For Thirty-Six Time Since First Election
In 1788, Sovereignty of Nation Prepares
To Carry Out Constitutional Obligation
After Tempestuous Political Campaigns

By EDWARD J. DUFFY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5—Engulfed between rival claims, appeals, charges, promises and warnings, the word-wary electorate to-morrow enjoys a day of political suspense to which all are entitled, whether Hoover and Curtis or Roosevelt and Garner offer the best leadership for the nation.

By comparison with past tempestuous weeks, quiet will settle and reflection will replace the campaign clamor. The citizenry must give itself over to the responsibility exercised every four years since the republic was founded.

It that intends to record its will on Tuesday with an emphasis on expediting any seen since the start of elections in 1788.

Examine Final Appeals

Over the coffee cups in the morning, the two men began to examine and discuss the climatic arguments which filled the week-end. "I don't know," said Hoover, "but I think you are right," said Monday will see the end of the campaign, with both principals aware of the situation. "I am dressing last-hour exhortations to the nation. If custom is followed, the election will be decided by the 'to be sure to vote, but this year—judging from what has happened in late-1930s words, 'our way' may be late."

Whatever was said, assertions of confidence doubtless will be a factor in the election. The man standing by predictions the recent electoral count of 644 won by Mr. Hoover in 1932 will be shattered by the loss of the 1936 election. Hoover is insisting that the history

In figures, the Democratic chairman, James A. Farley, said he looked for a popular majority exceeding 10,000,000, and did not consider it a possibility that the Republicans would exceed that figure.

It takes 268 of the 531 electors to come out on one side. The Republican chairman, Wendell Willkie, estimated tonight that "President Hoover will be reelected by a minimum of 155 electoral votes."

Predict Majorities

Simultaneously, leaders of the Democratic senatorial and congressional caucuses predicted majorities of 10 or more in the senate and 75 to 100 in the house, for the Few would have ventured at beginning to envision such scenes tonight, for instance, with the president far from Washington for the sixth time, challenging and replying to his opponents on the hustings and with Governor Roosevelt and his convention foe, Alfred E. Smith.

It was plain from the start that economic tribulations and ways betterment would provide the main axis of debate; but there were hints of such a swirl of allegations.

JEROME ORGANIZES COMMUNITY CHORUS

JEROME, Nov. 5 (Special to The News)—A community chorus was organized here Saturday night and met Friday evening for the first rehearsal. Rehearsals are to be held Monday evenings regularly at the Presbyterian church, with Rev. O. J. Johnston as leader and director. Mrs. E. R. Connor is pianist for the coming year and a music committee is to be appointed at the next meeting, Monday, November 7. About 40 persons sang in this organization last year and it is hoped there will be many more this season. The chorus intends to present a program sometime in the near future for the benefit of the milk fund for the school children.

President on the Democratic ticket," he said, "stated on his Western tour that the Republicans were not fair to the West on the tariff question, and to get justice it would be necessary for him to be president. My friend, Al Smith, also made some remarks in Boston."

He then quoted former Governor Smith as saying of President Hoover that "his greatest mistake was that he fell for Borah," and continued further by commenting that Al Smith had called him an "Idaho Potato," and Governor Roosevelt an "Old Potato."

"He has a chaotic and delicate way of stating things," the senator commented, then took up again the tariff question after explaining that when Al Smith said the Idahoan had "handed Hoover a gold brick," he meant "I had prevailed upon the president to call a special session of congress."

Tracing the course of the tariff bill in the special session, he said when it came from the house it included revisions of both manufacturing schedule and those of agriculture.

"As soon as it reached the senate," he said, "I proposed a resolution that the finance committee be restricted to consideration of agricultural schedules alone."

"After three days of debate the resolution was defeated, and it could not have been defeated without Democratic support."

"Both the candidate and the co-candidate," he declared, "were mistaken. If the Democrats had let us alone we would have fought it out within the family and we would have passed it. As it was it was defeated by only one vote."

Turning to a discussion of economic questions, he said: "I agree

EDEN CLUBS CONVEENE

EDEN, Nov. 5 (Special to The News)—Political and Thanksgiving thoughts were used in response to roll call at the regular monthly meeting of the Eden Ladies' Circle club held last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. E. M. Patterson.

