British Crisis Turns World's Spotlight On Gold Problem

DEMAND GROWS FOR WORLD CONFERENCE ON YELLOW METAL

Britons See Need for Re-distribution of Surplus Stored in Vaults of United States and France

By J. L. BRACKETT
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Gold, that yellow metal for which men coveted dramatically to death in more romantic days, has indeed become a thing of economics—a metal of quandary and paradox.

Some British financiers have proposed an international

This chart graphically shows how the holdings of gold in United States and France tower over the amount in England and other countries.

at conference to consider the re-distribution of gold, now so largely held by France and the United States, and for which England has such a great need.

Just how the metal, which stands for goods and credits, can be distributed is not explained, but the desire for an international conference does indicate the quandary and the paradox.

The paradox that stands out most sharply is the fact that the United States were required to pay her two international credits of $650,000,000 in gold the world has barely enough of the metal to do it, let alone have enough reserve to back her currency.

International bankers say England need have no fear: that these credits will be extended or otherwise settled.

England has a net wealth of about $90,000,000,000. Obviously a little thing like $650,000,000 isn't a critical worry in the long run. This is the money paradox that exists throughout the gold nations of the world. If all the dollars in paper that every citizen now holds were suddenly presented to all the world's banks in exchange for gold, those banks could not make payment.

The paper money is legally backed by gold reserve varying from 20 to 40 per cent. in the countries. The balance of the backing is credit—which is to say faith.

The nations of the world have great confidence in the United States. They have therefore placed their gold in our vaults so that we have more than two-fifths of the world's supply of monetary metal; France has a fifth; 15 nations control 90 per cent of the total supply.

The United States also became the world's creditor and drew the gold in payment of these international obligations.

If the gold reserve now held here were the issuance of the currency, many billions of dollars could be placed in circulation, granting there was a business demand for them. We have more gold than we want; and gold which England wants badly.

Some economists hold that the maintenance of a gold standard is a barbaric practice. They urge a paper money, based on commodities and managed by a central authority.

But people want goods to use primarily and not money to look at, this, of course, entails a reorganization of international finance—a difficult job.

Something of the sort may become necessary because many mining engineers believe the world's supply of gold soon will be inadequate for legal reserve requirements.

That is part of the quandary. Is gold necessary? England has plenty of wealth. Why does she have to worry about a yellow metal that, in real life, is virtually valueless?

BURLEY IRRIGATION DIRECTORS CONVEENE

Board Awaits Word on Total of Power Profits to Be Applied to Meet Charges

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Burley Irrigation district directors met Tuesday afternoon, settling the project construction agreement for this year. The meeting was made annually for the purpose of repaying the government the cost of the Minidoka Irrigation project.

Directors decided to wait, before filing the assessment, until the secretary of the interior advised as to the amount of power profits to be allocated to the credit of the Minidoka and Burley irrigation districts.

A declaration of power profits has been requested by the district, but reply has been deferred by the secretary. These power profits have accounted for a two-year period, pending litigation between the two districts of a controversy as to the proper division of these profits between the districts.

It is understood that a sufficient sum is now retained by the secretary of the interior to pay all costs of the annual enlargement of the pumping system canals now due and payable as well as the total construction charges assessed to the pumping project for the present year.

DEPARTMENT AT BURLEY URGES FIRE PREVENTION

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Fire Chief H. E. Canine, Burley, is calling attention to certain preventable causes of fires, during Fire Prevention week, by means of posters and newspaper notices.

In the daily prevention of fires, the most common causes of electricity, spontaneous combustion, lightning, sparks from machinery or the use of open flames, and the accumulation of rubbish are the most common.

Among wholly preventable causes of fires he mentioned: the use of defective chimneys and flues; defects in stoves, furnaces, boilers and their pipes; unattended smoking; the use of candles, kerosene lamps, open flames, and hot stoves and coals placed in inadequate containers; open flames; the use of gas, kerosene, and kerosene; the use of gas, kerosene, and kerosene; the use of gas, kerosene, and kerosene.

