Shippers' Session Listens To R. E. Shepherd on Alalfa Weevil and Former Murtaugh Man Gives Talk

(By The Associated Press) OGDEN, Utah, June 22.—R. E. Shepherd, president of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, told the agricultural council of the Central Western shippers' advisory board here this afternoon he hopes "the average price of the 1931 wheat crop will equal the average price of the 1929 crop, although stabilization was in effect for a part of that year."

Declaring the size of the present season's crop still is uncertain, he added "unless there is a change in the situation, there is every indication the North American continent will have, with the carry-over and new crop, substantially less than 12 months ago."

Scoring those who are demanding a pledge that the present stocks of the grain stabilization committee be held at least a year as "drawing a red herring across their trail," he declared such demands "come from owners of warehouses in which they are stored."

McH. H. declared the corporation's stocks are "substantially good," saying a recent different inventory had determined 80% percent of them are "in perfect present condition," he said the corporation expected to find "reasonable and safe outlets which will take it from the market without hindrance in the present crop," and declared the deficit "purpose" will be "to keep the carry-over from being a burden on the current crop to market."

He termed the activities of the corporation "the first intelligent handling of grain in this country in trying to move them from producer to consumer in the most direct way."

Influences Prices
The activities have actually influenced the price of wheat between 8 and 10 cents a bushel in a general price advance in the West. Here we have handled wheat at a lower unit cost than ever before on a large scale."

The alfalfa weevil quarantine, previously discussed at three meetings of the Central Western shippers' advisory board, was discussed another airing at the afternoon session, with the debate centering on the desirability of having a federal hearing. A committee of representatives of the shippers represented in the Central Western shippers' advisory board, Idaho and Wyoming, Colorado, Idaho and Utah was named to draft a resolution on the subject for presentation tomorrow.

Speakers condemned the present state quarantine as conducive to confusion and lacking incentive in many cases unutilized for because of elimination of the alfalfa weevil from the alfalfa against which they are maintained.

J. W. Shortall, Idaho, general chairman of the advisory board, declared there is no other alfalfa commodity against which quarantines are so generally applied as against alfalfa and its products.

L. T. O'Grady, Wyoming commissioner of agriculture, expressed the opinion the problem could be worked out by the state concerned.

P. Lee Johnson, formerly of Murtaugh, Idaho, commissioner of agriculture, said the recent meeting of the western quarantine board at Cheyenne "went a long way toward solving the problem." He announced that the quarantine against Idaho alfalfa had lifted in five Idaho-Western states and all Western states except Arizona.

R. E. Shepherd, Jerome, chairman of the agricultural council of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, credited the alfalfa weevil with a large part in starting the dairying industry in his state. He expressed the opinion the pest had been largely eliminated from that state, but said the quarantine against Idaho alfalfa still stands.

At tomorrow's session of the advisory board, reports will be received from the agricultural council, the railroad contact committee, commodity committees, the banking committee and the executive committee.

HATHAWAY DENIES MURDERING NURSE

Man Charged With Killing Miss Vorna Russell Tells Version of Affair to Jury

NEWPORT, R. I., June 22 (AP)—Elliot R. Hathaway, 28, on a Massachusetts legislature, today denied the charges that he had strangled the death of a nurse on the night of March 22. He said the nurse died in his arms, during a fight and in the night on a bench, June 22, in the night.

The nurse suddenly choked, there was a "furious sound" in her throat, her face turned blue and her body became limp in his arms, Hathaway testified.

The defense held the girl was "a victim of a tragedy" who was found in her throat at an examination a month after her death. The prosecution charged that Hathaway strangled her with his right hand, and expected to send him to prison for life.

Hathaway was under cross-examination as the case opened, a cross-examination that opened dramatically when Attorney General William McKelvey produced a "photo" of the girl, a young woman of a good likeness of the young nurse on the evening he called for her at the "Trendonale Hotel, Fall River, where she was staying."

