Hoover Calls On America To Keep Thanksgiving Day

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—President Hoover proclaimed Thursday, Nov. 11, as a national day of thanksgiving for the advantages enjoyed despite a "measure of passing adversity."

The presidential proclamation said in part:

"To approach the season when, according to custom dating from the gathering of the first harvest by our forefathers in the new world, a day is set apart to give thanks, even amid hardships, in thought, God for our temporal and spiritual blessings. It has become a hallowed tradition for the people to unite in prayer and thanksgiving to the Almighty. It is a day when the nation can give thanks for the many blessings which have been bestowed upon it, and when it can give thanks for the many blessings which it has bestowed upon others."

Many of our neighbors are in need from causes beyond their control and the compassion of the people is being aroused. It is our duty to assure their security over this winter that they too may have the opportunity to participate in the day of gratitude to the Almighty."

ADMINISTRATION LIKES NEWS OF 85-CENT OIL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3. (AP)—News of 85-cent oil fell pleasantly today on administration ears so long accustomed to bad news from the land of pipe lines and gushers.

An analysis of the situation by Secretary Wilson, a leader in the administration's efforts to rehabilitate the oil industry, was to the effect that the upward trend resulted from three primary causes.

The first of these he described as President Hoover's order of public lands from oil prospectors.

The second step was the orderly liquidation of the Kettleman Hills field in California through the institution of careful unit operation instead of haphazard and wasteful over-drilling.

The third move was the development of cooperation among the principal oil producing states so that production became a fact instead of a theory.

LOONEY CONTENDS THAT LONG BECAME A SENATOR LAST MARCH

Before a crowded court room, the governor argued for an hour and a half to nullify the election of Hiram Looney, chief counsel of C. J. Spoke.

Looney argued, however, was concluded with summation of points by both sides. Judge T. P. Bell received the verdict of Governor Long and instructed attorneys for Mr. C. J. Spoke to file their briefs within five days.

After that he said he would take the case under advisement.

Governor Long argued he will not be a member of the senate until he has taken the oath of office and there is no constitutional right to finish his governor's term, ending next May.

Looney contended that Long became a senator last March 4 despite the fact he had not taken the oath and that he ceased being governor when C. J. Spoke took the governor's oath last October 12.

Long contended that only the United States senate had authority to pass upon the qualification of a senator and that the district court hearing the suit was without jurisdiction. He further claimed the state legislature alone had the right to remove a governor from office and that the courts had no such authority.

He said C. J. Spoke presided over a special session of the state senate in 1918 as lieutenant governor and ordered bills and payrolls as the lieutenant governor.

The testimony of Miss Britton was heard in the federal court here in accordance with a ruling of Federal Judge John M. Kilgus, but the fact that she was on the stand only about a half hour was evidence that her story was brief.

The trial was held to a conclusion tonight, and court attaches expressed little doubt as to the jury tomorrow.

Samuel Levy, Democrat, retained his post as Manhattan borough president against the onslaughts of Norman Thomas, Socialist, and Colonel Edward C. Carrington, Republican.

Despite the heavy vote and the Tammany trend, though, the Democratic organization failed where it made its hardest fight—in the district of Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat, member of the Holdwater committee, which is investigating the New York City government.

Moffat was re-elected. His is the only Republican district in all Tammany's territory.

C. BEN ROSS FINDS ROAD BUREAU GRAFT

Chief Executive Discharges Two State Employees After Disclosures at Lewiston

LEWISTON, Idaho, Nov. 3. (AP)—Alleging irregularities covering several years in purchasing equipment and supplies for the bureau of highways in district Number 3, Governor C. Ben Ross today ordered the discharge of Herbert Potocki, shop foreman, and Elmer Aldrich, mechanic, and temporarily replaced J. J. Greeney, district engineer, until an investigation of the office is made.

Governor Ross said an investigation which he headed himself has been under way since September 23. Yesterday he left Boise hurriedly, anxious that he was going to Lewiston "on business."

