Associated valuation of all irrigated lands on the Salmon project was reduced 30 per cent by order of the board of Twin Falls county commissioners at the convention of the board of Twin Falls county commissioners held yesterday afternoon and stated by James L. Barnes, Jr., chairman of the board, that the entire board membership sitting as a tax equalization board. This was in compliance with a petition presented by a delegation of settlers from the Salmon project two weeks ago. It places the valuation of irrigated lands on the project approximately where it was in 1921.

The board also voted a reduction of 10 per cent reduction in valuation on other irrigated lands, including business and residence lots and improvements thereon throughout the county. This reduction affects property within tax districts on the Salmon project.

They also considered the business depression existing generally in the state, and the fact that in other counties were reducing assessed valuations, in making the order for the general reduction.

LEADERS OF BRITAIN URGE DISARMAMENT

might by the cabinet was the appointment of a special "commissioner of disarmament," (Goretti) charged with the duty of preparing a report on the subject of disarmament, and other means of payment, including precious metals, in the interests of national safety.

The suitability of abandoning the gold standard and of placing all German deposits under international monopoly also was discussed by the cabinet.

The most pressing problem before the government, however, was to do Monday to Wednesday the cabinet members feared the public reaction to the official outflow of gold, which amounted to approximately $25,000,000, might result in a stampede away from the mark.

Hope that international banks would come to the aid of the short-term redemptory credit facility to carry the relief bank through next week at least, said the members of the British government met tonight.

The acceptance of international bank support at the price of what were termed political concessions to France, however, was vigorously opposed by Chamberlain, Lord Bessborough, and Foreign Minister Curzon. Whatever other differences of opinion may exist, the cabinet members are determined that Germany will not open the door to the form of "political dictation."

While considering measures to be taken by Monday morning, the cabinet members are determined to give definite assurance of help from abroad, the government has no time in advising Great Britain and the United States, through diplomatic channels, of the gravity of the situation. The conditions attached to the granting of the foreign loan, Dr. Brüning was said to have reported to the cabinet on his return from Paris, are:

1. Suspension of the program for building vest-pocket battle cruisers.
2. Abandonment of the proposed Anglo-German customs union.
3. Further credit restrictions in Germany.
4. Transference of measures to prevent the flight of capital.
5. Creation of a "League of the East" or in other words formal recognition for all time of a policy of regarding Danzig and the Danzig Corridor.

The first press comments on Dr. Brüning's return late tonight, with few exceptions, were characterized by an unusually bitter attitude toward France.

WILLIAM A. SUTTON

In the months that followed the money receded from his mother's pocket. To him it was a lesson in the value of money, and he learned to be frugal. He went by the nickname of "preacher" in the little town of Danvers, Georgia, where he was employed by his father, an ironing machine of logs and pine boughs.

Today young people, and especially boys, are his hobby. "In the past few years he has spoken in private to institutions from 25 states telling what he knows about children and how he appeals to them to bring out their best qualities."

He has made the Atlanta school, of which he has been superintendent, for seven years, since the school in the country, from the standpoint of health.

He has arranged for industrial plants and business houses to throw open their doors to the school children, so that they may inspect them and get some idea of what occupations they want to follow when they grow up.

Next evening at dusk 11 was playing alone the red clay road in the old family chair, bound for college.

The Women's American Legion Auxiliary will have a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. Lillian Brown, July 17.

Aliss and Hagen Tie For Honors In Canadian Tourney

British Professional Register 71 For Day's Playoff To Equal Old Master's 282 And Force Tied Playoff

(By The Associated Press)
TORONTO, Ontario, July 11.—Clipping four strokes from par on the last nine holes, Percy Aliss, British professional, tied for the lead in the Canadian open golf championship today to the old master, Walter Hagen, at 282 and a force tied playoff.

The playoff, at 30 holes, will be held Tuesday.

Hagen, whose pair of 66 had given him the lead at 30 holes, and who still was in front after 54 holes, followed on the last nine holes when he needed 74 for a grand total of 282.

Aliss, three strokes behind the leader at the start of the final 18-hole round, apparently shot himself out of the championship play on the first nine, when he used 39 strokes. At this stage of the game he trailed the leading players by six strokes, but the British pulled together at the end of the round and negated the final nine holes in 71 for a total that put him in a tie for the championship.