"And is this the way you left her that night?" shouted McKelvey, showing Hathaway a photograph of the girl, who was found dead, next morning, beside a window seat.

Hathaway said that was the photo. He showed that much of the girl's body was exposed, because of the diarrhea of her coat and dress, and McKelvey made much of this point. In fact, (testimony) Hathaway had described in detail his asserted attempts to aid the girl, who he

IDAHO MINERS WELCOME METAL PRICE INCREASES

WALLACE, Idaho, June 22 (AP)—Overseas in the price of lead and silver today cheered miners operating and thousands of workers in the great silver-lead mines of the Coeur d'Alene district.

The chief cause of elation was the prospect of full-time production and employment of 300 men who had been laid off. This good news came as a complete surprise, said Frank J. Smith, general manager of the Idaho-Montana Mining company.

Perhaps the American Smelting and Refining company could force a slightly improved market. Business and industrial circles of the Idaho-Montana were correspondingly encouraged.

Chicago Prosecutor Scores in Campaign Against Gangsters

Dogged Drive Aims at Purses of "Big Shots"

Indictment of "Scarface" Alphonse Capone for Income Tax Fraud and Evasion Climaxes Efforts

Six of Gang "Go for Ride"

CHICAGO, June 22.—These major cases summarize the results of George E. J. Johnson's anti-gangster campaign: Ralph Capone, brother of Al, under sentence of three years, fine of $10,000, for income tax fraud, case on appeal. Jake Guzik, Capone lieutenant, under sentence of five years and a fine of $12,000. Case on appeal. Frank Nitti, Capone "enforcer," in Leavenworth for 18 months' term, fined $10,000. Sam Guzik, under sentence of a year and a day at Leavenworth, fined $2,000. Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, peddlers, indicted along with Capone, subject to change if Ralph Capone were reversed. Al Capone, indicted on 33 counts for income tax fraud and evasion, has pleaded guilty and faces a maximum sentence of 33 years in prison.

(By The Associated Press) CHICAGO, June 22.—A dynamic little prosecutor has gone "over the top" in his dogged offensive to drive gangsters out of Chicago.

"Scarface" Al Capone, the "big boy" of gangdom, is "in the net"—indicted for income tax fraud and evasion—and has pleaded guilty to charges which may send him to prison for nearly two more years.

And that means a victory in the front line trenches for George E. J. Johnson, United States district attorney in Chicago.

He has indicted seven gang chiefs—Capone lieutenant, some of them—on similar charges, but his drive to control the "big shot" reached a climax in the indictment of "Scarface" Al himself.

A Federal Clerk

For more than four years income tax law have been used in Chicago as a club to indict gangsters and racketeers—who seemed immune from other prosecution, and the centralized, little Johnson has been the mainstay of the campaign.

The total of indictments against seven leading in gangsters resulted again with the action against "Scarface" Al, which followed a searching two-year inquiry into the alleged, dubious paths of Capone finances.

A quiet, unassuming, slender son of an Iowa farmer—and a church worker for years—Johnson has spent no money in his fight to wipe federal tax laws as a weapon against racketeers.

Began as "Unknown"

Less than five years ago he stepped into the district attorney's office virtually unknown in Chicago. He had come from Chicago years ago to study and practice law.

Quickly he commented that he would "talk with indignation and with a fine voice."

There came a party with Ralph Capone, brother of Al Capone, who thought he was up for a fine date, and he found that he had bank accounts under five aliases. These accounts were closed.

"You don't have anything on me," "Only enough," replied Johnson, "to send you to the penitentiary."

An appeal from his sentence of three years and a fine of $10,000 pending, with a decision expected soon.

"Fight Gangs Through Press"

Without money, Johnson argues, gangster's power slips away, and the criminal crumbles.

The best method of fighting organized crime, he has observed, "is to make it impossible to earn the money—that is, wipe out the source from which it comes."