Shows were being shown in the picture houses here calling attention to fire prevention week, and placards are being exhibited on moving vehicles.

RESIDENTS OF SHOSHONE ASSEMBLE FOR SOCIALS

SHOSHONE, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Social events here this week included the following: Mrs. William E. Bagg entertained the Tuesday Bridge club Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Ruby Morton was hostess of the club. High prizes went to Mrs. B. O. Lane and to Mrs. Elizabeth White. High guest prize was won by Mrs. Morton.

Chapter V of the local P. O. E. entertained at a 7 o'clock dinner Monday evening at the home of Mrs. E. E. Barrett in honor of Mrs. Dice, who has recently moved to Nampa. A short business meeting was held and Mrs. Dice was presented with a gift.

The Episcopal Guild met today at the home of Mrs. C. H. Spencer. Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Allmar, of Twin Falls, were out-of-town guests. A short business meeting was held.

KIMBERLY BOY HURT
KIMBERLY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—The Oct. 8, election of Mr. and Mrs. Pay Cox, is suffering with a broken arm caused by a fall while playing football with playmates on the lawn at his home.

CARELESSNESS CUTS PROFIT
AMES, Iowa (AP)—Infrequent gathering and under cooling are estimated to have cost farmers in one Iowa county a loss of $1000 in one week on four carloads of eggs when they graded low quality.

Cost 85 Cents to Put Rheumatic Cripple Back to Work Again
Now Joyously Hopped
While all his family looked on in amazement and all his friends were amazed, one man took all the pain, swelling and agony from his tortured joints in 48 hours and did it with that famous rheumatic prescription known to pharmacists as Albers'—just do the same.

This powerful yet safe remedy is positively guaranteed to do this—its action is almost magical. Just get one 85 cent bottle of Albers from Mayfield Pharmacy or any live drugstore—take it as directed and in 48 hours your pains haven't all left you get your money back.

It works just as swiftly with Rheumatism, Lumbago and Neuralgia.

HAILEY MAN, LOST TWO DAYS IN HILLS, FIRES LAST BULLET AT BEAR

HAILEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Jack Brooks, Hailey, had a deer hunt, he reported here today.

He and Buster Thornhill, American Falls, were hunting beyond Canyon Saturday, but were to meet at the further end of a canyon. Thornhill was notified and the hunt continued until Monday afternoon, when Brooks was discovered by B. S. Benedict of the forest service.

He was completely exhausted, having had little to eat for the three days. He had burnt up his matches and was too lightly dressed for the freezing nights.

He had shot most of his cartridges in an effort to make some one hear, and only two left when he met a bear. He gave Mr. Brin one of the precious bullets and luckily the shot proved a good one.

Hailey never looked so good to the young man before as it did Monday night, although it has always been his home, he said.

BURLEY SCHOOLS PLAN FOR HARVEST VACATION

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Burley schools will be dismissed for a harvest vacation, beginning Friday evening, October 9, and lasting until Monday, October 12. This action was decided on at a trustees' meeting of independent district Tuesday evening, and was taken to permit farmers to assist in the best and potato harvest.

Some opposition developed in the city to the proposed action, but the low prices of farm crops, coupled with lack of funds for employing outside labor, united in causing the board to favor granting the vacation to help farmers of the district. It is understood there will still remain time to get in the required 180 days in the school year to maintain Burley schools on the accredited list.

At Heyburn, across the river, it was decided that the grade schools be continued without interruption. In the high school, however, such pupils as desire to work in the harvest fields may be excused for a week's period.

Lindys Rescued After S-11

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Social and business sessions have been numerous in Kimberly during the last week.

Women from Twin Falls, Piler, Hansen, Hazelton and Kimberly were present at the Ladies' Pioneer club benefit party last week at the home of Mrs. A. J. Wilson. Fourteen tables of bridge were in play during the afternoon. Mrs. C. W. Colner, Twin Falls, won high, and Mrs. M. B. Gill, Kimberly, second high. Miss Thelma Spence, Decatur, Illinois, received consolation prize. Refreshments were served from an attractive table covered with roses in a silver basket and light tapes in corresponding colors. Mrs. H. I. Denton and Mrs. Florence Wright presided at the social service.

