(Special to The News)
JEROME, Dec. 30.—Attorney for John H. Bigley, 47, Kimberley, a carpenter and former Tulsa police officer, man, have attacked constitutionalism of the law under which Bigley and Hugh Cooper, 21, Wilton, Alabama, were convicted in district court at Jerome of "burglary" of the Hackett State Bank November 2.

This attack, indicating possible resistance to the state action that both convicted men may be released, opened after District Judge Adam B. Barclay today sentenced Bigley to serve 10 to 20 years and Cooper to serve 10 to 15 years term in the state prison.

It was opened on the motion by Bigley's attorneys to secure a retrial for him, and continued in proceedings on appeal to the state supreme court, which was set for next term, which were started in court yesterday after Bigley denied the new trial and pronounced the sentence.

Outlines Basis

Outlining the basis for the attack on the law validity, R. H. Riddick, Jerome, one of Bigley's attorneys, argued today that the law under which Bigley and Cooper were prosecuted and sentenced was a law

Essentially Local

Of the interstate commerce character, which was most hotly contested, the court ruled that the violation was essentially local in character instead of essentially national. The court said that the interstate character was distributed sales as well as in the two adjoining states of Wyoming and Utah.

What the Plaintiff Is Asking

"What the plaintiff is asking in this instance," the court stated, "is that the government should be one of the natural resources of the state, and that the defendant should thereafter it transmits and sells it both in and out of the state does not constitute interstate commerce under the principle recognized by the supreme court."

Not a Tax

But the court said, "it is nothing more than a tax upon an article produced within the state and its sale in interstate commerce."

Some of the outstanding scientists

Some of the outstanding scientists were called into the case to submit evidence, such as including Robert A. Millikan.

The company estimated its tax

The company estimated its tax about $100,000 a year, but paid annually.

The opinion

The opinion was written by Justice C. Cavanah, Holm, and concurred in by District Judge J. C. McLaughlin, Chief Justice and Brewster of the United States circuit court.

bank had been robbed twice previously by the same gang.

Three men were involved in the robbery plot—John H. Bigley, 36, a former inmate of the California State Prison; and former City of Pallas policeman and resident of City of Pallas county for 20 years; Hugh J. Wilson, 42, of Wilton, Wash., who spent some months here last year; and returned last September to a 3,000-mile hitch-hike from Alabama to Idaho in nine days to work for a ranch.

Bigley, 32, Belle Klum, Alameda, Calif., friend and companion of Copping, and Copping, 34, of San Francisco, on the trek to Idaho last fall.

Bigley, 32, was charged with the body ridden by bullets from gun in the hands of postmen who came out of the bank with $123,000 in cash.

Bigley, 32, five Twin Falls officers trailed, disclosed the robbery plot, and the gang was arrested. The bandit car from Kimberley was hauled, and Copping was arrested.

They were charged, under provisions of law relating to banks adopted in 1923, with "burglary of a bank, with intent to steal, and with the impairment from 8 to 20 years."

Through Drifts to Safety

That Billy kid is a cheater. He shows in his undercoat and says his prayers after he gets in bed.

Sixteen persons, including three women and a 15-month-old baby, snowed for 22 hours on a snow-blocked road on a high desert plateau, 22 miles south of Contact, Nevada, tonight, according to word brought here this yesterday by J. H. White, 4422 Fourth avenue east, and his son, Wallace White, 17, of the members of the marooned party to return here. During the night temperature on the plateau fell to 22 degrees below zero. Snow, White said, was "abundant deep" and it was impossible to drive the trucks. He said the party took one of two trucks that had been broken the road until halted by deep drifts. There was only a half-gallon of oil to keep the stove burning, and there was no food except apples, which members of the marooned party took from the trucks which were loaded with beans, apples, potatoes, onions and eggs. Juice was drained from a can of tomatoes to provide food for the baby, until a supply of sandwiches sent out from Contact was received Tuesday afternoon.

