It is well that we should celebrate Easter as we do, in our churches, with pealing organ music and glad choral music and recital of the Easter story, and with an urge to help the poor and needy.

MALTA WOMAN'S TURKEYS SCORE

Mrs. Arthur D. Pierce Uses Approved Modern Methods in Growing Choice Flock

MALTA, March 26 (Special to The News)—Turkey raising under approved modern methods, as used by Mrs. Arthur D. Pierce near Malta, is giving most gratifying results. Her progress from the old-fashioned "go as you please" plan with free range and scattered pens, to a modern plant with enclosed pens and outstanding certified broiler birds, is an example of the progress that is being made by those who are striving for success.

At Christmas time, in 1925, Mrs. Pierce marketed her first crop of 80 turkeys. It was a very ordinary lot, with the usual number of crooked breastbones and low grade birds, weighing about 10 pounds each, five years later she marketed 300, weighing from 14 to 25 pounds, with a selection of 18 more years present. The broilers served a delightful luncheon.

FASHION EXPERTS REPORT 13 NOTES ON EASTER MODES

Shorter Skirts For Sports Wear, Button and Flower Trimmings and New Coat-Dresses Claim Attention

By RUTH COWAN (Associated Press Fashion Writer)
 CHICAGO, March 26.—Easter-tide turns the feminine fancy to clothes, and here are 13 notes culled from pages of "Spring Fashion News," eight-weekly shopping tours and rounds of fashion shows.

1. Skirt lengths are slightly shorter for morning and sports wear; longer for dressy and afternoon wear.
2. Buttons are very much in evidence for trimming. They give that military air.
3. Flowers are good. They trim Easter bonnets; perch on the shoulder or belt line.
4. Jackets are on everything from sports frocks to evening gowns. The cape effects are newer for evening. Many of the new spring coats are lined with fur.
5. The coat dress, close fitting and tailored, usually in wrap-around versions, is gaining popularity.
6. Many of the new spring coats are just as or just below the elbow. Long sleeves are worn with the long coat.
7. High necklines continue to be smart. Evening décolletages show a tendency to come up in back and front or both.
8. Detachable coat and suit collars are an outstanding feature of the season.
9. Lace for evening frocks is still in high favor. Very new are poppy and daisy embroidered designs against a lace background.
10. Polo coats in the beige or tan colors are smart and youthful. They are worn with the collar up in back.
11. Scarfs are exceedingly important, especially the narrow ones that knot close to the throat, with colorful collars and suits.
12. Hats continue to rule. The best seen in several new versions.
13. Blues and beige predominate in the color scheme embraced by rods, greens and browns. For evening are pearls with an icy-like quality. Black, white and the combination of both hold their popularity.

STRAIGHT FROM PARIS—Smart Notes From The World's Fashion Capitol

This plain jacketed coat with stitching used as trimming is an excellent model for general all-around wear.

This gay spring frock in printed floral dot design has pleated, fichu collar. Pleated ruffles on sleeves are banded with black.

Sweaters are important for spring. The little vest, the lacy stitch and jersey blouses are favorites for sportswear.

This black lace dress is becoming to the larger figure. Jacket is waist-length and sleeve are finished to the elbow.

The gown illustrated above is featured by its fitted lines. Lace trimming lends the garment a feminine touch.

A double tiered, cape effect sets off the sleeves of this diagonal boucle spring coat. The scarf is of printed silk.

Women Win "Sweeping" Political Victory

(By The Associated Press)
 SEATTLE, March 26.—Five housewives, who pride themselves on their ability to cook, will take over the reins of government in two King county towns next June. And they're going to carry into office their home policies—clean housekeeping and economy.

Mrs. S. A. Bourke was swept into office by Duvall's 200 citizens over her male opponent, Mayor Harvey Bunk, and with her went a working majority to the town council, Mrs. R. H. Stapleton, Mrs. J. I. Miller and Mrs. William Roney.