The way to do this is to procure evidence and prosecute every violation which may be prevented, be it income tax, gambling, prohibition, gambling or vice.

Slightly more than a year ago the first of his income tax cases against major gangsters was tried. That was in April, 1929, when Ralph Capone's case was heard. Then came the trial of others, including a Capone's secretary and a state representative.

Editor-of-Religious-Journal Speaks of Missionary Convention Upon Eternal Life

Eight hundred fifty persons, who attended the thirty-second annual meeting of the South Idaho Christian association Sunday night, heard Dr. B. A. Abbott, St. Louis, scholarly editor of the Christian Evangelist, speak on the subject, "Value of Belief in Eternal Life."

Dr. Abbott declared that eternal belief in this doctrine would do away with heartache, which rendering no hard. He declared that this belief, founded on scripture, on natural law and reason, would "drive back this wave of atheism, not creeping over much of the world."

Dr. Abbott quoted the address of the famous skeptic, Colonel Robert T. Gregory, delivered at the grave of his brother, to prove that the brilliant address of agnosticism, at that solemn moment, realized that reason might support hope in the belief of union beyond the grave.

The speaker "extensively traveled from the New Testament to prove the existence of eternal life, and the value of the doctrine in the scriptures. He urged by quote in the opinion of the moment on the grave of a signer of the Declaration of Independence in Pensacola, Florida, which read, "An angel came to me from the grave, but a legion of angels could keep me there."

Sunday morning, impressive services were conducted.

Sunday afternoon the Kimberly Missionary society sponsored a memorial service at 2:30 o'clock.

Following a song service led by Rev. Enoch Trollinger, Dunbar, there was an address by Dr. Abbott.

At the afternoon service the male quartette composed of C. E. Allen, L. Patrick, James Bernoldi and Kenneth Anderson and the Twin Falls church choir, furnished music, which was well appreciated by delegates and members of congregation.

Local peace officers are concerned when the circus comes to town over matters of law observance and conduct.

Amusement seekers, young and old, look to the circus for an initial old yet newer form of entertainment.

In all these respects Al G. Barnes circus, in Twin Falls yesterday, measured up to the high standards.

Under the big top set up early in the morning on lot near the depot, the Barnes circus presented two performances yesterday to audiences that circled officials pronounced "first class."

The evening was somewhat larger than in the afternoon, reflecting the influence of the busy season on the farm.

Without sacrifice of any of the "animal" acts, Barnes circus, there have been added to the program this season a number of outstanding acrobatic and equestrian performances that within the scope of interest.

A performance that has not been surpassed in any circus visiting Twin Falls came as a climax when the Orfens group of three men and two women moved briskly through a highly-hazardous repertoire of feats on a high-light wire, closing with a three-act pyramid final on the wire.

A series of sensational animal acts, including the appearance of a white elephant, followed by a series of stunts through their paces inside the steel-barred arena.

An atmosphere of Oriental splendor surrounded two big spectacles presented at the opening of each performance. Scores of dancing horses drew their accustomed number of applause.

Moving with precision and dispatch from early morning until late night when the last act of the three-section train was loaded and the circus moved on to the next stop, events on the circus were never forward according to schedule, and there was not a serious mishap or untoward incident to mar the day's enjoyment.

IN the making of the sought-after Isphahans, Kashans and Namazkies, the skill of the weaver in the blending of his colors means everything.

Just as the rug-maker weaves his colors to create the finished rug, so do CONOCO experts use the three types of gasoline to produce their balanced blend: Natural Gasoline, for flaking performance; Straight-run Gasoline, for power and mileage; Cracked Gasoline, for its anti-knock qualities.

BURL HOLDS RITES TO DEDICATE WEST END HEALTH CAMP

Rev. James Millar, Pastor
Of Twin Falls Presbyterian Church, Delivers
Brief Dedictory Address

(Special to The News)
BURL, June 22.—Twin Falls county home for underprivileged children, built as a memorial to the late Dr. A. P. McCuskey, was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon at services held at the campgrounds here. The event was largely attended by representatives from a number of towns of the county.