In a statement announcing his action, the governor said:

"We know there is something wrong. The state has been paying on an average of 20 per cent more than the going rate for materials, whereas it is entitled to a discount of 10 per cent. Just how much money has been lost by these transactions will not be known until a thorough investigation of the office is made. Purchases by the district run into thousands of dollars a month."

The governor did not say who proved the alleged irregularities, but he described the dismissal of Potocki and Aldrich as being "for the good of the service."

"This wrong-doing has apparently been going on for several years," the governor said.

UNIQUE SCENES IN BRITISH COMMONS FEATURE OPENING

Captain Edward Algernon Fitzroy Takes Seat as Presiding Officer in View of Many Unknown Faces

By DE-WITT MACKENZIE (Associated Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The strangest parliamentary scene ever, which any speaker of the house of commons ever has looked during the five and a half centuries of that edifice, today greeted Captain Edward Algernon Fitzroy when, chosen for the third time, he took his seat as presiding officer.

After he had been conducted by force to his great canopyed throne in accordance with the tradition which has come down from the colorful days of the Tudors, when speakers hesitated to take office because of the dread of losing their heads, he paused to glance about him and at the stock of the unique assembly.

He saw a record government representation of 354 out of the 615 members, with a tiny opposition of 111 composed mainly of labor members who were huddled like lost sheep in one corner.

And he saw 47 Conservatives—the largest representation any party ever has had.

Scores of New Faces

Scores of the faces were new and those with which he was familiar were among the members supporting Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and his National government.

Virtually all the great leaders of the party were missing. In the place of their distinguished leader, "Uncle Arthur" Henderson, the gray-haired parliamentarian, George Lansbury, whose main business in the recent days of a life spent in the cause of the poor, was to open the session by a speech in which he was to lead the little army of the party to the government.

Handsome and distinguished looking, prime minister amidst the members of the National cabinet, all of whom had been kindly cheered as they entered the house.

The proceedings were brief and formal, but a few moments of humor were interspersed. Lady Astor was one of the first to interrupt her presence on the new members. She walked up to Mr. Lansbury and, with a laughing laugh, spread her arms wide in a derisive gesture which suggested that the whole labor opposition could be gathered into that space.

The developments indicate Japanese intention to withdraw its troops within the railway zone.

The opinion was expressed by those who touch the controversy that the situation had become worse during the last week.

League authorities were concerned lest Russia step in and take some military action against Japanese occupation. Soviet agents, it was said, were active in Poland and Roumania and increase the difficulties of the League council's procedure.

The council, it was said, would find it hard to come to any concerted action against the Japanese. It was said that the Japanese were working over Soviet participation in the Eastern European situation.

Dr. See presented a memorandum and a covering note to the secretary-general, setting forth details of information received during the last 10 days. This information was that Japan not only was not withdrawing from Manchuria but was consolidating troop positions and extending the sphere of operations.

FOURTH CONVICTION

BOISE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Conviction of William Post, 41, today on a first-degree murder charge marked the fourth man to face a penitentiary term for a crime committed in the federal prohibition officials declared as a "ring" that operated through eastern Idaho and western Wyoming.

Three others, Celeste Italia, 21, and Joseph Josephine, 21, were sentenced to terms in federal penitentiaries or in state jails at a recent sitting of federal court in Boise.

As described by George Oylear, deputy United States prohibition administrator, the four had been running a supply of liquor into eastern Idaho from Wyoming and marketed it in Pocatello, Idaho Falls and points in between.

A conspiracy charge was still pending against Italia, who was arrested when he became involved in the shooting for which he faces a life term in the penitentiary.

Together the four had turned in many "amateur operators" in the illicit liquor trade. Celeste Italia, in an attempt to secure the territory for themselves.

When they attempted to secure protection from federal agents, he said, they laid open their plan and brought on the series of arrests.

BOISE BUREAU DENIES STATE LAND PROFITS

BOISE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Idaho's Bureau of public accounts today challenged a statement of J. M. Isaacson, state land commissioner, that this year the lands foreclosed from public endowment fund loans had been sold at a profit to the state.

