eight counts. Another true bill returned two counts against George W. Norris, a grocer, formerly located at Broken Bow, Nebraska, who sought a place on the Republican primary ballot last August as an opponent to Senator George W. Norris.

The indictment of Seymour was based on his testimony before the senate campaign funds committee headed by Senator Gerald P. Nye, which last summer sought the sources of the financing of the primary campaign against Senator Norris. Norris was later re-elected by a majority of 70,000 votes.

Seymour told the committee he had not taken an active interest in the Nebraska senatorial campaign and that he had no knowledge of the filing of Grocer Norris until he read of it in the newspapers.

Stenographer Testifies

But Miss Esther M. Allen, formerly employed as a stenographer in Seymour's office, later testified before the committee that he had conducted a write vote campaign in the most popular candidate to oppose Norris in the Republican senatorial primary. She also testified that the statement announcing the entrance of Grocer Norris into the campaign was typed in Seymour's office.

Another witness before the committee, W. M. Strobhar, a former state treasurer and a candidate also for the senatorial nomination last year, said he had financed the nine months campaign of Norris to the amount of $50 to pay the filing fee and also giving a $500 bond for the grocer's campaign fund.

Norris, the grocer, recanted previous testimony after hearing Miss Allen on the stand, and told Chairman Nye he had received the bond. The grocer's filing was held illegal by the Nebraska supreme court because of its belated arrival at the capitol.

Walter W. Head, Chicago and Omaha banker, also a witness before the committee, admitted he had financed the "straw vote" conducted by Seymour and said him $4000 for the work. Seymour resigned his position with the senatorial committee after Miss Allen testified and returned to Omaha. His attorneys today said he desired to make no statement. He is expected to appear before the federal district court within a few days. The grocer's attorney said he would be in Lincoln Monday to answer to the indictment.

The indictments returned here today were the first criminal charges to result from investigations in several states last summer.

Federal Judge T. C. Munger set bond for Seymour and Norris at $1000 each.

MISS DE BOE HEARS VERDICT, "GUILTY"

Former Secretary to Clara Bow Reiterates Claim of Innocence and Collapses

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—Daisy de Boe, former secretary to Clara Bow, red-headed screen actress, was convicted on one count of grand theft by a jury in Superior Judge William Doran's court late today.

The verdict came at the end of nearly 9 hours of deliberation after a compromise was reached by the jurors, eight of whom had been balloting for an acquittal and four for conviction. The jury was composed of seven men and five women and in the balloting, two of the women joined two men in seeking to convict the 26-year-old woman.

The compromise was reached after the jurors twice had told Judge Doran they were hopelessly deadlocked and the state and defense counsel virtually had abandoned hope for a verdict. A provision of the compromise agreement was that the jury's clemency be exercised in the passing of sentence, which was set for next Monday, January 26.

On all of the 34 remaining counts, alleging Miss de Boe stole from the bank account of the actress, the jury recommended acquittal.

Involves $825 Check

The count of which she was convicted involved a check for $825, spent for the purchase of a fur coat two days before she was discharged from the actress' employ, November 1, 1930. The amount of money represented in the remaining counts was spent for clothing, jewels and an automobile and the remainder deposited in Miss de Boe's personal bank account.

As the verdict was returned the courtroom was filled with a crowd that overflowed inside the railing and profound silence fell over every one while Judge Doran methodically thumbed through the counts before giving them to the court clerk to read the verdicts.

Miss de Boe sat rigidly at the

BLAZE RAGES IN ALABAMA PRISON

Guards March 500 Convicts to Safety After Fire Endangers Prisoners' Lives

MONTGOMERY, Ala., (Saturday Morning) Jan. 24 (AP)—Five hundred prisoners were marched to safety early today as fire swept through the Wetumpka state prison.

Firemen from Wetumpka and Montgomery battled the flames.

All out one wing of the five barracks building caught fire.

The blaze was discovered at 11:30 P. M., and spread rapidly before firemen arrived at the scene.

It was reported definitely that no one was injured. A check was made of all prisoners immediately and all were accounted for.

The prisoners were quiet and no attempt was made to break through the guard lines.

FORMER HOTEL OWNER FACES DEATH PENALTY

PROHIBITION GOES ON MAT IN UPPER HOUSE AT CAPITAL

Senate Agrees to Make Bill Establishing Drastic Act for District of Columbia Order of Business

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—Prohibition was put on the mat in the senate tonight and a thorough thrashing out of this controversial issue is ahead.

By a vote of 39 to 29, the senate agreed to make the Howell bill establishing a drastic enforcement act for the district of Columbia the order of business.

Already amendments are pending to authorize 4 per cent beer and to provide life imprisonment for "dry" law violators. "Wets" are planning to use the measure as a vehicle for testing many propositions including some recommendations of the Wickersham commission, but they concede they are hopelessly outnumbered.

A prelude to the prospective prohibition debate was heard late today as Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, the author of the measure, pictured a flow of rum into the capital in asking consideration for his bill.

Senator Tydings, Democrat, Maryland, told Howell that if his bill were put to a vote of the people in the capital they would reject

SUIT INVOLVES PLANE CRASH AT POCATELLO

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 23 (AP)—An airplane crash in which seven persons were killed at Pocatello September 4, 1923, was the basis for a suit by the National Parks Airways, Incorporated, against the Independence Indemnity company of Pennsylvania, trial of which opened before Federal Judge Tillman D Johnson today.

The airways company seeks to recover $3825 and interest from the indemnity company on an "inland" policy which is alleged to have been issued to the airways company August 17, 1928, protecting the company from loss by accident.

The Airways company alleges it paid heirs of persons killed in the crash $817.65, and in addition to that amount seeks $433.33 alleged overpayment of premiums on the policy.

The plane was en route to Salt Lake City from Great Falls, Montana, when it crashed.

Mother Puts Police on Trail of Son in Robbery of Chicago Bank

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—Before the police had time to learn the details of the $400 robbery of the West Side National bank today, the 18-year-old robber, Samuel Cohen, was turned over to them by his mother.

The bank was held-up by one man in the usual manner. He pulled out a pistol, threatened the cashier, scooped up the money, ran to the street and escaped in an automobile. A police squad was still at the bank learning these and other details when a white-haired little woman rushed into the police station, threw a dripping tar full of money on a table and said:

"I'm Mrs. Anna Cohen. My boy Sammy the hasn't had any work for a long time; came home just now with a big roll of bills in his hand. He tossed them on the table, and said, 'here ma, here's some money. I just stuck up a bank.' He's a good boy. He didn't mean to do it. You go on over and get him."

So they went on over and got him.

GREEN OBJECTS TO MERGING OF ROADS

Labor Federation Executive Demands Guarantees for Protection of Trainmen

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, announced today the executive council of the federation was opposed to the plan for consolidation of Eastern railroads into four trunk lines unless proper guarantees are given the workers so that their interests will be as well protected as the interests of "economists, the financiers and the stockholders."

"The executive council holds that the right of railroad workers to belong to trade unions and to exercise their choice fully concerning this matter is fundamental," Mr. Green said.

"The setting up of company unions for the obvious and express purpose of preventing railroad workers from exercising their choice to become members of a trade union constitutes an interference with American freedom, liberty of choice and democracy. We hold, therefore, that any railroad consolidation plan finally perfected and accepted must provide for the exercise of the right of the transportation workers to belong to trade unions without discrimination on the part of the railroad owners and railroad management."

TRAFFIC RULE VIOLATOR GETS LIFETIME CHANCE

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Such satisfaction as came to John L. Hamilton today is not given to many men in a lifetime.

He had just paid $3 for ignoring a red light.

"I would like," he said, "to sign a complaint against the arresting officer for the same violation. He drove through a stop street while escorting me to the station."

The complaint was drawn. A placid smile overspread John L. Hamilton's countenance as he departed.

WRECK GETS PROBE AT MOUNTAIN HOME

Officials Announce Plans for Coroner's Inquest Into Tragic Collision

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho, Jan. 23 (AP)—A coroner's inquest into the death of Ray Magee, Boise, and N. K. Bait, Prosser, Washington, will be held tomorrow with L. G. Webb, driver of the truck with which the Magee car collided, as principal witness.

Magee and Bait were burned in the wreck of the Magee machine following the collision with the consolidated Lines truck near the city limits. The machines hit head-on and the heavy truck carried the smaller machine backwards and crushed it against a tree where it burst into flames. Magee was thrown under the truck and Bait was crushed between the body of the light car and the tree.

A coroner's jury, sworn in this morning, viewed the wreck before the debris was removed. The truck, which was going east, came to rest on the north side of the road but officers were unable to say whether it crossed the road before or after colliding with the smaller machine.

The accident left two widows and one child. Mrs. Magee and two children live in Boise while her sister, Mrs. Bait, and six children live in Prosser.

DIRECT PRIMARY ADVOCATES WIN OPENING ROUND IN IDAHO SENATE

Majority Announces Plans Including Departmental Consolidation and Program for State Highways

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, Jan. 23 — Leaders of the Republican majority announced its legislative program today, calling for tax revision during the present session, consolidation of departments for economy, and a continuation of the present highway program.

