WEATHER BENEFITS SOUTH IDAHO CROPS

United States Department of Agriculture Weather Bureau Summary

BOISE, July 2.—The weather generally favorable for crop growth—and in some places exceptionally rapid growth—was reported in the Southern Idaho district for the week ending Tuesday, June 30, by the United States department of agriculture weather bureau.

The summary follows: SOUTHWEST IDAHO—Adequate sunshine, abundant warmth and sufficient soil moisture made for excellent growing conditions in the principal irrigated districts of this section and all crops made rapid progress. Corn was especially benefited by the high temperatures that obtained during much of the week. Beans and potatoes are doing quite well and beets are making a fair showing. Wheat is well along and also oats and barley and in the earlier fields of these grains are beginning to turn.

An abundance of soft fruits is in the local markets. The sweet cherry harvest is at its height in the Zoned valley with a good crop of excellent quality being secured in fine condition. Weather conditions were entirely favorable for the seasonable field work. Hay cut rapidly and went into the stock in the best of condition. High range conditions excellent, but the low range is burning badly in many districts. However, range stock continues in good condition.

SOUTHEAST IDAHO—The week warm. A few scattered showers occurred. Harvesting of first grain alfalfa has been completed in some sections and is under way in others. Winter wheat is leading out and has begun to ripen in some sections. Potatoes are reported in good condition generally, but they are needing rain in the dry farm sections. Beets are making fair to good growth. Spring grains are fair to good. The rain is good, but dry and needing rain. Cattle are in good condition.

GRAVE-RESPONSIBILITY

It is not too much to say that the property of the world rests in large part upon the outcome of the negotiations with France relative to the latter's acceptance of the Hoover plan for a state suspension of debt payments.

The French are a stubborn people and are not to be blamed for their failure to forget the terms of settlement which ground a nation into the dust when the German will was imposed upon them following the Franco-Prussian war. But there was no question of world entanglements then. But two countries were concerned. Today an anxious world watches with keen interest for a decision which far outwipes in importance the outcome of those negotiations.

It appears incredible that France should be willing to accept the responsibility involved in a final adverse decision, or that the French people should consider for a moment facing the world in such a role. There can be no avoiding such responsibility. France alone has withheld her full and complete approval of the American proposition.

It seems altogether likely that some way will be found to bring the two warring nations into a compromise which is involved and the property, and in a remote sense, the peace of Europe, is at stake.

Responsibility for the failure of negotiations is one which should not be lightly accepted.

DONT FUSS

Charles K. Harwood of Upland, California, who has successfully and happily named his century mark, offers this recipe for long life:

"Don't be fussy, and be born in a long-lived family."

The latter condition is probably more essential than the former. The long-lived are usually the children of long-lived parents. But there isn't much one can do about that.

Refraining from fussing is usually within one's power. If not a native gift, it can be cultivated. Be calm. Take things easy. "Burn your own candles." Today, more than ever, nations, and more than their ancestors, need to do this.

REDWOODS

The California redwoods have been saved, not for California alone but for the whole country and for admiring visitors from anywhere in the world. Ten years or so ago it looked as if the redwoods were doomed to fall under the lumberman's ax. Then the public began to get excited about the matter.

Public-spirited men and women, East and West, club, the California State Park Commission, magazines, and even school children rallied to the cry of "Save the redwoods!" Funds were raised. Negotiations were conducted between certain state officials and the lumber company in-

Four Unheralded American Golfers Tie in Race For United States Open Title

TOLEDO, July 2.—Four dark horsemen of the American links, concerned by the intense interest in the United States Open, gathered in on Friday to establish a four-man tie for the lead in the United States open golf championship.

While the British leaders experienced a series of staggering mistakes, the American favorites struggled to survive the heat wave and stay within striking distance, the quartet of underdogs and unheralded competitors rode the fair ways to finish in a dead heat with Old Man par 71 each, for the first time in the history of the 72-hole championship chase.

The four leaders—Morris Davis, Henry Burr, and two others—were tied at 144 strokes, 18 holes short of the 180-hole mark. The American favorites, who had been in the lead since the start of the tournament, were now in a dead heat with the British leaders.

30,000 TOURISTS IN SINGLE MONTH VISIT TWIN FALLS

Travelers From 13 States
And Three Canadian Provinces Ask Information
At Association Bureau

About 6000 tourist cars from outside Idaho containing between 15,000 and 20,000 persons, passed through Twin Falls during the month of June as indicated by the statement made yesterday by W. M. Moon, branch manager of the Idaho Automobile association, who said that figures of all cars made inquiries at his office here and that on the average one driver in 10 makes such inquiries. Manager of tourist parks said that each tourist car contains from two to six persons, with an average of four or five.

Information asked at the office here was largely about road conditions or directions and points of interest around this city. Mr. Moon said: "It is stated as tourists park that the majority of them are from the west, earlier in the year, it is now turning about the average for the period about July 4. Mr. Moon declares that in his opinion peak travel will be between July 15 and August 10."

Regarding residents of travelers Mr. Moon said:

"Fourteen states in all have been represented by the tourists with the majority of them coming from Washington, Oregon, California, New York, Colorado, Illinois, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio, Nebraska, Texas, Maryland and North Carolina. With several parties from three provinces in Canada."

"In addition to road information," he continued, "most inquiries have been about the opening of the season in Shoshone Falls and Twin Falls, the Craters of the Moon, and the great play ground of Idaho, the Sawtooth National Forest."

"Tourist travel has been gradually increasing all the way through the season with the peak of the traveling season from about July 15 to August 20."

MOSCOW EXPERT GIVES CANNING INFORMATION

MOSCOW, July 2 (Special to The News)—Do not rush and fill all your available jars with the first crop of the summer, advises Miss Margaret Hewarth, state home demonstration leader. A better way is to estimate the amount of each product that the family will use during the winter, and adjust the canning program.

Four dollar quart jars of greens should be sufficient to last a family through the winter. If they are served twice a week, they are sufficient for four months, while 50 quarts of other vegetables should last. Miss Hewarth advises that the family should not can more than they can use.

Fruit requirements may be estimated by this same method—know the amount required for consumption, then multiply by the number of servings desired each month, and multiply this by the number of months before the same fruit is again on the market.

Little time spent in determining the family needs will eliminate that wait so frequently heard in the late winter, "I'm so tired of peaches" or plums, or whatever the family has in surplus.

"But do not, this must be stored," says Miss Hewarth. Carrots, cabbage, turnips, onions, berries and cauliflower up to the Easter season, all can be stored. As for winter, Idaho has so many products that the family need never feel that "tiredness" of certain foods. Cherries, strawberries, rhubarb, peaches, plums, prunes, and prunes are only a part of the wide variety of fruit available for canning.

Vegetables require more careful canning and should always be boiled 15 minutes after the cans are opened.