The brief dedictory address was delivered by Rev. James Millar, pastor of the Twin Falls Presbyterian church. Mayor E. M. Tomlinson, Burl, presented the camp to the people of the county. The acceptance speech was made by C. E. Booth, Twin Falls. Dr. J. N. Davis, Kimbrell, secretary of the Idaho State Medical association, also was present.

A quartet composed of Kenneth Harrison, C. E. Allen, P. E. Dean and James Reynolds, Twin Falls, sang several musical numbers with Mrs. Nellie Tedesco organ at the piano.

Visitors were conducted through the recently completed building to the grounds where 1 to 20 children who are in need of special supervision to build up resistance to disease, particularly tuberculosis.

Accommodates 40
The building, a rustic affair, will accommodate 40 children. A central hallway leads to 10 rooms, each with a cot, chairs and other accessories for the comfort of the children. Bathrooms and dining room combined in the rear of the main building. Shower baths have also been supplied.

Mrs. W. M. Morris, Wendell, will serve as superintendent of the institution, supervising the diet of the children. Mrs. Joseph will act as housekeeper and Miss Lillian Thompson, Burl, will be playground attendant.

Twelve children are registered from outside counties and expenses amounting to $40 per child for the two-month period of care will be paid by the counties from which the children come, by individuals or organizations. Those registered from Twin Falls county will be admitted free of charge where it is impossible for the parents to contribute to their care.

Plan Finance Drive
Fundraising plans for a costly drive for funds during the coming year were announced by the committee to raise funds for care of the children. Part of the cash derived from sale of tuberculosis seals during the Christmas season, to have been used for expenses this summer was spent in completing the building, making a further drive necessary.

Dr. George C. Halsey, head of the Twin Falls county health unit, will supervise medical care of the children when necessary. Dr. Halsey will be assisted by other physicians of the county. Dental work, required before the children enter the camp, is done gratis by dentists of the district.

Other and other organizations of the county have contributed equipment for the project.

CAMAS COUNTY FIGHTS RODENTS AND INSECTS

FAIRFIELD, June 22 (Special to The News)—Squirrels in Camas county have been especially troublesome this year and the farmers and the state have launched an active campaign against them. The state has two men working on the Forest Reserve who have distributed 200 pounds of poisoned oats so far this season. Many of the farmers, whipped into action when they saw the furry animals eating up their growing crops, have put out poisoned oats and report excellent success.

More than 1000 pounds of the treated oats have been distributed by the county health unit. The treatment has been especially successful in the case of the squirrels, which have been eating up the grain. George S. Schilling Writes Concerning Undulant Fever Traceable to Bad Milk

MOSCOW, June 22 (Special to The News)—The Journal of the American Medical association, leading technical publication of the medical profession, carries in the June 6 issue, an article on undulant fever by George S. Schilling, associate bacteriologist with the Idaho experiment station.

"The treatment of Undulant Fever by Antitoxin and Serum," is written jointly with Drs. C. F. Mayer and F. M. Leitch, Moscow physicians. It is extremely technical, reviewing the history of undulant fever, describing other treatments, then giving a case history of the autogenous antigen method of treatment. It also describes the technique by which the vaccine is developed.

Undulant fever is a real problem. It is fairly widespread in the United States and is caused by some organism which produces infectious abortion in cattle, swine, and goats. Its treatment has been difficult because of its nature, as quipras it takes very little after July 1.

The threatened plague of scrapie has been partly wiped out by the use of iodine. The scrapie has been wiping their appearance near the Big Grove ranch, south of Fairfield and for a time threatened to do considerable damage to growing crops. More than four tons of poisoned bean meal have been used effectively in the drive.