The statement was made public by Senator George Grebe, Ada, president pro tempore and Republican floor leader, in accompanying a statement that it was not meant to be set up in opposition to the gubernatorial program as outlined in the message to the legislature.

Repeating his assurance of the first day of the session that the majority aimed at fairness, Senator Grebe declared this policy had not and would not be abrogated.

"Because the Republicans have a majority in both houses, the party feels it is responsible for directing its efforts toward a program of general benefit to the state," Senator Grebe said.

The program follows:

Effort at retrenchment in the sessions of the legislature of the taxing laws. Immediate relief for real property from its present burden of taxation is absolutely essential.

"To bring this about we favor the employment of a tax consultant to draft laws to be adopted at this session which will cause all property

Representative Arentz and Senator Oddie, Nevada, supported the testimony of George Malone, Reno, that additional facilities are needed in Nevada.

All approved of the Arentz bill for the construction of a 150-bed $300,000 hospital.

Representative Addison T. Smith and Senator John Thomas, Idaho, approved the Smith bill authorizing a 100-bed $200,000 hospital in Idaho. Smith said the present hospital at Boise was not virtually crowded but it was expected additional applications would increase as veterans grow older and disabilities increase.

PROBE EXONERATES OFFICIALS IN BOISE

Sub-Committee Appointed to Investigate Charges of Irregularities Reports

BOISE, Jan. 23 (AP)—A sub-committee appointed to investigate charges made by Phillip Stalker, former assistant state treasurer, today exonerated State Auditor E. G. Gallet and Mrs. Alta Wardwell who were accused by the former officials of having accepted cash compensation from the state in violation of law.

In accepting the report, Senator Callahan, chairman of the joint committee, declared an apology was expected of Stalker.

"We expect Mr. Stalker to appear before the committee with an apology not only to the officials involved but to the members of the committee whose time was taken up with a matter of such unpleasantness," he said.

The committee, headed by Representative Harris, Latah county, reported to the appropriations-finance committee it had checked over every voucher and warrant issued on appropriations for the fiscal years 1927-28 biennium during which Stalker said he saw warrants made out to the officials mentioned.

Today, the committee reported, all fiscal fund warrants and vouchers were checked by the committee, and reported it found no items missing from the files.

The act prohibits state officials and employes taking compensation from more than one state source. A provision which Stalker said was violated when warrants for compensation he said he saw made out to the auditor and Mrs. Wardwell out of university federal aid funds.

GROWERS ORGANIZE IDAHO CORPORATION

Pocatello Conference Votes to Join Sugar Beet Division of Farm Board

POCATELLO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Eastern Idaho sugar beet growers tonight completed the organization of the Idaho Sugar Beet Growers' corporation with the selection of the board of directors.

They are: Preston Ellsworth, Rigby; Alma Lindholm and Ward Falkner, Idaho Falls; J. Cliff, Rexburg; S. E. Tolboby, Blackfoot, and A. R. Scott, Inkom.

It was announced that 40,000 acres of beets in the new organization entitles it to one share in the national association.

One hundred growers representing eight factory districts of eastern Idaho and as far west as Burley took part in the organization. Each district will name a director who will be authorized to sign marketing agreements.

The by-laws are similar to those adopted by growers in Montana, Wyoming and Nebraska where a 50-cent tonnage premium was said to afford growers proper protection.

Leo Stuhr, representative of the farm board, explained the plans and aided in the organization. Idaho Falls was selected as headquarters with the annual meetings to be held in Pocatello.

Growers of five sugar beet factory districts in the Upper Snake river valley and three in the Minidoka district are included in the organization.

Democratic-Republican Coalition Adopts Favorable Report of Committee by Vote of 26-17

(By The Associated Press)

BOISE, Jan. 23—Members of the senate involved themselves in two battles today, decided one and left the other partly in the air for consideration tomorrow.

The Democratic-Republican coalition won in the first skirmish over the direct primary, adopting a favorable report of the state affairs committee on the measure, 26 to 17, one absent.

The house passed a resolution calling for employment of Roy Prestwich, tax consultant for the legislature at $2000 for the session, and delivered that measure to the senate for the afternoon struggle.

Three votes were taken in the senate with party lines standing solid.

Motions to postpone the measure and table it were lost and it finally passed, 22 to 18, four pairing. Senator Breshears, Democrat, voted with the majority, however, to give him the privilege of asking reconsideration. This resulted in postponement of the final vote until tomorrow.

Democrats opposing the measure protested Governor Ross had not had time in which to study the plan. Senator Breshears, Adams county, nailed Dodge was virtually unknown to the members, either Republican or Democratic.

Urges Investigation

He said information had come to his desk concerning Dodge which he felt should be investigated. He did not explain what information he had but it was indicated it would be taken up in conference.

A debate marked by continued interruptions from spectators marked progress of the primary bill. Senator Robertson, chairman of the state affairs committee to which the measure had been committed, submitted the minority report asking that the bill be placed in committee of the whole for amendment.

A plea that the present bill would be "dead" if sent back to committee [illegible] Robertson who said he was for power to enactment of a primary at this session. The present bill permits nomination of the party's candidates by a plurality, which Senator Robertson "described as "the only law" which permitted a non-partisan to run either with the Democratic nomination for governor for 1918." At that time, he said, a non-partisan in the Republican, so-cured the Democratic nomination for governor.

Thereafter contended the bill was what the people wanted, a direct primary measure that would allow any citizen to seek his party's nomination for any office in the state.

Grebe Closes Debate

Senator Grebe, Republican, closed the debate by asking amendment of the bill to require a majority vote for nomination but it was futile.

The final vote was 26 opposed to amendment, 17 favoring, and one absent. The six Republican co-authors of the bill voted with the Democrats.

The majority committee report was immediately adopted and the bill was placed on second reading with the prospect it will come up for passage about Tuesday.

Besides passing the Dodge resolution, the house passed a bill authorizing the board of education to sell a part of campus belonging to the University of Idaho, southern branch, at Pocatello, the proceeds to be used in enlarging the present campus.

Into the senate came two new measures, one repealing the present registration law with its provision of a party really oath.

The other was introduced by Senator Evans, Power county, as substitute for one withdrawn yesterday. It permitted a three-fifths majority vote for bonding issues and gave the vote to heads of families with school children as well as to property holders.

The house also passed a bill broadening the present warehouse act to include honey, dairy, poultry and meat products among the commodities which may be placed in bonded warehouses as a basis for negotiable warehouse receipts.

WYOMING MAN TELLS OF MURDERING WIFE

DENVER, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sheriff E. P. Smith, Laramie, Wyoming, today announced he had been informed by a man giving his name as Lorenzo Pacheco from Charles Pacheco, 53, Laramie, that he killed his wife January 12, during a quarrel.

According to Smith's account, Pacheco said that he had been drinking heavily and attacked him with a butcher knife. In defending himself Pacheco said he struck the woman over the head with a stick of kindling wood, then carried her body to a pile of rubbish on the outskirts of the city and cremated it.

Pacheco was arrested in Albuquerque, New Mexico, on information from Sheriff Smith. He waived extradition and is being returned to Laramie to answer a charge of first degree murder.

HUNGBY FIDDLER GETS 60-DAY JAIL SENTENCE

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 23 (AP)—Steven Schlandar, of no particular home, will be warm for at least 60 days and he owes it all to his violin.

"Play your violin," commanded the judge when Steve was arraigned with 30 other derelicts in city court.

"I won't," said Steve, "I want to go to jail where its warm."

"You're going to jail," responded the judge, "but how long you stay there depends on how you play."

Steve played a fiendish but somewhat overworked popular song.

"That's enough," said the judge. "Sixty days."

The others got 30 days each.

BOY FINDS FORTUNE ON BEACH ON WEST COAST

SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Jan. 23 (AP)—The sands of Heceta beach turned to golden sands this week for Dalton Thurman, Springfield high school boy.

Thurman, as in hand, was tossing along the beach striking at every object he came near. He found a large, putty-like mass on the beach and down came his ax. A pungent odor arose and Dalton called to his brothers.

They carried the substance home and sent a sample to the University of Oregon where it was tentatively identified as ambergris produced in sperm whales and used for manufacture of perfumes.

Samples have been sent to Seattle and New York for analysis and, if genuine, the 62-pound mass will be worth a small fortune.

SEVERE QUAKE SHAKES COUNTY IN CALIFORNIA

CHICO, Cal., Jan. 23 (AP)—A severe earthquake shook homes in Butte county at 11:25 o'clock tonight. Dishes were rattled and furniture moved but no damage was reported. Residents in Gridley, 20 miles south of Chico, and in Oroville, 20 miles southwest of here, also felt the shock.

Collins, El Paso, former realty clerk at the Arcade post office here, was held in the county jail today on federal indictment charging theft of $18,000 in federal reserve notes. Arraignment in the federal court was set for Monday. He was transferred to El Paso several weeks ago, under surrender, after an indictment was returned here Wednesday.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND LOST AVIATOR

SEATTLE, Jan. 23 (AP)—Mysteriously missing for 9 hours, William E. Case, Portland air mail pilot, was believed by postoffice and Boeing Airplane company officials tonight, to be guarding his mail at some isolated spot where he was forced down by fog. He was flying from Portland to Spokane via Pasco.