Farrell Thibault, who led at the start of the final 18-hole round, apparently shot himself out of the championship play on the first nine, when he used 39 strokes. # FEATURE FLASHES FROM FAR-FLUNG FOREIGN FIELDS

Sir John Simon Blazes Lone Trail Campus Honeymoon Soon Follows In Political Thickets Of England Wedding Of Young Royal Cousins

Nation's "Lone Wolf" Appears Nearest Thing to Politician Without Party

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 11.—Sir John Simon is fast becoming the lone wolf of English politics.

At the moment he is England's nearest thing to a man without a party, his recent election from the official liberal party organization accentuating the lone character of his role.

Technically, he is a Liberal, much in the fashion that certain United States senators are Republicans, but he doesn't wear labels any more gracefully than the insurgents at Washington.

That is about as far as the comparison goes, for Sir John's leanings are away from labor and the common people.

Still, Sir John's beliefs are such that it is not likely he would feel any more comfortable in the conservative party, and there isn't a chance he will ever be wearing the labor's badge.

Nevertheless, he commands much influence and is a man to be feared in politics.

Politicians have any way with facts, but not Sir John. He lives on them. Many a clever argument has been left in shambles after Sir John has pointed out its fallacy.

Besides being a member of parliament, he is one of the leading financiers of Great Britain, drawing fees that would roll up into six figures in American money.

Recently he has been sitting as arbitrator for concerns which wish to avoid litigation, reportedly for $1000 an hour. This after his work in the courts or house was done.

Probably he is the nation's leading inquirer. He always comes to be heading some probe and asking questions that no one else would.

In fact, he has been on so many commissions that the inclination is to name him "Sir John Simon Commission."

His father was a Congregational minister, and Sir John is only 48 years old now. He is an Oxford graduate, was president of the Oxford Union and was elected to the bar in 1900, when he was 22.

Is Officer In Air Corps

He was knighted before the war and in 1910 became solicitor general. He was a general from 1912 to 1915, with a place in the cabinet, and home secretary in 1915-16.

Through 1917 and 1918 he was a major with the royal air force in France.

His most recent incursion was into the R-101 disaster, but his major work in the last few years was the Simon report on India, and exhaustive examination of the Indian situation.

This complex report did not mean as much to John-Bull-in-the-Street, however, as his action during the general strike of 1926, which also throws some light on his political thought.

Is Cold In Public

Sir John broke the back of the general strike.

While other leaders hurled accusations at each other, Sir John asked questions of the law, and found the strike illegal, hence a revolutionary act. More than any other thing this brought about its collapse.

That he will ever become a great party leader seems doubtful. He won't run with the herd. He lacks warmth of the kind needed for that work, has a "frothy" public manner, although he is a most warm-hearted man in personal contacts.

His speaking voice is rather high, but his tone carries conviction and his sentences are phrased to the utmost clarity.

Slender man, balding, pink-faced, with a long, narrow head, and narrow shoulders, he has a trick of frowning his short-stemmed hair talks.

Zita Calls Council Of Hungarian Aristocrats

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARMA, Italy, July 11.—Europe is swelling with unbecoming interest the meeting of Hungarian legitimists which Ex-Empress Zita has called to be held near here in July.

She is trying to further the restoration of the Hapsburgs to the throne of Hungary through a marriage between her son, the 19-year-old Archduke Otto, and Princess Maria, 18-year-old daughter of Italy.

Zita will preside over the meeting in the Villa Della Pieve, her property, where she was born. Archduke Otto, it is believed, will come from his exile-home in Belgium.

There will be many new faces and younger sons taking the place of older brothers or fathers, for great changes have occurred in the Hungarian aristocracy since Emperor Francis Joseph plunged them into the war in 1914.

They will all be united, however, by the hope of seeing Otto, son of the late King Charles, great-nephew of Francis Joseph, on the throne of Hungary. This country is still a kingdom, but without a king, governed by a regent. As aristocrats they want a royal court in which to retire.

Italy, it is said here and in Rome, is in favor of the match between Otto and Maria—if Otto sits on the throne of Hungary, Hungary, according to the statements of Zita in Italy, is willing to have a king, especially if he comes with an Italian princess.

The legitimists will comprise representatives of most of the old Hungarian aristocratic families. Hungary and Italy have been on the box of terms in recent years, and Bethlen's and Mussolini's governments it is believed, favor a personal element in their political relations. Zita wants Italy to exert an active influence at once toward giving Otto the throne.

Other nations are reasonably well-taken for and against Otto's return, Rumania, Bulgaria and Austria will favor, according to information from Hungarian sources, but Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia will oppose. France is willing to be favorable, but Czechoslovakia, with whom France is on the friendly terms, is not so.

