Idahoan Disapproves Proposal for Prohibition Referendum and Talks of Taxes and World Court Question

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Senator Borah thinks that the country is in a quit worrying about money if it will cut expenditures and then raise income taxes. Upon his return to the capital today, the Idaho Republican, who is one of the leading members of the group holding the balance of power in the new congress, said he thought these steps should be taken to save the budget. He also spoke his views on other issues before influential newsmen.

His cast aside proposals for beer and a prohibition referendum as "a quack remedy" for the "war" and "dry" controversy he said the sole question is to let the American people get out of the depression.

He is ready to vote for abolition of the farm board unless it changes its policy. He believes movements will be renewed for the export of surplus commodities and he is inclined to think Secretary Hyde is right in saying these cannot be passed over President Hoover's veto.

On the presidency he maintained smiling silence. Politics he didn't care to discuss publicly.

He will give prompt right-of-way to the world court question before the foreign relations committee of which he is chairman and of the floor he will fight against American adherence to the court.

"I am not in a position to say whether we will support the proposition on balancing the budget, and he believed 'we' would spend nearly as much as we do."

"Though the momentum on war debts and reparations would be rattled by the senate in three or four days."

"If the states and cities have to raise funds for unemployment relief he thinks the federal government should do its share. He believes income taxes should pay half of the cost of the war debts levied by the states and cities."

LATTER DAY SAINTS URGE AID OF NEEDY

Relief Society Ends Semi-Annual Conference With Appeal for Self-Denial

BALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Latter Day Saints church closed today with an appeal from its general president, Mrs. J. W. Brown, that members share with their neighbors so that no one will go cold and hungry this winter.

"In most homes, even in these unusual times," she said, "there are certain articles of food and clothing which can be spared for those less fortunate. When you return to your homes, be sure if you can't find the surplus, give to the poor; not just cash, but something really serviceable."

Joseph Fielding Smith of the Council of Twelve Apostles discussed the proper rearing of children, declared many children are wayward because of the destroyed confidence in their parents, and for this reason it is vital that parents lead exemplary lives and make prompt and example of their children.

He urged that parents maintain an attitude of prayer in the homes, exercise careful supervision over the kind of associations their children keep, and books they read and the music they hear.

The day's activities included addresses by members of the church and reports by members of the Relief Society.

The One hundred second semi-annual conference of the church will open tomorrow. Nearly 13,000 persons are expected to be in the city to attend the sessions, which will be opened in the tabernacle by President J. W. Brown.

BANK EXECUTIVES ANNOUNCE SCHEME FOR HUGE MERGER

Heads of Two Institutions Reveal Plan to Join Bank of America With National City to Effect Giant Unit

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A plan of consolidation of the Bank of America with the National City bank, announced today by the Transamerica Corporation, which is operating the Chase National bank, largest in the world, in total resources was announced by heads of the two institutions.

It was explained that the plan was in conformity with a program announced last week by the Transamerica Corporation, which holds a 63 per cent interest in the Bank of America, under which Transamerica proposed to disintegrate the controlling interest in the bank.

The bank of America, which on Jan. 30 reported assets of $233,000,137, has been the second most important unit in the Transamerica Corporation, group of companies, which has been reorganizing the bank into a holding company for the properties assembled by A. P. Giannini, California, and J. W. Brown, Idahoan, who are the chairman, said that there was no plan under consideration at this time for disposition of control of that institution.

The bank of America is only about one-sixth the size of the National City bank, which has reported assets of $1,272,140,826. It has 35 branches in New York City, which will substantially augment the National City system now comprising 41 branches.

To Exchange Stocks

The plan contemplates the exchange of National City stock for Bank of America stock, on the basis of one share of the former for 1-2-3 of the latter, so that Transamerica Corporation will become an important minority stockholder in the National City.

Transamerica holds 63 per cent of Bank of America stock, on the basis of one share of the former for 1-2-3 of the latter, so that Transamerica Corporation will become an important minority stockholder in the National City.

Both the Bank of America and National City are American banks. Both were founded in 1912. National City from time to time has absorbed other New York City banks. In several years was the largest bank in the United States.

GIANNINI COMMENTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Regarding the Bank of America, New York City bank merger, J. W. Brown, New York City, A. P. Giannini, Transamerica financial and founder of Transamerica Corporation, which holds its holdings in the New York City bank, declared tonight he could not comment authoritatively.