The officials explained regulations require a pilot in event of an emergency landing to guard the mail until he can "find a trustworthy person" to whom he can turn over temporary custody of the property.

Eighteen planes searched the Columbia and Snake river valleys without finding trace of the missing airman. Last reports said they were being hampered by inclement weather.

Case left Portland early yesterday and reported by radio he had encountered thick fog. He last was heard from over Prosser, Washington. The aviator carried fuel for six hours flying and emergency rations for six days.

ONLY GROWERS IN NEED GET AID OF SEED LOAN FUND

Congress Confines Distribution of $45,000,000 to Farmers in Drought Region Where Losses Occurred

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 — No farmer whose crops did not actually suffer from drought or storm in 1930 will be eligible for aid from the $45,000,000 seed loan fund authorized by congress.

And then he may get assistance only if he can't get other credit.

Those conditions, imposed by the authorization, definitely dispose of pleading that all farmers everywhere who were in need of money for seed, livestock feed, fertilizer and farm produce, and not for whom all other sources of credit were closed, were to be granted loans.

It virtually confines distribution of funds to some 20 to 25 states and to counties within those states where drought and storm damage occurred.

Tentative plans for the allocation of loans call for regional disbursing offices probably at St. Louis for the west in Missouri, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Illinois and Indiana; at Memphis for Tennessee, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana; at Grand Forks, North Dakota, for North Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Washington and Oregon; at Minneapolis and at Washington for Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and other states of the region.

Drought relief chairmen of each state have been asked to give the department of agriculture, which administers the seed loan fund, an estimate on the number of counties and, perhaps, the number of farmers who will need assistance.

As far as possible the county and regional drought relief committees will be asked to pass on the merits of each application for a loan.

Interest About 5 Per Cent

Interest on the loans probably will be around 5 per cent and a lien on the crop to be produced taken as security. Ordinarily the farmer's note will be renewable.

Forty-eight hour service is expected on the applications ones they reach the disbursing offices. It is said that any applicant may reasonably expect to obtain his loan within a week.

There is some indication that the average size of the loans may be about $300. In some regions loans from the 1929 seed loan fund averaged $230, while the maximum loan amounted to $3000.

MONTANA 5-CENT GAS TAX STAYS IN EFFECT

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 23 (AP)—Montana's 5-cent gasoline tax will remain in effect until 1941 if the senate agrees with the action taken by the house today. The lower branch passed the extension bill by a vote of 80 to 9 with 31 absent and not voting.

The tax, under the present law is due to expire in 1934. The plan to keep it in effect until 1941 originated from the necessity of assuring receipt of sufficient funds to retire the highway debenture warrants by that time.

The senate, in a short session before adjourning until Monday recommended in committee of the whole, concurrence in the house joint resolution asking congress to appropriate for construction of storage reservoirs on tributaries of the Mississippi river as a means of aiding unemployment and flood control.

counsel table where she has appeared daily since the trial opened 11 days ago, surrounded by Alfred Mathes, her boy friend, and a group of friends. Miss De Boe, ill at her home with a cold, did not appear.

She was content with a 10-word statement concerning conviction.

Hopes for Leniency

"For Daisy's sake," she said, "I hope the court will be lenient."

The verdict came with such suddenness that the crowd—not to be summoned in time to control the crowd, and much to the joy of cameramen, they stormed their way in the courtroom and took pictures of the actual scene, one of the few times of such an occurrence here.

Judge Doran, stared in surprise but with a sigh of resignation, made no attempt to halt the photographers.

As the verdict was heard, Miss de Boe stared blankly. "Oh, my God!" she cried. Tears rolled down her cheeks. Her head sank on the table. Comforting hands could not sooth her emotions.

"Miss de Boe and Daisy: they recommended clemency," a friend whispered.

"But I'm not guilty," she pleaded. "If they were going to make me guilty of something, I was guilty of all. How could they do it?"

Her voice died in a sob. She staggered from the chair hysterically and friends carried here into an anteroom.

They walked with her down a hall, turned into a room and before the startled jury had gone they found themselves in the room where the jury returned the verdict. Miss de Boe collapsed and a half hour later she was led off to a cell to await sentence next Monday. She had been at liberty on $1000 bail, which the court could not continue under the law until sentence is passed.

The penalty for her offense may be 1 to 10 years in the prison or she may be granted probation with a possible provision she serve part of the probationary term in the county jail, the length of term to be fixed by the court.

The trial was one of the most sensational ever brought to court here from the film colony. Daily crowds whith sometimes numbered more than a thousand milled about the courtroom drawn there by hopes of hearing a real life story of Hollywood and seeing one of its most famous figures, the red-headed "it" girl of flaming youth fame.

The testimony was startling with recriminations flung by both women from the witness stand about love-friends, love affairs, drinking parties, gambling and clothes and jewelry of the most expensive sort. Most of this testimony was stopped abruptly when Judge Doran, exasperated at the tales, delivered a stern admonition to the attorneys in which he said he would have no more "mud-slinging."

The taking of testimony opened with a bombshell January 15 after a jury of seven men and five women, years past the generation to which Clara and Daisy belong, had been selected. Overriding a defense objection, the confession of Daisy, which she later repudiated on the witness stand, was read by the state. Daisy claimed it was obtained by "third-degree methods."

Wagging of Heads of Minnesotans Ceases as Native Sons Win Nobel Prizes

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—Behind the triumphs of two Minnesotans, winners of Nobel prizes, is the story of small-town boys who made good despite setbacks, and the wagging of heads among the homefolks.

Frank Billings Kellogg, awarded the Nobel peace prize, was considered by many as "all through" as a national figure when Dr. Henrik Shipstead won his senate seat in 1922.

Sinclair (Red) Lewis, Sauk Center, who won the Nobel prize for literature, was bitterly assailed throughout Minnesota when his "Main Street" was interpreted to be Sauk Center. For sometime the book was kept out of the Sauk Center library shelves.

But Kellogg—all through—began the most significant part of his public career. He had traveled from obscurity as a born boy at Eyota to the United State senate.

After his senate defeat he went as ambassador to the Court of St. James and secretary of state in President Coolidge's cabinet. His Briand-Kellogg pact outlawing war won the Nobel award. He since has became a member of the permanent court of international justice.

A more dispassionate view of the literary son of the late "Doc" Lewis, Sauk Center's pioneer country physician, now is taken than was evident after "Main Street" appeared.

While not ardent, the mayor, the editor of the local weekly newspaper and assistant engineer in Sauk Center have expressed pride in their former townsman since the Nobel award was made.

Lewis, however, still has critics in the town.

SPEEDY YANKEE PLANES AID AVIATION INDUSTRY

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP)—American light and speedy planes, similar to Captain Frank Hawks' Travel Mystery, mean more to advancement of aviation than the enormous and relatively slow ones, like the German DO-X, is the opinion of General L. Hirschauer, noted German air pioneer.

"The United States has given us a lesson," the general said, "which we should understand and assimilate without delay. For it was the Travel Mystery the prototype of the perfectly successful high speed postal plane?

"In and out of Europe there are numerous routes where the Travel Mystery would transform the air post situation, increasing its value 10 to 100 times, and would galvanize this form of air transport which for lack of speed and frequency has far from justified the hopes that were founded on it."

BROADCASTERS SEEK INCREASE IN POWER

Federal Commission Plunges Into Complex Problems as Demands Grow Numerous

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The battle of broadcasters for high power transmission remains the chief concern of the federal radio commission as it plunges into 1931 activities.

While the commission rejected the report of its chief examiner, Ellis A. Yost, recommending 30,000 watts for all clear channel stations, high power advocates are hopeful that the commission will modify the limitations on the use of "super-dynamiters."

They point out that the commission, in remanding Yost's report, did not emphasize opposition to high power. It merely "declined at this time to consider the advisability of repealing or modifying" the regulation restricting the number of 50,000 watt channels to four in each zone.

Radio men here are of the opinion that the commission's action was prompted primarily by its belief that Yost's recommendation for a repeal of the order was outside the jurisdiction of an examiner and should be made only by a member of the commission itself.

Main Stands

Yost holds that granting high power to all clear channel stations would greatly improve broadcasting reception for millions of rural listeners. He says it would give both metropolitan and rural fans an increased choice of non-chain programs originating in distant cities.

Gerald P. Schuster, executive secretary of the Radio Protective association, holds that the throwing open of all clear channels to high power would destroy the usefulness of the intervening channels and create a super-power monopoly.

He says the people of the United States look to the local and regional stations for representation of their important interests. "No one would suggest that a score of independent newspapers should be destroyed to make room for a single national magazine," he says.

STUDENTS TOUR WITH "OMNIBUS COLLEGE"

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 23 (AP)—The University of Wichita, first municipal university west of the Mississippi, will pioneer a rambling course of study next summer.

