MacDonald's National Government Scores At Great Britain's Polls

Daybreak—Indicates Smashing Victory for English Prime Minister's New Faction as Tabulators Compile Returns from 288 Parliamentary Constituencies of Country

LONDON, (Wednesday Morning) Oct. 28—A smashing victory for Ramsay MacDonald's national government was indicated at daybreak today on the basis of returns from 288 parliamentary constituencies. Supporters of the National government won 261 seats in the house of commons, the opposition had 25 and 2 winners were Independents. A total of 327 seats remained to be reported at the close of the day.

The Conservatives won by far the lion's share of the victory. Of the 261 supporters of the government, 222 are Conservative members, 4 are National-Labor members and 35 are Liberals.

Only two outright advocates of the Liberal policies of David Lloyd George survived the avalanche.

haird actress was preparing today behind locked doors for what may be the greatest comeback in the history of the theatre.

She is Maude Adams, who made her stage debut 58 years ago as a baby in arms, who was the toast of Broadway 25 years ago when she was playing "Peter Pan," and who vowed, after her director lost his life on never would cross the boards again. But the locked doors behind which she is rehearsing now are a symbol of a big "if" which, after years of the reports and ill-founded hopes, might "Maude" become a "person" from ever glittering in letters of light again.

The provincial taciturnity of the famous actress made her the J. P. Morran of the stage long ago. "I word about what was going on.

"We can't say, and we don't know" have become the stock answer to all questions.

"(Who's directing you?) members of the cast are asked.

"We can't say," they reply.

"Where are the rehearsals," a reporter asked one of Miss Adams' personal representatives.

"We don't know," he blandly resigned the extradition papers here today for the return of Mrs. Winifred Ruth Judd to Phoenix, Arizona, to face trial on murder charges for the slaying of Miss Nedra Samuels and Mrs. Agnes Le. Rol.

The governor, suffering with cold, signed the papers while in bed at St. Francis hospital. The papers were brought here from the sheriff's office by Sheriff J. B. Sherrill.

Conventions may be faunted even more boldly by the famous "Peter Pan" star after the show opens.

The dream of those who plan comebacks is to play again on Broadway, but there are indications that after opening in Cleveland, Miss Adams will tour the country and shun Broadway entirely, thus showing again how little she cares for conditions in the city.

It is not known whether the manager, J. M. Kearns, will take the show down here by E. F. Caille, the governor's chauffeur.

The extradition requisition charged Mrs. Judd with the murder of Mrs. Le Rob, only, as only one charge is necessary for extradition. The date of the slayings was given as October 18.

IDAHO LACKS PRECEDENT ON INSURANCE PAYMENT

BOISE, Oct. 27.—George Thiesen, president, insurance company representative, today advised by the attorney general today there are no precedents or statutory provisions governing the payment of life insurance proceeds to a woman who has been convicted of murder.

In giving the opinion, the attorney general pointed to a previous opinion permitting school districts under certain circumstances to pay part of this premium. He made no ruling on the situation as affecting cities of the First class.

The opinion said any legislation had been enacted without thought of group insurance, and for that reason a test in the courts or a special action of the legislature appeared necessary.

WEST'S IRRIGATORS WANT MORATORIUM

Representatives of Million Acres of Watered Land Outline Plea at Boise

BOISE, Oct. 21 (AP)—Representatives of the million acres of irrigated land in seven Western states today outlined a plea to get before Congress for a three-year moratorium on payments of interest and principal on costs of reclamation projects.

Their proposal will be formed into a resolution to be voted upon tomorrow by representatives of 18 irrigation districts who met here to consider their demands for federal action.

Each district presented its opinion of the time of moratorium needed, ranging from one to five years, but mainly tending toward three years.

Request of several delegates to include a moratorium on federal land bank payments would be incorporated in the resolution as a measure of relief to reclamation project areas now in financial straits.

The New York irrigation district, representing a large portion of the 20,000,000 acres of irrigated land, suggested that the bureau of reclamation be authorized to deal with districts individually, granting them moratoriums or modifications, as they saw fit. Such relief, the district representative suggested, should be extended until water supplies on the projects became adequate, a recommendation suggested by the district's application for additional reclamation funds for development of new sources of water for the project.