Swirling snow blocked the road over which the two trucks and five men carrying the marooned party had traveled, and in attempt to turn around and start back over the road, radiators boiled dry and trucks and motors became inoperative.

Wray kept Men in the party, wrapping their feet with burlap bags from which they emptied out potatoes, started with shovels to dig their way out along the road leading to Contact. All night long the workers labored desperately, and at length they reached a ranchhouse and telephoned to contact and to Wells for help. It was not until Wednesday morning, White said, that a snow plow was sent out from Wells to break the

Just ONE Question..

"HOW GOOD ARE THEY?"—THAT'S WHAT
SMOKERS WANT TO KNOW ABOUT CIGARETTES

SMOKERS, nowadays, aren't taking things for granted. They're shopping around... asking questions.

Old man habit has been discarded... forgotten. "How good is it?"... that's what they want to know about any cigarette they smoke.

"How good is it?" Brother, you put your finger right on it!

You want a cigarette that's milder. You want a cigarette that tastes better. You want a pure cigarette. And above all, you want cigarettes that satisfy.

Now when you say that, you're talking Chesterfield's language—none other!

IT STARTS with fine tobacco. Chesterfield buyers are experts in the art of judging quality leaf. They can spot the finest tobacco in any country... and they won't take anything else.

You'll find the same painstaking care... the same skillful handling... in the curing, the blending, and the cross-blending.

Blended and cross-blended... that's Chesterfield! And what a difference it makes in the way it smokes and tastes!

FROM field to package, Chesterfields are produced by the strictest purity standards; the most modern sanitary manufacturing methods. They're rolled in the finest, whitest paper... that burns without taste or odor. Wrapped in a clean, attractive package... neat, fresh-looking; moisture-tight... but easy to open.

And delivered as fast as they're made... from 3 big factories... to every cigarette counter in the land.

THAT'S the story of why Chesterfields satisfy. That's the reason they're milder... that's why they taste better. Light up... and answer your own question!

"No question about it - They really Satisfy"

SUNSET PASS

by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Mystery at Sunset Pass. The first of the two brothers, Ash and his father, Gage Preston, but Freeman Rock later on to save it and save the Rock has taken over with the Preston to be sure, but he has kept him to leave, leaving Ash's anger.

Chapter 15

TWO KINDS OF GUNMEN

"Oh, Ash didn't always come out soot-free. But nothing to bother him. I don't believe Ash has nerves or heart or feeling."

"You love him?" ejaculated Rock, bitterly.

"I do—more because I mean the only one. But it's not so much that."

"I've kept him from going to the back."

"I don't believe Ash has nerves or heart or feeling."

"You are sarcastic again. Oh, you're not so nice as I thought you'd be."

"Yes, I was concerned."

"I'm worried about the boys. But I am over you coming."

"I'm over for me."

"Yes, for you."

"I can't lie to you. I'm scared because of the harm that may come."

"All right."

"A little. How nice of you! All you think of a poor dear brother."

"For my face to be beat to a jelly or my eye shot off or worse—this causes you only a little concern."

"Thanks, Miss Preston. I'm beginning to believe I idealized you a little high."

"You're perfectly horrid!" she said, indignantly.

"You must have idealized me beyond my merits."

"Rock leaned closer to study the lines about the deep eyes that flamed at him yet tried to keep their feelings. He could appreciate her, but was not a romantic."

"How sweet to hurt her!" he said suddenly. "You can't—you can't."

"Why—you certainly can," she returned, startled. And she did, gravely.

"You said you couldn't!" he queried, then, smiling.

"I never told—"

"I said, 'I can't lie to you. I'm scared because of the harm that may come.'"

"—are you honest with me? What is the reason you want me to run off like a coward?"

"I'm trying to tell you," she replied, hastily ignoring his first query. "I don't want to make her start. I don't want to make her start."

"To be a coward. I'd think it brave, generous, to help me. I told you I was a coward. I told you I was a coward."