It has taken over Dr. William M. Goldsmith's "omnibus college" which teaches through travel, and this year will send out so large a party of student-tourists that they will be divided into three groups for their 4000-mile tour.

Twenty-five states and two Canadian provinces will be visited, with stops at points of interest to students of history, natural science, engineering, art and literature. Academic credits will be granted for satisfactory work.

Watch Dial Paint Gives Up Radium In University of Missouri Refinery

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 23 (AP)—Old luminous watch and clock dial paint is giving its radium back to science and medicine at the University of Missouri.

Students, directed by Dr. Herman Schlundt, an authority on radium, have attained such efficiency that fully 95 per cent of the element is recovered.

This refining, which takes approximately a month and a half, involves removal of the impurities of the paint by gradual crystallization and precipitation, a laborious but exceedingly remunerative task.

Shipped to the university laboratory in large quantities in powdered form, the watch dial paint for the most part comes from timepieces which have gone into disuse.

In each dial there is only about 10-to-15-millionths worth of radium, a very small amount since it is priced at about $70 a milligram or $2,000,000 per ounce. From 30 gallons of paint roughly milligrams of radium can be extracted.

Since radium is only about one-half disintegrated in some 1600 years, it is nearly as valuable at the end of that average life of a luminous dial as when it was placed there, according to Dr. Schlundt.

Because of the hazards involved in the handling of high grade radio-active materials, the radium is never touched by hand, and care is taken to prevent any of the students being affected.

During the World war Dr. Schlundt perfected from the element mesothorium, a substitute for radium for luminous paint.

Gun sights and other such instruments were painted with this mesothorium. In addition mesothorium is found to remain some of the properties of radium for the treatment of disease.

PROFESSOR APPEALS TO AMERICA TO AID CHINA

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23 (AP)—Asserting "90 per cent of China's people are starving," Dr. N. Wing Mah, professor of political science of the University of California, appealed to American today to aid the young Chinese government by improving its business and social relations with China.

His appeal was sounded in an address to the commonwealth club.

The refuse which Americans throw from their tables said Dr. Mah, would be considered a feast in most parts of China.

Mah, who returned recently from a six-month tour of China, said Americans could aid its own and the world-wide economic depression by assisting China to recover from business distress caused by the fall of the price of silver. China's medium of exchange, together with famine, banditry, Communism and the recent civil war.

PRETTY CLOSE TO VACUUM

"Got a job?" he asked.

"No," was the reply.

The man went over to the shaft-house, opened the door and jumped.

The distance down was 1600 feet.

Brush of Rupert Artist Depicts Buffalo Scene

RUPERT, Jan. 23 (Special to The News) — Another choice canvas, "Spring Witchery," depicting Bard life of the American bison or wild buffalo, from the brush of Eugene E. Schroeder, talented Rupert artist completed and framed this week. Is now on display in the lobby of the Caledonian hotel in Rupert, where it will be left for about two weeks for public inspection, before being sent to eastern art centers or possibly to California.

"Spring Witchery," the second large painting painted by Mr. Schroeder with buffalo as the subject, is considerably larger than his first painting around buffalo life, the dimensions are 3½ by 4 feet, giving wide scope for the creative talent of the artist.

The first picture, "The New King," was on display but a short time until purchased by an eastern man. Elmer M. Hand, vice president of the Empire Star company, New York and Brooklyn.

This latest production of Mr. Schroeder, "Spring Witchery," although created from the same studies of buffalo in Yellowstone Park and on the island in Salt Lake, is handled by the artist in a distinctly different manner. Both reflect bard history in truthful portrayal. In painting out the ideas embodied on the canvas, Mr. Schroeder said: "The background is laid in old Indian territory in Texas with its locale of red soil. With the coming of spring and rains, ambitious bulls are craving leadership of groups of cows, ranging usually from 20 to 50. The old bull to the left fought to a finish and was expelled from the original herd, his fate to be finished by the wolves, the new king taking his harem."

Both brilliant and realistic in "pull" and handled in the old Bradzilian school with the foreground merging into the modern, "Spring Witchery" is considered by the artist and critics who have had the opportunity of viewing it as far superior to his other buffalo composition, "The New King."

SHOSHONE HOLDUP MEN DRAW TERMS

John Shevchenko and John A. Miller Plead Guilty and Get 5 to 11 Years

GOODING, Idaho, Jan. 23 (Special to The News) — Judge Doran Sutphen, Gooding district court here this afternoon sentenced John Shevchenko, 23, and John A. The men were arrested Sunday noon five miles from Shoshone in a culvert following their flight from a pool hall after commission of the crime. Their preliminary hearing was conducted in probate court at Shoshone Tuesday and they were bound over to district court where they plead guilty as charged and received sentence today. They were not represented by counsel and attributed their deeds to their need for food.

Following pronouncement of sentence the men were returned to their cells in the Shoshone county jail to await transportation to the state penitentiary.

PROHIBITION GOES ON MAT IN UPPER HOUSE AT CAPITAL

it three to one. It was Tydings who proposed, amid laughter, that prohibition be made for life imprisonment of "dry" violators.

Bingham Offers Amendment

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, offered the amendment to increase the alcoholic content of beer from ½ of 1 per cent to 4.

Senator Watson, Indiana, the Republican leader, voted against taking up the Howell measure which had been given entitled status by the Republican steering committee. He said he saw no opportunity for its passage at this session.

While the vote generally voted against considering the bill, such prominent as Senators Borah, Idaho, and Smoot, Utah, joined in the opposition. They urged that the senate proceed to relief legislation.

Declaring Washington police were now without adequate authority to enforce the prohibition law, Howell said the chairman of an entertainment committee for a recent convention in Washington ordered 9000 quarts of liquor.

"Hundreds of thousands of quarts of liquor are brought into the city annually on diplomatic permits," continued the Nebraskan. "I learned that from one foreign distillery 13,000 quarts of diplomatic liquor had come into Washington in three months enough to provide 20 quarts for every diplomat and member of his household, down to the maids and janitors."

Representative Copeland, Democrat, New York, a physician, introduced a bill to remove the restrictions on the distribution of liquor prescriptions by members of the medical profession as recommended by the Wickersham commission.

Specifically, the Copeland measure would abolish the statutory fixing the amount of medicinal liquor and the number of prescriptions which may be written by any one physician. Also it would make it unnecessary to specify the ailment prescribed for.

Meantime, announcement was made from commission headquarters that another meeting would be held February 4 to consider other phases of the crime survey and that the first of the remaining reports on subjects ranging from corruption in public offices to the burden now upon the courts could be published shortly after that time.

Not like any other OATMEAL...

There are two things about New Style H-O which no other oatmeal has. These things are FLAVOR and TEXTURE.

It is not natural for oatmeal to have a pale, ordinary taste nor a "pasty" consistency. What is needed is the more patient and superior process to bring the flavor out and produce the firm, delicate H-O texture.

There is no process like the H-O pan-roasting process. And it makes all the difference in the world to those who like to open up the day with the satisfaction of a good, honest breakfast. Wonderful food for the whole family . . . for growing youngsters, especially.

H-O Oatmeal is the quickest hot breakfast. Cooks in 2 to 3 minutes.

The Hecker H-O Company, Inc. Buffalo, N. Y.

THIS MIRACULOUS FIGURE OF LIFE AND HEALTH

The robust oat, born of the sun and the soil, contains fat, mineral salts, protein, phosphorus, sugar and starch. Vital elements for the human body . . . priceless. The more you know about oats the more you realize they are the kindly little friends of all who eat them. We, the sponsors of H-O, respect the oat so highly that we give it the most exacting preparation known to the modern civilized world.

IN FAIRNESS

Over in the State of Washington the State Legislature has under consideration a bill to relieve automobile owners from legal liability for payment of damages in the event of mishap to persons riding in their cars. The proposition of course does not apply to motorists carrying passengers for hire, but only to those who might give a lift to a friend or neighbor or other pedestrian, as a matter of kindliness or accomodation.

The law which the bill in the Washington legislature would modify, is the law in Idaho also.

Several times in recent months, persons who have been injured to greater or less extent while riding in other men's cars have seen fit to assert their claims to damages from the car owners. Two or three of these have found their way into the District Court here. One was lately settled out of court, and in another the jury found against the claimant and for the car owner.

It seems to be the disposition of juries, like that of public opinion in general, that one who accepts an invitation or who himself asks, to ride in another person's car, should do so at his own risk.

Idaho's Legislature could do worse than give some attention to possible remedial action in this direction.

ALL-AMERICAN LEAGUE

The Scripps-Howard newspapers have come around to the view, long urged by many other papers, that the Pan-American Union should be revitalized by turning it into a sort of American League of Nations. The Union as it now exists is little more than a pious fraud, a mere vestige of the hopes held for it when it was founded. The magnificent marble home built for it in Washington by Andrew Carnegie might almost be called the tomb of those hopes.

It would be a fine thing if newspaper support generally should rally to this proposal. "American League of Nations" is not a very good title or slogan, because it tends to revive the old controversy about the League at Geneva and seems to imply rivalry and opposition to that body. But surely the idea in itself should be acceptable to a majority of Americans in this hemisphere.