The Legion and Auxiliary of Kimberly met Thursday for a social evening with 30 members present. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the women at the close of the evening.

Mrs. E. D. Dix was hostess Tuesday at her country home for members of the Tuesday Bridge club for the club week. High score was won by Mrs. E. D. Dix, and Mrs. E. D. Jones and the guest prize to Mrs. E. D. Hager. Luncheon was served at the close of the games.

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—A crop census of farms under jurisdiction of the Burley Irrigation district is now under way. This is an annual undertaking, and is being done by the various district riders. A saving of expense is being effected by the district board, by having the census taken while the ditch riders are also on duty distributing late irrigation water.

The board ordered an audit of the district books and records, to be made by J. C. Ring, public accountant.

LEGION AUXILIARY PLANS INSTALLATION IN BURLEY

BURLEY, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Installation of officers of the American Legion Auxiliary will take place at the next regular meeting, October 12. Mrs. Mabelle Fremstad has been re-elected president.

Other officers are Dorothy O. Salmon, first vice president; Georgia Fremstad, second vice president; Bernice Youmans, historian; Jeanette Y. Chamberlain, secretary-treasurer; and an executive committee of Bernice Davidson, Elsie Schroeder and Katherine Shuster.

BUSINESS WOMEN JOIN AT JEROME GATHERING

JEROME, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Jerome Business and Professional Women's club met at Tom's cafe for its regular dinner-meeting Wednesday evening. It was decided that they would from now on hold two meetings, one business and one social, each month, instead of just one if they have this year up to now.

The membership committee was in charge of the program for the evening, which consisted of vacation talks. The two special talks were given by Miss Grace Deane and Miss Winifred Brown, who took a long trip last summer which included New York City and Washington. Group singing concluded the program.

GOODING STUDENTS HEAR SENATOR THOMAS SPEAK

GOODING, Oct. 8 (Special to The News)—Guest of honor at Gooding college chapel on Wednesday was Senator John Thomas, who will shortly return to Washington. The speaker paid high tribute to a now non-existent small college in southern Kansas which has produced two United States senators, of which he is one. President C. W. Tenney was accompanied by the senator for his visit of 14 years at the head of one of Idaho's small colleges.

The speaker of the morning discussed the government at Washington in an informal way. He analyzed Will Rogers' statement that "the senate began with prayer and ended with an investigation," and showed just how that body works. President and Mrs. Hoover were described as real folks and glimpses of their life were given. The power of the West through the senatorial privilege in the senate was pointed out as one way for the present economic crisis to influence federal legislation. Senator Thomas suggested that depression came and so and that the present economic crisis is bound to break as have its predecessors of 1857, 1873, and 1893. The speaker of the morning has long been interested in Christian education and is at present on the board of trustees at Gooding college and is also treasurer of the board.

FINISH OF TRANS-PACIFIC FLIGHT

THIS WAS THE DRAMATIC END of the 4600-mile non-stop flight of Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., from Samushiro Beach, Japan, to Wenatchee, Washington, October 5. The photo shows the plane just after it was brought down on the Wenatchee airport minus its landing gear. The fliers dropped the wheels into the ocean shortly after leaving Japan to gain more speed. The photo on the left shows Herndon with his gashed eye and Pangborn on the right. Both made the trip without shoes. (P. Photo.)

DUCK SPRINGS HERMIT TELLS INQUIRER VIEWS ON BURDENS AND BENEFITS OF TAXATION

Between Deep Puffs of Rank Tobacco, Old Character Takes Decided Stands

By LEW BSWETTER
(Starley News Correspondent)

I thrust my feet forward sharply and came to a short stop. I stepped back and looked at the man who had been leaning over toward a man I had seen leaning in the shade of a shaded cottonwood tree. As I had surmised, it was the Duck Springs Hermit. "Hello, old man," I exclaimed, cheerfully, "glad to see you."

