IDAHOANS SALVAGE SURPLUS CROPS TO HELP UNEMPLOYED

Volunteers Gather Fruit of Central Washington and
Northern Part of Gem
State to Feed Hungry

(By The Associated Press.)
CORN VALLEY, Idaho, Sept. 1.—A number of the Pacific Northwest are being organized into salvage units to gather and preserve surplus crops and grains to feed hungry families of the unemployed this winter.

Peter Green, one-time millman who lost his fortune in the stock market—crash, conceived the idea when he saw thousands of bushels of apples and other fruits going to waste in the orchards of Central Washington.

Unemployed men from here picked several truck loads of apples and apricots in Washington and brought them here for canning. Trucks and lumber for the boxes were donated and orchardists permitted the "stripping" of trees after the picking season.

None of the men gathering the food received wages, but their efforts have secured food for hundreds of children who otherwise might be undernourished—or even hungry—during the winter.

R. J. Hansen, 65-year-old veteran of world wars, who has passed the wild marches of northern Siberia and the hot sands of Afghanistan, is Green's first lieutenant in Central Washington.

No Profit

"We are out to assure the kids of unemployed enough to eat this winter," Hansen said. "Not only that, we're going to organize this thing through the Central Empire. There isn't a cent of profit in it to anybody."

The organized world-wide surplus food drive has been the subject of how 11 carloads of beans, the surplus crop, had been gathered in Idaho and now one four-mile caravanserai offered to grind all wheat into flour without charge. Railroads haul the products, both finished and raw, free.

Hansen admitted that the plan had met opposition. "But there is a surplus of apples and apricots in Washington, and some other districts have a surplus of grain and beans, why should we trade off and help in solving our own problems?"

"We feel that we're helping the merchant by relieving him of the necessity of extending dubious credit to hungry county officials by lessening their relief works and decreasing discontent. When a farmer's surplus is full he's better off than about his troubles quite so much."

CHICAGO WELCOMES GERMAN AVIATORS

Captain Wolfgang von Gronau—Completes Journey
Over Northern Circle Route

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (AP)—Captain Wolfgang von Gronau, German trans-Atlantic flier, completed the first scientific flight between Germany and Chicago over the Northern circle route tonight.

Von Gronau brought his huge twin-motored flying boat, the Greenland Wal, down onto the tarmac of Lake Michigan off the loop at 6:10 P. M. Chicago daylight time, six hours and 10 minutes after he took off on the last leg of his pathfinding cruise from Long Lake, Ontario. Only a few hundred aviation enthusiasts and civic leaders witnessed the conclusion of the flight. News of the late-off reached Chicago late, and this probably held down the crowd.

The Greenland Wal was towed into custom collectors' docks to be put through the routine examination after which von Gronau and his crew, Co-Pilot E. Zimmer, Radio Operator F. Albrecht, and Mechanic P. Hark were taken to a hotel, where a formal reception awaited them.

The successful conclusion of the flight marked Captain von Gronau's second trip over the Northern route. Last year he flew from Germany to New York.

The flight finished today was begun August 8, from the island of Jütland, on the North Sea coast of Germany. Stops were made in Iceland, Greenland, and Canada for the purpose of studying weather conditions and gathering other data for possible establishment of regular air service between the Eastern and

Lehman, Beaver And Yates Tie For Golf Championship

Three Newcomers Play Superbly On Windy City Course

Each of Trio Finishes Day With 148 for Two-Day 36-Hole Test in United States Amateur Contest

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Three newcomers to such a level of golfing as the United States amateur championship today tied for the qualifying medal of the United States amateur championship.

They ranged from the super-heavyweight class as 135-pound Johnny Lehman, Chicago, ex-Western champion, started his brilliant comeback to the start Los Angeles youth, Charley Leary, 265-pounder, and 265-pounder Arthur (Ducky) Harrison with much alacrity, agents of the international links in the slippery going and passed abruptly out of the picture.

For the second straight year, the qualifying rounds were headed by the popular Harrison R. (Ducky) Leary, who has been pursued by a jinx ever since he captured his only national title at the U. S. Open in 1929. Number one man on this year's "red list," failed to break 80 in either round and finished with a total of six strokes above the border line.

The former champion carried his blimp playing partner, T. Philip Perkins, former title champion and runner-up, won an exhibition match to 1928 at Broadmoor. Perkins finished with 22-80 and the British thrust passed with him, Cyril Tooley, having previously himself completely out of the running with 85-87-187.

Alonso of the former champion of the French, Francis Clulow, finished with way up toward the front with 78-133, as Max Marston, Philadelphia, and "Chick" Bledsoe, Chicago, failed to qualify. Marston totaled 160, but Evans missed a four-foot putt on the green.

The struggle through the rain and the hazards for qualifying honors was close and exciting all day long as Jack Westland, Chicago, the first day's pace-setter at 71, battled into the hole, scoring to an 84 today and a total of 156.

Lehman's 70 was under par and the best round of the tournament, put him out in front with 148. Lehman's steady approach helped him register second place as he tied for 78-133.

Yates, Beaver and Gus Moreland, the 20-year-old Texan, all missed good chances to move ahead of Lehman on the last two holes. Moreland tied with Yates at 148. Yates, 19, finished with 78-133, tied for 148. Yates, 19, finished with 78-133, tied for 148.

SOIL IN 9000 YEARS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—Every 8000 years the rivers of the United States are believed to carry enough material to the sea to cover the entire country one foot thick. The United States coast and geologic survey estimates the material in suspension and solution in river water would equal that amount of water that time. Actually erosion is not uniform over the surface of the country.

At this rate of erosion a mile deep of material would be washed from the country's surface in 45,000 years.

VOTERS KEEP TWO MEN ON BOARD OF SCHOOL TRUSTEES

W. L. Sackett and L. J. Tencklinck Win in Uncontested Election; Usual Activity at Polls Lacking

W. L. Sackett, chairman of the board of trustees of the Twin Falls school district, received 50 votes as candidate for reelection yesterday.

L. J. Tencklinck, president of the board, received 48 votes. There were a few ballots with one name marked and a few scattered votes but no evidence of any contest. Both candidates were elected for full three year terms.

Mr. Sackett takes the place on the board left vacant by the expiration of the term of O. M. Allison, treasurer of the board who declined reelection because of ill health.

Other members of the board, L. A. Patrick, H. E. Graver and Judge O. A. Bailey.

The proposed passage of James, open only in case of conflict, was closed yesterday in the Twin Falls school district election for the first time in several years. Mrs. Slep, and the members of peace—closed—only—these members, while not accumulated to decide the right of suffrage, no record associated them to tell them how their ballots should be cast or what validity they depended on the manner in which they deposited their ballots in the urn.

Mr. Sackett and Mr. Tencklinck were the only two candidates and the voters were in deep thought, and said they were in deep thought or uncertainty.

There was only one ticket, no voters who thought of the matter went to the polls and said their ballots, and went home satisfied.

The amount of money independent school district Number 1 has lost for school purposes as a result of the decrease in property valuation.