"I'm not a coward. I'm not a coward. I'm not a coward."

"Why, my dad said to me, not an hour ago, 'There, lass, is a coward. You're a coward. You're a coward.'"

"The dirt. An' he won't be throwin' guns around so careless. For, Thirly, you're a coward. You're a coward."

"Those were Dad's very words. I was thundered. It seemed almost as if Dad was glad. I never saw him flash like that. And lightning flashed from his eyes. Oh, this you're a coward. You're a coward."

"You wouldn't stay here—with us—and leave me alone?" he asked, with a simplicity which was of vanity.

"Yes, I might—if you cut me cold or slammed the door in my face," he answered.

"That I couldn't do. If you stay on, living here and eating at our table, I could not but be kind to you, be with you come. I think you'd be nice—if Ash didn't."

"I might like to ask. I'm afraid I might like to ask. I'm afraid I might like to ask."

"Now, if you stayed—you'd break off as if unable to find adequate expression. But, her voice, her look, more than the sufficient to make Rock fight temptation. How easy to lie to this innocent girl! He could do that and stay here and decide that Preston, too. Yes, Miss Thirly, I would," he returned, smiling, to get by the danger. "I would be a very great pleasure to have it and save the Rock has taken over with the Preston to be sure, but he has kept him to leave, leaving Ash's anger."

"Suppose I did?" flashed Rock, long between pity and jealousy.

"She stepped up to stand right, with clenched hands and swelling bosom, with such blazing eyes of passion that he was stunned."

"If it was not my death—I'd kill you myself," she whispered, intensely.

"How wonderful she was! Almost he forgot all in sheer ecstasy. Then, however, he held of him again. He held her in his arms. Oh, I can't trust you, Mr. Rock. I don't trust the situation."

JUST A WORD PLEASE EVERYBODY FROM--

Twin Falls County, Jerome County, Gooding County Lincoln County, Cassia County, Elmore County, Blaine County, and Central Nevada bordering on Southern Idaho—We wish to explain in an open, straightforward manner that McElwain's ARE NOT GOING OUT OF BUSINESS, JUST GOING AFTER BUSINESS. It's just one of McElwain's old-fashioned annual shoe sales, whereby as in the past, only the strictest attention will be applied in giving everybody a square deal. SELLING IS MY BUSINESS. I have taken a contract with Mr. McElwain to assist in selling several thousand pairs of Ladies', Men's and Children's Shoes. McElwain's are not in the sales habit, but I have been instructed by Mr. McElwain that THE BARS ARE DOWN—THE SKY IS THE LIMIT and Mr. McElwain has given me full control with orders to give you people bargains. I CAN, I WILL sell these fine shoes at the lowest prices ever attempted in the state of Idaho. FOR YOU, the SHOE "SCOOP" of 1932 for at no time will you buy as cheap such fine quality shoes as McElwain's shoes, for I am going to sell this fine stock in many instances below cost, at cost and slightly above cost and many at half price. It will pay you to travel 25, 50 or 75 miles to attend McElwain's greatest of all shoe sales in their over a quarter of a century selling fine shoes, and every effort possible has been made to display this large stock of fine shoes in a way that your selections may be made without delay. Remember the opening date—JANUARY 2ND, SATURDAY MORNING, at 9 o'clock. The place, McElwain's, the Dependable Shoe House, next to Orpheum Theatre, Twin Falls, Idaho.—JAS. E. BEARD, Sales Manager in Charge.

WHOLESALE PRICES ON ALL REMAINING STOCKS OF RUBBER FOOTWEAR—Space will not permit us to quote prices on all this fine large stock but you will find lowest prices in over 10 years here during our greatest Annual Shoe Sale.
BY ALL MEANS DO NOT MISS ATTENDING THIS SALE — YOU WILL PROFIT BY DOING SO ENTIRE STOCK OF Men's, Women's and Children's Slippers to close at wholesale and less. Daniel Green and other makes.