The hostesses were Misses Zenda Robinson and Miss Rhonda Love. The program for the evening consisted of the following numbers: political skit, Miss Hester Reynolds and Mrs. Lois Permut; musical numbers, Marys Werry, Hazel and June Paul, Mabel and Edna Edwards.

Mrs. E. C. Montgomery was hostess to the study club at her home on Thursday afternoon. Ten ladies were present. Mrs. Archie Miller and Miss Hester Reynolds were guests.

Eden Lincoln Circle, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, held their November meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. L. W. Bebbout. Twelve members were present. Refreshments were served during the social hour that followed the business session.

With the statement of the Republican candidate for the presidency that this is a world-wide depression. It was not caused by this administration.

Those who say it was caused by this administration are not fitted to deal with the question because they deal with the question we must understand it.

He advocated the remonetization of silver in the Orient, elimination of reparations, reduction of armaments and a return flow of gold to this country and in Europe as a means of bringing back prosperity.

He assailed the League of Nations as "a scheme to make our boys the guardians of every boundary line in Europe," and to "put the treasury and manhood of America behind the tolls and broils of Europe."

He said when the League was first proposed to America, "only four Republicans and four Republican newspapers were opposed to it. He reviewed his own campaign against the League and concluded by stating that the "doctrine of staying out of Europe is now a Republican doctrine and will remain so."

With this he opened a defense of his position in the Republican party against those he said had urged that "I get out of the party."

"I have always fought my battles in the Republican party," he said, "and I will continue to fight my battles within the Republican party. I will lend my efforts to make the Republican party as Abraham Lincoln made it, as broad as the United States."

Abraham Lincoln put the Republican party on a broad basis of liberty. He said the next great task after knocking off the shackles of the Negroes was to strike off the shackles of the liquor traffic.

"All I ask," he said, "is only to be permitted to speak my own views on the liquor question. And I'll do it anyway."

The Roosevelt Creed

"So many erroneous statements as to my views with reference to the tariff duties upon agricultural products have been attributed to me and so many misconstructions have been placed upon my statements that in Baltimore on the twenty-fifth I made the following statement:

"It is absurd to talk of lowering tariff duties on farm products. I declare that all prosperity in the broader sense springs from the soil. I promised to endeavor to restore the purchasing power of the farm dollar by making the tariff effective for agriculture and raising the price of farm products. I do not intend that such duties shall be lowered. To do so would be inconsistent with any entire farm program, and every farmer knows it and will not be deceived."

(Signed) FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

This position is the same as Roosevelt has occupied from the beginning. In his acceptance speech at the Democratic National Convention at the Stadium, Chicago, Illinois, July 2, 1932, Governor Roosevelt plainly stated:

"IT SHOULD BE OUR AIM TO ADD TO THE WORLD PRICES OF STAPLE PRODUCTS THE AMOUNT OF A REASONABLE TARIFF PROTECTION. GIVE AGRICULTURE THE SAME PROTECTION THAT INDUSTRY HAS TODAY."

Definite Improvement In Business Is Under Way, But Plight of Labor Remains Serious, Declares Babson

"We Face a Winter of Extreme Hardships for Some 12,000,000 Citizens," Observes Noted Statistician

By Roger W. Babson
BABSON PARK, Massachusetts. — Business conditions have passed the worst and definite improvement is under way. However, the gain in business up to date has brought only slight betterment in the unemployment situation.

We face a winter of extreme hardships for some 12,000,000 of our fellow-citizens. The winter of 1932-33 will be worse than any other in our history. The winter of 1932-33 will be worse than any other in our history. The winter of 1932-33 will be worse than any other in our history.

Employment Lag
People wonder why, if business has improved, employment has not gained a corresponding amount. There are several reasons for this. First, many employers who had been operating on a part time basis are now operating at a higher rate of activity, but instead of hiring additional workers they are giving their own forces more hours or more days per week. This is a natural result of the "spread-work" idea, but employers argue that their duty is to give their present staff enough work for a living wage.

The second reason is that many companies have found they do not need to increase their payrolls, owing to the greater efficiency of the workers. They can step up production without additional workers. A third reason is that it always takes some time for improvement in business to work back from the distributor to the manufacturer.