Pan-America is a distinct and separate region of the world, with its own problems and its own spirit, and should stand together in some sort of flexible federation, when the rest of the world is organized.

Such an organization, with Uncle Sam at its head, might start its career auspiciously by taking over the Monroe Doctrine, which Uncle Sam alone has more and more trouble explaining and applying. With the Latin-American nations ranged in its defense rather than against it, as they mostly are now, it should be more effective than ever, and less onerous on Uncle.

RUSSIAN RAILROADS

A weak feature of the Russian five-year industrialization program has been the railroads. In planning its swift and gigantic development of industry, the Soviet government neglected them and appropriated very little money for transportation development.

The weakness is to be corrected. Amtorg, Moscow's commercial agent in America, has been arranging here for the Americanization of the Russian railroads. It is proposed to employ one hundred fifty American locomotive engineers, yard masters, switchmen, signal men and other workers as a "perfect division" on the Soviet railway system. They will be placed in key positions, with a complete Russian crew under them for instruction. As fast as one Russian group has mastered the American technique it will be moved out to take charge of a division itself and another training group will be moved in.

The Russians are said to be receiving fullest co-operation from American railroad executives. Whatever Americans think of Russian political ideas, they are tremendously interested in Russian industrial experiments.

LUXURIOUS MR. MIX

The films may be just a little bit deceptive, especially regarding our upstanding, hard-boiled, two-fisted wild west heroes.

This fact was discovered by Colonel Zack Miller, owner of the Miller Brothers' ranch shows, when he undertook to annex Tom Mix for a tour. It all came out in a lawsuit the other day. The cowboy aired that he would consider a salary of $10,000 a week, provided this pittance were supplemented by a private car and accommodations for "two horses, a Rolls Royce automobile and an entourage of seven people."

Tom wasn't afraid of work, he explained, but "must have his comforts."

The groaning sound heard that night over many a stretch of lonely prairie was made by forgotten cowpunchers turning over in their graves.

"ANYBODY'S WOMAN" FEATURES AT IDAHO

Ruth Chatterton, most recently seen with Clive Brook in "Anybody's Woman" is the star of the new Paramount drama, "The Right Way To Love," which opens tomorrow at the Idaho Theatre, a special attraction. Based on the novel by Susan Glaspell, "Brook Evans," the picture reveals the desparate fight of a mother whose own romance was tragically ended in her youth, to insure her daughter's happiness by trying to make her see the value of love, before it is too late.

Playing a difficult dual role with remarkable skill, Miss Chatterton scales new dramatic heights. At the opening of the picture she is cast as Naomi Kellogg, a young and lovely girl whose brief ecstatic love ends in a life of sorrow. Later she plays Naomi as an old woman, the wife of a man she has never loved. Appearing in tense emotional scenes with Naomi, mother, she also plays the part of Brook Evans, Naomi's impulsive young daughter.

A new device for the recording of sound pictures which eliminates the mechanical quality of the voice as well as all extraneous noises has been perfected by the Paramount studios, particularly for this Chatterton picture.

Supporting the star is a distinguished cast headed by Paul Lucas, as Brook's impetous lover, Oscar Apfel as Naomi's stern father, Irving Pichel as the righteous Caleb Evans, and David Manners as Naomi's young lover, Joe Copeland.

On the surrounding program will be "The Messiah" a Paramount special added attraction. The scenes and recording were made inside the L. D. S. tabernacle in Salt Lake City, 350 voices are recorded singing accompanied by the big organ.

"PARDON MY GUN" NOW FEATURES AT ORPHEUM

Pathe's novel romantic comedy of the west, "Pardon My Gun," now at the Orpheum, was filmed largely on the Lone Pine Ranch, one of the most famous stretches of stock land in the beautiful Owens Valley in Southern California.

Owned by R. B. Spainhower, this vast property spreads over 1300 acres of unusually fertile land beneath the shifting shadows of Mt. Whitney, the highest peak in the United States, and not far from Death Valley, its lowest point. Aside from its historic interest, it offers strikingly beautiful back-grounds for the action of the story. In addition, it lends authenticity to the production, for every scene in the picture is genuine. Not once was a motion picture or studio setting resorted to gain a true representation of ranch life in the far west.

"Pardon My Gun," features in its cast such screen favorites as Sally Starr, George Duryea, Robert Edeson, the MacFarlane Brothers, world's champion juvenile riders and ropers; Mona Ray, Lee Moran, Harry Woods, Stomple and Harry Watson. Robert DeLacy directed it from an original story by Hugh Cummings.

46 South Central Idaho Girls' and Boys' Hoop Teams Clash

10,000 Fans Turn Out to See Games In 12 Gymnasiums

Thrilling Contests Mark Basketball Campaign at Peak With Six Weeks Before Titular Struggles

As the 1931 high school basketball season attained the peak, approximately 10,000 fans of South Central Idaho district saw 46 high school basketball teams representing 23 schools of this district in action last night.

Among these contests were some of the most important games of the season as far as comparative rating pointing to district titles are concerned. Oakley's 31-14 defeat of Burley seems to nearly settle the competition in that end of the county while Twin Falls defeat of the strong Kimberly aggregation gives a fair comparison of the strong teams in the mid-part of the district.

Buhl's defeat of Jerome in both girls' and boys' games indicates two strong teams representing the West End city. Rupert's double win over the powerful Albion squads has caused fans to look to that school as another competitor of note in the district.

The Eden boys' defeat of the Murtaugh quintet is another big step forward for the North Side lads who are presenting a strong aggregation this year. Shoshone's downing of Glenns Ferry places the Shoshone teams in a run for honors in Class B while Paul's defeat by large scores of the Declo squads has turned the attention of many hoop fans to that school for a likely winner in the same division.

Hansen boys' team is in the running with another victory over Hazelton while the Hazelton girls' squad looks like a promising runner up in B class competition, while Castleford squads by virtue of their win over Hollister have the attention of large portion of the basketball fans of the West End district.

As the season rapidly nears its height the fans of South Central Idaho District are discovering the keenest competition in both Class A and Class B divisions in the history of this district's basketball.

MURTAUGH, Jan. 23 (Special to The News)—Murtaugh girls defeated the Eden sextet, 19-14, Eden boys trounced the local quintet, 21 to 3, and the Oakley town team subdued the local municipal aggregation, 42 to 32, in three basketball tilts in the new gymnasium here this evening.

In a skirmish that stood 14-all at half time, the local girls nosed out the Eden girls by a 5-point margin in a last-quarter spurt.

Oakley town team drew the curtain on the evening's basketball activities by capturing a 42-32 victory from the Murtaugh town team.

Bruins Overwhelm Kimberly's Teams

Twin Falls' Girls Register 39-18 Victory and Visiting Boys Lose by 16 to 7

Twin Falls high school basketball teams won a thrilling double-header here last night from the invading Kimberly basketeers. The local girls emerged from the opening tilt on the long end of a 39-18 count and the boys' game ended with a 16-7 score in favor of the Bruins.

Both girls' teams opened up fast scoring combinations in the first few minutes of play, running the score to a 10-6 count at the half. Bruin girls widened their lead to 24-11 at half time. The game was keenly contested in spite of the one-sided score. Tatting, with 26 points, was high-point scorer for Twin Falls and Fiscus with 11 counters led the Kimberly scoring. Guttery at center played an exceptionally aggressive game, working the ball down consistently.

In a ragged game that seemed to indicate over-anxiousness, the boys' team played through the first half with only 4 points for Twin Falls, and Shepard's lone basket and Bennett's foul shot, to represent the scoring attack for Kimberly. Repeatedly the ball was worked down to the scoring territory but after several unsuccessful tries it would return to the opponents, who would repeat the process.

Led by Larson who went into play in the last few minutes, the Bruins worked out a smooth-running machine to pile up 12 points and clinch the game for Coach R. V. Jones' squad.

L. Westergren refereed and B. Martindale acted as umpire in both games.

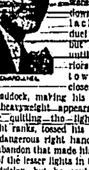
Ernie Schaaf Wins From Braddock By Decision in Gotham

Lustreless Blonde From Boston With Sharkey at Side Triumphs on Points Before 6000 Customers

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—Ernie Schaaf, big but lustreless blonde from Boston, outfought lanky Jimmy Braddock to win the decision in a 10-round heavyweight feature tonight that threatened for eight rounds to put the 6000 customers to sleep.

Listening wisely to the counsel of Jack Sharkey, who owns part of the Schaaf contract and who seconded the burly German, Ernie came out in the ninth and tenth to slug with the tiring Jerseyman, stir the bored and silent spectators to cheers, and pile up enough of a margin to gain the decision beyond question. There were no knockdowns and the lackadaisical duel was all but featureless until the warriors cut loose toward the close.



Braddock, making his first major heavyweight appearance here since quitting the light heavyweight ranks, tossed his ponderous but dangerous right hand with all the abandon that made him the terror of the lesser lights in the smaller division, but he could not hit Schaaf consistently.

Braddock scaled only 180½ pounds against Schaaf's 198½ pounds.