The old fellow shot a most villainous glance at me, from behind, slightly averted, as if he disliked to be called an old man. Suddenly I changed the subject. "These roads are awful," I complained. "They ought to spend a little more state money for road oil."

"The afternoon school bus passed by, plumped into a hole, and scattered clouds of dust. I averted my eyes, and hastened up to my touchy old friend. "If they were to pay their drivers a little more, maybe they could get more careful ones," I remarked, thoughtfully.

And then a whiff of the old codger's rank tobacco pipe drove all thought of bad roads and careless drivers out of my mind. "That pipe would knock down a mile," I exclaimed, bitterly, smothering a choke. "Step here to the windward," said the Hermit, plainly sarcastic, "and maybe you won't get knocked down."

He looked at me, quizzically. "Well," he chuckled, "why don't you go on. If you've got anything to say worth listening to, don't butt yourself—a boisterous in."

I was perfectly willing to talk to the old fool, but was annoyed at being likened to a mule. I'd about made up my mind to answer his coarse jest with a cutting remark, but thought better of it. I looked at the old vagabond apologetically.

"You're lucky," I said, "not to have to pay taxes. They eat me up. My friend cooked his bewhiskered face to one side, looked at me, but said nothing. "Yes," I continued, "I've just been to a meeting of our tax committee. We are demanding a moratorium. We are swamped with taxes."

"Humph!" exclaimed the Duck Springs Hermit. I looked up at a lark, sitting on the fence. He was straining his throat with liquid melody. Beyond the songster, a great road grader came lumbering along. I heard the Duck Springs Hermit clear his throat. "You got a 40-horse tractor on land, ain't you?" he enquired. "How much monthly taxes do you pay?" — I figured rapidly. "None of your business," I answered.

"Uh, huh," he went on. "And how much a month your auto cost you?" I said nothing.

Inconvenient

"You don't need to pay these here taxes you complain about, unless you want 'em." The man went on. "You belly-ache about taxes, and you keep importing more of 'em each time you turn around. You send your kids to schoolhouse built like meek—vill palaces and learn 'em football, and all branches of athletics, and dancing, and fancy toe dancing, and music, and lemon pies, and transport 'em to and from in gas-heated truck omnibuses."

The old fellow discarded his pipe and fished about for a plug of tobacco. "And you equal like a stick of gum," he said, "the trucks don't deliver the kids right to your doorstep," he continued. "And you insist on the highways going higher and higher and every-whichaway. And these spittoons in the courtroom, and college specialists to handle all your pooled pigs and butler and eggs, and to give free treatments to your homes with the electric, and to sell your crop of wheat for more'n it's worth, and plant your ground hogs free of cost to anybody excepting your neighbors. And hand out a dol to your aged parents so you young folks won't have to take care of 'em."

The old fellow was pretty well worked up, and I thought he would wrench out a few stumps of teeth as he pulled away to dislodge a clump from his plug. But he went on.

"And you want a most-awful turn to pass your taxes so's you won't have to undergo the humiliation of paying up the privilege of making the first payment on a new model or 'state-of-the-art'—with measure wheels and terry coty trimmings. And so's you can hire some laborin' fellow to do the work you ought to do yourself about the pig pen and in the cow shed, while you pass the troyin' portion of the coinin' winter in sunny, southern California, fannin' yourself with a eucalyptus bough, eatin' tamarisks and watchin' bathing beauties disportin' in their latest exposé."

"Stop right there," I exclaimed, heatedly, starting to wade into the old idiot and give him as good as he'd sent. — But a whiff of that wretched pipe brought me up sharp with a fit of coughing. I cleared my throat, opened my mouth to hurl his biting repartee, but he had already turned his back and was walking away.

ONIONS YIELD WELL ON RANCH IN BUHL VICINITY

BUHL, Oct. 8 (Special to The News).—Thirty acres of onions on the P. F. Ahlquist ranch yielding 21,500 half-bags averaging 55 pounds each, it was reported here today.