Two men are hold-over members of the council, one of them Mrs. Stapleton's husband.

Mrs. Miller's husband, now city clerk, will administer the oath of office to his wife and other newly-elected officials. Mayor-elect Bourke said it was probable Miller would be reappointed.

Behind Mrs. Stella Alexander, newly elected mayor of Issaquah, the village smith stands. Her husband, John G. Alexander, a blacksmith.

She has served two terms on the city council.

Her supporters said when they learned Mrs. Alexander had been collecting her husband's bills for 13 years and had let only $40 slip away from her, they decided her place was in the city hall.

She was elected on a strict economy program.

Regarding law enforcement, she said the town was getting all it wanted and she wouldn't give it any more. Issaquah has a population of 700.

Mrs. Stapleton explained the women of Duvall were up in arms over "failure of the man to enforce law," day laws. Law-abiding citizens; there was only one remedy—to elect housewives to do some real cleaning. They did!

After the voters of Duvall, Washington, held a village election, the men on the council found themselves in the minority. Mrs. S. A. Bourke (left) was elected mayor and Mrs. William Roney (center) and Mrs. J. I. Miller chosen for the council. Since only two men will remain on the council taking office in June, the women feel they have won a "sweeping" victory.

New Type Necklines Mark Evening Gowns

By BARBARA BEAUFORT (Associated Press Fashion Editor)
 PARIS, March 26.—Evening gowns for 1932 are known by their necklines.

The days when designers slashed a gown to the waist, and let it go at that, are done.

Decolletés are complicated affairs these days, for—high or low, broad-shouldered or narrow—they all display an intricate cut which partially conceals the back.

Cat Is Favored

The décolleté with wide draped fichu covers the shoulders and forming a V-front and back is one of the favorites.

Another slashes the back into intricate straps partially covered by shoulders.

A third drapes one band of material down the front of the bodice, around the waist and up across the shoulder blades, while a fourth has a bare back, broken only by one narrow center spine strap.

Colors are equalized

Colors are equalized sophisticated. Soft tones called squarrels, blending several hues—no effect stronger than pastel tints, are the order of the day.

There are water greens, soft blues with a touch of lavender, canary yellows, peach pinks and such deeper tones as geranium red, gentian blue and midnight blue. Black and white are still on the evening color card.

The fabrics for midday's spring dancing frock are generally dull-surfaced, with the new pebbly crepe flannel, mat satin, lace and chiffon among the most popular.

Ribonette Is Liked

The evening albouette is as slim as a wand with a waistline a bit above the normal line, fitted hips and a soft full length-length skirt.

Flowers, contrasting with the color of the gown are often used in a narrow garland straight across the front of the bodice, a pearl row across each shoulder or a splashing effect here and there on the skirt.

An evening gown of white lace with one of the new cross-strap decolletés, shown at the left, is of Worth design. Gold links hold the strap between the shoulders and form a chain for the belt. For the other evening frock with the scarf shoulderline and decollete Ardanne uses pale orchid marquisette, the bodice and skirt being splashed with marquisette orchids.

WOMEN REVIVE LACE MAKING IN BRITAIN

RENNER, France, March 26 (AP)—Britain unemployed women are being urged to revive the ancient Britain lace-work and hand embroidery art, which has almost died in the last quarter century.

In 1899, there were 30,000 women in Britain who earned their living at the family fire-side by making laces and embroideries.

Their art was much appreciated in Paris, New York and London. Machines killed the industry, but now that unemployment is stealing its way into the country, these faithful folk they are thinking of going back to the old hand ways.

Iowa's adult vocational education program has more than doubled in the last two years.

91-YEAR-OLD WOMAN TELLS ABOUT YOUTH

PITTSBURGH, March 26 (AP)—Though 91 year old, Mrs. Sarah Archer denies all knowledge of the meaning of old age. She is, however, quick to interpret youth.

