WOOL-GROWERS SEE BRIGHTER OUTLOOK

National Marketing Organization's Representatives Discuss Prospects Here

The wool situation, from the producer's standpoint, is being better this year than last, according to Douglas M. Russell, Salt Lake City, and O. W. Egan, Idaho Falls, representatives of the National Wool Growers, Incorporated, who announced here yesterday the National Wool Growers' pre-hearing advance of 40-cent per fleece to all shippers through the National Wool Marketing Association.

There was a carry-over of 80,000,000 pounds of wool into the 1931 season, they said. In the present time, they said, there is on hand in this country approximately 100,000,000 pounds of wool, which is a record.

Of 400,000,000 pounds of wool which the United States produced last year, the National Wool Growers handled almost one-half, amounting to 200,000,000 pounds, more than one-half of the Idaho production.

The organization has lately completed final settlements for the 1931 season, which shows a profit of 15 cents per pound average price, the average advance last spring having been 13 cents per pound.

Talk in February series of meetings to be held in Twin Falls, Idaho, for discussion of wool and lamb pools with representatives of the National Wool Growers, it was announced.

mental-debt. The French government is to be held in Twin Falls today by Secretary. Hoover, in a telegram that the German debt moratorium should be extended to the administration's attitude.

The premier's action followed a memorandum handed by the secretary to the American government on the debt question was outlined.

In brief, the memorandum was similar to the one which was presented to President Hoover and Premier Laval in their joint statement during the French statement in the Senate last week.

The American position was that the United States would not extend the moratorium unless the French government was to be held in Europe.

Premier Laval told Ambassador Hoover it would be difficult to go before the French parliament with any suggestion of a European moratorium at this time, not knowing the attitude of the United States if such action was taken.

Administration officials interpreted Laval's action as seeking to determine whether there was any possibility of a change in the official attitude of the subject of war debts.

Congress in approving the present moratorium, emphasized it was not contingent on any reduction or cancellation of war debts. An extension of the moratorium was not specifically mentioned.

DEBT REPORTS
LONDON, Jan. 19.—(Special to The News)—The London Times reported today that the United States for an extension of the Hoover inter-governmental debt moratorium.

An attempt to obtain an extension—these sources asserted—will not be made until after the completion of the work facing the international reparations conference tentatively scheduled for January 25 at Lausanne.

London newspapers have predicted that the Lausanne conference will make no final decision until the presidential election in the United States is over, but competent spokesmen said such reports were erroneous.

The conference, it was said, will accept the report of the Young plan advisory committee, which recently met at Basel to consider Germany's ability to pay reparations, and then will consider extending a short moratorium to Germany.

It was estimated that six months would be the length of this new period of grace, and it was emphasized that no action on the Lausanne conference was considered essential at Lausanne. The belief was expressed that the Lausanne meeting would be brief.

The authoritative comment in regard to the prediction that no decision will be reached until after the American presidential election came from the London Times, which stated that such a plan had been agreed to by the reparations committee and the negotiators at Lausanne, and that the United States a proposal that the Hoover moratorium be pro-

MINISTER PRAISES PROHIBITION LAWS IN EVENING SERMON

Dr. Elijah Hull Longbrake Says Friends of Amendment Have Never Suffered Defeat in Conflicts

The prohibitionists do not know when they are licked, because they have never been defeated. Dr. Longbrake, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, addressed the Sunday evening gathering on the twentieth anniversary of prohibition. A new method of presentation was used, the favoring prohibition are convinced of its success and anxious for its continuation.

The whole world is watching the United States for the results of prohibition. I do not know which party wins, so long as the party stands for those things which will preserve the government, the home and the youth of our country.

Never yet has the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment fought the argument that what they desired was for the improvement of the social conditions. The prohibitionists are convinced of its success and anxious for its continuation. They are convinced of its success and anxious for its continuation.

The adoption of the Eighteenth amendment has changed the channels through which $2,000,000,000 of our country's wealth flows annually. It has raised the national standard of living.

The ends of justice have been served the effect of the action taken will probably prove a blessing in disguise.

LIVING LAW
One of the best comments on the nature of justice. Oliver Wendell Holmes, when he retired from the supreme court of the United States, is this:
"All of his philosophy of the law was that it was the servant of the people; changing as the people changed, and reflecting their moral sense."

HEAVY TAXES
With a rising demand throughout the country for lighter taxes, the immediate prospect is heavier taxes.
This is particularly true of Federal taxes. It is also true in most States and communities, because of abnormal needs of public relief, whether directly in the form of charities or indirectly through expenditures for public works. The heaviest must increase before it can decrease.

TAX COLLECTIONS ON CITY'S ACCOUNT HOLDING UP WELL

Clerk's Figures Show Payments Proportionately Measure Up to Revenues of Preceding Period

Taking into consideration an actual reduction in Twin Falls 1931 city tax levy, and a $200,000 cut last year in the city's assessed property valuation, city tax payments of last November add December totaling $56,225, fell but little short of the city tax collections for the corresponding months of the preceding year, G. M. Steinhilber, chief clerk of the city council at a regular meeting last night.

The city clerk arrived at this conclusion after checking 25 per cent of the 1930 collections, to compare for the reductions in levy and valuations. His records showed collections for November and December, 1930, totaling $79,900. The 25 per cent compensatory reduction of $159,800, which was $3478 over the $156,322 total collected in November and December, 1931.

The city's 1931 tax levies for all reduction of six mills under the city's 1930 levies. Reduction in the city's property valuation was $2,210, falling from $5,312,670 in 1930 to $3,102,460 in 1931.

A general discussion of municipal finances brought out evidence that the municipality will complete the fiscal year next May well within the limits of its reduced income for the year.

Councilmen authorized installation of three additional street lights in the southwest quarter of the city, involving an additional expense of $30 a month.

Subject to the building inspector's approval, council voted to issue a "builder's permit" to John McConee to build a 12 by 15 addition to his building on Shoshone street south for use as a service station.

DLEEN MARTIN'S PAROLE CONTINUES

District Judge Declines to Grant Dismissal Because Costs Are Unpaid

Olen Martin, Oshkosh, convicted two years ago of involuntary manslaughter in connection with an automobile collision in which two persons were killed, applied for discharge from parole to which he was sentenced after being sentenced to serve 2 to 10 years in the state prison.

Judge W. A. Babcock denied the application because Martin had not paid $619.80 costs of prosecution which terms of the parole provided should be paid out of his own earnings. Other provisions of the parole provided Martin from owning or operating an automobile on the highway and required him to abstain from intoxicating liquor during the parole period.

Martin was convicted in connection with the death of W. M. Shottwell, Twin Falls, occupant of another car with which Martin's car collided. A young woman riding in Martin's car also was fatally injured.