The crop is being graded and loaded as rapidly as possible, 30 men being employed in the work. The crop has been sold at an average of $1.50 a hundredweight, and the total is expected to be between 30 and 35 carloads.

The onions are the yellow sweet Spanish variety, and are being graded into two-to-three-inch and above-three-inch sizes.

Insanations right back into his teeth, and turned back. But the old fellow wasn't in sight. I think he had stepped behind the tree, and sneaked away.

repartee, but he had already turned his back and was walking away.

An eminent scientist writes the head chemist in our Research Department:

"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink"

THE WATER YOU DRINK is tested from time to time by expert chemists to make sure that it is free from all injurious substances—that it is pure.

So it is in the manufacture of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes. Expert chemists test all the materials that are used in any way in CHESTERFIELD's manufacture, to make sure that everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is just right.

THE LEAF TOBACCO IS PURE. Long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—scientifically "dry" and clean and purify the natural tobacco leaves by exact high-temperature treatment.

Then the shreds of cut tobacco, as you see them in your CHESTERFIELD, are again heated, cleaned and purified. From these pure tobaccos the cigarettes are made, and only the purest paper—the best that can be made—is used for CHESTERFIELD.

Cigarettes used to be made in an old-fashioned way, by hand. Now, no hand but yours touches CHESTERFIELD—another purity safeguard.

CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in clean, sanitary factories where even the air is changed every four and one-half minutes—purify again.

ALL THIS CARE is taken to give you CHESTERFIELDS as nearly perfect as cigarettes can be made. Delivered in a moisture-proof, sealed package, they reach you just as good, just as pure as when they leave the factory. Good... they've got to be good—they're just as pure as the water you drink!

Pacific Ocean "Runs Fever" and Warms California Coast

SCIENTISTS EXPLAIN CAUSES OF UNUSUAL COASTAL HEAT WAVE

Customary Northern Pressure Proves Unstable While Wind Draws On Tropics

"SENTINEL" FAILS TO WARD OFF COOLER AIR

Drs. George F. McEwen and A. F. Gorton Issue Report On Oceanic Surveys

WILLIAM WARNE (Associated Press Staff Writer) LA JOLLA, Cal., Oct. 8.—Laugh if you like, but the weather in Southern California HAS been "unusual" this season and the explanation comes from scientific investigators and not from a chamber of commerce.

It's because the Pacific ocean has been "running a fever" of about five degrees.

George F. McEwen and A. F. Gorton of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography assert.

"The men who supply this explanation of the abnormality—warm temperatures which have made the summer long to be long remembered—have been measuring the temperature of the ocean for 37 years.

"High" Failed to Develop The reason assigned for the fever is that the customary high pressure area in the north Pacific failed to develop.

In normal years, Dr. McEwen declared, this high pressure area is to be found about 1000 miles west of San Francisco.

It is accompanied by light to right anti-cyclonic winds and holds its position against a series of weaker low pressure areas.

The anti-cyclonic winds catch that portion of the Japanese current which turns south after reaching the American continent and serves it out to sea.

This allows the waters swelling of the cold California current from the ocean bottom, and cooling breezes fan the Coast from Cape Mendocino to far down the Lower California peninsula.

The CHINA sentinel Practically, it's like a sentinel standing guard on West coast climates.

This year the sentinel explains the high pressure area appeared from time to time but was too weak to withstand the low pressure areas which moved down from the north.

The low pressure areas were accompanied by winds traveling in the opposite direction around the center—the disturbance—and caused the stagnation of the Japanese current.

Also, as a result of the presence of the "low," a system of southerly winds developed along the California coast.

"These winds brought warm water from tropical latitudes to replace the cold California current and swept warm air over the state."

The weather bureau calculated that 125 degree days had been piled up by September 1 since January 1 in excess of normal figures, at San Diego. Even the night temperatures.

The ocean's normal temperature during the midsummer months is between 67.4 and 69. This year it averaged 73 degrees.

Tropical fish migrated northward, and one 1400-pound sea bass, several hundred miles north of its usual habitat, was caught off Los Angeles harbor.

has the odds against him, Dr. Howe said.