"I am only superficially informed," he said, regarding the asset values of the institutions involved. "It seems appropriate, however, to say emphatically that, because of the circumstances I have just mentioned, approved or disapproved the merger."

"I can only hope that stockholders of Transamerica Corporation will be given a vote with regard to the ultimate disposition by Transamerica, if any, of its holdings in the National City bank."

The financier said he would exert his best efforts to see that such a vote of approval was followed. He pointed out that the Association of Transamerica Bankholders, an association formed to uphold rights of stockholders in the corporation, had requested first right of purchase of the Bank of America of New York City bank, which is a stockholder, or a similar request on stock of any institution with which it might merge.

The association has also asked for "insurance" against the security companies, connected with each of the banks will be disposed of, and the association is responsible for the advantage of Transamerica stockholders.

SLAYER CONFESSES DEED

PORTLAND, Oct. 1 (AP)—Police detectives announced today that Raymond Harry, 28, had confessed he shot and killed Walter W. Lewis, 35, of Portland, Ore., on Monday night. Lewis was shot to death after he had stopped a stolen car.

Harry and Ernest Newell were arrested last night in connection with the killing. Newell involved himself, said Harry.

SELF-HELP POLICY GUIDES MULTITUDE IN WINTER MONTHS

Announcement of 10 States' Governors Accompanies Relief Workers' Plan to Promote Shorter Hours

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—One-third of the American people today stood pledged by 10 state governors to a self-help doctrine in tackling winter relief problems.

President Hoover announced Missouri now was aligned with nine sister states that "have indicated their ability to undertake their own problem." The total population exceeding 10,000,000 persons.

"The plan," said the president's relief organization, planned to promote the policy of shorter working hours to spread available employment.

This program of rotating workers to give a maximum of jobs was expected to be the major recommendation of the business representatives meeting tomorrow with directors of the National Industrial Conference of Commerce to discuss national economic problems.

The president was informed today that the Chemical industry is putting a six-hour day into effect. W. D. Huntington, Baltimore, chairman of the National Industrial Conference of Commerce, said that the trend toward work cuts, joined today by such industrial leaders as the United States Steel corporation, was discussed by Wheeler's group at his Chicago meeting earlier this week and formally brought up for consideration.

Instead, the committee recommended that all work now available be equitably distributed among those normally employed by each unit of the various industries.

The action was endorsed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, committee member and an outstanding opponent of pay reduction.

Ernest Newell's announcement of Missouri's participation was made upon receipt of a letter from Governor Henry B. Canfield. It said the entire state would be a vigorous effort to enable Missouri and Missouri communities to take care of their own citizens this winter.

Mr. Hoover said Rhode Island, Indiana, Missouri, Connecticut, Illinois, New Jersey, New York, Virginia and Delaware have taken a similar position.

DEMOCRATS SEEM TO BE DIVIDED ON RELIEF

Most of Fireworks in Seventy-Second Session Comes From Independents

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—All portraits indicate the session of the seventy-second congress opening in December will be the most turbulent and "frenzied" since the World war period.

Political fireworks touched off by two big issues—unemployment relief and aid for agriculture—will flare against a background of a black backdrop of business depression.

Republicans also will be "Miss 1932" as spokesmen for both Republican and Democratic spokesmen.

In the face of repeated indications of administration opposition to direct federal aid for the unemployed—the so-called "cotton" bill—legislators, insurgent Republicans and Democrats, have said they plan to make governmental relief for the jobless primary business in the coming session.

The independent Republican faction, adopting a slogan of Senator Hiram Johnson of California, "America-First," is expected to take the lead in the fight for emergency federal appropriations to relieve distress.

Democrats in congress, political observers say, probably will be divided on the relief issue.

Sharing the headline position with jobless relief is expected to be the agricultural situation.

Plans already are shaping for revising the agricultural marketing act with considerable farm thought being given to the question of the old McNary-Haugen bill or the extension of the McNary-Haugen bill.

Legislative proposals in some quarters have gone so far as to suggest abolition of the farm board. Coincidentally with the latter some members of congress have proposed turning over to the farm board all or part of the functions of the federal farm loan board.

Middle Western and Southern members of congress, have suggested granting a moratorium on land indebtedness to farmers borrowing in the federal farm loan system.

The question of tax revision, looking particularly to a lowering of the levy on farm lands and to raising estate and possibly income taxes in the higher brackets, is regarded as almost certain to come to the "hot" discussion.

Misleading enactment of such legislation, however, is the treasury deficit and the "political dynamite" always seen in a tax increase on the eve of a presidential campaign.