BOY SLAYER TAKES STAND IN DEFENSE

12-Year-Old Killer of Sheriff Corroborates Statements of Other Officers

ASTORIA, Wash., Oct. 21 (AP)—Suburban boy, 12-year-old, who shot the sheriff of Clatsop county, took the stand in his own defense late today in the murder trial, and admitted shooting down the 27-year-old officer, corroborating in detail the statements of other officers who testified.

Dr. John M. Sempie, Spokane, testified that the boy suffered from a constitutional brain weakness, but that he was not definitely insane at the time of the shooting.

The defense pleaded not guilty by reason of mental irresponsibility.

Mrs. Hildred declared that on the day before the 12-year-old sheriff was killed, the last that he had seen of him was at the home of Josephine of the Old Testament.

Partial returns showed only two Conservative victories, retaining their seats. These were George Lansbury, public works, and Sir Stafford Cripps, education.

Nancy Lady Astor, Virginia-born member of parliament, running as a Conservative, was returned from Plymouth with a majority of 20,177, which she scraped through in the last general election.

Mr. Oswald Moseley, wealthy young chief of the "new party" who campaigned under the protection of strong-arm guards failed to win his seat in his house of commons seat.

Mr. Henderson lost his house of commons seat to Sir Archibald Campbell by a vote of 25,120 to 20,177.

At the last general election, in 1929, Burnley returned Mr. Henderson with 20,901 votes to 20,177 for his nearest opponent.

The first 11 constituencies reporting showed a majority of 20,177 for which 11 were gained from Labor.

Labor's most important defeat was in the constituency of Glasgow, where a war hero of the Victoria cross who had fought a vicious campaign as a "national" candidate, Rear Admiral Campbell, used as his campaign cry, "I'm going to give politics a hell of a kick in the pants."

An impressive assumption of the early returns was the huge majorities piled up by the Conservatives, with the elimination of triangular contests. Liberal and Labor candidates, minority representation became impossible and in straight fights Labor often was swamped.

Tom Brown, candidate to Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden, was beaten in Glasgow, Accrington, where he ran as a Labor candidate. He polled 700 fewer votes than he had in 1929.

Such an eventuality might easily cause Mr. MacDonald serious trouble, handicap him in his National government program or even force him out and permit the Conservatives to form their own government and make the tariff issue to the forefront.

Tabernacle Honor Aaron McBride, 83, Early Settler

OAKLEY, Oct. 21 (Special to The News)—Funeral services for Aaron McBride, 83, an Oakley pioneer who died Friday, October 20, took place here in the Cassia stake tabernacle Sunday at 3 P. M.

Bishop Louis R. Critchfield of Oakley and ward was in charge of the exercises.

The following funeral rites were carried out by Mr. McBride's request: Prayer, James Jensen; chorus, "Come, O Saviour," chorus, "I want Thee, O God for a Prophet." Speakers were John J. Millard, Jr., James Porter, Wilford Sagers, Irvin, John R. Clark, John Adams and Louis R. Critchfield. A chorus sang "I Need Thee Every Hour" and benediction was given by Home Adams.

Burial was in Oakley cemetery, J. J. Robinson Jr. dedicated the grave.

SCHOOL FINANCE CLAIMS THOUGHT AT POCATELLO

The gathering at the University of Idaho, southern branch, included a school trustees, superintendents, members of the university faculty, business managers of school districts and members of the legislature from this part of the state.

Dr. Morris surveyed the situation of the state for an increased contribution from the state for education, as well as a possible consolidation of the school law burden by increasing the size of school districts. He also asked whether rural school districts might not thus receive the same opportunities offered in city schools.

Dr. Morris' survey, to continue for four years, is being financed by the federal government.

Free rooms and board were made available to Arkansas legislators who agreed to attend a special session without pay.

PLENTY OF BEANS FOR WINTER NEEDS

Twin Falls County Seems Unlikely to Exhaust
Bounteous Production

One thing that seems reasonably certain at this time is that the Twin Falls country will have plenty of beans on hand, at least for its own requirements, during the coming winter season.

A heavy survey yesterday indicated a marked degree of unanimity among local dealers on this proposition.

Official statistics seemed to be accepted, with some minor variations, by all of the dealers who were questioned.