The crowd booed steadily but mildly through the early rounds but was still awake enough to cheer through the ninth and tenth.

Californian Fights To Draw

Madison Dix, San Francisco welterweight, made an impressive showing in his first Garden match, although he was awarded only a draw in the opening 10-rounder with Sam Bruce, Buffalo Negro. Dix had the Negro reeling in the first, second and ninth rounds under rights to the chin, but tired and was holding at the close. Bruce weighed 147½, Dix 149½. The decision was unpopular.

Vitorio Livan, Italian middleweight, scored an unusual knockout over Nick Testo, Troy, New York, in the third round of the 10-round semi-final. Testo was floored by a left hook to the body, seven seconds before the end of the second round, claimed foul, and refused to come out for the third. Referee Patsy Haley counted him out as he sat on his chair.

Testo had an early advantage, flooring Livan for a count of two in the first with a left hook to the chin. Testo weighed 155½, Livan 150.

Tony Galento, Newark, New Jersey, heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Frankie Wine, veteran from Billings, Montana, in the first round of a special six-rounder. Wine was floored four times by rights to the head before the referee stopped the bout.

Wine, making his Garden debut, never had a chance although Galento's left eye was split when they bumped heads near the start.

Galento—a 224½-pound giant, floored each time he landed solidly. The bout lasted only 2 minutes. Wine weighed 184½.

Artie Rodenbach, 181, New York, scored a technical knockout over Teddy Wealters, 172, Brooklyn, in 1:43 of the second round in the opening four.

Jack Dempsey and "Babe" Ruth Exchange Greetings in Hospital

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—"Hi, Jack, how's the kid?" "Hello, Babe, how's the old man?"

The two masters of maul, Jack Dempsey and "Babe" Ruth, surveyed each other in a room on the ninth floor of the polyclinic hospital—the one a temporary patient, the other a well-wisher and associate in the great business of furnishing sport personality to the American public.

For inspection, Dempsey's infected and badly swollen left hand was produced from its encased solution. They compared notes on operations. The "Babe" exhibiting the scars left from the accident that damaged his left hand and put him out of action last season. They kidded each other about getting old.

"You're younger than I am. Why haven't you got a sock or two left for some of these birds they call heavyweights nowadays?" asked Ruth.

"With that left?" retorted Dempsey. "But say, you are getting pretty old. Why don't you look into that wrestling racket, Babe? It would be great stuff for you after you're through with baseball.

"Can't lose, partner. Bill you as El Youssof-Ruth, the terrible Turk. Be a riot. You got the beef now, kid, but you look to be in trim."

The two great hitters became reminiscent. They lifted the cover off the "good old days."

"Trouble with baseball, like boxing, it's got kind of tame," remarked Dempsey.

"Why, say," agreed Ruth, "things are getting so polite out there on the ball field now, I expect we will have to put on stiff collars and ties next. The boys are hustling but the fighting spirit has cooled off."

Berg Triumphs in Battle With Hess In Chicago Arena

Junior Welterweight Champion of World Wins by Decision in 10-Round Titular, Whirlwind Battle

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—Jack (Kid) Berg, junior welterweight champion of the world, fought a whirlwind battle to defeat Goldie Hess, Los Angeles challenger, in their 10-round title match in the Chicago stadium tonight.

"Bat" Battalino, world's featherweight champion, dropped a decision to Eddie Shea, ragged Chicago contender, in another 10-round event in which Battalino's title was not involved.

Berg, engaging in his first fight since returning from London, carried the fight to Hess all the way. In an amazing whirlwind offensive, he won six of the 10 rounds. Hess' major moments came in the first and eighth. In the eighth he shook the champion up with long right swings to the head and hard right uppercuts.

Berg proved decisively that he was a champion with the heart of a champion by turning back the two-fisted challenge of Hess. The freckle-faced boy from Los Angeles, drove into Berg at the start of the fight, but Berg came back with a blistering attack the rest of the way. He scored most of his points with short left hooks delivered from the inside. From the beginning, Hess attempted to land hard right swings to the jaw, but Berg was successful in blocking a good share of them.

Berg weighed 138½, with Hess scaling 137¾.

Battalino, fighting with his right eye tightly closed during the last four rounds, and with the bark ripped off his nose, managed to save his title by forcing Shea to weigh in at 127½ pounds, a pound and a half over the featherweight limit, so his title would not be at stake. The champion tipped the beam at 130 pounds. Shea scored a large enough margin to entitle him to a clear decision. He won five rounds, Battalino two, with three being even.

Another son of Great Britain, Johnny Peters, a bantamweight, made his American debut, scoring a technical knockout over Ernie Peters, Chicago, early in the last of their eight-round contest.

By JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 23—The stock market was so cheerfully disposed today that it sent up some trial balloons to test the bullishness of the speculative wind.

Willingness of the shorts to cover was the chief contribution to the day's advances, which averaged nearly 3 points. Utilities rose rapidly at the close, outstripping the other groups, but there was substantial strength in the industrials and rails. It was the most active day of the new year, for sales totaled 2,888,150 shares, a million more than yesterday.

Fortified by the conservatively expressed optimism of two men whose opinions Wall street highly respects, operators for the advance saw to it that the bears got no rope. Traders still short of the market, sensing that the recovery, even though technical, meant to go further, became buyers of stock ready to ride with the rally. Profit-taking halted the rise early in the afternoon, halving gains of 1 to 3 points, but the climb was resumed during the later trading and prices finished at the top.

Consolidated Gas, up 4½, Electric Power and Light, up 3½, and North American, American and Foreign Power, and Columbia Gas, with 2-point net advances, were prominent. Public Service of New Jersey, American Telephone, International Telephone and United Corporation showed less aggressiveness, but closed 1 to 1½ higher. That was also the range for United States Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, Anaconda, National Biscuit, Kennecott, Union Carbide, and New York Central.

The weekly trade reviews reported progress, although warning that the pace was slow. Duns said retail trade has responded, to some extent, and that the shortage of surplus stocks had forced some manufacturers to put aside spring orders to handle work for immediate shipment. Bradstreet's was also encouraged by a pickup in retail business, which it said was better than wholesale and jobbing distribution.

Bonds continued in demand, but the grain markets were reactionary.

Early steadiness in raw futures as a result of covering and Cuban support was followed by slight reactions although trading on the whole was of small proportions and price changes were narrow. GRAIN QUOTATIONS SLUMP IN CHICAGO

Corn Leads In All-Around Decline on Grain Prices in Pit in Windy City

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
(Associated Press Market Editor)

CHICAGO, Jan. 23—Corn led an all-around drop of grain prices today. The tumble received much of its momentum from a trade summary, which said that barring crop failure or war conditions world prices of major farm products would at best rule but slightly higher than current levels, and that no general increase of farm land values was looked for. Indications of urgent pressure to sell Australian wheat abroad had a further bearish influence.

Corn closed unsteady, 1½c to 1¾c down; wheat at ¾c to 1c decline; oats ⅛c to ¾c off and provisions showing 2c to 10c fall.

Unsettlement of grains showed itself right from the start. Corn was affected early by notable absence of shipping demand here and by signs of preference for cheap feed substitutes. Bear traders made much of assertions that North American coarse grains were subjected to competition from cheap Argentine corn and oats and from cheap Russian and Danubian barley.

It was not, however, until after an especially bearish summary of the general grain situation had been widely circulated that corn and other cereals gave way in earnest. The summary issued by Standard Statistics, Incorporated, asserted that American agriculture would never fully regain its former dominant position relative to industry as a whole or to world agriculture. Final prices both on corn and wheat were at virtually the day's bottom figures.

Oats declined with corn and wheat. Provisions reflected downturns in hogs.

PRICES SLUMP DURING WEEK ON WOOL MARTS ON SEABOARD OF EAST

BOSTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"There has been a rather better distribution of wool this last week at slightly lower prices on the whole. A better demand for three-eighths combing wools is reported and furthere movement in scoureds for woolens. Fairly heavy sales of noils have been made and the market is steadier.

"The opening at London was rather lower than expected. Since the opening, prices have been maintained without material change but withdrawals have been heavier. The foreign primary markets are lower again this week on a landed basis in bond.

"More activity is noted in the piece goods markets but largely for prompt deliveries.

"Mohair is slow and unchanged."

RUPERT FOLKS ENJOY STUDENTS' OPERETTA

RUPERT, Jan. 23 (Special to The News)—Modern comic operetta, "The Belle of Bagdad," in two acts, was presented by Rupert high school music department, directed by Miss Cecelia Senne, at the school auditorium here Tuesday. Large audiences attended afternoon and evening performances.

Clever dialogue and catchy, tuneful melodies, supported by a well defined story, held the interest through the entire operetta.

Music accompaniment was in the hands of Ethlyn Oneal, Rupert high school senior student, and the dancing numbers were in charge of Miss Lois Tapley, faculty member.

