SENATOR SHEPPARD BACKS PARTY STAND

Eighteenth Amendment Co-Author Intends to Vote For Repeal Submission

WASHINGTON, July 1 (Special to The News)—Senator Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth amendment, announced Thursday he would vote to support a repeal amendment under certain conditions.

Sheppard's statement followed adoption by his party of a platform favoring repeal of the amendment he sponsored.

It came as some opponents of the prohibition, encouraged by the Democratic stand, were organizing a drive for modification of the Volstead act to permit beer before congress adjourns.

The Texas Democrat 'created a stir by his announcement, which was made in a formal statement handed to newspapers.

Sheppard said he opposed repeal, recommended by his party, but would vote to submit a repeal amendment unless the Democratic primary in Texas next month should decide against it.

Sheppard's statement followed by only one day the suggestion from Senator Norris, Nebraska, one of the leading members of the Volstead act, that the Volstead act should be modified.

The Texas announced, however, that it would oppose modification of the enforcement law as long as the eighteenth amendment stands because it would be "a direct violation of the constitution or a destruction of enforcement."

THESE CONVENTIONS
To many of us the big political convulsions this year lack the thrill. We may feel in them a lack of reality, a failure to see the governmental needs of the times.

IN THIS PARTY GATHERING, repeats the voice of the people along with the voice of the "houses." Even at their worst they are representing through their mechanism, as much as by popular vote, the people's desire to govern in its domestic affairs and speak for us in world councils.

RAILROAD STRATEGY
The railroad's great fault, or at least their great misfortune, is that they make a business of it.

Lowering car prices.
Improving passenger equipment with more light, ventilating their coaches.
Speeding up trains and improving the stations.

BUILDING COSTS
Wages in the American building trades are a problem. In New York there is a controversy over the national scale, and building operations are suffering.

HINT OF AID GIVES CLEARWELL BOOST City's Council Welcomes Intimation of Federal Assistance at Plant

Possibility of obtaining federal government-cooperation and assistance in construction of a $60,000 clear well of 5,000,000-gallon capacity to expand the water purification plant's facilities, came in for favorable consideration by Twin Falls city council last night.

The subject was brought to the council's attention by an exchange of telegrams last Tuesday, one from Mayor W. F. Fustian, Lewiston, Idaho, city engineer, and the other Mayor R. E. Bohler's reply.

The Lewiston engineer's message said that the American Water Works association, national, has asked me to assemble information and estimate total cost of waterworks project. Immediate information is important in connection with the amount of credit which may be projected in a pending federal investigation.

The mayor's reply read: "A most desirable improvement to the city waterworks plant is a gravity-filled clear well of about 5,000,000 gallon capacity, estimated to cost $60,000. The building of this has been deferred from time to time because of the coal. People here would gladly support a movement for this improvement."

It was brought out in the discussion last night, as it has been in all previous aldermanic discussions of the subject, that there is no lack of water supply, but that the existing water purification facilities are overtaxed each season to supply sufficient purified water for all purposes, and that a clear well would afford storage facilities adequate to meet peak demand for water.

COUNCIL'S BALLOT RETURNS LEIGHTON Police Chief Who Asked for 90-Day Leave of Absence Resumes Post by Election

An application, submitted as a resignation, which E. E. Mr. Sears had served as police chief during Mr. Leighton's 90-day absence in attendance at an army engineers officers' school at Fort Humphries, Virginia, and at the present time is in attendance at Boise with the Idaho national guard engineers unit of which he is the commanding officer.

There was no discussion before the vote last night when J. E. White, commission of public safety, nominated Mr. Leighton for re-election as police chief, and there was no dissenting vote.