There was indicated a general agreement on the proposition that the 1931 crop of Great Northern beans in this territory would approximate 2,000 carloads, and that production of this crop in the three principal producing states—Idaho, Wyoming and Montana, would approximate 700 to 900 carloads more than last year.

The carry-over of last year's bean crop in the Twin Falls district was estimated at around 400 carloads, and there was no indication that recent bean price advances from $1 to $1.50 per hundred pounds, had materially diminished the stores carried over from last season.

Dealers here scoffed at suggestion lately emanating from Boise that warehouses here were being swept clean of carried-over beans, and one of them pointed out that local warehouse facilities have been supplemented by storage room at the sugar factory where, he said, approximately 50 carloads of beans have been placed in storage.

There was greater diversity of dealer's opinions regarding the bean market outlook. One agency expressed optimism over prospects for maintenance of the price at the present level, at least, while another argued that Michigan beans are being sold on a basis comparable with our beans at 90 cents here.

A bright spot in the situation was seen in consequence of this season's smaller crop of Colorado pinto beans.

Last season, it was pointed out, Great Northern beans were crowded out of some of the Southern markets by the pinto—It is deemed probable that Great Northern will regain these markets this year.

There is to be taken into consideration, also, the effect of the nation-wide advertising campaign that a grover's selling agency launched last fall and is still continuing, and

DIVORCE SUIT FOLLOWS 10 WEEKS OF MARRIAGE

On grounds of alleged cruelty, Wade S. Sharp started suit in district court here yesterday for divorce from Carmen Sharp, 10 weeks after their marriage at Elko, Nevada, last August 14. Sharp said in his complaint that his bride manifested no interest in him or his affairs including plans for establishment of their home in a tenant house on his father's ranch.

Within two weeks after the marriage, he said, she returned to her parents, and continued to remain with them. Bothwell and Chapman are Sharp's attorneys in this action.

Alleging cruelty, non-support and desertion dating from last June, Mrs. Lavinia Skinner, mother of a 20-month-old daughter, started suit yesterday for divorce from W. E. HUNTERS ENCOUNTER SNOW IN SAWTOOTH

Three-day Storm Makes
Two-day Trip Out of Nine-
Hour Drive Week Earlier

Three days of steady snowfall that began Thursday night covered Sawtooth mountain roads to such an extent that a party of Twin Falls hunters returning here Sunday evening was obliged to spend two days on the 200-mile road between Twin Falls and Loon creek—last day and last.

"Skinner's mother's silk scarf wasn't rare enough for him. He used it to bury his dog in that was run over."

Members of the party were Charles A. Buller, Elmer Hollingsworth, Hoch and Siper and Nels Bolin. Each brought back a buck. They traveled 20 miles down Loon creek, where, they said, game was very plentiful.

Encountering snow 8 to 16 inches deep on the Loon creek summit, the hunters were obliged to turn back to Boyler's ranch Saturday evening. They succeeded in crossing that summit the next day, and on Glacier summit they found snow 8 to 10 inches deep, with deeper drifts at the foot of the hill on the south side.

Progress was delayed when the hunting party found four bands of more than 6000 sheep stretched out over a distance of three miles on the narrow broken road over Glacier summit, and it was necessary to move with extreme caution through the ranks of the sheep bands.

Newly-iced construction between Stanley and Sunbeam dam also delayed the returning hunters an hour on the road.

The only traffic on the road after the snowstorm, one member of the party said, was the exodus of hunters and other persons seeking to get out of the almost snow-bound Sawtooth mountain region.

CHAMBER ASKS FOR ROOMS FOR TEACHERS

Call was made yesterday for registration of teachers who will be here Friday and Saturday of this week. Those having modern rooms which they can spare are asked to register them either at the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce or the Twin Falls high school.

Giving to the fact that hotels are generally not crowded at this time of year, it was suggested at the Chamber of Commerce headquarters that owners of rooms which may be available, should not go to extra expense unless a room is engaged.

PHEASANTS PLEASE PEDAGOGIC PALATES

Program of Wit and Music
Features at High School
With John Estes in Charge

What was pronounced the most successful annual faculty picnic banquet in the history of Twin Falls high school was held last evening in the home economics room in the high school building, with 45 persons present.

The hunting committee, composed of Principal W. H. Truitt, H. Foster, J. E. Tomlin, Dale J. Warren, George McKean and John Estes, furnished an ample supply of pheasants which they secured, it is stated, by hunting the birds.