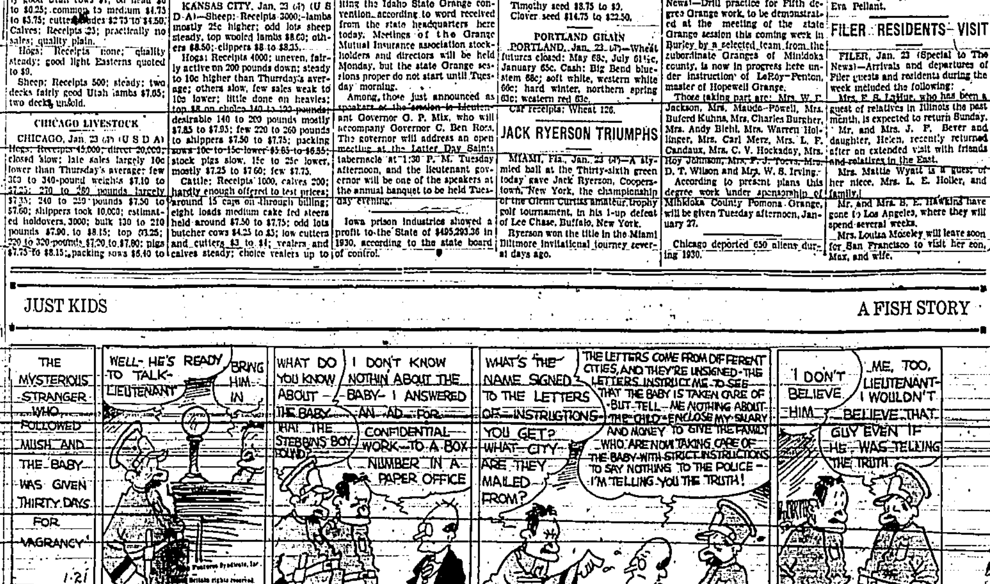
JUST KIDS — A FISH STORY



"Somewhere in This House"

by Rufus King

It was a pleasure to express her thoughts with ease. They played with the dinner — there had been that night rabbit stew with vegetables and a sprig of bay leaf, the onions just a mite burned, trying to get that stuck at the bottom of the casserole; celery, rhubarb tarts and coffee then dressing in jade, the dance and Harry — the arms like fluid metal catching her hand against the wall of his chest; dancing, dancing, dancing.

Dizzy kidding, teasing, smiling! Heat drenching the dance hall and Harry smelling warm and earthly and pushing his stub nose into her hair so it parted around her scalp; breathing harder, pressing her tightly, dancing, dancing, dancing (music and laughter), swinging her right off her feet and walking her, holding her, clear around the room, and people — applauding — and — Martha Merriweay looking sick because it was Alice he was dancing, dancing, dancing — — poison in a bottle in the sink and Vera turning brittle eyes, and the brittle sound of breaking glass, " " ".

"Vera! Vera."

It wouldn't do to stop and puzzle over why somebody was shouting for Vera. The little feet links must be fitted into the smoothly gathering chain — how easily they were coming back and slipping into their appointed places. The dining room was dark when Vera slid the kitchen door behind her, and in the darkness and the stillness, distantly sifting through the archway, sifting through the darkness, gently ruffling up the stillness, came a little cough — very dry. Just before the bullet struck her, it had come. Mr. Sturm's gentle hacking little cough. The chain snapped taut with strengthened links. Her eyes were open and she was out of bed. And in the hallway something was moving at the top of his lungs for Vera, who was dead, and a clink strained fragilely, precariously — who, yes, who had been killed in the same person that had shot her. No, that wasn't it — yes, it was, it must be. A voice told her so.

But that wasn't everything. There was something else. She had to get out of here quickly and run to Harry with her desperate knowledge, and nothing but Harry's strong arms would quiet her and make her safe. Where was her coat? Down in the kitchen. Her galoshes were there, too. A quarter of a mile it was to Harry's farm along a drifted road.

She wouldn't scream until she was right outside his door, and then she might good and well scream it, scream it and scream and scream. * * * She started en staggered tiptoe from the room.

There was nobody in the hall, and whoever had been shouting for Vera had stopped it. Her slippers were weighted with nightmare. She crossed the floor of the bathroom and heard the sound of reaching behind it. Her fingers touched and slid along the velvet-covered railing of the stair well. Her slippers sank into the deep pile of the stair treads, lowering her gently into a sea of darkness. She felt herself immersed in darkness, and after she reached the bottom of the stairs it would close over her head. Boards of the lower floor clicked beneath her heels. * * *

Where are you going, child?

She looked up the curving stairs. Mr. Sturm was standing at the head of them. His figure appeared writhly on the velvet railing as he started quietly walking down the stairs.

Her tongue was welded, and the sight of him shot through her like a pain. When he stepped she stepped — backward into the living room, its doorway shutting out the sight of him, itself a dim rectangle in the darkness. She could not turn and run. Backward she kept on going with her eyes unsinking, staring at the empty rectangle that was suddenly occupied in outline by Mr. Sturm.

"My dear child, let me take you back upstairs to your room." His voice was gentle, carrying softly in ribbon-like steel. "If there is anything you want in the kitchen, let me get it for you."

The knob of the kitchen door was cupped behind her in her hand. She turned it over so gently and let the door swung inward into the cold, landlike smell of the kitchen.

"Your place is in bed, child."

He was coming at her through the archway, never hurrying his deliberate steps or the calm monotony of his voice — just a slender blotch against blackness coming at her step by step.

She almost stumbled down the step into the kitchen and left hand shook at the closed door and fumbled for a key. Her fingers felt across the smooth, empty metal of the lock.

The key was on the other side of the door. The key was always kept on the other side of the door so that the kitchen could be locked off from the house at night. She must have light. Her fingers fluttered gently about a switch and found the strength to turn it. Her fur coat was across a chair where she had thrown it. It hung about her shoulders like a warm and heavy anchor. She brushed a hair impatiently from in front of an eye so that nothing would obscure her vision. Her hand on the dining-room door, its knob was turning. It was opening, and there, preceded by a hacking cough, was Mr. Sturm. His expressionless eyes rested impassively upon her warm fur coat.

"What madness have you in your head, child?"

He stepped down on to the kitchen floor. The movement released a word that had been imprisoned in her mouth.

"Blood."

He hesitated in his gentle advance.

"Blood?"

She nodded. "Blood."

"Where, my dear?"

"A splotch of water. It wasn't her voice at all. No sound of it belonged to her. Her mouth was an empty box, and sounds just came out of it of their own accord. An edge of the kitchen table checked her retreat. She began to slide along the edge of the table. She had to reach the shed door. She had to open it and leap out behind the merciful curtains of snow that were further obscuring the already impenetrable night.

"There is some blood in a pitcher of water."

"No. There's water."

"Then where is the blood, my dear?"

If her lower lip would tremble so she could keep it still and stop those words from coming out of her mouth. They were for Harry, those words, if God let her live until he could take her in his arms.

Tell me where the blood is, child." She never could make it. Mr. Sturm was sliding along the table edge, too. The table's other edge. And he would reach the shed door before her.

It was sort of hopeless, and she began to cry a little.

"I can't tell you about the blood, Mr. Sturm, sir."

"No, no, of course not, dear child. Let me take that coat off for you and make you a quieting drink. I shall make you a pot of tea."

If she could hurry. Just a little more, but it was difficult to walk backward. The table edge slid away from her like a dock. The latch of the shed door was cold iron in her fingers, and the feel of Mr. Sturm's fingers was like ice as they slid between the fur collar and her neck. They started tugging gently at her coat, and his face was pushed in close to her like a visiting moon. His cheek was smooth chill marble as she pushed it violently with the palm of her hand.

"My dear child!"

COURT PAROLES TWO OFFENDERS

P. S. Harvey and S. L. Whitaker, Pleading Guilty to Felonies, Receive Leniency

Two young men who pleaded guilty to felony charges were sentenced to serve prison terms and then paroled by Judge William A. Babcock in district court here yesterday, while sentencing of a third young man who also pleaded guilty to a felony charge was continued to next Friday to give him opportunity to perfect an application for admission to parole.

Paul S. Harvey, 23, who pleaded guilty to furnishing liquor to a 17-year-old boy at Kimberly last October 13, was sentenced to serve 2 to 5 years in the state prison, sentence being suspended under terms of the parole order. Harvey, an orphan, came from Tennessee to Kimberly about a year ago. Friends and former employers interceded in his behalf petitioning for leniency.

S. L. Whitaker, 25, who pleaded guilty to forgery of a $25 check last Christmas day, was sentenced to serve 1 to 14 years prison term and then paroled. In Whitaker's behalf, relatives, friends and former employers advised the court his wife and year-old baby were dependent upon him, that he had never before been convicted of a felony and that he had been a faithful and conscientious worker.

Sentence was continued in the case of Ettie Standlee, 19, who pleaded guilty to a burglary charge in connection with theft of a slot-machine containing $21 from the Elwood Henstock garage at Hollister last November 13.

Leo Jewett, named as co-defendant with Standlee in the complaint charging burglary, pleaded not guilty on arraignment in the district court, and has been held to trial next week.