Henry Ford is expected to visit his old friend tomorrow.

Harry Firestone, the third member of the Edison-Ford-Firestone triad, is a long friendship, already has paid a visit, perhaps his last, to the inventor.

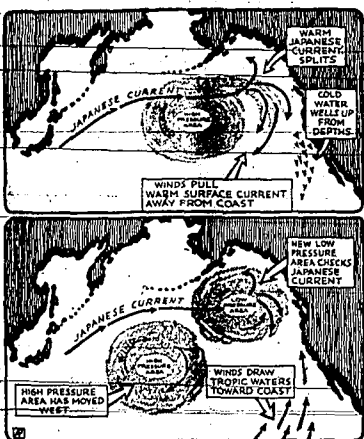

The Edison family has been in regular telephone contact with President Hoover, who has requested that he be kept informed of Dr. Edison's condition.

Dr. Howe's daily bulletins are transmitted to Cardinal Hayes regularly in answer to the pope's recent request.

NATURE HEATS HOMES

BOISE (AP)—Neither fuel shortage nor the high price of coal will bother a large number of Idaho homes this winter. About 30 percent of the city's homes are heated by water piped from a large hot spring above the city.

Clinton B. Hoffman, Detroit World war veteran, has completed a 5000 mile odyssey. He was painted in 1600 separate places.

These weather maps indicate an explanation of Southern California's abnormally warm 1931 summer. Normally a high pressure area located as in the upper map has such an effect on the ocean currents as to cool the coast. But this year when a low pressure area pushed the high farther west, it was a different story.

extent of a per cent of their net demand and time deposits. Interest on the debentures will be payable only if earned.

Directorate Unnamed Personnel of the directors and the executive officers will be made public tomorrow.

"The corporation will have a nominal capital of twelve shares of $100 par value each which will be held by an equal number of directors representing the 12 federal reserve districts. The shares will be deposited with the governor of the federal reserve bank of New York.

The nominal capitalization was made necessary by a provision of the national banking act which prohibits the banks organized under it from holding stock.

"In order to permit the national banks to contribute their shares of the required money, the debentures will have the legal status as bonds, notes and other evidences of debt, will be issued and sold.

The project contemplates the establishment of a corporation through the operation of which the government will control the country, when necessary, may procure accommodation upon the basis of sound assets which are not really eligible for reduction at the federal banks," Mr. Buckner's statement explained. "The banks will have the privilege of applying to the corporation for cash advances."

The administrative details of the plan in each district will be under the supervision and control of the director of the National Credit Corporation from that district.

Thereupon the corporation is to advance the amount of the loan, if approved, and the group of associations in turn is then to pay over the funds to the borrowing bank.

"At security the debentures of the National Credit Corporation will be secured by the notes of the various banks, the notes of the borrowing banks and all phases of the program, will be cash on hand subject to the payment of the running expenses of the corporation.

Home Office in Gotham The home office of the corporation will be in New York City but its operation here will be comparatively small.

As its main function "the corporation will tend to advance funds to banks or groups of associations of banks," the official announcement stated.

"It is contemplated that one or more groups of associations of banks will be set up in every federal reserve district. Each group will be composed of the subscribing banks and the groups of associations within the federal reserve district.

The area covered by and the composition of each group or association will be approved by the corporation. Each such group is to have its own loan committee which is to pass upon the loans requested by any of its members and upon the security therefor.

When a loan is approved by the loan committee the note of the borrowing bank and the security therefor, together with the note of the group (of which the borrowing bank is a member) in a like amount shall be forwarded to the home office of the corporation.

CAPONE GLARES AT COUNSEL AS LEGAL OPPONENTS STRIKE

some since reports, written him about a flashy necktie and bright-colored shirt, and the look of a man when Judge Wilkinson ruled the evidence admissible. The scandalous charges were made by Albert J. Capone, who is now in the federal penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., and who is now in the federal penitentiary at Joliet, Ill., and who is now in the federal penitentiary at Joliet, Ill.