Mrs. Juanita Sulliff, home economics instructor, assisted by domestic science students and wives of the faculty men, prepared the banquet in a way that did not promote the economical utilization by the banqueters.

Mrs. Thelma Tollefson, Miss Helen Miller and Miss Rachel Roberts prepared a program with a field for exhibition of wit and sportily humor enhanced by the facile cleverness of the toastmaster, Mr. Estes.

After the final pheasant had appeared, the clean-up committee composed of Lawrence Turner, John D. Flatt, Dale J. Warren and George McKean, directed by Mrs. Bonnie May Simpson and assisted by various commended donors, quietly removed the last tangible evidence of the happy feast, leaving only pleasant memories.

Round of Song
The banquet began with a round of song on pheasant hunting led by Miss Clarion Saunders, supervisor of music, of the Twin Falls school. H. A. Salisbury, of the ordnance department, responded to the toast, "Cleaning the Gun," a harrowing experience.

A toast to the military was furnished by Miss Allen Pearson. Mr. Flatt spoke on "Decoy," which seemed to include chickens as well as ducks. Superintendent Smith assumed that an all-but was needed, so he gave an intricate technical and scientific talk on "How I Shot My Bird."

Following a delightful piano duet on "Humming," by Miss Pearson and Miss Josephine Throckmorton, Mr. Terry discussed the subject of "Expressing the Bird from a pedagogic point of view. After a musical reading "The Pheasant," by Mrs. Simpson, with Miss Dorothy Gail at the piano, Miss Call finished the regular program with a talk on the subject, "Talk of the Pheasant," Principal.

ACCUSED CHECK WRITER TAKES TIME FOR PLEA

Jack Christensen, arrested here Monday on a charge of forgery of a $100 check, took time to consider his plea when he was arraigned on a felony complaint before Judge Gus E. Kitzney in probate court here yesterday. He was given until today to enter his plea.

Christensen is accused of forging the name of Alvin E. Jones as payor of the questioned check, which, it is alleged, was issued with the intention of defrauding the Rogers Hotel company last Sunday.

William A. Bean, Twin Falls police officer, signed the complaint.

NAVY SENDS AIRPLANES HERE ON ANNIVERSARY

Navy day yesterday witnessed the arrival in Twin Falls of three Curtiss biplane naval seaplanes from Seattle, which landed at Twin Falls airport after flying in formation over the city for four minutes and about 10 A. M. and took off, returning to Boise, after spending about 10 minutes here.

The planes brought to Twin Falls three naval officers, Ensign T. H. James, Ensign Leif Nelson and Ensign John Blum, together with J. T. Boeman, naval recruiting officer stationed at Boise.

Purpose of the visit, to assist in celebrating the navy's 50th anniversary on navy day, was disclosed by the flying seaman to Terry Prater, past post commander of Twin Falls American Legion post who acted in the navy during the world war. A telegram from Mr. Boeman stating simply that he would arrive in Twin Falls in an airplane about 10 A. M. yesterday, was delivered to Mr. Prater about 8:45. The Twin Falls inn was taken completely by surprise when the three planes swooped down on the landing field with six men aboard. The visitors stated that they were unable to come in to town about 8:45. They had an appointment for a luncheon meeting at Boise.

Yesterday marked the one hundred and fifty-sixth anniversary of the founding of the United States navy.

Terry then, in more serious vein, led a discussion on educational problems, after which the program ended by the singing of "Idaho."

ADVOCATE OF BETTER SHOWS SPEAKS HERE

T. M. ROBERTSON FINDS CHAPMAN'S CHANGE GOOD

Chances for the nomination of W. Orr Chapman, Twin Falls lawyer, as a candidate for the United States senate on the Democratic ticket appear very good. It was stated last evening by T. M. Robertson, veteran Twin Falls Democrat, who returned last evening with Mr. Chapman after a trip through the northern and central parts of the state.

"All evidences everywhere that we went indicated that Mr. Chapman is popular in these sections," Mr. Robertson said. He predicted Democratic party success in Idaho.

Mr. Chapman spoke Friday night before the Spokane County Democratic club in Spokane. His speech was broadcast. The rest of the time he and Mr. Robertson spent in this state, going as far north as Boundary county.
