

MINISTER ACCEPTS CALL TO COLLEGE

Rev. James Miller Becomes Head of New Department at Caldwell Institution

Rev. James Miller, pastor of the Twin Falls Presbyterian church, has accepted an invitation to become head of a new department of Christian education at the College of Idaho, Caldwell, and will enter upon the new position next October 1. He has accepted the church session.

Selection of Mr. Miller's successor as pastor of the church here is to be held in the near future. During his return from Chicago where he is to spend next month in study at the Presbyterian ministry and the University of Chicago.

Mr. Miller served for two and a half years as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bull before coming to Twin Falls a year ago last March. He came to Twin Falls after serving churches in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Denver and Fort Collins, Colorado.

Mr. Miller's prediction for the work that he is to continue at the College of Idaho has been to be in the line of Christian education during the period of his ministry in Idaho, and besides serving as state secretary of the Idaho Presbyterian synod and director of the Idaho synod youth conference.

It is not without much sincere regret that Mr. Miller said last night that he was leaving Twin Falls to go to the new field, and to accept the call to leave Twin Falls to accept the call to the new field, and to accept the call to leave Twin Falls to accept the call to the new field.

Get Two Assistants

In his new position, Mr. Miller is to be assisted by two assistants, one in the line of Christian education, and the other in the line of Christian education.

LONDON CONFERENCE DECIDES ON PLAN TO STABILIZE GERMANY

The measures which probably will be taken will be sufficient to satisfy Germany's requirements. The German reaction tonight was the proposal to establish a World Bank for international settlements committee for studying the problem of both long and short term loans for Germany would probably fall short of the expectations of the German government.

Throughout the deliberations, France has steadily declined to participate in any scheme involving her granting new credits to Germany without adequate guarantees. The French do not underestimate the danger of a German resurgence, but they declare they are powerless to render assistance in the form of a long-term credit.

SUCCESS LOOMS

WASHINGTON, July 22 (AP)—Successful conclusion tomorrow of the London conference on Germany was predicted tonight by the state department in Washington. The conference is expected to reach a final agreement on the German situation.

The first two points of the recommendations provided for an extension of the $100,000,000 central and world bank credit and maintenance of level of private credit, combined with the American suggestion that the bank be reorganized.

The third point recommending appointment of a committee to consider the question of short-term loans combined with the American suggestion that such a committee be selected by the bank for international settlements or other authority.

Basbon Sees Hoover's Move For Arms Reduction As Constructive Step Toward Business Recovery

Statistician Cites Sums Being Spent for Armaments—Enormous Compared With Amounts Stipulated in Moratorium

By ROGER W. BASBON
The good results of the moratorium have not, by a continuation of heavy European armaments, it forcibly reminds Europe in cutting down arms expenditure. The president's move is well timed when nations are prosperous such as he and threatened with revolution there is more chance of success.

At least France, England, Italy and Japan approach the coming conference with a more humble and cooperative spirit than they showed at previous conferences. It takes hard times to bring nations, as well as individuals, to their senses, and Europe has certainly seen hard times.

Twin Falls Coal Dealers' New Credit Policy

Due to existing conditions, and the unwarranted abuse of credit accommodations extended, it has become necessary to formulate, and adhere to, a uniform Credit Policy to govern all retail coal sales in Twin Falls.

We realize that it would work a serious handicap to put coal on a strictly cash basis. We also realize that the cash buyer is entitled to a discount. We, therefore have adopted a Cash Discount and Time Limit Plan as follows:

1. On all prepared sizes, in retail quantities, 50c per ton discount, and on Slack, 25c per ton discount, will be granted if coal is paid for on date of delivery; if account is put on the books, no discount will be allowed.
2. All applications for credit, whether you have been trading with firm or not, must be cleared through the Credit Office before credit is granted.
3. One order of coal will be the Credit Limit of any customer; previous order must be paid before another order will be delivered. No one will be granted any credit from any of the undersigned firms, if customer owes any other firm for coal.
4. NO CREDIT WILL BE EXTENDED TO ANYONE WHO HAS NOT PAID LAST SEASON'S COAL ACCOUNTS IN FULL.
5. All accounts are due and must be paid not later than the 10th of the month following purchase.
6. The Twin Falls Credit Association will audit the Accounts receivable Ledgers of each and every one of the undersigned firms, on the 12th of each month. All accounts due, and not paid when audit is made, will be turned to the Credit Association for collection; this information will be available to all Association members and no further credit can be secured on coal until your record is cleared.
7. NO CREDIT WILL BE EXTENDED TO ANYONE WHO DOES NOT HAVE A SATISFACTORY RECORD ESTABLISHED WITH THE CREDIT ASSOCIATION.

By following the above policy, we will be able to reduce our cost of doing business, and pass this saving on to you in the form of a cash discount. We will be able to render better service, and both our patrons and ourselves will benefit.

The Credit Association will make its first audit on August first for all accounts due up to July first. If you owe any of the undersigned firms for coal bought previous to July first, it will be well to make satisfactory arrangements before that date and protect your credit.

We sincerely trust that we may have the cooperation of our respective customers in getting adjusted to our new policy.

NEIGHBORHOODS
A crew of about seventy volunteer workers spent the day Sunday in Howell creek canyon, improving a scenic route to camping and picnic grounds in the heart of the city.