French public opinion, as represented by the comments of leading newspapers, was apprehensive. President Hoover might confront Sheet Questions Louis J. Wilson, Chicago, in charge of fraud and investigations for the Chicago internal revenue department, gave the most damaging evidence of the day against Capone. Wilson, somewhat deaf, testified to shocked questions that Capone, an attorney, Lawrence Mattingly, Washington, District of Columbia, visited his office on April 17, 1929, to discuss the gangster's income tax.

The documentary evidence which the government regarded so valuable consisted of a power of attorney designating Mattingly as Capone's lawyer, a letter from Mattingly to the internal revenue department, and a stenographic report of the conference between Capone, Mattingly and the internal revenue officials.

"Mr. Capone arrived a few minutes late, accompanied by two men who remained on sentry duty at the door," Wilson testified. Mr. Mattingly told me that Capone's income was $25,000 in 1928, $40,000 in 1929, $100,000 in 1930 and $100,000 in 1931.

Wilson quoted Mattingly as saying: "These figures of Capone's income for the four years in question are the best we can do. Mr. Capone is willing to pay his tax on these figures."

"The government ought to act promptly in collecting this tax. Capone has money—he could get money—and could pay a substantial amount now."

The stenographic account recorded that Capone's income prior to 1929 was "only about 275 a week." During that period of his career, Capone was an employee of Johnny Torrio, the bullet-scarred veteran, he succeeded.

Divides Profile After Capone came into power, according to the information given to Wilson by Mattingly, he divided 750 thirds of the profits from his multiple rackets equally with three other men. The identity of the three others was not established.

The remaining one third of the profits were said to have gone to lesser employees of the liquor, vice and gambling syndicate.

Attorney Mattingly also was quoted as having made statements during the conference with Wilson in the internal revenue office indicating that much of the power believed by the public to be Capone's was vested instead in the directors of the United States Bank of Commerce.

The organization, for instance, was said to be a whole, not by Capone personally.

Capone's financial system was given by Mrs. Helen Alford, young, blond and comely, who said she kept records of the salary paid to Capone. For instance, she allegedly was rented by "Alphonse Capone," she identified signatures on checks made to the United States Bank of Commerce, and pointed out the signer as the bulky, militantly dressed defendant.

WAR DEBT RELIEF AWAITS EUROPEAN ARMAMENT SLASH

particularly those with foreign investments, are anxious for an extension of the moratorium. Aside from this, it is also true that many financial experts in the government and in congress believe Germany will be in little better condition next July to meet reparations than she was last July when the moratorium was put into effect.

It is also realized that Germany has the right under the Young plan to suspend payments long as Germany is unable to pay them.

anyway, thus American's statements are preparing to get something in return for what appears to be an inevitable necessity.

Whether the administration would be willing to enter into a complete revision of the European war debts is unknown. President Hoover emphatically recalled at Tuesday night's conference that in announcing the moratorium he had declared against cancellation of the debts.

STUDY PROPOSALS PARIS, Oct. 8 (AP)—The French of Paris today sent two of its highest officials to the United States. They are study President Hoover's proposals to deal with the financial crisis and so prepare for Premier Laval's visit to the president in Washington.

Meanwhile Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, completed his presentation of Britain's financial position to the premier and other French government chiefs. The foreign secretary said no understanding had been reached because "we do not know what will happen in the future."

The newspaper L'Information printed what was considered significant news that J. P. Morgan, who came to Paris two days ago on the same train that brought Lord Reading to the French capital, in the United States and was a member of the Bernheimer-Mellon debt arbitrage fund, was in the bank.

The two bankers, who sailed on the Europe, have been instructed to make contacts with both federal reserve and United States treasury officials before the premier arrives.

The significance attached to the visit of the premier, in view of the new Hoover proposals and the fact that France and the United States have between them most of the world's gold, was further emphasized by Lord Reading, who said the government was exceedingly happy at the forthcoming voyage of the premier. The part America can play in world reconstruction is enormous, he said.

The financial situation of the United States was understood to have dominated Lord Reading's final discussion with the French officials.