MOSCOW EXPERT GIVES ADVICE ON DOG BITES

MOSCOW, June 22 (Special to The News)—If a dog bit you or your child, what would you do? This question is asked by Dr. W. V. Haverston, bacteriologist at the University of Idaho. The dog may have rabies, or it may have only indigestion.

"Too often the dog is killed, and frequently also in the head. This is dangerous. Little chance there might have been to determine whether or not it had rabies. Where there is doubt, it is necessary to examine the brain of the dog. Another animal, usually a rabbit, is inoculated from the mangled head. If it develops rabies, then the dog was also infected. If the dog is shot and its brain mangled, then sent by mail or slow transportation to the laboratory, much valuable time is lost.

The best way to proceed, says Haverston, is to tie up the dog for 10 days. If it has rabies, he will develop convulsions and die before the 10 days have passed. As the rabies symptoms develop in the dog, the person in question can begin the Pasteur treatment, and the whole case will proceed logically and without unnecessary delay. The infected dog will develop the disease much faster than the person who was bitten. Therefore the delay is unimportant. If, during the 10-day interval, the dog recovers.

Tennescor, will remain in Berkeley during the coming winter months, a teaching fellowship there at the University of California.

How cheap are cheap oils?

Cheap oils are only cheap to buy. Out here in the Southwest, they're the most expensive oils to use.

Here we need an oil for high speed, long distance, hot and heavy driving. Here we need Mobiloil.

Mobiloil will take the punishment of any driving you can give it. And take it on the chin. That's why Mobiloil is the world's leading oil.

Mobiloil stands up because it's made, not found. The famous Vacuum Process gives Mobiloil its amazing stamina.

Here in the Southwest, where we drive hard and fast and far—when Mobiloil stands up against heat and wear—it means more miles from your car, more money in your pocket.

Save with Mobiloil. Drain and refill where you see the Mobiloil sign, and you'll find out what "stands up" really means.

COUNCIL PUTS NEW RULE IN EFFECT ON CITY MILK SUPPLY

Measure Requiring Freedom Bango Disease In Dairy Herd Becomes Law Following 90-Day Consideration

Under terms of an amendment to Twin Falls meat and dairy ordinance, adopted by the city council last evening after being held in abeyance for nearly 90 days, animals that have not been tested and found to be free from Bangs disease are to be excluded from sources of Twin Falls milk supply. The new measure is aimed to prevent the spread of accidental fever among milk consumers. It is to become effective July 1. It requires all persons engaged in offering to sell milk in Twin Falls to secure certificates of inspection showing the animals from which the milk is taken are free from the disease. Violation of this requirement is made punishable by a $100 maximum fine.

The new regulation was adopted with little discussion, on motion of Commissioner J. E. Willis, seconded by Commissioner L. A. Chapin. Since the measure has been under consideration a number of Twin Falls dairymen have made known their views and wishes to councilmen. Some dairymen asked for more time to clean up their herds. All of them asked for complete and impartial enforcement of the measure if it were adopted.

Reviews Audit Report
During last evening's session, councilmen received report on an audit of the city's finance just completed by Charles H. Davis, Twin Falls auditor. The report was read and received and rejected all bids for painting the Blomquist street bridge over Rock creek; approved a $10,271.30 contract for the city's street sprinkling equipment roll, and authorized making of an assessment roll for collection of 33 cents each for spraying of 2070 trees. The audit report dealt with the city's $321,667 receipts from all sources, and $293,248 expenditures for all purposes during the fiscal year ending last May 1, and covered 11-financial operations in the office of the city clerk, city treasurer and police judge. The report complimented the handling of the city's financial affairs, in all departments, in reference to operations in the warehouse redemption fund it pointed out reflection of a "remarkable improvement in the financial affairs of the city," and asserted that the city officials should be "complimented on intelligent and accurate handling of the city's finances."