Observers here report the development of a strong and widespread movement among business men for revision or modification of the anti-trust laws so that economies may be effected by mergers and wasteful methods of production and distribution curtailed.

The railroads already are seeking government approval of plans for merging and some bituminous mine operators are urging removal of the consolidation—restricting

HIGHWAY WORKMEN FIND BONES OF YOUNG CHILD IN VICINITY OF BURLEY

BURLEY, Oct. 1 (Special to The News)—Bones of a child, five or six years of age, have been dug up by workmen near Spring creek where the newly routed Oregon trail highway is being graded. They were brought to town and turned over to Coroner D. E. Johnson, who will bury them in the Burley cemetery.

Three bones were found close to where the skeleton of an older child was discovered about three years ago. Old, deeply worn robes were covered with emigrants' times pass close to the place where the skeletons were unearthed, and it is surmised that was once a desert graveyard here, near water where thousands of camps were pitched.

Coroner Johnson believes the bones have been in the ground close to 75 years. Where the former skeleton was brought to the surface, the rotted stump of an old doubletree was found, believed to have been a hastily improvised tombstone set there to mark the grave of some young boy who died on the journey to the gold fields of California.

Old-timers say that in early days the mass of many graves could be seen near Spring creek. Another spot where a sort of cemetery was established was at the lower crossing of Raft river where the California cutoff started to pass up Raft river valley.

clauses of the Sherman anti-trust law. What attempts will be made to revise the tariff remain to be seen. The Democrats, who have concentrated a heavy fire on the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, have not yet formulated a legislative program. Some Democratic legislators, however, have threatened a move for downward revision. The world court and debt moratorium are other subjects scheduled to come up in the forthcoming session.

Most of the fireworks in the new congress are expected to be provided by the Independents.

The regular Republicans and Democrats will have to restrain influence of "watching their step" to avoid being bogged down for the 1932 race.

AUTUMN WEATHER PREVAILS IN WEEK

Scattered Rains and Final Harvesting Work-Force In Summary From Bureau

BOISE, Oct. 1 (Special to The News)—Scattered rains and the final harvesting season featured in the weekly summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho. In the report of the United States department of agriculture, weather bureau, for the week ending Tuesday, September 29, issued here today, the report of the South Idaho district follows:

SOUTHWEST IDAHO—The week opened with fairly copious rains well distributed over this district. The rains were followed by clearing and cool weather with frosts in exposed places. However, the latter half of the week was mild. The rains were beneficial to pastures and ranges and helped put soil in better shape for fall plowing. Staple crops are all matured and the work of harvesting and hauling the grain and stock is under way. A large crop of excellent quality on the trees. Because of unfavorable market conditions, a considerable quantity of the early varieties will not be gathered. Potato digging, bean hulling, clover and alfalfa haying, and the filling of silos are to the fore.

SOUTHEAST IDAHO—The first of the week was mild with moderate rains. The rains were beneficial to fall ranges and winter wheat. Potato digging is general with heavy shipments. Beans are fair to good. Broilers helped in some sections by rains. Harvesting of third crop alfalfa is progressing in most sections. Light frosts occurred the middle of the week, but did no damage. Cattle and sheep are in good condition. The shipment of lambs continues.

Notes From The Field
RUPERT, MINIDOKA COUNTY—Growing crops nearly all matured. Third cutting hay practically all up. Beans all harvested and threshing under way. Potato harvest well started. Some of crop being marketed.

BURLEY, CASSI COUNTY—Rather cold, stormy week. Improving somewhat toward close. Third crop alfalfa, clover seed, and bean crops all harvested. Crops all matured. Water still in canals.

WENDELL, GOODING COUNTY—Everything going fine. Third cutting hay up; bean threshing and silage making well advanced. Fruit picking in full swing; light showers followed by high winds and light frosts brought cool weather.

BUHL, TWIN FALLS COUNTY—Showers middle of week stopped bean hulling and haying for a few days. These activities were again resumed near close of week. No frost damage; bean yield less than last year; third cutting hay good; most silos filled.

ALBION, CASSIA COUNTY—A typical fall week; very windy first two days with light frost at night; still too dry to spread with need; most moisture badly needed to improve ranges and allow normal farm work to continue.

BUREAU REPORTS ON IDAHO EMPLOYMENT

Seasonal Farm-Work Only Slightly Helps Provide Labor For Job-Hunters

BOISE, Oct. 1 (Special to The News)—Seasonal agricultural activity only slightly helped relieve the unemployment situation in Idaho during the last month, according to the summary of the local United States department of labor employment service report.