"Youth," she says, "is a state of mind. By a time of life now a matter of five years and supple knees. It is as possible at 50 as at 20. I pity those old folks whose wires are down and whose heads are covered with the ashes of cynicism and the ice of pessimism."

Mrs. Archer has been a member of the Women's club here for 28 years and was one time its president.

WOMEN'S DAIRY USES CHARTS TO FEED COWS

SWANNANOVA, N. C., March 26 (AP)—Individual feeding charts for cows—household milk and cream—were helped to bring success to a dairy farm here owned and operated by women.

In the dairy run by Miss Mary E. Griffith and Miss R. Hamilton no two cows in the herd of 35 are fed alike. Each cow's ration is recorded on a card.

Milk for babies is a specialty of the dairy, but this trade alone was found unprofitable. So a line of milk for all members of the family was added, and now a special-crank is packed for tubercular patients.

Milk for each type of trade is selected with care, and only certain cows furnish baby milk, while others produce the milk and cream which are used for the sick.

Barns, milkhouses and other buildings were designed by the

with the Normans—the race that built the first two-story houses. Furniture exhibitions have shown a wall, with the black sloped upward to a hole connecting with the outside to let the smoke out.

Lately builders have learned the secret of efficient fireplaces, which are practical as well as decorative.

Fireplace—kiddings—in the recent furniture exhibitions have shown a tendency toward greater simplicity, particularly in the decoration of ornamental cases.

Comfort and informal convenience will always be the keynote of fire-side furniture arrangements. Here is the place for the easiest and most restful chair in the living room, with a handy side table and an adequate bar for "absorbent" reading.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 26 (AP)—Virginia Joe Frazer, now seven years old, who was stolen from her home when she was but four months older than the Lindbergh baby, is just beginning to learn the meaning of the word "kidnap."

She was taken from her bed in the Frazer home in 1927, when her father was city commissioner of education, and kept away from her home for two weeks.

Old school friends aroused her curiosity by telling her, "when you were a baby, you were kidnapped." When she was "home" she asked, "Daddy, what's kidnapped?" The father says clippings and

Mythical Intermountain Title Goes to Utah Aggregation, Victors in Two Consecutive Games For Charity

(By The Associated Press)
OGDEN, Utah, March 26—Ogden high school basketball team swamped the Idaho Falls high quintet under a 40-22 score here tonight in the second game of a charity series. The fast-stepping Ogden hoopers, by their victory tonight, extended their mythical intermountain title, having won the opening game 41 to 23, last night.

In the first game, the Utah hoop champions outplayed the Idaho champs in the last half when heavier Gem State boys seemed to tire.

The count was tied at 5-all at the end of the first quarter and again at a lead of 11 to 8 as the half ended. In the second half, Lehman, Kinser and Fowler opened with shooting attack and piled up 13 points before the Idaho Falls quintet was able to count. The game ended in a 40-22 victory for Ogden.

The 1100 fans who watched the contest were thrilled by the speedy performance of the Utah title against the Idaho team which, because of its experience and weight, was expected to win the series. The Idahoans, although possessing the ball in the last half nearly as often as Ogden, had miserable luck in shooting, many shots going wild.

SYNCOPEARS FEATURE ON ORPHEUM PROGRAM

The Orpheum show today is headed by a vaudeville stage band, led by Al Pannell, Pannell and his California Circle Syncopars, who brought here direct from an extended tour of vaudeville houses. Octavia goes through comedy and chorus tins and sings in big, bold tones.

All the popular new melodies are given a decidedly "different" interpretation by the "Crown Syncopars." They play after the plan of the famous New York Cotton club orchestra. One of the numbers will be "I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal, You."

On the screen are two feature stars, the first of which is one of the most outstanding productions in years, "Broken Lullaby." It was made under the famous "Manhattan Skies" in 19—starred—Lonnie Barrymore, Phillips Holmes and Max Terminus.

The other feature is "The Big Show," with Middle Quilan and Maudie O'Connell, and is a breezy comedy that reaches this popular young Quilan.