City Sprinkling Charges
Eight local improvement districts' accounts were closed during the year. Condition of district 34, the big street paving district, was declared to be the most serious from the standpoint of unpaid taxes and accounts receivable, which showed a $372 deficit, with a bonded debt totaling $72,291.44 at May 1.

The street sprinkling assessment roll approved by the council last evening represented a reduction of $688 under last year's roll on account of a 1-cent reduction from 8 to 7 cents per foot charged against property, earth or gravel streets. Some reduction also was made in the assessment against triangular lots on Hill street between Addison and Addison avenue. Painting of the Blomquist street bridge was put into the future when the council, on motion of Commissioner Sanderson, voted to reject all of the four bids, ranging from $844.11 to $1468 for the work, until to be supplied by the city. Council received proposals from a half dozen paint dealers in response to call for prices on paint for the proposed bridge painting job.

STORM VICTIM ESTATE ENTERS PROBATE COURT

While search continued yesterday for the body of Alvin E. Hies, 45, Dubl farm owner, drowned in a storm on Salmon river yesterday last Tuesday, Harry Weidlich, Twin Falls, on request of O. A. Hies, Toledo, a brother, petitioned the probate court here for appointment as administrator of the dead man's estate. The estate includes 60 acre farm, with $1200 annual rental value, furnished $1500 farm equipment—and approximately $3000 bank deposits, according to the petition. Alvin Hies was a bachelor. He is survived by his mother, five brothers and one sister, all residents of Ohio, except one brother who lives in Washington, District of Columbia. Petitioner is represented by E. L. Ashton, Twin Falls, attorney.

J. Cornell Finch, Twin Falls, son of Mrs. Minnie H. Finch, who met death in a motor accident in Millard county, Utah, May 31, has petitioned for appointment as administrator of his mother's estate which includes residence property at Dubl. There are two other heirs, a son, Marvin H. Finch, Corcoran, and daughter, Mrs. Julia Finch Ripley, Spokane. Porter and Williams are attorneys for the petitioner.

Bryan Glavin, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Marie Glavin Meyer, Hollister, who under the terms of the will of their father, the late Richard Glavin, who died at Santa Monica, California, June 7, yesterday petitioned the probate court for letters testamentary as executor and executrix of the will. The estate includes Salmon river project lands and other property of estimated value of more than $10,000. J. R. Rothwell and W. Orr Chapman are attorneys for the petitioners.

DISTURBANCE CHARGE GETS SHARP JAIL TERM

Howard D. Sharp, accused of attacking a young woman at a Dubl restaurant last Saturday night, pleaded guilty to a charge of disturbance of the peace when arraigned before Judge Guy L. Kinney in probate court here yesterday, and was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and pay $25 fine and $25 costs. The complaint was signed by Mabel L. Davis.

CIDER GETS MEXICAN WOMAN INTO TROUBLE

Erna Parra, Mexican, wife of Frank Parra, pleaded guilty in probate court here yesterday to a charge of illegal possession of a quantity of hard cider that officers reported finding at Parra's address reported on Second avenue south, Twin Falls. She was sentenced to pay $50 fine and $40 costs, on interpreter's fee being included in the cost bill, because she spoke no English. Dale Adcock, police officer, signed the complaint.

PETITIONERS SUGGEST CANYON BOUNDARY LINE

Rock Creek canyon would be the boundary between Kimberly independent and Shoshone school districts, under terms of petitions signed by residents of both districts and submitted to Twin Falls county commissioners yesterday.

The existing boundary line cuts across the canyon, which bears such a barrier that it has been the actual boundary so far as school attendance was concerned. Commissioners on July 10 will fix the line on the petition, and thereafter, if deemed practicable, the question will be submitted to vote of the electors of both districts. Each district would both gain and lose some territory under the proposed boundary-line change.

Commissioners convened yesterday as a board of equalization to receive complaints against assessments—on both real and personal property for the current year. This session will continue daily until the third Monday of July.