The synopsis of Idaho conditions follows: The continuation of fires in the forest areas of Idaho provided temporary employment for over 4000 men and this emergency employment will extend into September. The lumber mills worked near time and several were closed. Many of the metal mines were closed; however, a few of those in operation worked on a five-day-week basis. Road construction at a cost of over $2,830,000 continued to employ a large number of men. A general survey early in the month showed that the state there was very little demand for farm help in any of the agricultural sections of the state.

The club prize was won by Mrs. M. O. Conover and guest prize by Mrs. Riley.

The Blue Lakes Boulevard Club and seed peas. The sorting and sacking of seed peas will start in the warehouse area in September providing work for approximately 1400 people, principally women. The best sugar factories and potato warehouses reopened in preparation for fall operations.

COEUR D'ALENE—Metal mining continued below normal and some unemployment was apparent among these workers. Zinc plant at Wallace curtailed operations to one-half capacity, reducing 80 men. The lumber mills operated on a five-day-week, one-shift basis. Instead of three shifts, which is a reduction in the volume of employment in these establishments of about 1000 men. The surplus of labor apparent included farm help. Approximately 2000 men were engaged in the fighting of forest fires.

IDAHO FALLS—The surplus of labor reported throughout August consisted of transient workers. The transient supply of labor was fairly well employed in the hay fields and in the harvesting and threshing of grain.

The program for the afternoon consisted of a talk on the subject, "Echoes of the Fifteenth General Convention of the Church Now in Session in Denver," by Rev. Allman. Mrs. C. E. Lore, Buhl, was a guest of the Guild. A pleasant social time was enjoyed and the hostesses served refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Lester M. Powell and Mrs. Harry North.

Nearly two hundred fifty friends and neighbors joined Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Schiede, Twin Falls, in celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary at services commencing the event followed by an informal reception at Immanuel Lutheran Church last evening. Services were conducted in the mother tongue of the honored guests. The Rev. M. H. Zagel delivered the address, taking for his text the first verse of the One Hundred Eighty-third Psalm, "O give thanks unto the Lord for He is good, for His mercy endureth forever," speaking first in German and then translating the substance of the address into English. The choir sang "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, the King of Creation."

It is almost impossible to keep bulk-roasted coffee from varying in flavor. For in roasting, it is difficult to roast each batch alike. One lot may be slightly overdone, another a little underdone. Naturally, they each have a different flavor.

Hills Bros. discarded the bulk method for a process they invented and patented. It is called Controlled Roasting, and the result is positively controlled! Variation is overcome. Every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee has the same rich, full-bodied flavor. As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow of sand, so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by their patented process that results evenly, consistently a little at a time. No other process is like it. That's why Hills Bros. Coffee has a flavor no other coffee has.

Hills Bros. pack their coffee in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

"Gingling of old time familiar melodies was an enjoyable feature of the reception in the club parlors following the services. Services and reception were given under auspices of the Lutheran Ladies Aid Society, of which Mrs. Schiede has been a member for many years. The society gave to Mr. and Mrs. Schiede a chair and a rug. Mrs. Schiede has been resident of Twin Falls for fifteen years past. Clash Of Arctic And Warm Trade Winds Forms Hurricane

STORMS RISE FROM "MIXING BOWL" IN WEST INDIAN AREA

Disturbances Coming From South Really Get Part of Origin From Far North

FRICITION OF CURRENTS STARTS AIR'S SPINNING

Whirl Reaches Velocities of More Than 100 Miles An Hour in Central Part

The hurricanes that come from the South really had part of their beginning at the north pole. The diagram shows a cold spot from the North coming down and contacting the trades winds that blow from South America toward Europe. This spins the air between around and around, faster and faster.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Salmonmen and weathermen agree that all the West Indian hurricanes come from far south toward the equator—but really they come from the north pole.

The storm which wrecked Belize, British Honduras, came from the South and East. But before that something unseen moved down from the North to give birth to this hurricane.

This real source of trouble down from the Arctic circle lies in the summer in the form of air, the possible pool of cold air.

These pools may be as big as France, or even expansive enough to envelop most of the eastern United States.

They are the beginning of winter's southward march. The first advance armies of cold that move far into the area of warm summer winds.

When cold comes far enough south, it encounters the warm south-east trades, blowing from over the shoulder of South America in the direction of Europe.

The trades are like a great bridge, the wind direction, always northeastward.