TEMPERANCE UNION FAVORS PROHIBITION

That all arguments offered against prohibition are futile and sophistical was the opinion of the 40 members of the Twin Falls Woman's Christian Temperance Union at its meeting at the First Christian church yesterday at which the president, Mrs. J. C. Porterfield, occupied the chair. The Wickersham report on the Eighteenth amendment was not taken up as it was decided to defer that for a meeting to be held about two weeks hence, at which Mrs. John L. Brady, Blackfoot, state president, will speak on the report.

"The subject for consideration yesterday was "Observance and Enforcement; Not Repeal." In order to bring out lines of argument used against prohibition, Mrs. W. Montooth, who had been designated to lay before the meeting the contentions of the opponents of the law, pointed to the personal liberty argument the contention that liquor should be sold under government regulation, or the claim that we should adopt the Canadian system or governmental sales.

Responding, Mrs. Lulu Coen facetiously suggested as a more plausible contention, that if we should legalize the liquor traffic, people who now buy automobiles will spend their money on liquor, so that there would not be so many cars to run into people. She examined critically the arguments for legal liquor sales, referred to by Mrs. Montooth and, with approbation of her audience declared them unfounded.

It was brought to the attention of the meeting that a certain company, the publications of which have national circulation, and which heretofore refused to accept cigarette advertisements on the ground that they were injurious to health, has modified the rule to admit advertisements of toasted cigarettes. It was urged that letters of protest be sent to this publication protesting against the departure in policy.

RED CROSS LEADERS WAIT DEFINITE PLAN

Until more definite information has been received here relative to the matter of receiving farm products in lieu of money for relief of the needy in eastern states, the Twin Falls Red Cross council will not be called together to consider meeting the situation, it was stated last evening by Mrs. Sturgeon McCoy.

A. L. Swim said yesterday that he had just finished a long distance conversation with F. Lee Johnson, Idaho agricultural commissioner, Boise, who stated that the conditions in regard to reception of farm products for relief at the Red Cross headquarters at St. Louis had not been completely worked out. In response to inquiry, Mr. Johnson said that he had taken up the subject with the St. Louis headquarters by telegram, night letters and airmail letters in behalf of all sections of the state.

GROWERS PREPARE ANNUAL PROGRAM

Representative of Federal Farm Board Plans to Address Bean Meeting

That the regional organization of bean grower associations in the intermountain section has had a stabilizing influence on bean prices throughout this section, has kept Great Northern bean prices more even than other bean prices, and on two occasions has kept them from falling 50 cents a sack lower than they did fall, was the opinion expressed last night by J. W. Jones, Washington, representing the federal farm board who arrived yesterday to attend the annual meeting of the Southern Idaho Bean Growers association which convenes in the Elks' hall at 10 A. M. today. Mr. Jones said that the Michigan growers have been interested in watching operations of the organization here with a view of organizing under the federal farm board law.

The meeting today will elect directors, receive reports and hear several talks. A committee on resolutions appointed last year, composed of C. E. McClain, Twin Falls; R. L. Jagels, Buhl, and Leo Harris, Eden, has prepared a report for consideration of the meeting.

DAIRYMEN PLAN FOR ANNUAL GATHERING

Time of the board of directors of the Twin Falls County Dairymen's association at its regular monthly meeting in the Perrine hotel yesterday afternoon was largely devoted to making tentative arrangements for the annual meeting of the association which will be held next Tuesday at the Grange hall, Filer, beginning at 10 A. M.

The list of speakers for the occasion have not yet been selected, the directors said, but at least one first class man will be present. There will be a basket lunch at noon. It was stated that the term as director of Gustav Kunze, Buhl, president, expires at the Tuesday meeting, but the sentiment is, it was stated, that he should be again chosen as a director, despite his present ill health.

ACCUSED MEN FACING BURGLARY PROSECUTION

Two men, Daniel O'Brien, 31, and Thomas Compton, 27, were held under $2500 bond each to answer in district court to a felony charge of burglary, following a preliminary hearing before Judge Guy L. Kinney in probate court here yesterday.

The accused men, who are said to have admitted guilt of shoplifting, were charged with burglary on the theory that they had entered stores with the intention of committing larceny.

They were not represented by an attorney and no evidence was offered in their behalf at the preliminary hearing.

Witnesses called by O. W. Witham, prosecuting attorney, in presenting the case for the prosecution were H. R. Stroud, assistant manager at Montgomery Ward and company's store, and W. H. Eldridge, proprietor of the Eldridge Clothing company store, who identified clothing that they said had been stolen from their stores January 14, and which, Police Chief R. E. Leighton and Police Officer William Sears testified was in the accused men's possession when they were arrested the same day.

DETECTIVE DRAMA PLEASES AUDIENCE

Mystery Story Thrills 600 Persons at Latter Day Saints Recreation Hall

Deep and dark mystery surrounded the doings of grafters, smugglers and a super-sleuth, in the four act comedy-drama, "Under Cover", splendidly presented by a well balanced cast before more than 600 spectators at the Latter Day Saints recreational hall last evening.

A. L. Smith, director of the play, as Stephen Denby, the hero, Mrs. Afton Hulit as Ethel Cartwright, the heroine, and George E. South as Daniel Taylor, dishonest customs official, were principal characters. Wilson Jackson, as Monty Vaughn, friend of the hero, created a world of amusement. The supporting cast included Richard Serpa, Frank Stevens, Luther Bice, I. E. Bell, Virginia Christopherson, Mrs. Tessie Serpa, Mrs. Donna South, and Miss Dorothy Kirkman, acted well their various roles, "too numerous to mention."

Specialties between acts included line numbers by a male quartette composed of Ellis Bjorling, George Ward, Claude Brown and Lee Kirkman; an appreciated duet by Mrs. Edna Stokes and Mrs. Carrie Rapplye, with Mrs. Edgarina Jackson as accompanist, and a solo which evoked much applause by Edgar Guest with Miss Norma Guest as accompanist.

TWIN FALLS YOUTH WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Word was received here yesterday by H. S. Hale, Twin Falls county agricultural agent, that Wallace Larson, member of the senior class of the Twin Falls high school, had received the Union Pacific Railroad company scholarship awarded to the boy showing most efficiency in agricultural work. Carl Hendricks, Filer, graduate of high school there in class 1930, was named as alternate. The scholarship includes $100 cash and free transportation to the University of Idaho, Moscow.

Larson owned 290 hens consisting of 47 two years old, 120 one year old, and 123 pullets. These produced 37,844 eggs, or an average of 130 for each hen placed in the laying house. This is regarded as unusual when less than 50 per cent of the flock was composed of pullets. Carl Hendricks raised 76 acres of White Wonder beans and nine acres of Butternut beans. The white beans yielded 15 bushels an acre and the Butternut beans 22.5 bushels an acre.

TWO MEN SUFFER WHEN CAR UPSETS

Accident on Highway Sends Clarence Hasson and Andrew Halpin to Hospital

Two men, Clarence Hasson, 29, Ontario, Oregon, and Andrew Halpin, 31, 330 Second avenue north, Twin Falls, were severely injured when the car in which they were riding overturned and was virtually demolished on the highway about three miles east of Twin Falls shortly before noon yesterday.

The injured men were brought here by a passing motorist to the hospital here where examination indicated that both men were suffering from bruises about the back and hips with possible internal injuries. Hasson received numerous cuts about the head and face.

According to Theodore J. Goeckner, state traffic officer, Halpin's car in which the two men were riding was, except for the radiator and motor, "damaged beyond repair." The frame, he said was buckled, all the glass broken and a rear seat flung across the width of the road.

Leon S. Ayotte, one-half mile west of Twin Falls, was bruised about the head in a collision that occurred when a car driven by Dr. G. C. Halley, director of Twin Falls county health unit, skidded on wet pavement near the county general hospital here yesterday morning, and crashed against Ayotte's car.

Edward Heber, traveling northward on Blue Lakes boulevard, shortly after noon yesterday, turned his car into the curb and broke off the right front wheel, in order to avoid collision with another car that was driven by Miss Comer westward on Tenth avenue east, he reported to the officers.

HUNT FOR LOST CARS LEADS TO DISCOVERY

Two car owners who were among the spectators at the Kimberly-Twin Falls high school basketball game here last evening, left the high school gymnasium about 10 P. M. to find that their cars, parked on Shoshone street north near the school, had been stolen. While police officers were looking for the missing car, they found another machine, apparently stolen and abandoned at the corner of Locust and Heyburn streets that license records indicates belongs to D. E. Harris, Twin Falls.

Search up to late last night had not led to recovery of the two cars reported missing. These cars were a Buick brougham, owned by Harry Denton, Kimberly, that carried license 39.165, and a Chevrolet coach owned by F. A. Goodykoontz, 350 Jefferson street, that carried license 40.919.

Following funeral services at the Christian church here Friday afternoon, the body of Mrs. Martha Russell, 72, resident of Twin Falls for nearly 14 years, was laid at rest in Twin Falls cemetery beside the grave of her husband, Elias Russell, whose death occurred here last July. Bellamy, of three numbers, "Sometime We'll Understand," "Rock of Ages" and "Abide With Me." Mrs. Gish played the piano accompaniment.
