WORLD HEARS POPE
ON TIME VIEWS-ON CATHOLIC PROBLEMS

Pointiff, Broadcasting From Rome-in-Italian, French and German, Declares Adequate Wage Necessary

By JOHN KAVAN
Associated Press Correspondent
VATICAN CITY, May 15.—Pope Pius XI promised the Catholic world a new charter of labor to elevate the workman's status, in a radio address today commemorating the 50th anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's labor encyclical, "Rerum Novarum."

This new charter will be issued in the form of a long encyclical, "Quadragesimo Anno," and will be published in about a week.

Broadcasting for the first time in the modern tongue of Italian, French and German, the pope declared that the economic world must be reorganized to achieve justice for the working man and his great stress on three words which he said would be the motto of the new document—"Justice, peace, sacrifice."

From the papal throne and under a starry sky in the courtyard of San Damiano, the pope addressed directly 10,000 Catholics who were gathered in the courtyard. His voice was brilliant with the banners of many nations, the colors of papal ornaments and the sonorous of a radio which distributed the pope's address since he was elected nine years ago, lasting one hour, 20 minutes.

Outline Character
The church's new labor charter, which the pontiff had forecast, was outlined in a long encyclical letter, which was distributed to the pilgrims before his address. It was later read on the radio by Monsignor Antonio Spelman, Whitman, Massachusetts.

In it the pope condemned extremists and said socialism and communism were incompatible with the church's principles.

He said there must be an equilibrium between the rights of the worker and the rights of the employer. He said the church's duty was to bring it back to the equilibrium of social justice so as to insure the rights of the worker and the rights of the employer.

The pope asserted his own and the church's duty to bring the social problems such as are at issue in a world where there is too great a disparity in the distribution of the world's goods.

He placed for better relations between classes and the trade unions and declared that the workers' wages must be adequate to meet all the proper needs of the worker and his family.

In a word, he added, the only remedy is a return to the social principles of Christian social philosophy.

Long before the pope was to make his address, St. Peter's Square and the avenues leading to San Damiano courtyard within the Vatican were filled with thousands of pilgrims from every corner of the world.

The pontiff began speaking at 11:28 A. M. eastern standard time. He prefaced his address with a few words in Italian greeting the workers who had come from all over the world to attend the anniversary. Then, in French, he said that the next speaker would be the pope or his representative.

"At the present time," he said, "we are divided evenly in membership. There are two Republican vacancies which will elect a Republican speaker, unless some of our Republicans should decide to join the opposition."

YOUTH, "LOST" NINE MONTHS IN JAIL AT DETROIT, GETS HOME

DETROIT, May 15 (AP)—Edward Argel, 17-year-old orphan, "lost" in the Wayne county jail for nearly nine months, has been found and returned to his home.

Born in Poland, Edward was taken to Canada by his parents as a young child and was later taken to the Wayne county jail in 1917. His mother died in 1925. Edward made his first trip selling newspapers in Montreal for five years.

One dark night in a year ago he crossed a railroad trestle near Buffalo, New York, and entered the United States. He was arrested by immigration officers here September 1, 1930, for entering the United States illegally. Efforts to deport him were unsuccessful.

There was no record of the birth in Poland. Then immigration officers forgot about him, and he remained in the country.

Two nights ago, his sons as he said in his cell attracted the attention of Albert M. Brown, a turn-pike guard, through his efforts, aided by Gavin Bell, the jail barber, immigration officials returned the case and agreed to release the boy on probation. He is to be adopted by a family.

GEM STATE CITIES
GET NATURAL GAS
Litigation Ends With High Court Decision Upholding Orders of Commission

BOISE, May 15 (AP)—Litigation carried for more than a year was believed to have been ended today with a supreme court decision upholding the orders of the public utility commission permitting intrusion into Pocatello and other southern Idaho cities and towns of natural gas.

The litigation resulted from the decision of the Western Public Utility Commission to extend its service through northern Utah and Idaho to the Pocatello and other cities. The commission's decision was based on the fact that the gas was being produced in the state and was being sold to the public.

The application was made by L. J. Dunnington and J. H. Dunnington, representing the Western Public Utility Commission, a subsidiary of the Ohio Oil and Gas Company, which is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company.