Commissioner Isaacson reports the principal on foreclosed lands sold as involving $40,700; the bureau report said, "while the record of the audit by this bureau up to May 6, 1931, shows the total amount of land sold to be $548,228. To this we add the figures of money paid out of the farm mortgage fund—$100,000, making a total cost to the state of $648,228. The money derived from these lands this sold was $621,948, reflecting a loss on the sale of foreclosed lands of $23,280."

Further, Mr. Isaacson has given considerable evidence to accrued and unpaid interest to date or acquisition of the property by the state, which is as much an integral part of the total cost as principal, taxes or water charges.

"We wonder if Mr. Isaacson intends to convey the thought there would be a profit on the lands remaining unsold. It is possible that the sale covers the cream of the foreclosed lands."

MRS. MYRTLE R. DAVIS DEFENDS EXPENDITURES

BOISE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Myrtle R. Davis, state superintendent of public instruction, today defended her expenditure of $5350 for a grade school course of study as a justifiable outlay, even though it wiped out her own allotment of funds from the board of education and took $1200 from other funds.

She said the job of printing the course of study "was let in the regular manner through the state purchasing agent."

Harking back to the period during the legislature when conflicts between her and W. D. Vincent, commissioner of education, and other members of the board of education broke out frequently, she said:

"The state superintendent asked for an appropriation of $24,343; the board refused to let the legislature for this office was $14,840. In the final allocation of funds after the appropriation was made, the board was under the control of the state board, the superintendent was allowed $17,203 and was deprived of the services of an assistant superintendent, yet the work has been carried on as previously. The printing cost, at present, is about 90 per cent of what will be spent during the entire biennium."

TWIN FALLS GIRL LEADS ATTACK ON SPELLING RULES

Dr. Ina Craig Sartorius Attracts Attention in New York Educational Circles
With Orthographic Views

A pioneer Twin Falls girl, Dr. Ina Craig Sartorius, who has risen high in educational circles and now is a superintendent at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, is leading an attack on many spelling rules taught in elementary and high schools which, she contends, are difficult, do more harm than good and should be abolished.

Dr. Sartorius is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krink, 35 White Plains Road, New York City, who were among the first settlers of the Twin Falls country, coming here before water was turned in the canal system, and engaging in business here at that time.

Dr. Sartorius was graduated from Twin Falls high school in 1911. She received her degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia University in 1924. She is assistant principal of the Elementary School of Horace Mann, a private institution connected in connection with Columbia University, and is also a member of the faculty of Teachers College, Columbia University, leading a class of graduate students in psychology, with major interest in the diagnosis and remedial treatment of individuals, children having special difficulties.

Analyses Tests
Telling of Dr. Sartorius views on spelling rules the New York Times, September 2, says that she said yesterday in a survey on generalization to spelling that the rules taught in our pupils, thereby forming poor spellers. The Times continues: "She said the survey 'provides data which may justify at once the elimination of certain rules and generalizations now employed in many grammar texts.' Dr. Sartorius asserted that children should not be overburdened with meaningless inconsistencies, nor should they be forced to memorize rules that 'apply to very few cases or have a relatively large number of exceptions.' 'What makes the situation worse,' she reported, 'is that the rules in spelling books vary, depending upon the author.'

In order to determine the spelling rules commonly taught, Dr. Sartorius analyzed texts and found that they represented all those catalogued in the Teachers College library at Columbia University which had been published since 1920. These books included texts for the teaching of spelling from the first grade through high school.

A total of 457 rules were used by the twenty authors. Dr. Sartorius found that on the average a rule is used only four times, while thirty-three rules were used only in one book.

Dr. Sartorius points out that one common rule given at the end of words of syllable is the 'one sound of the vowel usually ends in silent e.' Out of the 403 words that the speller lists used by the majority of students only 248 words consistently followed this rule, while there are 333 exceptions.

Analyzing the errors made by children in a typical New York City public school, Dr. Sartorius found that the most common error was the addition of a final 'e' to a word or to any syllable of a word, which led her to assert that 'ruins on final e' either are not being adequately taught or are not functioning.

Dr. Sartorius advised teachers to use rules with 'caution' until 'experimental evidence concerning their functional value is secured.' She said that at present many of the rules 'are difficult to understand and to apply, even by an adult with the aid of a dictionary.'