The incident is reminiscent of early days in the Twin Falls country, when neighbors banded together to improve the land.

When the first bridge was built to span Rock creek canyon at the foot of Rhodone street, the cost was met by popular subscription.

Several hundred volunteer workers were called upon to help in the building of the bridge.

A DANGER SIGNAL

A little out of line with some recent comments on the German mortarium, but provoking thought, is the statement of Colonel Leonard A. Ayre, one of this country's foremost practical economists. Writing in the business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust company, he insists that the mortarium, while good in so far as it restores confidence, "does not constitute a remedy for the business difficulties of the world."

The mortarium, he argues, "is in reality an indirect recognition of international lending. Each of the creditor nations involved offers to lend to the debtor for one year the amount of interest and principal that would normally be paid in that time."

For several years there was much international lending of private funds, especially from this country. That held prices steady. Then our rising speculation absorbed so much credit that we actually stopped lending to the world's markets. Germany had to sell her goods abroad to get money to meet her reparation payments. She was obliged to sell at lower and lower prices. That carried prices down generally. Other nations, needing our goods and unable to pay for them in their own goods, had to send their gold to us. So we gained too much gold for the general good, or even our own good. It was the same with France.

Thus international trade and business and international debt payments have become of importance out of proportion to their size, says Ayre.

"The mortarium gives the nations an opportunity to stop, look and reason. It gives them an opportunity to reflect on the economic principles that in the long run, international payments, public and private, are made in goods and services, that the free flow of capital facilitates them, that tariff barriers hinder them, and that abnormal payments like those arising from war loans and reparations complicate them."

Which, of course, is not the same thing as saying that all tariff barriers ought to be removed, or that it is good policy to continue lending money to the world, but it may give them a little pause in paying the things we have in debt.

The colonist's statement is chiefly interesting and valuable in so far as it may tend to draw attention to

This time apparently for keeps, but not until the factory came practically a total loss.

The loss included considerable equipment and much grain used in the manufacture of the chips.

ROTARY CLUB GETS WALL STREET NEWS

Dudley Swim, Visitor From East's Ideas of Situation

"An insight into Wall Street's view of the causes of the continuing economic depression, German reparations and railroad finance was given to Twin Falls Rotarians by Dudley Swim, of New York City, who was a guest and addressed the club members at a breakfast meeting at luncheon yesterday. Mr. Swim, who is at home on a vacation visit, has been associated with three years past with the National Investors' corporation of New York City.

"It is not generally recognized," Mr. Swim said, "that an orgy of speculation in stocks has more than anything else, led directly to the present depression. Speculation had drained the world's credit. When speculators could count on 20 to 40 per cent profit on their investments in two or three months they did not hesitate to pay exorbitant interest rates. Broken loans advanced to $100,000,000,000, registering an increase of some 400 per cent over normal. The consequence was a stifling effect upon legitimate business, which had to pay the same rate on interest on money as did the speculator."

The East now is more cheerful about economic prospects than for some months past, Mr. Swim said. He termed the Eastern attitude in this regard as one of "cautious optimism." He recalled that there had been a relapse following Wall Street's prediction of improvement early in 1930. However, the German situation had cleared up, he said, Wall Street looks forward confidently to a moderate improvement in conditions generally this fall.

There is doubt on Wall Street, Mr. Swim said, whether Germany will ever pay reparations against to her. One factor depressing her is the amount of reparations she must pay. Some years have been a tremendous increase in the value of gold, with declining value of goods. This is regarded in some quarters as good reason for scaling down the reparations total.

Trading ramifications of interest involved in railroads' declining revenues, Mr. Swim pointed out, has led to the fact that bond issues coming due this fall and are controlled with refinancing problems. Wall Street, Mr. Swim said, is wondering how the railroads are going to meet the situation without increased financing.

Wide-Spread Campaign
Railroad bonds, Mr. Swim pointed out, are listed by law in many states as being eligible for investment of trust company and insurance company funds, so long as the bonds carry a preferred rating. If railroad securities fall to inferior ratings, they automatically are withdrawn from the eligible lists, and insurance companies and other fiduciary concerns will be compelled to dispose of them in great quantities. Hence, Mr. Swim pointed out, there is a wide-spread and earnest effort to save the railroad bonds, and pressure is being brought to bear in some unexpected quarters to support the carriers' application for freight rate revision upward.

Mr. Swim said that his own inquiry on the way bonds disclosed some favorable indications in the present economic situation. On both the New York Central and Union Pacific systems he said he was told that business had been picking up. On the latter system he was told eight extra freight cars had already been employed, whereas employment of extra cars normally was not necessary until August.

MOTOR STAGE SCHEDULE ADDS ONE MORE COACH

Expansion of Union Pacific motor stage system to take up slack caused by withdrawal of the Columbia Corp. system from the southern Idaho field will provide for three through stages passing through Twin Falls and the Salt Lake City-to-Pocatello division, according to plans received here yesterday. One of the through stages will replace the one stage operating between Twin Falls and Boise, which the Union Pacific will operate in addition to two through stage daily.

The new schedule now is in the "prudent" hands and probably will be given out early next week, it was learned here.

Repat George system offers in the Perrine hotel has not been closed, though the principle authority of the attendant in charge is in securing questionnaires that purchasers of round trip tickets over the Royal Corp. line will not lose, but that these tickets will be honored by the Royal Corp. system.