The history of recovery from all past depressions shows employment always lags a few months behind the increase in business. It is also true that not all industries have shown the same degree of betterment. So far the gains have been confined mostly to those making consumer goods, such as shoes, furniture, clothing, etc. The heavy industries, like steel, automobiles, and building, have shown very little improvement, although signs are now more definite of a coming-upward-in these lines. Still, conditions in the steel and automobile centers are particularly distressing.

Business is gradually getting better, but the increase in work which this improvement brings must be supplemented by increased emergency efforts to make jobs and tide men over the winter months. Some form of the quota plan may be the best remedy.

Courage Is Needed
To meet this problem of acute unemployment we need courage. Fortunately the situation can be met with more confidence than last winter because the business trend is now upward. Certain lines of industry are already taking back workers. While outward manifestations and disturbances by unemployed groups this winter seem to show conditions worse, it should be remembered that this will be the last real winter of severe distress. Business improvement should be for enough advanced by the following winter to afford real relief.

Ultimately some plan of unemployment insurance appears inevitable. It must, however, be one that avoids the dangerous pitfalls of the dole idea and follows along the sound insurance practices embodied in the very excellent "Steeple Plan." Meanwhile the call to sacrifice and service is clear and imperative to all of us.

Business as stimulated by the Babsonchart now registers 16 percent below a year ago. (Copyright 1932, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

'ADDISON T. SMITH'S LEGISLATIVE RECORD IN CONGRESS IS ENDORSED BY THE AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION

The following is a brief compilation of the record of Congressman Addison T. Smith with references to legislative measures of benefit to agriculture, all of which were recommended and supported by the American Farm Bureau Federation.

CONGRESSMAN SMITH supported legislation to regulate grain trading.

Voted to increase the capital of the federal farm loan system.

Voted to revive the War Finance Corporation (which secured considerable agricultural benefits).

Supported legislation to provide farmers to market trade in the federal highway system.

Voted to legalize cooperative marketing in the federal statute.

Supported legislation to prohibit filled milk from entering interstate commerce.

Voted to remedy a Supreme Court objection to grain trading legislation.

Supported legislation to create standard containers for fruits and vegetables.

Supported legislation to establish intermediate credit facilities.

Supported legislation to provide surplus control as contained in the McNary-Haugen Bill.

Supported the Haugen farm relief bill.

Favored the establishment of a Division of Cooperative Marketing in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Supported the revenue bill which secured most of the federal revenue from income and corporation taxes.

Again supported the McNary-Haugen equalization fee and opposed the Arvill substitute to remove the equalization fee.

Supported the Lemrook Tabor mill bill.

Again voted for the McNary-Haugen bill and opposed the Arvill substitute.

Supported the 1930 Tariff Bill, raising the tariffs on agricultural commodities.

Supported the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Law, introduced and sponsored in the House the Glenn-Smith bill for re-financing irrigation and drainage districts.

Favored Philippine Independence.

Supported the Goldborough bill for the honest dollar.

Supported the Emergency Road Construction Bill.

In all of the Above Measures the Stand Taken by Congressman Smith Was in Direct Harmony With the Policies and Recommendations of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

ATTORNEY REVEALS ROSS EXTRAVAGANT

Joseph H. Peterson Finds Serious Situation Developed From Spending Orgy

BURLEY, Nov. 5 (Special to The News)—Joseph H. Peterson, former attorney general, closing the Republican speaking campaign here Friday evening with a rally at the Latter Day Saints tabernacle, maintained that a serious situation which might cause state bankruptcy confronted us, caused by the extravagance of the Ross regime.

With Peterson was Heber Q. Hale, Boise, who also spoke, Kenneth Ridgway, chairman of the Bannock County Young Republican club, John McMurray and George A. Day, both former state Republican chairmen, and others prominent in the party.

Peterson averred that Governor O. Ben Ross asked for and received over $6,000,000 state appropriation, the largest ever made, after pledging himself to economy, and is approaching the close of his biennial term, a deficit of $1,000,000.

Ross, he claimed, is notoriously incapable of handling taxes. He has pledged himself to reduce taxes and has failed to live up to his promises, he said.

Taxes Issue
"Taxes are the issue of this campaign," Peterson exclaimed, "not the prosecution of the Guzman case, I prosecuted criminals, and saved the state $100,000 during my term as attorney general, but that is no reason why I should be made governor or senator. It was in the line of my duty, and it was in the line of Governor Ross' duty to prosecute Guzman." — The speaker said.