Although Dr. Sartorius admits that 'this study in no way settles the question of generalization,' she says that 'there is a need of further investigation of the relation between the common errors made in spelling words and the usefulness of rules in preventing these errors.'

PROSPECTS PLEASE ADVOCATE OF PEACE

Boise Student of World Affairs Sees Signs of
Better Understanding

The super-sensitiveness of the people of all nations at the present time to any suggestion touching the possibilities of peace was noted by the most hopeful sign pointing to success in the forthcoming disarmament conference, in an address at the monthly luncheon of the Twentieth Century Club at the Park hotel yesterday by Frank B. Kinyon, Boise, retired member of the Idaho bar, who has devoted years to peace work and study.

So widespread is this feeling, Mr. Kinyon asserted, that any report indicating improvement in international relations is instantly reflected on industry and in the markets; more men are employed and stocks take a turn upward, following the slightest word of better understanding between peoples.

One cause of this, he declared, is the contemplation of the awful possibilities of another world war.

Mr. Kinyon quoted leading statesmen of different nations from the time of Woodrow Wilson to the present, including President Hoover, Secretary of State Hughes, and others, as expressing the same sentiment.

He said that the world is now in a state of such tension that any suggestion of peace is instantly reflected on industry and in the markets; more men are employed and stocks take a turn upward, following the slightest word of better understanding between peoples.

Even should the outcome be satisfactory, he said, the world would be a better place than it is now, and it would be a step toward a better world.

That country, covering one-sixth of the world's area, now working toward a destiny, he asserted, "which when reached may or may not be a civilization, but it is a step toward a better world."

Mr. Kinyon then gave a resume of the machinery under which it is hoped disarmament can be secured, and explained the subject of budget limitation.

He said would result in an abandonment of security of nations. It would be necessary for the nations, he declared, to agree upon a commission to investigate to determine whether all were carrying out in good faith their agreements, otherwise terms of agreement would be voided.

An "encouraging feature of the situation," he said, "is the fact that President Hoover possesses what seems at this time to be the most realistic attitude in dealing with other nations. Mr. H. H. Bennett had charge of the program."

While here Mr. Kinyon was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Orr Chapman.

RABBIT BREEDERS BEGIN NEW YEAR

Annual Meeting Reviews Progress of New Industry in County; Elects Officers

Twin Falls County Rabbit Breeders' Association, holding its fourth annual meeting at the Pocatello hotel last evening, reviewed in officers' reports the progress of the industry in this county during the past year and elected officers of the association for the coming year.

Erwin Schreiber, Twin Falls, was re-elected president, with H. M. Wagner, Twin Falls, vice president; Lester C. Walker, Twin Falls, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. R. J. Taylor, Twin Falls, and A. N. Bonwell, Curry, were elected directors.

On account of low prices during recent months, there has been a marked tendency on the part of smaller growers to drop out of the industry, while larger growers have been buying the stock of the industry. Five or six of the county's largest rabbit growers, it was stated, market their rabbits independently and occasionally buy rabbit meat from the association to fill their own orders.

Reviewing these factors, the secretary's report last evening showed that the association during the past year had handled 450 rabbits and sold 10,223 pounds of rabbit meat in California and other markets outside the state. There remained unsold and in storage at the close of the year approximately one and one-half tons of rabbit meat, while the secretary's report showed the association had paid to the growers something over $1000 for the rabbit meat it had sold.

Meeting Postpones Annual Election and Considers Conference at Pocatello

Because of small attendance at the meeting of the Twin Falls council of boy scouts in the probate court room at the courthouse last night, annual election of officers was postponed for a meeting which will be announced at a later date.

In the matter of attendance at a state meeting in Pocatello next week, attended by leaders of the national organization, several expressed a desire to attend, but none of those present was certain of being able to go.

It was stated that among those who would attend from other places was Arthur Cammack and J. E. Broyles, Buhl; George W. Armstrong, Piler; Dr. J. N. Davis, Charles H. McFarland, R. J. Metcalf, and Rev. Charles E. Helman, Kimberly.