But the high is whirling clockwise, so that the winds on its southern edge blow opposite to the direction of the trades.

The cold teeth of the "high" tend to bite into the bridge like a buzz saw.

Sometimes the result is to form a narrow path between the "high" and the "trough," a path in which the cold air of the north side is moving in the opposite direction from the warm air on the south side.

Then the air in this narrow path is spun round like a roller bearing. It whirls faster and faster, always in a compact area.

The whirl is fed—accelerated—by the energies of cold, heavy air to the north and those of the lighter but warmer air on the south.

The whirl becomes the mixing bowl of these two great sources of natural energy.

Like Elv's "Mixing Bowl"

This mixing bowl is peculiar in that its central spin is faster than that of its edges. The whirl near the center is always around 100 miles an hour.

For days this spin keeps its shape as if confined in a real bowl, and it moves forward along a somewhat irregular course, a full-fledged hurricane.

When the course of all these West Indian hurricanes are averaged, they seem to come from far West in the Atlantic or Caribbean, and to sweep northeast in a wide curve that bends toward Central America and Mexico and the United States before it finally heads for Greenland.

But all that is simply the return of the hurricane, the point back home of some of the soldiers in the still advance guard which swept so slowly and recently from the north.

This southward movement of the cold high in the fall explains why the hurricane season is confined to the last quarter of the year in the West Indies.

Moscow Students Defy Depression In New Portable Furnished House

(Special to The News)

MOSCOW, Oct. 1.—A completely furnished house, built on an automobile chassis and towed behind their car, the University of Idaho, solved the "depression" phase of higher education this fall for the students of Moscow, Idaho.

Contrived by the problem of reducing expenses or staying out of college this year, the brothers solved the problem by taking their living quarters along. Squatter rights, privileges granted by university authority, eliminate the item of room rent, and "bachelors" reduce their cost to a minimum. Years of outdoor life in the mountainous Boise basin country have made them both good cooks.

The brothers arrived on the campus after 23 hours continuous driving and nonstoply unloaded their house on a corner of the forest nursery tract near the campus. The 2000-pound trailer made necessary for them to take the Blue mountain route through Oregon, via Grande and Pendleton, rather than the direct route north and south highway. A light coach furnished their motive power.

Their house has only one touch of the "collegiate," a neatly lettered sign, "Depression Special," nailed to the door. Their house is a carefully planned and workmanlike, and is amazingly cozy. It is 10 feet long by 6 feet wide, and inside with building board. A double floor, the air space packed with sawdust, furnished the warm.

A built-in bunk, provided with a blanket, takes up the first "special," leaving ample space underneath for clothing, books and supplies. Other furnishings are simple—a small wood stove-table, two chairs and a few new cabinets and shelves. Ideal for the house, cost the brothers $10.

Clement March, the elder of the resourceful pair, registered at the school in the school of mines. Maurice is a sophomore in the school of forestry. Both are graduates of Caldwell high school. Several years ago they spent a winter trapping in the Bear Valley country, and another winter working for the United States geological survey, reading stream gauges which supplied water run-off data used in planning the present dam. They now located a round trip of 200 miles once a week over extremely rough, and snow-covered country, using snowshoes and a team of seven dogs.

Last summer Maurice was a smoke chaser on the Sawtooth national forest. Clement drove a supply truck during the big Boise Basin fire which was finally stopped only miles from their house. The fire was at its worst, he had to make several trips a day along a winding river, and was finally killed by the flames. He was just a junior, and the tragedy was particularly bitter, when his truck was loaded with eight barrels of gasoline.

WASHINGTON PLANS FOR LAVAL'S VISIT

Plain, Old-Fashioned Visiting Marks Arrangements of American Dignitaries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Just begun old-fashioned visiting, where neighborhood conversation finds its own spontaneous channels and takes its time, will mark the dominant note of the coming visit of Pierre Laval, the French premier, to Washington.

Of course the talk is bound to run to such topics as peace, disarmament, and world economics, but the stuff of formal diplomatic sessions setting out what may be discussed, is included in the program of arrangements now under negotiation in Paris.

President Hoover and Secretary Stimson want to get better acquainted with the visitor and his problems and purposes, above all else; they look forward to the event with the "heartiest" interest, and the "usual" widely-advertised "heart-to-heart" talks among statesmen will be replaced by a new man to international politics. At home he has made his way politically on domestic issues, and it is a generation of young leaders American statesmen want to see on terms of personal, friendly understanding.