Meanwhile, if Otto comes to Zita's villa, he and Maria will get to know each other. The villa is only a short motor ride from Rome, where King Victor Emmanuel maintains his summer residence, and where Princess Maria is now sojourning.

Princess Beatrice of Spain And Don Alvaro Antonio d'Orleans Plan Quiet Rites

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

PARIS, July 11.—In a little private French hotel and in the halls of a Swiss university, Princess Beatrice of Spain and her second cousin, Don Alvaro Antonio d'Orleans, are preparing for their marriage this fall.

They will be wed quietly in a Paris pension and will have a campus honeymoon. Since the groom-to-be has two more years of study before he can get the degree in pre-natal engineering, which he is seeking.

The dark-eyed, dark-haired princess is the elder daughter of the exiled king of Spain, Alfonso XIII, the 22, one year the senior of her fiancé.

Don Alvaro, now a student in the Polytechnic Institute at Zurich, Switzerland, is the son of Don Alfonso, and of Princess Beatrice de Sajonia Coburg Gotha, sister of Queen Mother Marie of Rumania.

Both are great-grandchildren of Queen Isabella of Spain, who was herself expelled from the Spanish throne in 1808. Both are forbidden, as a result of the recent Spanish revolution, to enter the land which they rejoiced at their birth.

Both are favorites of the group of Spanish royalists who hope some day to see them return to the court of Madrid.

Their wedding, sans pomp or fanfare, will probably take place in October or November in the tiny chapel of the bride's trousseau.

Witness the ceremony. No plans have been made for the wedding or the bride's trousseau. Both are expected to be simple, even though the marriage of the daughter of a man, an American industrial king, the glittering jewels, robes and gilded banners.

Only a few Spanish royalists will witness the ceremony.

Princess Beatrice is fond of studies and much of her time is spent on the tennis courts, where her sturdy valleys bring applause from spectators.

Her fiancé, whose father was formerly chief of the Spanish royal air squadron and a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin's cruise to the United States and South America in 1929, is himself an accredited pilot and sportsman.

He pilots his own airplane, swims, rows, skis, golf and plays tennis with much vim. He visited the United States with his father in 1929.

Don Alvaro is continuing his work at Zurich, and the young couple expect to reside there next winter.

This shatters the hopes of several foreign concerns.

Princess Beatrice of Spain, the daughter of the exiled king of Spain, awaits her bride day in the Hotel Savoy at Fontainebleau, where her family has made temporary headquarters since the birth of the Spanish Republic. With her sister, Princess Maria Christina, she may often be seen strolling through the village shops—she carries her own packages three days—or walking in the "wood-surrounding" the hotel.

WOMAN DRAWS FINE AND JAIL SENTENCE

MANAGER IRON FINDS WATER SUPPLY AMPLE

"Water supply controlled by the Twin Falls Canal company is sufficient to furnish a run of 100 per cent from the present time until the close of the irrigation season," it was stated yesterday by John W. Iron, general manager.

Mr. Iron said that although it had been previously announced that no danger of shortage existed, a rumor had become current that a cut was in contemplation. He said that this idea was wholly unfounded.

And Junior Durkin in "Huckleberry Finn" the successor to "Tom Sawyer" and "The American Tragedy," with Philip Holmes and Sylvia Bidney.

LIBRARY SHOWS LARGE CIRCULATION INCREASE

Circulation of the Twin Falls public library for the month of June 1931, amounted to 924 volumes, an increase of 1500 volumes over the same month in 1930. It was announced yesterday by Miss Jessie Prater, librarian. During the month 115 new volumes were added, Miss Prater said.

Although summer is called the period for light reading, the last two months have disclosed that this is not the case with Twin Falls' workers here, she stated. Speaking of this matter she said:

"Suggestions are often made for so called 'summer reading,' carrying out the idea that summer reading would naturally be of a lighter vein than that read during the rest of the year. Contrary to this idea, there are many times reading done not vary with the season. There are some who because of more leisure time during a vacation season, do more serious reading."

"According to the record the last two months for the Twin Falls public library, there has been very little change in the proportion of fiction and non-fiction. The books of non-fiction most called for during the last two months have been 'Green Pastures' by the play by Mark Connelly; 'Humanity Uprooted,' the story of present day Russia, by Hindust; 'Story of Ben Mitchell,' the 'Autobiography of a Physician,' and 'The Education of a Princess,' by Princess Marie of Russia. The most read fiction have been 'Dependent Wreath,' by Cawfield; 'Years of Grace,' by Barnea, and 'Whirl of Desire,' by Deplaine.
