MONTEITH OBTAINS DELAY IN SENTENCE ON JURY'S VERDICT

Montpelier Salesman Found Guilty of Manslaughter in Connection With Boy's
Death, Postpones Sentence

O. E. Monteith, Montpelier salesman, found guilty of involuntary manslaughter at trial in district court here yesterday obtained 10 days delay for sentence which District Judge Adam B. Barclay pronounced, will be pronounced on Monday, October 5. Monteith retains his liberty under a continuing $5000 bail bond.

The verdict returned by the jury shortly before noon yesterday, following nearly 17 hours deliberations, recommended leniency for Monteith, finding him to be guilty of manslaughter as charged in the indictment and adding to this statement in the prepared verdict form the words, "caused by reckless driving."

The prosecuting attorney's information alleged Monteith struck and killed James Corbett, Taylor, 17-year-old Missouri boy, while driving recklessly and under the influence of intoxicating liquor, on the highway three and one-half miles east of Twin Falls the evening of May 6.

It seemed evident from the tenor of comment about the courthouse yesterday, that the jury had decided in favor of leniency to show that Monteith was under the influence of liquor, but held him to blame for the fatal accident because of reckless driving alone.

The verdict was signed by William Cunningham, judge at the house of the jury.

Trail in the case, which attracted wide attention, occupied three days of testimony, introduced testimony of nearly 20 witnesses including Rev. Henry Van Valkenburg, American Falls, former Kimberly Methodist minister and state representative; Superintendent of the Anti-Slavery League in Texas, the defendant's attorney, who had been driving the car in which Monteith attempted to overtake when he struck and fatally injured the Taylor boy, and the accident occurred almost in front of the minister's eyes.

Testimony in his own behalf on the last day of the trial, Monteith admitted buying whisky and beer at Ontario, Nevada, earlier in the day, but denied that he had been drinking. Two other witnesses testified in Monteith's behalf. One was John Stockman, Kimberly, who had accompanied him on the ill-fated trip, and the other was a Contact service station operator who said Monteith was not drunk in the afternoon of the day of the accident.

Monteith's wife and five-month-old baby boy and two little sons 7 and 8½ years old, were in the courtroom during most of the last two days of the trial.

Occupying chairs beside the state's attorneys were Mr. and Mrs. B. Taylor, parents of the dead boy, who came to Idaho a month after their son's death.

James Corbett Taylor left his home on a farm in the district area of Missouri last fall and worked for a time in Colorado before coming to Idaho. He had been employed at the R. V. Steiner farm, northwest of Kimberly only a few days, and was returning there from a visit to a neighboring farm in search of employment when the fatal accident occurred.

NON WINS LEGAL FIGHT FOR WATER

District Court Grants Restraining Order to Regulate Pump's Operation

William Non, won his six-month fight in district court in defense of his right to pump 140 inches of water from two australian wells on his farm near Mullanburg when District Judge W. A. Babcock yesterday ordered judgment entered for Non in a suit started last April 24 for a restraining order and for damages.

During the six-month interval, engineers under court order have made exhaustive studies and tests of artesian basin in question and the effect of pumping on the the and fall of water in wells that tap the basin. In support of his claim for $2000 damages, Non asserts that he lost the first crop of alfalfa crop and that he was unable to plant a 70-acre field of beans.

The restraining order which Judge Babcock granted to Non, specifically prohibited J. H. Stoner, owner of an adjoining farm and other persons interested in the premises, from operating in such manner as to interfere with the flow from Non's wells of a big pump installed at a well on the Stoner farm last spring.

Within an hour after the pump on the Stoner well was set in operation April 18, Non asserted, water in one well on the Non farm began falling and within 24 hours it had fallen so low it could not be pumped out. On May 24 the court ordered a halt in operation of the Stoner pump to determine the effect in the Non well, and it was reported that water in Non's well began to rise after reaching a level May 31 where it could be pumped out.

During the course of several hearings it was shown that the Non claim permit in December, 1922, and drilled two wells, and in May, 1928, was granted authorization to pump 140 inches of water from these wells. The Stoner wells, it was shown, were drilled in 1928 and 1929.

CHICAGO MAN ADVISES BAKER TO BUY WHEAT

A friend in Chicago who has been for many years identified with transactions in stocks and bonds advised W. A. Babcock yesterday that he was attending a three-day annual convention of the American Bakers' association, to buy wheat in sufficient quantity for at least one year's requirements. Babcock said on his return here yesterday.

The Chicago man, Mr. Smith said, was positive in his opinion that the price of wheat would show a marked advance within the next few months.

Urging this advice upon the Idaho man, the Chicagoan argued, "When I urged some of my friends to 'buy and hold' wheat before the slump came they seemed to think there was no top; now when I advise them to buy stocks of powder worth on the bar counter they seem to think there is no bottom."

SWIMMING POOL GAINS APPROVAL

Meeting at Elks Hall Endorses Idea and Refers Plan to Organizations

Twenty-five citizens including representatives of eight organizations of Twin Falls organized in the Elks hall last night by the action of John W. Graham, chairman, and Mrs. J. H. Barnes, secretary, and voted approval of a plan to secure, if possible, installation of a swimming pool in the Harmon Foundation field in this city.

Organizations represented included the Kiwanis club, the Rotary club, the Magicians club, the Twentieth Century club, the Business and Professional Women's club, the Elks club, the Twin Falls Ministerial association and the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce. No binding action was taken and those in attendance voted to lay the matter before their respective organizations and report back at another meeting in the Elks hall next Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Chairman Graham in outlining the idea suggested that probably large and material in the amount of from $1000 to $2000 could be secured this fall, if the sum of $2500 can be secured in a short time.

Judge O. P. Davis said he had been informed by John R. Ault, St. Anthony, state probation officer and former probation officer here, that 40 boys had been added to the state industrial school during the year, and that each of these would cost the state $200 on the average, or $19,200. He said $25,000 of adult criminals had been delinquent children and that 10 times as much is spent to convict criminals as to prevent delinquency. He expressed the view that a swimming pool would be a preventive of delinquency.

Ernest White contractor offered use of form and concrete equipment and expressed the opinion that a number of carpenters would volunteer to build frames. Rev. Glen Hutton, pastor of the First Christian church, who represented the Ministerial association in behalf of Rev. H. B. Will, president, said that on the Thursday in October he would speak on the value of proper play in religion in the evening, and would speak specifically on the proposed swimming pool.

Mayor R. E. Bobler gave general approval, but suggested further investigation and inquiry into the legal phases involved. John B. Robinson urged the starting of the fund this fall even should it prove impossible to raise the sum desired.

F. C. Shennberger, Twin Falls lawyer, suggested that the cooperation of school children might be enlisted in the plan.