Dean John H. Dyer, University of Idaho, Southern Branch, Head, Addresses West End City's Largest Class

(Special to The News)

Buhl, May 15—Seventy-four Buhl students—the largest graduation class in the history of the school—heard Dean John H. Dyer, executive head of the University of Idaho Southern Branch, Pocatello, give the commencement address, and received their diplomas at a special session of the high school auditorium this evening.

Dean Dyer, who placed the hour with a humorous and instructive address, urged the students to continue their studies in universities and colleges, stating "the present day college is not a place where students of men and women makes higher education a necessity if the individual expects to make a contribution required by civilization."

"Finance is no obstacle to a college education, if the student has the knowledge through this course is sufficient," he stated. He urged the students to be successful in their studies, and to be "hard-nosed" in their studies, but "soft" in their hearts.

In emphasizing the need of a cultural course he declared: "We need history, civics, religion, sociology and other subjects to live successfully in this difficult world of human relationships."

The auditorium was filled to capacity. This was the twenty-first annual commencement at Buhl high school.

The program follows:

SOMEONE MUST SELL QUALITY

Some stores, apparently, only have prices to attract customers. At least, that's all they talk about. But prices, without quality, is a worthless proposition. We want better with our bread, so we figure our customers want quality with their prices. We think they want foods they'll be proud to serve, whether it's for breakfast in the kitchen, or dinner for the mayor. So, it's only these kinds of foods, quality foods, that we sell.

NO OFF BRANDS

In looking over the brands of foods handled by our store, you'll think you're looking over the index of advertisers in the leading ladies' magazines. That's how prominent and many are the nationally known brands of foods in our store. Then there are brands known locally, products, and last, our own dependable O. P. S. brand items. No off-brands or second quality foods will ever be found in our store. Come in, tomorrow, and see our offerings.

THE UNSETTLING SUN

My days and my sleepless nights are a compound of misery and wrath. Alternately I was paralyzed by fear and galvanized by rage against those who would rob the child from home and keep her a prisoner.

The police, a score of detectives, a half-dozen individuals were constantly at work.

"I was in a position to know best," assured me that I should very soon receive some communication from the man who had been taken away so safe return of the child as soon as certain conditions had been ac-

This diamond, The Unsettling Sun.

My grandfather, who had a passion for precious stones, bought it from a Jew peddler in the market of Paris diamond-merchants. It is one of the reputed "uncanny" stones.

Certainly, this diamond, The Unsettling Sun, had been the property of a number of generations, and its history, and its powers, prices, and powers, as well as private incidents—and it is true—that my grandfather, known in Wall Street as "Uncle Sam," had given it to his son, Sir Clair, up to the time of his acquiring The Unsettling Sun, came to be known as "Unlucky S. Clair."

The child and again I was assured that I was the father of the child—and only-born—kidnaped animal; and that, as soon as the ransomed held their plans for the life recovery of the ransom money, the child would be returned to me; and I was advised instantly and fully to comply with the demands. There would be time enough when my child was returned to me to consider the question of punishment. The advice was unnecessary, would they demand the payment of anything that I possessed in the world, I would have it. I would have demanded twice as much, they would have said, for I would borrow

His wife was burnt to death in a fire, and he was left a fatherless marionette house and he died in a comparatively poor man—poor though still the proprietor of The Unfolding Magazine, the nothing would induce him to the demand.
 He left the testament to my father,
 on condition that he never sold his rights, and that he would be the determiner, and he to his son and so on, in La perpetuity.
 My father was not what could be called a very rich man, but, shortly after inheriting The Unfolding, my mother, when he awoke, was killed by a terrible railroad accident, and I was left again, by and by, and once—almost—unlucky man. In-than the foregoing, after she was on the other hand, I talked to him in my own way, and he was not so much afraid of me as he was of his father. I told him that I was not a doctor, but a man who had been in the army for many years, and that I had seen many things. and there was further evidence of the fact that the themselves—had been in the first place, they wanted our Sun; and, in the second place, they wanted the diamond; and, in the third place, they wanted the diamond, each of the of not less than $10,000.

They identify the soundings had no identification of being lured by means of the diamond. The fact that they pointed out that the same receipt by them of The United States would indicate my desire to get my daughter at the cost involved. I am glad to have a favorable opinion of her health.