Ross claims great savings, but the records of state bureaus fail to show any such savings. In fact, they show deficits. The wonderful Kilgus tax bill, claimed to be a tax saver, is now showing up as increasing our taxes. Peterson predicted that the people would soon rise up and insist on his repeal.

"You can't save money by imposing more taxes," he averred. "The only way to save money is to spend less, and not to spend more."

Franklin Hoover
Peterson estimated some of the means President Hoover had employed for bringing the depression to an end. "And while the president was engaged in this where was Roosevelt?" he inquired. "While these plans were being conceived, and while the Democratic house was employed in carrying out raids on the treasury, where were Roosevelt, and Hyman Johnson, and Senator Norris? The president's critics. Has it been the Hy Johnson, or the Norris, or the Roosevelt plan that just opened the chain of Idaho closed banks?"

Peterson closed by an appeal for the support of the national administration. "The welfare of our

Club Meetings, Recital, Church Events and Political Session Feature

BURLEY, Nov. 5 (Special to The News)—Social activities in Burley in the latter part of the week included club sessions, a recital, church meetings and a political "tea."

Mrs. William Peck entertained a few friends at a bridge tea Friday afternoon at her home. A pleasant afternoon of cards was enjoyed and high scores honors went to Mrs. Craney and Mrs. Downing. Tea was served to Mrs. A. M. Wayne Downing, George Peck, Lamar Grant, Rulon Slack, Tom Church, Leo Jensen and Rheta Hollenbeck.

Mrs. C. M. Oberholzer entertained her bridge club the same afternoon. The games were enjoyed at three tables.

Mrs. Fred Oster was hostess to the members of the Pau-Pak-Koewa club at the home of Miss Lottie Schodde Friday afternoon. Light refreshments were served.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. P. H. Adams and Miss Violet Adams, Twin Falls.

Miss Margaret Hill presented 13 of her older pupils in a recital one evening during the week. Members of the class played from memory and models were presented for perfect work during the month. Light refreshments were served following the recital.

Methodist Missionary society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Abbie Bell with Mrs. Everett Griffith as assisting hostess. Mrs. Kirklin gave an interesting talk about missions in Alaska. Mrs. Lawrence Dunn and Mrs. George Patterson each spoke.

Mrs. Joseph Powles entertained members of Just-A-More club this week. Progressive games were enjoyed. Mrs. Nellie Pace received high score.

Republican women of Cassia county enjoyed a tea yesterday afternoon. Sponsored by Mrs. J. B. Arthur, vice chairman of the central committee. Honored guests were wives of Republican candidates. Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Edward H. Anderson, Salt Lake City and Mrs. Heber Hale, Boise. Other guests were precinct committee women and wives of precinct committeemen.

Mrs. Arthur presented the guests and speakers. Mrs. Hale spoke briefly on the campaign issues and urged support of the entire ticket. Mrs. B. F. Wilson spoke on loyalty to the party and instructed the women as to their work on election day. Mrs. Margaret Buchanan, county superintendent of schools spoke on the educational program. Misses Loannne Omdindson and Edith Arthur played a piano duet. A general discussion of political affairs was an enjoyable feature of the afternoon.

Mrs. C. O. Arvas and Heber Hale presided at the tea table. Miss Ruth Wright rendered several piano numbers during the afternoon. About 45 guests responded to the invitation. Department of American literature of the Women's club met Thursday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. J. D. Berger. Miss Maud Ritter presided. The program consisted of the life and works of Emerson and "Thoreau." John Burgess gave an excellent paper on the life of Emerson. Mrs. J. D. Berger gave a talk on "Self." Mrs. Maud Ritter discussed "Thoreau" and Miss Betty Arvas read a paper on "Nature." A paper was given by Miss Helen Robinson.

Thompson's gasoline tax raised more money in September than in any month since the tax was increased late last year.

alism, the thrilling plunge of a burning airplane, that forms a part of the climax of "Air Eagle," the air epic, which opens last night at the Idaho theatre for a run of two days, left members of the audience literally gasping for breath. Although it contains several thrilling air battles, "Air Eagle" affords a welcome relief from the usual run of air pictures, in that it is not a war picture.
