JURY BEGINS WORK WITH CIVIL CASES

A motion for non-suit made quick work of the first of two civil cases brought to trial before the first district court jury of the year in Twin Falls yesterday. District Judge W. A. Babcock ruled a supreme court opinion in another case involving similar issues probably would apply in the suit. Hubert A. Gerlar and Gus A. Moore started in February, 1930, for $104 loss of profits damages, cancellation of $3446 notes and return of $410 payments made to the J. V. Case company in connection with a deal for a combine grain harvester in the fall of 1929. The supreme court in the earlier case involving similar issues held in favor of the defendant machinery corporation.

Accordingly the court excused the jury from further consideration of the first case brought to trial yesterday and another jury was impaneled to begin trial in a suit brought by the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco against the Piler Livestock company on account of a $15,000 promissory note executed as collateral for a loan to the Twin Falls National bank, J. A. Kesler, former cashier of the bank and former secretary of the Piler Livestock company, testified a new note had been executed last November at renewal of the note on which the federal reserve bank based its claim. An order was issued shortly before adjournment calling upon R. H. Haase, receiver of the Twin Falls National bank, to bring his records up to date on this transaction into court today.

A. H. Merrill, Pocatello, is presenting the case for the federal reserve bank, the Piler Livestock company being represented by J. W. Porter, Twin Falls.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURER DELIVERS DOCTRINAL ADDRESS

William Duncan Kilpatrick Speaks at Twin Falls Auditorium Upon Subject of Scriptural Interpretation

Introduced by Mrs. N. P. Anderson, Twin Falls, William Duncan Kilpatrick, O. B. B., Detroit, last night delivered an address...

In her various weeks on the subject, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, has included many wide and far-reaching predictions...

This prediction was made relatively a short time ago. Very recently, according to the official history of the church...

That report was signed and submitted not only by bishops and deputies of the church but by some of the leading physicians and surgeons of the United States.

The foundation of the entire revelation which Mrs. Eddy has given to humanity in Christian Science is the clear concept of God as Father which she attained through her ceaseless and prayerful search of the Scriptures...

And God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good. Here is the perfect image of God, pure, holy, spiritual, and upright.

Not until he had created man in his own image, and God saw every thing that he had made, and behold, it was very good.

How there must be something wrong somewhere. Do you suppose has become of the dominion, the power, the goodness, the purity, that the holiness with which...

That throughout the world spiritual healing is no longer the hope of a few, but the belief and practice of a large and increasing number of persons.

That which will faith in any supposed remedy produces some vital faith in God, as revealed in Christ, is followed by results which are more sure, more permanent, more evidently spiritual character.

That report was signed and submitted not only by bishops and deputies of the church but by some of the leading physicians and surgeons of the United States.

COUNCIL DIVIDES IN VOTE TO RETAIN DAIRY REGULATION

Public Hearing Brings Out
Variety of Opinions, But Vote Favors Continued Inspection With Changes

"He is dumb. He thought nerves made me sick, but I told him it was just your mother throwing a fit when she wants a new hat."

Twin Falls city council voted, 3 to 2, against repeal of the city's dairy laws and inspection ordinance following an hour's public hearing attended by about 30 persons last night, and then referred the matter to the city attorney with recommendations for a modification proposed by J. E. White, commissioner of public health, who is directly responsible for its administration.

The commissioner recommended the present ordinance of the present ordinance requirements for handling milk through a cooling house, and that the inspector would hereafter be required to file daily reports on inspections of all dairies as well as at each of the dairies as the inspector could visit each day. Reports are to be made on forms to be furnished by the state. Cost of meat and dairy inspection, the commissioner said, would be reduced the coming year to $288 from $320 last year.

The city attorney stated he would confer with Dr. E. C. Jensen, Twin Falls county health officer, and Dr. T. Harris, Twin Falls meat and dairy inspector, in re-drafting the ordinance.

Dr. Jensen and Dr. Harris both were in attendance at the public hearing, the former taking an active part in the discussion. He urged strongly against abandonment of the inspection service. If inspection were abandoned, he said, doctors would prescribe canned milk for babies, and that would result in a curtail demand for the products of the local dairies.

Council Divides
Council seemed to be not wholly in accord in its view of the question for discussion at the public hearing. Commissioner White indicated only modification of the ordinance was to be considered. Thomas Sanderson, commissioner of streets and waterworks, said early in the morning it was his understanding the question was whether the ordinance should be eliminated altogether. Moving for repeal of the ordinance he suggested trying to do without it for a year.

Established dairies, through Alvin Young, J. H. Gott and others, renewed their insistence on the proposition that any regulation or ordinance require a permit or reference, or that all restrictions be let down to "let us go out and meet the competition." It is the opinion of this group that considerable numbers of milk dealers in Twin Falls are existing on the ordinance.

Two citizens, John W. Graham and C. D. Thomas, opposed incurring additional expense to make the regulation effective. "The city can't survive," Mr. Graham asserted, "unless the farmers survive. This is the time to be taking on an additional load. The question is whether you can carry the load you already have."

Dr. Jensen's reply was that people generally are following the ordinance in regard to sanitation, and proper handling of foods. Only a few years ago, he said, "we were losing one-third of our babies, and the average expectancy was only 30 years."

T. J. Douglas, commissioner of public grounds, asked whether it would be worse to lose property because of inability to pay taxes, or loss members of one's family on account of disease carried in food.

Response to Demand
The ordinance under discussion, Commissioner White said, was adopted two years ago in response to public insistence following an outbreak of undulant fever. Commissioner White argued against retention of the ordinance that was not being enforced, on account of possible claims against the city in event of an epidemic traced to the milk supply. Councilmen expressed disappointment that the general public is not more largely represented at the hearing. During the discussion, the city attorney pointed out that the council has already reduced its general fund budget for the coming year by 23 to 24 per cent from last year's $142,735 total to $112,170 for the year just beginning. Councilmen following discussion of the dairy ordinance, decided to suspend final consideration of a new year's budget to the next regular meeting.

Hand Levy Stands
City last year this year will include a one-quarter mill assessment for maintenance of the Municipal band. It was made certain when the city attorney reported the council has no option since the levy was voted some five years ago. The levy is estimated to yield $1100 to $1200. Council was advised also last
